CRIMINOLOGIST WEIGHS CASE OF MRS. WILLIAMS

Odd Circumstances in Killing Told.

BY CAPT. THOS. HARRISON.
[Ace Criminologist.]
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Almost 200 days have passed since the fatal shooting of Mrs. Adele Born Williams by "another woman" in room 836 of the Drake hotel on the night of Jan. 19 last.

The Drake murder case—as it quickly became known—possessed every element to distinguish it as a crime celebre. Its setting, the ornate Drake hotel, stands on Chicago's lake front at the rim of the fabled gold coast. It is known the world over. Ambassadors, potentates, renowned artists, millionaires, and warriors have sought its hospitality.

An Audacious Crime.

The crime itself was audacious. It was no deed of stealth, committed during the hours of sleep. Instead, it was an assassination executed boldly at an hour when the hotel was alive with people. The cocktail hour had just ended. Guests attired for dinner were beginning to move thru the corridors toward the banks of elevators.

And the assassin's victim was a woman as brilliant and interesting as the setting in which she died. Mrs. Williams was the wife of an official of the state department and she moved in the society of Chicago and Washington, D. C.

She was shot down in the bedroom of her suite in the presence of a glamorous daughter who also was fired upon once. The crime was a sensation thruout the nation. But the slender trail of clews led the police only into darkness and bafflement.

Presents Difficult Problem.

Admittedly, the Williams murder presents one of the most difficult crime problems police anywhere have been called upon to solve. It may be that the unexpected break—prayed for by police in all major cases—will solve it; for example, the tracing of the serial number on the 33-year-old revolver used by the assassin, or, perhaps, the voice of a troubled conscience.

Those of us who have been in police work know that justice has a habit of catching up with wrongdoers. We know that every one who has committed a crime, or has guilty knowledge of one altho not a participant, has one common weak spot—the constant, gnawing fear of exposure. Each wonders if any one knows his secret; then one day, to ease the guilty burden the slayer talks! You may call it conscience talking. Police call it "getting something off the chest."

I am deeply interested in the solution of the murder of Mrs. Williams. For some time, as a captain of police, I commanded the 35th district, in which juris-

Trap CIO Aids Taking Cash to Call Off Strike

New York, Aug. 5 [Special].—Three officials of a CIO union were arrested on extortion charges this afternoon after taking $1,800 they had demanded to call off a strike in a Brooklyn war plant.

Those arrested are officials of local 884, United Automobile Workers, and the plant involved in their demands is the E. & A. Laboratories, which makes gun sights and marine lamps.

Agree to Accept $1,500 Each.

The labor trouble began last Tuesday when 250 union members objected to a foreman doing production work and walked out. A conference between the three union officials and company officials was held that night.

An agreement was reached whereby the three officials were to get $1,500 each for calling off the strike. On Thursday the strikers returned to work.

Last night another meeting was held at which the union men agreed to take $600 each. The payoff was arranged for today at the Villa Penza restaurant in Manhattan.

Management officials then notified the police, who told them to go ahead with the payoff. At a luncheon today three detectives sat at a table next to that of the company and union officials.

Paid Off in $1 Bills.

The money changed hands. Then just before the dessert, the police collared the three union men and took from them three envelopes containing the $1,800 in $1 bills.

Assistant District Atty. N. W. Math of Kings county said the payoff demands were made by Rizzo and Festa to John M. Aufiero, president of the laboratories.

The three arrested men were taken to Manhattan police headquarters, but as the alleged crime originated in Brooklyn, a question of jurisdiction arose. It was expected the three would be arraigned in Brooklyn Felony court.

TWO GIRLS DROWN IN PARK LAGOON; BOY DIES IN LAKE

Two girls who ignored warnings against bathing in the deep water of Lincoln park lagoon were drowned there yesterday afternoon. In Lake Bluff a 9 year old boy was drowned in Lake Michigan.

The girl victims were Josephine De Cori, 16, daughter of Mrs. Vitoria De Cori, 1253 Webster av., and Betty Jane Keller, 12, daughter of Henry and Marie Keller of 2308 Janssen av.

A companion, Constance Schneda, 13, of 1636 Summerdale av., told Lincoln park police she warned the other two of a 25 foot depth in the lagoon and declined to enter the water. The other girls stepped in, however, and when they went under Constance summoned life guards. The bodies were recovered.

The boy drowned was Stanley Humphrey Jr., 9, an inmate of the Lake Bluff orphanage, who was wading in the lake with 50 other orphanage residents in Village park in Lake Bluff. He was not missed until the party prepared to return to the orphanage. His body was recovered. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Humphrey, live at 2801 Ezekial av., Zion.

PHILADELPHIA TRANSIT STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

Troops Take Over; Unionists Seized.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 5 [Special].—Obeying an army ultimatum, leaders of the five day strike that has paralyzed Philadelphia's transportation system tonight ordered their followers back to work.

The back to work order was issued in a broadcast authorized by James H. McMenamin, chairman of the strikers' general emergency committee, a few minutes before he was arrested on a charge of violating the Smith-Connally anti-strike act.

"I have my orders from the army," McMenamin's announcement said. "All employes are to go back to work at their regular posts not later than 12:01 a. m. Monday."

The Army Moves In.

Previous to the break in the strike front, the day's developments included:

1. Arrival of thousands of troops in the city prepared to operate the Philadelphia Transportation company's vehicles.
2. A "work or fight" order issued by national selective service in Washington, canceling occupational deferments of those involved in the strike.
3. An order by Atty. Gen. Biddle for a federal jury investigation to determine whether any federal statutes have been violated.
4. Arrest of four strike leaders, including McMenamin.

Within an hour, strikers assembled at a car barn which had served as strike headquarters, began signing up to resume their regular runs. The first five to sign were members of the strike committee, who broke the news to the men.

Troops in full battle dress streamed into the city late in the day by truck convoy and train. Asserting "the war cannot wait," the army said soldiers would operate vehicles wherever necessary.

Warning by Gen. Hayes.

Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, who seized the transit lines Thursday night by order of President Roosevelt, warned that any of the 6,000 strikers who failed to return to work would be fired "at once" and that armed soldiers would ride as guards on every train, bus, or trolley.

Gen. Hayes also announced that Draft Director Hershey had sent telegrams to local draft boards advising them to terminate the occupational deferments of strikers between the ages of 18 and 37.

The war man power commission backed up the army by saying it would not refer to any other job any PTC worker who refused to return to work.

The grand jury investigation ordered by Biddle will get under way in Philadelphia next Wednesday, when the jury, which had been ad-

INVITATION TO MURDER

(An Editorial)

Several years ago, when the Communists were calling Mr. Roosevelt an imperialist war monger, Atty. Gen. Biddle held that the Communist aim in America was to overthrow the government of the United States "by force and violence." At that time Hitler and Stalin were leagued together in looting Poland. Communists were sabotaging the American armament program. Then Hitler invaded Russia and the New Dealers sold out the Democratic party to the Communists.

The sellout was profitable to both parties, but the Communists prospered most because they now control the New Deal party and have Mr. Biddle in their pocket. They are stronger and more active than ever. Moscow ordered them to change their label when the third international allegedly was disbanded, but the Communist party in America was not liquidated. It became fronts and political action groups and its leaders got on the New Deal pay roll. The Communist party platform of 1932 gives the most honest statement of what they intend to do, and that aim hasn't been changed either. They plan to rally the "oppressed masses . . . under Communist leadership in the revolutionary struggle to overthrow capitalism and to establish a government in the United States of workers and farmers."

This is not going to take place without bloodshed. The New Dealers may hold back the revolution for a time by advancing the Communists' plans almost to fruition, but when the New Deal leaders have served their purpose, they will get the ax. The Communists intend to overthrow capitalism, which is another way of saying they intend to destroy property rights everywhere. They cannot do this without revolution and murder, and that is what the phrase "revolutionary struggle" means.

The Communists will move as far as they can within the framework of representative government, paying lip service to what they call "democratic principles." If they ever become so strong they know they cannot lose, they will take the "struggle" on from there by the bloody means they demonstrated so well in soviet Russia. They not only intend to plunder all property, but they intend to murder millions of Americans. They talk now about obtaining the "means of production" for the people. In Russia, the means of production often was a peasant's last cow, and if he didn't surrender it to the commissars, he was shot.

The people who support the New Deal ticket this November are supporting the Communists and building them up for the day when they plan to bring the Red terror sweeping down upon America. A New Deal vote is an invitation to murder.

2 BOMBERS HIT; 17 AIRMEN DIE

Flying Fortresses Crash in Nebraska.

Laurel, Neb., Aug. 5 (AP).—Seventeen army airmen from the Sioux City, Ia., air base died in the collision of two Flying Fortresses near Laurel today, Lt. Col. Wallace S. Dawson, base commander, announced tonight.

The planes fell shortly before noon today while army officials still probed the wreckage of a C-47 transport which crashed with 28 men aboard near Naper, just south of the Nebraska-South Dakota line Thursday night. Today's crash brought to 45 the number of army flyers to die in Nebraska this week.

Only One Escapes Death.

Witnesses of the crash reported earlier that three planes—the two bombers and a fighter—were involved, but Col. Dawson announced in Sioux City tonight that all small craft accompanying the formation of Fortresses had returned to the Sioux City base. A tail section of one of the planes, severed in the collision, is believed to have been mistaken for the smaller plane.

Officials said one of the Flying Fortresses exploded and the other burned as they neared the ground. Names of the victims are being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Chicagoan Killed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5 (AP).—One man was killed attempting to parachute and another when he remained with his plane as a twin-engine army trainer crashed and burned in South Indianapolis late today. The public relations office of Freeman field, Seymour, Ind., identified the men as Lawrence Nelson of Chicago and Joseph F. O'Brien of Haverhill, Mass.

GAIN 27 MILES IN PUSH TOWARD FRENCH CAPITAL

AMERICANS LOSE 69,526 IN FRANCE; BRITISH 46,139

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 5 (AP).—The allies have suffered a total of 115,665 casualties in killed, wounded or missing in France from the invasion on June 6 thru July 20, it was announced today.

11,156 Yanks Killed.

Of these, United States casualties were 11,026 killed, 52,669 wounded, and 5,831 missing, a total of 69,526. In addition, 130 were killed, 41 wounded, and 312 missing in a pre-invasion exercise on April 28, when German motorboats attacked a convoy and sank two LST craft loaded with troops. Thus the American casualties directly connected with the invasion program totaled 70,009.

British losses were 5,646 killed, 27,766 wounded, and 6,182 missing, a total of 39,594.

Canadians Lose 6,545.

Canadian casualties were 919 killed, 4,354 wounded, and 1,272 missing, a total of 6,545.

[Prime Minister Churchill, addressing the house of commons Wednesday, said that when the invasion began American and British forces were about equal but that now the American forces were larger. He made a point that the losses of the British and Canadians were proportionally about the same as those of the Americans, saying, "It has been share and share alike all along the front." On the basis of the casualties announced, the figures would indicate that the Americans composed 60 per cent of the forces in France, the British 34.4; and the Canadians 5.6.]

Nazis Put Up Stiff Fight for St. Malo

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR ST. MALO, Aug. 5 (AP).—American armor has been thrown against the last ditch German defense line around this historic fortress.

A garrison of between 2,000 and 3,000 German troops is offering the strongest resistance yet encountered by the Americans in Brittany.

Snipers are hidden along the road from Dol to St. Malo which in peace time was a fashionable resort and the principal port along "the emerald coast." The Nazis have built a heavily fortified line consisting of concrete pill boxes, tank ditches, mine fields, road blocks, and barbed wire barriers.

Town on Granite Isle.

The Germans have used the port as a base for destroyers and E-boats and as a supply port for the channel islands seized from Britain early in the war.

During the middle ages the port was used by privateers as a base to prey on British shipping in the channel and it is so strong that it has often been besieged but never stormed and taken. The town is situated on an island of granite in the center of Bay St. Malo at the mouth of the Rance river and is connected to the mainland by a long causeway.

Advance 61 Miles in Day.

The Germans braced at Dinan and Dol briefly and more than 50 Nazis fled back from the latter town to St. Malo after a clash with the vanguards of American troops.

"This has been one of the biggest rat races in history," said Lt. Col. Harry E. Brown of St. Louis, Mo. "We came 61 miles in 24 hours.

"We have moved fast but it hasn't been as easy as it might look. They were waiting for us along the roads with road blocks, craters, mines, machine guns, small arms, and anti-tank guns. As for prisoners, the woods are full of those birds."

Germans Retreat Before British in Normandy.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Aug. 6 [Sunday]—(AP).—Hard driving American armor, sweeping 75 miles in one day to the end of the Brittany peninsula, entered the great port of Brest yesterday while other units reached the Loire river, sealing off the peninsula at its base.

Other American armored forces, in a wheeling movement aimed at Paris, drove eastward 27 miles from their previous positions.

It was not immediately known at supreme headquarters which of several columns moving southward had reached the Loire or where. Field dispatches had reported American units racing close to both Nantes, French port 15 miles in from the mouth of the river, and St. Nazaire, another big port 30 miles to the west. Still another column had captured Pontivy 15 miles from Lorient—the peninsula's fourth great port.

U-Boat Pens Bombed.

The time of the entry into Brest was not known at supreme headquarters, but British heavy bombers blasted the submarine pens there at midday and it was disclosed that Spitfire pilots flying as escorts reported sighting allied vehicles at Morlaix, within 35 miles of the port.

This blow by the bombers was designed to block the U-boats in their docks and prevent them from fleeing, possibly with any high ranking officers of the shattered Brittany garrison.

Equally momentous was the drive on Paris, now 135 miles away, which already has paid off a big dividend by crumbling the last of the German defenses in Normandy.

Forge Across Mayenne River.

These forces were nearly 50 miles east and slightly north of Rennes, whose formal capture was completed Friday, and 27 miles due east of their communications base of Fougeres.

The surprising drive across the Mayenne river in a sector not previously mentioned was one of at least four eastward drives. The others sent the Germans scurrying across the Orne river, farther north.

The British who had been hammering at the doors of Villers-Bocage and in the Odon-Orne river triangle southeast of Caen suddenly found the enemy was in rapid, but orderly retreat.

Nazis Pull Back Quickly.

The Germans pulled back so rapidly that some of their sentries were left behind, and before long the British were rolling thru Villers-Bocage, Noyers, Esquay, Evrecy, Aunay and across hills 112 and 113.

Deep below the Bocage country of hedgerows and forests, which had been the core of German resistance, at least two American columns were closing on Domfront, a pivotal city 42 miles southwest of Caen.

One force was at Barenton, 7 miles west, and another was at Le Teilleu, 10 miles west and slightly south, while behind these forces the strategic city of Fougeres was firmly in American hands.

Fougeres is 27 miles northeast of Rennes and controls all roads leading into the Avranches corridor, thru which allied power is being funneled into Brittany and toward Paris.

British Reach Orne.

Patrols had been active in this sector yesterday trying to find where the Germans had anchored their line after the American break-thru, and were surprised to find that there was no anchor. It is likely the multiple drives are aimed to exploit this apparent enemy blunder.

A British officer declared "the German picture is critical" as British and Canadian forces reached the barrier of the Orne river at Le Hom, nine miles southeast of Villers Bocage.

As the holdout units retreated there was no indication that the Germans were intending to make a stand there, giving rise to the possibilities they might be beginning a major withdrawal all the way back to the Seine river, 70 miles east.

German bulldozers made fords across the Orne to speed the retreat at places where bridges were blown up.

The last German had withdrawn west of Vire, yielding all the forest of St. Sever, which had been the enemy's main ammunition dump in Normandy. American forces, fighting against rear guards, neared Champ-du-Boult, just beyond the southern edge of the forest.

Yanks Retake St. Pois.

Closing in at other points southwest of Vire, the Americans retook St. Pois and advance troops were in Le Mesnil-Gilbert, 2½ miles south.

Last reports put allied forces little more than half a mile from Vire itself, which once was taken by the British but was lost in a counter-attack.

With the astonishing gains reported in the past 24 hours, the allies now have overrun nearly half of the northwestern French quadrangle extending east to Paris and bounded by the Seine and the Loire.

They now must reduce territory roughly 150 miles deep and 100 miles wide before Paris, which has no natural defense line. This quadrangle represents roughly only one-sixth of France, but it is an important fraction.

Expect Little Resistance.

With part of four divisions left to defend the Breton peninsula after withdrawals for the futile stand in Normandy, it was unlikely the American mop-up of Brittany would encounter much resistance.

Garrison forces undoubtedly faced the American armor which pounded into Brest, and the same sort of resistance is likely at St. Nazaire, Nantes, and the fourth big Brittany port of Lorient, which is by-passed on the south as St. Malo was on the north.

American forces were reported fighting inside St. Malo early in the day, but previous German broadcasts appeared to have written this small port off the list. The allies are expected to be able to make early use of St. Malo and the neighboring small ports of Granville and Avranches in the Brittany-Normandy corner.

When the Americans reach Nantes they will be separated only by the Loire from the great expanse of southwestern France, where the command of Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz has reportedly been thinned to six divisions.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Saturday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In Normandy the enemy yesterday north of the Vire as well as northeast and east of Avranches made a strong attack supported by tanks. He was repulsed after hard fighting. Several enemy fighting groups surrounded behind our lines were wiped out. In Brittany, garrisons of our bases also offered strong resistance yesterday to enemy motorized forces advancing farther towards the west and southwest. German battleplanes with telling effect took part in the ground fighting and dispersed enemy columns. Last night villages occupied by the enemy and enemy flak batteries were attacked by German bombers and night battleplanes."

GERMANS IN TURKEY REVOLT OVER BEING RETURNED TO REICH

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 5 (AP).—A mass revolt was developing tonight among Germans in Turkey against returning to their homeland, despite hints by the Gestapo that reprisals would be taken against members of their families in Germany.

A persistent report here following the breaking of relations with Germany said Franz von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Turkey, would not return to the reich, despite the fact his family was in Germany. Earlier reports said Von Papen left by air for Germany two days ago.

Only enough Germans have applied for reservations to fill one sleeper of the five trains the Turks made available for those wishing to return. A German source estimated that at least 50 per cent of the 3,000 Germans in Turkey would choose internment or closely controled freedom rather than return to the reich.

Report Britain Will Lift Blackout at Five Cities

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The black-out will be lifted next month from Edinburgh, Glasgow, Carlisle, Manchester, Liverpool, and a number of other Scottish and northwestern England towns, it was reported tonight. Plans already drawn, it was said, will become effective as soon as Home Secretary Herbert Morrison approves them.

GIFTS, GUNS, GAB AID IN CAPTURE OF 15 GERMANS

ST. SEVER-CALVADOS, France, Aug. 5 (AP).—A good prescription for catching Nazis is a liberal dose of candy, plus water and lots of talk, backed up by stiff mortar fire. That was the formula used yesterday by two unarmed medical men to bring in 15 prisoners, including an officer. They were Sgt. Dale Messamore of Bloomington, Ill., and Corp. Wayne Erickson of Cumberland, Wis.

"We went into the forest of St. Sever looking for our men and suddenly there were about 40 Germans following us," Messamore said. "We decided to go back but they had other ideas, so we went with them to the command post."

A German medical officer who spoke English wanted to let the medical men go but the commanding officer said no.

"We gave them some candy and water," Erickson said. "They had had no water for three days. And we kept talking about how well we treated prisoners. Pretty soon our side let loose a mortar barrage and everybody hit for the trench. That was the final convincer. The commanding officer left and the medical officer said he and the men would surrender when the Americans stopped the mortars." He kept his word and gave up with 14 of his men. The other Germans disappeared.

RANGER HERO HURT IN TUNISIA TO WED CADET NURSE TODAY

Sgt. Sam Tiggelaar, 27, veteran of five major campaigns and possessor of the Presidential unit citation with a cluster and the combat infantry medal, will be married at 5 p. m. today in the Lutheran church, 110th and State sts., to Miss Florence Richards of Farmington, Fulton county, cadet nurse at Roseland Community hospital. The sergeant is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tiggelaar, 123 W. 104th st.

Serving with the Rangers, American commandos, Tiggelaar suffered broken bones in both feet when he jumped off a cliff near El Guetar, Tunisia.

Waiting only to have his injured feet bandaged and refusing a transfer to noncombatant service, Tiggelaar continued to fight in Africa, Sicily, and Italy. His injured feet later necessitated transfer to a supply section. "They bother me a little on a 30 or 40 mile hike," he said.

GERMANS CLAIM U. S. 3D ARMY IN BRITTANY

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—The German Transocean news agency broadcast a dispatch from Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge's headquarters today saying prisoners from the United States 3d army were being brought in from the fighting in Brittany.

The United States 1st army and British 2d army are the only ones officially announced in Gen. Montgomery's 21st army group in France.

There was no allied substantiation of the German report.

Hear Bulgars' Premier and Red Envoy Confer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—A suggestion in political circles at Ankara, Turkey, that the rupture of diplomatic relations between Turkey and Germany might have a repercussion in the Balkans was revived today. It was announced by a German news agency over the Berlin radio that Ivan Bagrianov, the Bulgarian prime minister, had a conference today with the soviet charge d'affaires in Sofia.

BOMBING FLEETS SPAN EUROPE IN DAYLIGHT RAIDS

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Formations of more than 1,400 American and British heavy bombers led the aerial assault of Nazi targets all the way from Brest to Germany today in ideal flying weather. More than 1,100 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators returned to northwest Germany for a second blow at enemy war industry in as many days.

Lancasters and Halifaxes also delivered their daily punishment to the German flying bomb sources with attacks on a depot at St. Leu Desserent, 30 miles north of Paris, another hidden in a woods near Watten, and launching ramps.

Lancasters Attack Bridge.

Still another fleet of Lancasters swooped on the railway bridge at Etaples on the Germans' most important supply line from the north to the front, running from Belgium into Amiens.

The American heavy bombers poured lethal cargoes on war industries in Germany, hitting the oil refinery at Dollbergen, an oil storage plant at Nienburg, an aircraft parts factory and freight yards at Fallersleben, an armament works at Madgeburg, and other targets at Brunswick and Madgeburg as well as air fields at Hanover, Langerhangon, and Halberstadt.

Nearly 750 8th air force fighters guarded the heavyweights on their trip to Germany and strafed moving and stationary targets.

Nazis Claim Air Victories.

The German radio said fierce air combats developed and claimed several allied planes were shot down.

Clouds were over the French battlefront this morning, but clearing weather brought supporting planes out in force. Light Havoc bombers of the 9th air force attacked the enemy rail lines immediately behind the front.

R. A. F. Mosquitos attacked rail yards, river traffic, and parked planes on the British front and destroyed five German planes. In the smash against Germany and France yesterday the allies flew 4,000 sorties, downed 50 enemy planes in the air and destroyed a number on the ground. Allied losses were 19 bombers and 22 fighters.

Among pilots who claimed three planes each destroyed on the ground was 1st Lt. Vernon G. Rafferty of Eau Claire, Wis.

GOV. GREEN ASKS CITIZENS' HELP ON SERVICE VOTE

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5 [Special].—Gov. Green today called on all Illinois citizens to help get ballots into the hands of Illinois men and women in the fighting services.

His appeal was made in a proclamation designating the week beginning tomorrow as "Help Illinois Fighters Vote Week."

In his proclamation, the governor said applications for absentee ballots are available at the offices of county clerks and election boards thruout the state.

90 Days Held Adequate.

He asked all citizens who have relatives or friends in the services to make certain they are informed as to their opportunity to cast ballots this year, even tho they may be stationed in foreign lands.

Green said it has been estimated that approximately 90 days will be adequate time for any member of the army or navy any place in the world to receive, sign, and return his application for a ballot and to receive, vote, and return his ballot for the Nov. 7 election. That 90 day period will begin Wednesday.

Green's proclamation said soldier vote legislation enacted by the general assembly provides a simple and effective system for Illinois service men and women to cast absentee ballots containing the names of national, state, and local candidates.

Many Unaware of Rights.

"Many Illinois citizens serving in the armed forces are unaware of their rights and privileges under this act, or may have been maliciously misinformed to the effect that they cannot vote in this election," Green said.

He said America is the only great nation of the world that is holding its national elections as usual in the midst of the war. "To vote in that election, therefore, is not only a high privilege but a sacred obligation of citizenship," he declared.

The governor appealed to all newspapers, civic and fraternal organizations, and particularly to veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries, to see that an application card is sent to every qualified service man and woman.

"It is my earnest hope," Green asserted, "that every voter represented by a service star in any home in Illinois may also be represented by a ballot in his or her home polling place on Nov. 7."

TWO ON TRUCK TRAP, SHOOT FUGITIVE NAZI

Driving toward Chicago from Elgin yesterday, Donald Gibbs, driver for a Rockford, Ill., express company, and his companion stopped their truck to pick up a khaki-clad hitchhiker in route 20.

Their guest avoided conversation and Gibbs became suspicious. "Where are you going?" he asked.

The passenger attempted to reply, in broken English with a German accent. Gibbs and his companion then remembered they had heard a German prisoner of war had escaped Friday night from a camp near Hampshire, in Kane county.

The drivers exchanged a glance, then Gibbs commented that the engine was overheated. They turned into a farmyard near Addison and Gibbs went into the house. He came out with a shot gun, borrowed from the farmer.

"Now raise your hands," he told the stranger. Instead, the man tried to flee. A blast from the gun struck him in the legs.

At an Elmhurst hospital the man was identified as Herbert Heine, 29, once a member of Marshal Rommel's Africa corps. He was taken to the hospital for war prisoners at Camp Grant.

Death Cancels Charge of Induction Dodging

Charges of failure to report for induction against Joseph Crisci, 31, of 610 Madison st., who died of a heart attack shortly after his arraignment on Friday, were ordered stricken yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. COLLETTE FRANCIS.

New York, Aug. 5 (AP).—Tommy Manville announced tonight that he will marry Collette Francis, 30, blonde former Earl Carroll show girl, by Sept. 1. She will be the eighth Mrs. Manville.

"I've known her a long time," Manville said. "It's about time grandpappy settled down, don't you think?" He added that this marriage was "going to last." "I can't afford any more tickets to Reno, he said, "and anyway you can't get reservations."

Miss Francis said that she and the much-married Manville had known each other 13 years and been "very, very dear friends for ages."

The couple announced that they planned to adopt a child. "It isn't as tho we just met," said Manville. "We want company."

JAPS' NEMESIS AT HOME TODAY FOR THE PAY-OFF

Some time this evening, Lt. Alexander Vraciu, 25, top ace of naval aviation, will get back to his old home at 3553 Pennsylvania av., East Chicago, Ind. Before that, however, he will receive the formal welcoming of his East Chicago neighbors.

Vraciu landed at Chicago airport a week ago and was properly greeted by his parents and an East Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Frank Migas, but that didn't count. By request, he spent the week elsewhere to give East Chicago time to get ready for the homecoming celebration this afternoon in the stadium in Washington park, East Chicago.

Part of the welcoming ceremony will be presentation of a gift of war bonds. To complete his nest egg, Vraciu will receive a $1,900 check from John Tincu, his uncle, a Chicago manufacturer who in a moment of family pride offered the then inexperienced pilot $100 for every plane shot down. Vraciu shot down 19 Jap planes and smashed 38 on the ground.

Most of East Chicago will be at the Illinois-Indiana state line at Indianapolis blvd., Whiting, at 1:30 p. m. to form a parade to take Vraciu to East Chicago. At the park, after American Legion posts have opened the meeting, 12 one minute welcoming speeches are scheduled.

DISCLOSE HEART SPECIALIST IS WITH ROOSEVELT

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—President Roosevelt's health and stamina again became a major topic of capital conversation today with the disclosure that a heart specialist is a member of his official party. The President is absent from the White House "in the performance of my duties under the Constitution," as he told the nation July 20, in accepting the fourth term nomination.

At the President's side as he spoke from a west coast naval station was Lt. Comdr. Howard Gerald Bruenn, a New York City heart specialist, who was commissioned in the navy Oct. 29, 1942. The commander was identified by friends here as the naval officer shown in photographs of the President delivering his radio address from his private railroad car.

Absent from Hospital.

Bruenn, who was graduated from Johns Hopkins in 1929, is attached to the naval hospital at Bethesda here. At the hospital it was reported that he is out of the city on a mission. It was reported in capital circles Bruenn had been commissioned to look after Mr. Roosevelt.

In the photograph of the delivery of the acceptance address, Comdr. Bruenn is shown seated at the President's right beyond Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander in chief.

It was reported in the press this morning that President Roosevelt is to undergo an operation on his return from his tour. The White House has not commented on the report.

Concern was first manifested over the President's health early in the year when listeners detected weariness in his radio voice and when photographs showed the lines in his face had deepened. It became apparent that his speeches were being read, where some years ago delivery appeared to be spontaneous.

Pallor Increases.

Photographs showed an increasing pallor and that the President was losing weight. The loss of weight was most noticeable about the neck, and there were many more lines about the eyes.

It was reported the President was suffering from a cold. Later it became known he had been ailing for weeks following his journey to Cairo and Teheran. The list of White House appointments was cut and secret trips to his family estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., became more frequent. Early in February he had had a wen removed from his neck.

In March Aubrey Williams, one of the earliest New Deal officials and now director of the national farmers' union, declared after a White House dinner that he was shocked to find the President looking so tired and worn.

Headaches Reported.

A few days later Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference he had suffered an attack of bronchitis. This statement failed to quiet rumors and it was said he was suffering from severe headaches, which made his nights restless. The resulting loss of sleep was said to have cut down his weight.

In May Mr. Roosevelt left Washington for two weeks' rest at Hobcaw barony, the regal South Carolina plantation of Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist. The two weeks were stretched into four. It was made known the bronchitis was complicated by sinus trouble and an intestinal disorder.

He returned to Washington suntanned and in excellent spirits. As weeks passed, White House visitors noted the tan faded and lines about his face returned.

However, Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, the President's personal physician, reported his chief was enjoying health that is "excellent in all respects" and better than average for man of his age. Mr. Roosevelt is 62.

CHARGES FUNDS OF PAC USED TO FIGHT J. L. LEWIS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5 (AP).—Hugh White, acting president of the Illinois district 12, United Mine Workers, today charged the CIO political action committee with aiding in financing a UMW autonomy committee headed by Ray Edmundson, former district president.

White, in an interview, said the P. A. C. was "behind an attempt to unseat John L. Lewis" as international UMW president.

Edmundson, candidate for Lewis' post, said there was "no truth in the White statement."

HITLER'S PURGE HITS CORPS CHIEF ON WEST FRONT

Captive Says Commander Taken from Post.

WITH U. S. 1ST ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 5 (AP). — A German prisoner of war told American officers today that a German corps commander on the western front had been relieved of his command because of connection with the plot to assassinate Adolf Hitler.

The prisoner said regular army men were angered by Hitler's order that the Nazi salute must be used rather than the army salute.

A high American officer said it was apparent that the plot to assassinate Hitler was not confined to the senior German officers.

See Nazis Crumbling.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—Official quarters were leaning over backward today to avoid raising hopes of a quick collapse of Germany based on the Nazis' latest admission of widespread treason, but some diplomats familiar with the German scene were astonished at the ramifications of the intrigue which Hitler, in his new purge order thinks is threatening him.

The names of plotters already officially mentioned by the Germans are significant enough, such as Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, former chief of staff "who admitted his guilt by suicide," and Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben, former commander in France. Others, gradually appearing, add weight to the roster of high officers and other personalities caught in the purge.

Name Fromm as a Ringleader.

An example is Col. Gen. Fromm, who was commander in chief of Germany's ersatzheer [home army] until Hitler handed that post to Heinrich Himmler after the July 20 assassination attempt. Fromm was named in a speech by the gauleiter of Austria as one of the ringleaders of the anti-Hitler conspiracy.

Similar disclosures have been made by various gauleiters at regional "loyalty rallies" staged to reassure Hitler that the party rank and file approve of his "miraculous" escape from death.

Thus Karl Hanke, gauleiter of Silesia, said a prominent personality in the old Catholic Centrist party [former Chancellor Bruening's old party] had been chosen by the conspirators to take over the civil administration of Silesia.

The gauleiter of Pomerania disclosed that the dragnet was out for "certain elements" in Pomerania.

The deputy gauleiter of Franconia did not mention names but said, "The purge is going on in our district, too."

Guerrilla Warfare on in Paris.

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 5 (AP).—French factory workers in the "Red belt," Communist sector around Paris, have begun open guerrilla warfare against German occupation forces, information reaching here from the French capital said today.

German SS [elite guard] troops now are patrolling the suburban industrial districts of Aubervilliers-la-Courneuve and Billancourt, these advices related.

Russians Press Closer to Germany

Developments yesterday on Russo-German front.

REDS TAKE KEY TO TWO PASSES ON CZECH LINE

LONDON, Aug. 6 [Sunday]—(AP).—Russian troops yesterday captured the key road junction of Stryj in the Carpathian mountains on the invasion routes into Czechoslavakia, while in the north Soviet forces rolled thru 40 villages in a fight swaying close to the German East Prussian border.

"Fires are raging in East Prussian frontier towns which now are objectives of Red army infantry attacks," said a dispatch to Pravda, Communist party newspaper.

Press dispatches and German broadcasts located the fighting as only three miles from the German border. It was obvious that the Germans had slowed the Russians on most key sectors by hurling in thousands of reserves.

Stryj Commands 2 Passes.

Stryj, 38 miles south of Lwow and about the same distance from the Czech border, commands the roads thru the Wyszkow and Beskid passes into Czechoslovakia. Its capture by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine army was announced by Premier Stalin. Russian troops are within 19 miles of the Czechoslovak border at Mizyun Stary.

Beyond the Germans' broken Vistula river defenses, southwest of Sandomierz, the Russians were reported within 30 miles of Krakow and 75 miles from German Silesia, having crossed the Nida river. But the soviet bulletin said of this sector only that the bridgehead had been widened and several more localities seized.

East of this area, in the triangle formed by the Vistula and San rivers, Marshal Konev's forces captured 72 localities of the 243 taken on all fronts during the day.

Konev's troops were pushing down both banks of the Vistula toward Krakow, Poland's fifth largest city and last big German stronghold short of industrialized German Silesia.

Warsaw Patriots Losing.

Inside besieged Warsaw Polish patriots lost the rail stations in the heart of the city, a message from the underground said. The Poles were suffering from ammunition and arms shortages.

Fifty miles east of Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian troops captured 70 more towns and villages northwest and north of Siedlce, but the bulletin did not mention the progress of fighting just east of Warsaw. Berlin told, however, of fierce battles northeast of the Polish capital on the east bank of the Vistula, and said soviet attempts to pierce Nazi lines east of the city had failed.

Action in the Siedlce area was between Siedlce and the Bialystok-Warsaw railway, and Rokossovsky apparently intends to clean out this area on his flank before turning full power against Warsaw.

Planes Strafe Prussian Roads.

Soviet planes strafed the roads leading into East Prussia and several Berlin reports early yesterday indicated that Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian troops temporarily might have penetrated German soil for the first time in the war. But later Berlin broadcasts said the Russians had been halted short of the border. Moscow said 3,000 Germans were killed in the day's fighting toward East Prussia.

Reports from the Gulf of Riga front in Latvia, where the Russians had cut off German armies in Estonia and Latvia with a 10 mile corridor driven up to the Baltic sea, said the roads were hidden by the dust of Red army mechanized cavalcades.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WARNED TO EXPECT MILITARY SERVICE

Helena, Mont., Aug. 5 (AP).—Selective Service Director Hershey expressed belief today all eligible high school boys of the nation would eventually be in the armed services "regardless of whether or not the war with Germany is ended."

"I can't speak for the navy or war departments," he said, "but in my opinion, the high school youth of America who are militarily acceptable will see service in the armed forces after the war in Europe is cleaned up." The general said there was little prospect of rapid demobilization.

"It took 30 months, at 1,000 men an hour to go from a little over 1,000,000 men to a striking force of 11,000,000," he said. "It is going to take some time after the war to let them out of the armed forces, even if we let them out at the rate of 2,000 men an hour."

YANK LANDS IN ROMANIA; SAVES CRASHED PILOT

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 (AP).—American fighter pilots strafed the German airdrome at Focsani in Romania, shot up enemy communications and then saved a downed comrade on a shuttle mission from Italy to Russian air bases yesterday.

In the hair raising rescue Flight Officer Richard Andrews, 20, Lightning pilot of Portland, Ore., landed in a Romanian meadow near Focsani and picked up Lt. Richard E. Willsie, 23, of Long Beach, Cal., after the latter had belly-landed with one engine shot out.

As Andrews threw away his parachute and took Willsie on his lap, a Messerschmitt formation attacked the Lightnings which were circling overhead. Lt. N. A. Pate of Austin, Tex., shot down one enemy plane and damaged another. Willsie set his own damaged aircraft afire and was clambering into the cockpit of the rescue plane almost as soon as it braked to a stop.

Diary of the Steinway

THAT HAS CO-STARRED WITH THE MUSICAL-GREAT OF CHICAGO'S PALMER HOUSE SINCE 1925

YEARS ago, Chicago's far-famed Palmer House recognized the fact that most people "like music with their meals". . . . And since it is an old Palmer House tradition to offer its guests the finest cuisine, the same custom was adopted for the music that was to accompany it.

So a Steinway Grand Piano was decided upon and bought. Since that day nearly twenty years ago, this "Instrument of the Immortals" has been a good trouper wherever and whenever it was needed . . . In the Victorian Room and the Empire Room, the Steinway has withstood the strain of day-in, day-out rehearsals and programs with big-name bands, piano virtuosi, vocalists and ballet routines . . . giving always what the artist and the listener expect from a Steinway Piano—exquisite music . . . According to its own "Diary of Artists," the Empire Room Steinway has appeared with these featured head-liners:

3 MILLION NEW ROBOT REFUGEES TO SEEK SAFETY

Evacuation Is a Vast Problem to British.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Flying bomb evacuations from greater London on the scale proposed in Prime Minister Churchill's speech this week will impose an enormous strain on the resources of the safe areas of this island.

The prime minister told the house of commons that approximately 1,000,000 persons had been evacuated and suggested that an additional 3,000,000 should migrate to safe areas. Metropolitan London's population is 8,500,000 and this proportion of it could be spared, he said, because their departure would not impede war activities.

These include wives, the aged, invalids and even whole families of which working members are in nonessential jobs. It was to them that Churchill referred, advising "those who can evacuate or whose presence is not needed in London to take the opportunity of leaving the capital in a gradual and orderly manner."

[The Associated Press in a story from London today said millions who remained in the capital for the week-end breathed easier as a lull in the flying bomb attacks passed the 72-hour mark. The dispatch said sporadic attacks continued after dark tonight as rescue workers toiled to clear the debris of a large store crumpled by a daylight bomb. A number of bodies had been recovered but it was believed there were still others in the wreckage. Several persons walking along the streets were killed and others injured when the bomb hit.]

Involves Many Problems.

Many problems are involved in voluntary evacuations such as the allocation of living quarters, redistribution of food supplies to meet the demands of the added population in safe areas, and the economic problems of individual families. Those who have gone already have upset the resources of many areas and it is believed evacuation of another 3,000,000 would require government supervision and the use of such facilities as unoccupied army camps vacated by the invasion.

Since the bombing started four years ago approximately 3,000,000 houses have been destroyed or partly damaged in England and Wales. Churchill said that flying bombs have destroyed another 17,000 and damaged 800,000 of which 600,000 still are habitable or have been made habitable. In addition whole districts of towns, mostly along the seacoast, have suffered severe economic damage thru being banned or forcibly evacuated.

Twelve Million Endangered.

The population of the London danger area probably is nearly 12,000,000, including all the built-up areas of the city and its environs within range of flying bombs or long range rockets. This area presents an ideal target for this type of long range bombardment. A bomb landing anywhere within a 20 mile radius of Charing Cross is almost certain to hit within the built-up district.

The child population of greater London is relatively high since there is a tendency for established families to move to the suburban outskirts, while within the city proper, the city of Westminster and other metropolitan boroughs, the ratio of youngsters is relatively small. The official evacuation in the present emergency totals about 215,000 mothers and children under five and unaccompanied school children. The figure for school children alone is about 90,000. These do not include private evacuations.

Holiday Travel Heavy.

The prime minister's inference that the flying missiles still were a somber menace had no minimizing effect on the holiday spirit of the Londoners enjoying the bank holiday. Crowds leaving the metropolis for the week-end were the largest handled since the outbreak of the war. By some unexplained dispensation the warning against civilian travel was lifted and the railroads were permitted to restore long abandoned trains to handle adequately the mass of persons who queued up at the various stations.

The unexpected announcement that pleasure seekers would be given travel priority over the week-end followed the statement a few days ago that many factories thruout Britain would be closed for an entire week.

HIGHEST NEGRO OFFICER URGES RACE HARMONY

AMERICAN HDQ., Aug. 5 [Reuter.]—Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, highest ranking Negro officer in the American army, today appealed for racial harmony in the United States as a prerequisite to a peaceful world.

Brig. Gen. Davis said: "If the people of the United States cannot evolve some kind of platform so that its various groups can get along in harmony, then they cannot make a world peace in which the allies, Germany, Japan, and the rest of the world can live together.'

Brig. Gen. Davis praised the work of Negro troops on the continent, particularly artillery units which have won high praise for their battle performance.

Does YOUR Dog "SCRATCH?"
If He Does, He Is In TORMENT

The best dog in the world can't be truly happy when he must continually scratch, dig, rub, and bite himself, seeking relief from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. He is in frenzied torment—can't help himself. But you may. Try giving him, as thousands are doing, Rex Hunters Dog Powders, once each week. Note the quick difference. Learn why a glad purchaser wrote: "I surely was pleased, as the 25c package helped my dog immediately. He has practically quit scratching, has more pep and his hair is glossy again." Rex Hunters Dog Powders cost only 25c at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. (Economy size box only $1.00).

200 DOUGHBOYS OF MIDWEST WIN BRAVERY BADGE

Helped Win Africa, Sicily and Cherbourg.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 9TH DIVISION IN FRANCE, July 24—[By Mail].—Two hundred American doughboys from the middlewest—many from Chicago—have been awarded the infantryman's badge for bravery under enemy fire. Each man receives $10 additional pay a month upon winning the award, one of the latest authorized by the war department.

All the men are from the 9th division which fought in Tunisia and Sicily before making the beachhead landings. On the western front they played a leading role in the cutting of the Cherbourg peninsula before helping in the capture of the port town itself. Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, the division commander, is a Chicagoan.

Casualties in France

How French invasion casualties are distributed among allies is shown in these charts. Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons Wednesday that the casualties were in proportion to forces engaged, indicating that total casualties reflect sizes of American, British, and Canadian armies.

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Germans sat amid the rubble they had created on the north bank of the Arno river in Florence today and machine gunned and sniped at every moving shadow on the south bank, deliberately repudiating a declaration of the German radio that Florence was to be treated as an open city.

The night was made nerve racking for 800 civilians in southern Florence by long blasts of machine gun fire which the Germans directed across the river and the almost continuous shelling of the southern outskirts of the city.

In the southern sector die hard Fascists continued to snipe from windows and rooftops. South African troops who made the first entry into the city yesterday were constantly sniped at as they made their way up to the river.

Famed Relics Intact.

The ugly ruins at the north end of the picturesque Ponte Vecchio [Old Bridge] over the Arno were still smoking today, but behind them Duomo [Santa Maria del Fiore church, founded in 1298] stood undamaged in the sunshine.

Three of the great treasures of the black and white marble, 13th century Baptistry, opposite the Duomo, were on view. They are the bronze gates which were done by Ghiberti in the 15th century. They had been safely encased behind concrete deep in the Palazzo Pitti on the south side of the river.

The gates were put in the tunnel near Incisa in 1940, but the Germans insisted on using the tunnel for war purposes, and so the gates were taken to the Pitti palace.

In the same shelter were Michelangelo's famous statues of La Notte San Lorenzo and San Cosimo and works by Donatello and other sculptors.

Allies Sparing City.

While South African troops have taken up positions on the south bank of the river there seemed to be no disposition on the part of the 8th army to stage a battle in Florence itself.

All of the southern suburbs have been occupied and the 8th army has brought up forces along a 25 mile front for an assault across the Arno.

At the western extremity of the Florentine front, the 8th army was at the Arno at Montelupo, and on the eastern end had captured Rignano, three and a half miles south of Pontassieve, which covers Florence's east flank.

Between these points other elements were within a half a mile of the Arno near Signa, just west of Florence, and the same distance away away just east of Florence after they captured Magno-Aripoli.

[The German war bulletin yesterday said: "Our troops were withdrawn into a region north of Florence in order to spare the city and its art treasures. Florence was subjected to heavy artillery fire by the enemy all of yesterday. North of Arezzo heavy fighting is in progress with the enemy, who has broken into our positions at Monte Altuccio. More than 100 terrorists were killed in the Ligurian coastal sector."]

Ambulance Men First Yanks to Enter Florence

ROME, Aug. 5 (AP).—An American field service report from the front said today that two ambulance drivers, George E. Stacy of Charleston, W. V., and Walter Cope of Atlantic City, N. J., were the first Americans to enter Florence yesterday. They are serving with the South Africans.

ALLIES RAID TWO NAZI FORCES ON ADRIATIC ISLES

ROME, Aug. 5 (AP).—Allied forces landed on the Islands of Korcula and Orebic off Yugoslavia on Aug. 2, attacked enemy craft, inflicted casualities on the enemy garrison and withdrew without loss, it was officially disclosed today.

R. A. F. Spitfires provided cover for the landing on the Dalmatian Island of Korcula by British units supported by British naval forces in the Adriatic.

PLANS TO CURB DEFEATED NAZIS BELIEVED READY

Germany's Probable Fate Defined.

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP).—This is an attempt to answer questions of world-wide significance as the allies approach victory over Germany.

What plans have been drafted for an armistice? What will be German's fate? What steps will be taken to reconstruct Europe and lay foundations for lasting peace?

Many details are still secret, but this analysis is based upon opinions from men of several nationalities and various political philosophies in this international capital.

Victory will find the allies ready with plans for jailing Germany geographically and economically until a system can be found for outlawing all aggression.

Preview of Possible Terms.

The European advisory commission, the tri-power agency that is drafting and coördinating armistice terms, has accelerated work amid signs that Germany is cracking.

Details are guarded so closely that the American ambassador, John Winant, declines to say how the work is progressing. Yet international circles here generally believe it will follow this pattern:

1. The complete military occupation of a Germany divided into spheres of influence, with Russia controling the east, Britain the area north of Mainz, and the Americans the south. Berlin may be chosen for the central coördination spot.

2. Total disarmament, with distribution of the remaining Nazi military and naval equipment, partly on the basis of loss by the victims of aggression and partly to rearm countries on the German borders.

Arms Factories Doomed.

3. Destruction or removal of arms factories down to the last fireworks plant, strict control over what heavy industry remains, transplantation to allied countries of the chemical industry, and supervision of German inventions.

4. Transfer of all Germans from the lands they seized.

5. Division of Germany—and this is still debatable—into two republics, one embodying Prussia and the other covering lands to the south where the less warlike people live. East Prussia, a small part of old Prussia, is expected to be largely incorporated into Poland, with a small portion going to Lithuania. Poland probably will be recompensed for the loss of eastern territory to Russia by acquisition of parts of upper Silesia.

Nazi Labor May Be Used.

6. The use for a specific period, probably not more than 10 years, of German labor battalions to repair the devastation their army caused in Europe.

7. Establishment of a commission to supervise German banking and business, and especially to keep an eye on any use of German capital in developing a war industry in the land of any ally.

8. Restrictions on outside capital to prevent it from reestablishing war convertible industry.

9. Free use of the sky over Germany for all nations—except Germany and axis powers, which will be barred from building or flying planes or gliders.

10. Recovery and return of all loot from occupied countries and compensation for the Jews and other victims of oppression within Germany to be paid out of Nazi pocketbooks.

Other Problems Faced.

This is only a partial picture of the problems that will confront the allies. Some of the others are:

Punishment of war criminals and reëducation of the people who have had the Nazi philosophy drilled into them.

Settlement of border disputes and creation of the mechanism for lasting peace.

The job of rounding up war criminals may go on for years. The allied war crimes commission has been collecting data on atrocities. It seems certain that Hitler and Heinrich Himmler and their like will not escape to sheltered exile.

Reëducation will not be confined to Germany alone. The Dutch, Belgians, and Czechs say that will be one of their chief problems. For years their people have lived under the whip, hearing nothing but Nazi doctrine.

UNRRA Stall Plans.

UNRRA [United nations relief and rehabilitation administration] still has a long way to go in getting ready for the task of feeding, clothing and sheltering millions of Europeans. Most of its accomplishments thus far have been in the planning fields. In Poland, the first big liberated area, the organization still has no arrangement with Russia.

It has, too, the responsibility for the return of displaced persons—prisoners of war and labor battalions—and preventing epidemics resulting from famine, over work and bad care in occupied countries.

And in the wake of relief there is the problem of reconstruction of Europe. Without this, allied leaders say, discontent would remain to plague peace.

Over all these problems is that of creating international peace machinery. A start has been made in principle. There is a belief here that it will take a shape similar to the old league of nations, with an inner council made of four nations—the United States, Britain, Russia, and China—with perhaps the addition later of France and a representative of the smaller nations.

NEPHEW OF CHICAGO GENERAL KILLED IN BATTLE OF SAIPAN

Pfc. W. S. Eddy Jr.

Pvt. William Sprague Eddy Jr., 19, of the marine corps, who was killed by the Japs in action on Saipan, was a nephew of Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy of Chicago, 9th division commander who led fighting infantry men in the assault on Cherbourg. Young Eddy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sprague Eddy Sr., 840 Foxdale st., Winnetka. He attended New Trier High school and Shattuck Military academy, Faribault, Minn.

YES, YES, GO ON; DID THE BOMB GO OFF OR NOT?

OROTE PENINSULA, Guam, July 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—She bomb lay in the grass with mud on its twisted tail and mud on its nose. "That's Jap," said Pvt. Floyd Westfall, of Iowa City, Ia. "We'd better mark it. I don't think it's dangerous."

Staff Sgt. Carl Courts of Cedar Rapids, Ia., gave one look at the bomb and said: "There's no fuse. They must have been going to make a mine out of it but never goth around to it."

He moved the bomb, sat down on it and lit a cigaret. He left room for the others. But the two privates and the war correspondent sat on the ground.

DISMISS DE LORDO CHARGE.

A charge of disorderly conduct was dismissed yesterday against Anthony De Lordo, 37, of 6755 S. Wood st. DeLordo, who was arrested for a checkup, was acquitted by a jury in the Martin Quirk murder trial.

NEW BALKAN AIR FORCE SETS UP YUGOSLAV BASES

Briton Commands Tito Aerial Arm.

BALKAN AIR FORCE HDQ., July 15 [Delayed]—(AP).—A new Balkan air force—whose roster of pilots reads like that of the allied nations—has planted bases on Yugoslav soil for the express purpose of providing an air arm for Marshal Tito and other resistance forces.

Altho the bulk of the forces are British and American, there are Italian, Polish and Greek squadrons, and soon Yugoslav airmen will be flying back to their homeland.

Briton in Command.

Air Vice Marshal William Elliott, who once commanded the air forces at Gibraltar, has been put in command. His force boasts about 20 types of planes, from big Liberators to troop carriers and rocket firing planes.

Most of the pilots already have been fighting over the Balkans for months, and the Italians, under the Italian air force, have been patroling the Adriatic almost since the day of the armistice.

The principal bases remain in Italy, but landing strips have been provided in Partisan held territory of Yugoslavia, and there is a good airport on a strongly defended island off the Dalmatian coast.

Aid Tito for 18 Months.

The Balkan air force enjoys the same status as the 15th and 12th air forces under Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander in the Mediterranean, but it differs from them in that its operations are concerned primarily with the Balkans.

Behind its creation lie 18 months of steadily expanding air support for Tito and other resistance forces in the Balkans.

$560 CLOTHING STOLEN.

Lt. Eldon Cambell of Kellogg field, Battle Creek, Mich., reported to police that two suitcases containing clothing valued at $560 were stolen from his car Friday night near the loop.

YOU CAN DATE A WAC IF YOU WAIT TILL SEPTEMBER

That's How Popular They Are in Guinea.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA Aug. 6 [Sunday].—Dare you to ask Pvt. 1st Class Ozeta F. Cox, a cute little jitterbuggish WAC from 6547 Chicora av., Chicago, for a date? If she runs true to form she will look you over carefully, and if you meet her approval she will say, "Well, I have a few open nights in September."

You would have had to book that far ahead within a week after she arrived in New Guinea. That shows you how the WACs are received here.

The first shipment included about 200. Of these, two-thirds were officers, but that doesn't make any difference, since enlisted women soldiers can date men officers, and vice versa. It's really a very democratic army in that respect.

Six Are Chicagoans.

Six of the 200 are Chicagoans. The others, besides Pvt. 1st Class Cox, are Lt. Frances Bowen, 6506 S. Damen av.; Lt. Collette Fields, 1739 N. Kedzie av.; Lt. Jane Friedman, 915 Wilson av.; Lt. Adele Sherevis, 10552 S. State st., and Sgt. Hannah T. Lokez, 2835 S. Kenneth av.

When they first arrived at their tent colony, set amid scrub trees on a hillside, they admit they broke down and cried. Now that their barracks have been built and telephone lines have been made available from 5 until 10 p. m., instead of just one hour daily, things are looking up.

There is a 10 foot high fence around their camp, and some G. I.'s took the fence as a personal insult, altho the WACs were not surprised.

"We had similar fences everywhere we went back in the United States," Pvt. Cox explained. WACs have to be home by midnight every night and by 10 four nights in the week.

Can't Remove Shirts.

But don't think the WACs live only a social life. They are much more sincere about their jobs than most men soldiers. Lt. Fields, for example, is a real beauty, but she has had only a couple of dates.

"Been working evenings to catch up," she explains. She thinks she would like to stay in the army after the war.

The clothes situation has improved. Because of the mosquitoes they wore regular G. I. shirts and slacks, which are pretty heavy. The men strip off their shirts whenever possible.

The army frowned on a similar procedure for its women soldiers. Instead it agreed to send up a shipment of lightweight shirts.

JAPS OPEN NEW 2 PRONGED DRIVE IN SOUTH CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 5 (AP).—Stalled in their drives in Kwangtung and Hunan provinces for control of the Canton-Hankow railway, Japanese forces have launched a new drive in the extreme southwestern portion of Kwangtung, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

The attack was launched in two directions, northeast and northwest, against Chinese held positions in the Hoiheng [Luichow] peninsula, just across the strait from the Japanese held island of Hainan.

However, the loss was balanced by the Chinese recapture of Pingsiang, 90 miles north of Hengyang.

Sgt. Jack J. O'Connell Killed in Burma War

Sgt. Jack J. O'Connell, 30, of 7331 St. Lawrence av., previously reported missing in action, has been killed fighting with Gen. Stilwell's troops in Burma, his wife, Shirley, was informed by the war department yesterday. Sgt. O'Connell, who has been overseas nearly a year, was a member of the Illinois National Guard when called into service in 1940. Before entering service he was employed by the Wilson-Bennett Steel company, now the Inland Steel Container company of Chicago.

GEN. RICHARDSON GIVEN COMMAND OF SOUTH PACIFIC

U. S. ARMY HDQ., Hawaii, Aug. 5 (AP).—Creation of a new expanded army area of operations under Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. as "commanding general of the Pacific ocean area" was announced today.

This is the second expansion of Richardson's command since he became commanding general, Hawaiian department, in June, 1943. Last September his title was changed to commanding general of army forces in the Central Pacific.

Richardson's jurisdiction now reaches "westward to the Japanese mainland and beyond and south to include New Zealand." Richardson's headquarters said his new command "will permit greater coöperation between the services in projected drives to the west."

[Gen. MacArthur commands the Southwest Pacific area.]

Japs Claim Two B29s in Manchuria Raid Lost

New York, Aug. 5 (AP).—The Tokyo radio claimed tonight that two of the B-29 Superfortresses participating in a raid on Manchuria July 29 were brought down over North China by Japanese fighters. At the time the raid was announced the war department did not mention any losses.

NEW LANDING ON BIAK ISLE CUTS OFF JAP ESCAPE

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 6 Sunday]—(AP).—American forces stabbed deeper into trapped Japanese forces in British New Guinea, and a new landing on Biak Island, 400 miles westward, drew a tighter noose on other encircled Nipponese units, headquarters announced today.

The new landing on Biak was at Korim bay, on the island's northeast coast, Thursday morning. Troops with aerial and light naval support quickly occupied the enemy supply base.

Remnants of the Japanese garrison on Biak had attempted to use Korim bay as an escape route. It is northward across the island from Mokmer airdrome, which the Americans captured 11 days after they first landed on Biak May 27.

Kill 441 More Japs.

The retreat of Japan's second army from the Geelvink bay area, westward of Biak, continued under allied aerial and naval harassment.

American forces on the coast have pushed two miles eastward of the Driniumor river in British New Guinea in attacks which cost the Japanese another 441 men.

The coastal forces began the push Wednesday, while the inland flank of the Driniumor river line was repulsing four suicidal Japanese assaults in 11 hours of fighting.

Destroy Supply Lines.

Thru continual allied aerial and naval harassment the main Japanese staging and bivouac areas east of the river "present a picture of attrition and disaster in his rear," the bulletin said. It estimated that 20,000 of the trapped Japanese force have "been employed on this perilous line of communication, with heavy personnel losses."

The bulletin describing continual attacks by air and surface craft on Japanese assembly and supply areas, said the past week's "completely integrated teamwork" had resulted "in a systematic destruction of the enemy's lines of communication.

"The sinking of the constantly shrinking number of barges, the destruction by direct hits of truck columns, roads and bridges, the burning and firing of supply dumps have undoubtedly been contributing factors to his tactical failure to deliver a successful combined and coördinated attack."

JAPS CORNERED IN 56 SQ. MILE AREA OF GUAM

22,000 Civilians Give Up to Americans.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 5 (AP).—Quickening American advances on both flanks of northern Guam's fighting line Friday pressed the Japanese defenders back into a sector covering about a fourth of Guam's 225 square miles, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

While the drive to complete the island's conquest progressed into its third week, Nimitz reported 22,000 civilians had found refuge within American lines.

Only a small number of Chamorro natives can now remain in the northern area still held by the Japanese. The 1940 census of Guam's population listed 23,067 inhabitants.

Advance Three Miles.

A three mile American advance on the east coast by the 77th army division brought the right anchor of the line to Lumuna point, two miles north of Sassayan point.

A mile and a half push by marines on the west coast reached Amantes point, gaining full control of Tumon bay. The Japanese were cornered in a 56 square mile area at the island's northern tip.

John Henry, a war correspondent at the scene, said "it is evident that a decisive finish is imminent. Guam, for all practical purposes, is ours."

American cruisers, destroyers and gunboats, which have poured more than 4,400 tons of hot steel on Japanese defense positions since marines and soldiers first landed July 21, were operating on both sides of the island.

On conquered Saipan Island Japanese soldiers, routed from hideouts, are being killed or captured on an average of 50 daily. Additional Japanese civilians continue to surrender on nearby Tinian.

Military Rule Set Up.

GUAM, July 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—An American military government was established over Guam today. Capt. Charles H. Kraus, of Chappaqua, N. Y., civil affairs officer, posted three proclamations on a blackened wall in Agat town. These set up the military government and its laws.

Under the proclamations Adm. Nimitz becomes military governor. The government, however, will be directed by an island commander.

All laws promulgated by the Japanese invaders were rescinded, and civilian laws in effect before the Japanese invasion were restored.

Company Loses Half Its Men Taking Guam Hill from Japs

SUGAR BLUFF, Guam, July 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—The battle for this strategic hill was won by a company of American marines which refused to retreat under deadly Japanese fire that pinned it down for two days and killed or wounded half its men.

Every officer of the company was killed or wounded and 1st Sgt. Charles V. Bomar of Houston, Tex., took over until help arrived.

With buddies falling on all sides, marines charged the hill on D-day but were thrown back under murderous machine gun and mortar fire. That night they lay in fox holes, dug under fire, within speaking distance of the Japanese. They could hear the Nipponese laughing and jabbering.

Wait for Daybreak.

"We couldn't understand what they were saying," Bomar said later. "We simply lay there as still as we could, waiting for daybreak.

"Wounded lay all around us that night. We managed to get only two or three wounded out during the first day of fighting. After one of our hospital corpsmen was killed we gave up the idea until dark. During the night we got 20 or 30 back to an aid station.

"It seemed like morning would never come as I lay there thinking about my wife and our baby boy, born May 29.

"The next morning we charged the hilltop again, clinging to crab grass as we inched forward on our bellies. One lieutenant took a group of men around a knoll. Nine went with me around the other side.

Another Officer Killed.

"I had only two men when I reached the top, where we found two Japs in a foxhole. We killed one. The other pulled the pin of a grenade as we jumped into the hole. It killed my two men and blew me into a nearby shellhole. I can't figure how I escaped getting hurt."

Bomar later joined the lieutenant, whose men had been killed. As they moved forward a sniper's bullet dropped the officer. Bomar fired on the sniper and his spotter, then scrambled into a foxhole, where he was pinned down by mortars and machine guns for three and a half hours.

Last Officer Slain.

Another lieutenant joined the sergeant. Mortar smoke enveloped them as they fled to a larger foxhole down the hill. There they found four marines, one wounded.

Bomar said, "The Japs really opened up on us then. The lieutenant was about to say something when a bullet caught him in the head. He was the company's last officer."

The sergeant took over. The Japanese began rolling grenades toward their hole. It began to cave in. One grenade landed in the hole, killing a marine. Bomar and the other two marines fired sporadically to keep the Japanese from charging.

Late in the afternoon help arrived. The next morning the marines charged the hill. Sugar Bluff was ours.

WE'LL DRIVE FOE OUT OF BURMA, SAYS STILWELL

'Japs Made It, So Why Shouldn't We?'

KANDY, Ceylon, Aug. 5 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, holding his first press conference since his nomination for full general, reaffirmed today his determination to drive the Japanese from Burma, where he once admitted he took "a hell of a beating."

The capture of the enemy's base of Myitkyina will greatly speed aid to China, whose situation he described as "very serious."

No Japanese are known to remain in the rugged terrain between his forces there and Chinese units fighting west across the Salween river in Yunnan province, he said. It is 70 miles from Myitkyina to Tengchung, besieged Japanese base in Yunnan.

"Will Go to Rangoon."

He was in good humor as he opened the meeting with the familiar couplet: "Shoot if you must this old gray head, but spare your country's flag, she said."

Asked about possibilities the allies might eventually drive to the lower Burma port of Rangoon by an overland route separate from the one now being hammered across north Burma, he replied:

"Why not? The Japs made it the other way. Why shouldn't we go back?"

More Supplies for China.

Stilwell said it had not yet been decided whether to push a road to China across the rugged mountain country separating the two forces or to link up with the old Burma road 107 miles below Myitkyina at Bhamo. He said the Chinese position had not grown any worse in the past few weeks and that more tonnage was being flown to China constantly. Air transports now can fly at lower altitudes as a result of the capture of Myitkyina after a three month siege, he remarked.

Stilwell explained that the capture of Myitkyina took so long because the Japanese drew reënforcements from the northeast and northwest territories. The garrison originally numbered less than 1,000, but Stilwell's men finally killed more than 3,000 Japanese there.

Jokes About Nomination.

The news that he had been nominated for general reached Stilwell while he was penciling notes in his office adjoining that of Adm. Louis Mountbatten, the southeast Asia commander.

"Nominated?" he joked. "How will I go in the election?"

After months in the jungles the general had been coaxed back to headquarters by his duties as Mountbatten's deputy.

"Wonder if I'll have to dress up here," he said.

As a concession to headquarters life he put on an overseas cap instead of his familiar old campaign hat.

"Japs Are in Tailspin."

He said the Japanese had gone into "a tailspin" in Burma, but warned, "The Japs are just as tough as ever. They're hard to push around."

Headquarters disclosed that the final thrust that took Myitkyina Thursday was made by elements of the Chinese 14th, 30th, and 50th divisions and American combat engineers. One of the Chinese exploits included digging trenches more than a mile long thru the front to get inside the interlocking Japanese machine gun fire that covered the town's approaches.

In some cases the men lived and ate in neck deep water.

Brig. Gen. T. F. Wessels was disclosed as the commander of the assault force, succeeding Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill of the Marauders, who has been withdrawn to a more restful assignment.

MORALE BREAK OF MARAUDERS IN BURMA BARED

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. ARMY HDQ., NEW DELHI, India, July 21 [Delayed].—Reports long circulated in this theater that sick and wounded Americans of the famous Merrill's Marauders were not evacuated during the early campaign for Myitkyina except in cases of the most serious illness or injury, and that by mistake some convalescents were rushed to the front, were confirmed officially today.

Army officers said the morale and discipline of the Marauders, who are volunteers, already was low when they went into the battle for Myitkyina because the men had been led by unauthorized and ill advised promises to believe that after their first spectacular mission in Burma they would be relieved and sent home.

The stringent restrictions governing medical evacuations which became necessary during the Myitkyina campaign, plus a mistake which brought still convalescent infantrymen back to the front, resulted in a further breakdown in morale.

Secrecy Is Ended.

Determined not to cloak this incident in secrecy, such as surrounded the Gen. Patton soldier slapping, the authorities today allowed correspondents to read the report of the investigation conducted by the inspector general's department. For reasons of security this story was held up until the fall of Myitkyina Friday, it was explained.

[Associated Press dispatches from Gen. Stilwell's headquarters in India said the general wept when he read the official report of the Marauders' troubles, and recommended that the men be placed in favored positions for rotation transfers to the United States. Their leader, Gen. Frank Merrill, was transferred to another command.]

The Marauder force was formed in the United States last year from volunteer units from the Caribbean and South Pacific theaters.

They were told that their secret combat operation would terminate in three months, according to the authorities. There also were promises of wholesale promotion and that the combat operation would be a single, short job.

Find Conditions Different.

"These promises were absolutely unauthorized and ill advised," said an army official. "Due to the changing military situation, when the Marauders arrived here early this year they found that they had different jobs to do."

After training in India the Marauders went into action in the Burma jungles as a part of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's force. Adept at wide, flanking drives which carried them far to the enemy's rear, the Marauders earned a name for themselves in Stilwell's drive thru the Hukawng and Mogaung valleys of northern Burma. Early in May in another flanking drive they swung around the Japs and moved thru the jungle to surprise and capture Myitkyina air field on May 17.

After this the trouble started, the authorities said. The Marauders had been in the jungle almost three months and were malaria ridden, exhausted, and suffering from malnutrition. Their hopes of relief were gone and the men had come to believe that they were to be expended. Evacuations for real or imagined ailments rose until one day 134 men of the unit were flown out.

Every Man Needed.

"The tactical situation after the capture of the air field was highly critical," the authorities said. "We had to hold the air field in order to bring in men and supplies, and the enemy was only 1,500 yards away. Every man was needed."

It was explained that because of the high evacuation rate medical officers were enjoined to avoid further depletions of the unit except in cases where the future health of the men was endangered. Temporary facilities for those threatened were set up behind the lines, and all but the serious cases were handled there.

Meanwhile, according to the authorities, the high command had sent word to hospitals in the rear areas to comb their lists for all men who might be fully recovered but still not discharged from the hospitals and to send them up.

200 Flown to Battle.

Two hundred Marauders had been patients of one hospital, but because of overcrowded conditions had been moved to a staging camp for convalescence. Thru a mistake they had been listed as discharged to duty instead of ticketed as convalescents.

On May 30 these men were flown to Myitkyina, and only upon their arrival was their true condition discovered. Ten were sent back and half of the remainder were given light duty behind the front.

"The tightening up of evacuation practices plus an unfortunate error which brought the sick men to the front did much to break an already weakened morale," said the authorities.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

The body of Stewart Horne, 40, Negro, shot thru the back, was found yesterday in a garbage container at the rear of 5709 La Salle st., Englewood police reported.

ILLINOIS WEIGHS CENTRAL BUREAU TO AID VETERANS

Confusion Is Caused by Multiple Agencies.

Guide service to help war veterans find their way among the scores of public and voluntary agencies offering post-war assistance may be furnished by the state of Illinois. Such a project is being considered by the Illinois post-war planning commission.

"Every veteran has certain rights, but only a few know what they are," said State Sen. Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, chairman of the commission's committee on veterans' care.

Central Place Needed.

"There is as yet no central coordinating body, and the veteran needs near his home a central place where he can go for authentic and complete information. The development of an adequate, long range state program, covering all phases of veterans' work, will be presented to Gov. Green for action by him and the next session of the legislature."

Final recommendations have not been made, but commission members are giving serious thought to the creation of a state agency, financed by legislative appropriations, to take over the work of the governor's committee on veterans' rehabilitation and reëmployment, headed by James P. Ringley of Chicago, former state Legion commander. One possibility is that Ringley's group, which has been working without funds, might be made a permanent agency of the state government.

It has handled more than 2,000 requests for advice and assistance since it was created in 1943.

Clearing House Plan.

Such a commission might establish clearing houses thruout the state, each in charge of an expert in veterans' affairs, to whom the former soldiers and sailors could go for help. One field office would be needed in each of the larger counties, but in less populated areas the headquarters could cover multicounty districts.

Best estimates are that 750,000 Illinois men and women will be in uniform before the war ends, said Oscar Nelson, executive secretary of the planning commission. Approximately 85,000 already have been discharged. Demobilization of large numbers after victory will create added problems of readjustment.

Boy Eats Food He Found and Loses Consciousness

Police are trying to establish the identity of a 5 year old who was found lying unconscious in the rear of 1850 N. Wells street after other children had observed him eating particles of food he picked from a refuse container. He was removed to County hospital where physicians administered antidotes for poisoning.

MOVIE CAMERA STOLEN.

Theft of a $42.50 movie camera with tripod and case out of his car parked in front of his home was reported to police yesterday by Fred Jacobsen, 4817 Wolfram st., a die sinker.

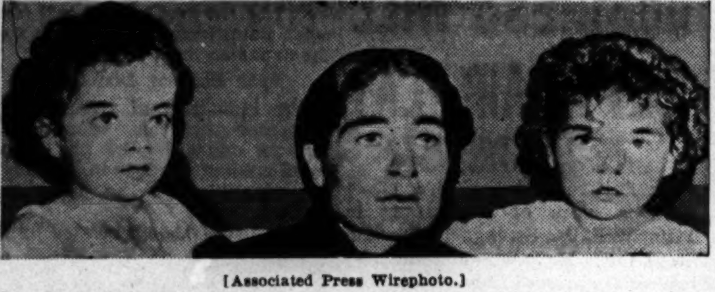
Greek Refugees Arrive in U. S.



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Athanasia Iconomu, 37 (center), and two of her three children, Evangella, 4 (left), and Stella, 6, on arrival at Hoboken, N. J., on way to live in Fort Ontario, Oswego, N. Y.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Two trains at Fort Ontario today began discharging 983 war refugees from 19 Nazi-occupied European countries. The group will remain in Fort Ontario until after the war.

Lt. Col. L. A. Shaw of the 2d service force turned the 983 individually over to Joseph H. Smart, director of the Fort Ontario refugee center. Each refugee, carrying hand luggage, was checked thru the entrance gate and went to one of the five double winged mess halls.

After breakfast the 983 were assigned housing in 30 reconverted barracks, a family at a time, by numbers. The 983 were selected from 36,000 homeless persons in allied camps in Italy and were the first such refugees brought to the United States. They arrived in New York yesterday on an army transport.

No Others Expected.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—The 983 men, women, and children who arrived at Fort Ontario, N. Y., today are the only war refugees, government officials anticipate, who will be brought to the United States. President Roosevelt announced June 9 that the group would be housed for the duration at Fort Ontario, no longer needed by the army. The President indicated that bringing the refugees here was intended primarily as a token of the United States' willingness to do its part in meeting the refugee problem.

SHERIFF TELLS WORK DONE BY COUNTY POLICE

Sheriff Mulcahy reported yesterday on the war time activities of the county highway police for the first six months of 1944. This force, serving 30 townships and patroling 768 miles—an area three times the size of Chicago—made 2,671 calls and 613 arrests in addition to protecting war plants and schools and trying to keep the lid on gambling and rackets in Cicero and Melrose Park, Mulcahy said.

Its members investigated 1,995 complaints, conducted 168 investigations for the federal bureau of investigation, and aided other authorities in 118 cases.

Squad car-ambulances transported 199 accident victims to hospitals and performed ambulance service in 79 other cases. In addition, the police supplied 814 war plant and school details, assisted at 71 fires, found 37 missing persons, attended 69 persons bitten by dogs, and shot 79 mad dogs.

REDS DOMINATE SLAV CONGRESS, BUSBEY WARNS

Communists dominate the American Slav congress, which is sponsoring a rally in Pilsen park this afternoon, Congressman Fred E. Busbey [R., Chicago] warned yesterday. The rally has been repudiated by a number of organizations which were being used as respectable fronts for communistic forces.

Sen. Pepper, [D., Fla.], a leading New Deal spokesman, is scheduled to be the main speaker at the All-Slav Mobilization day, for which the American Czech council is cosponsor.

"Nice Sounding Names."

"The American Slav congress is just one of the many hundreds of Communist front organizations operating in the United States under nice sounding names in order to deceive the people about their real intentions and purposes," said Busbey.

"It came into existence because of and after the All-Slav congress in Moscow Aug. 10 and 11, 1941, called by Premier Stalin less than 60 days after Hitler invaded Russia. This is the group that promoted the Communist organization in Yugo-Slavia known as the Partisans and headed by Tito."

Busbey on Dies Committee.

Busbey, who represents the 3d district on Chicago's south side, is recognized as an authority on subversive activities as the result of his membership on the Dies committee to investigate un-American activities. Busbey formerly was Americanization officer for the American Legion.

The Slav congress is dominated by Louis Adamic, whom Busbey recently described in a speech in congress as being "far more dangerous to our American way of life than Earl Browder." Adamic is active in Communist front movements.

Members of the Communist affiliated CIO are scheduled to participate in the Pilsen park rally. A number of Slavic organizations, including such powerful groups as the American-Yugoslav legion, have refused to participate in any meetings sponsored by the American Slav congress, the midwest division of which is headed by Prof. Jaroslav J. Zmrhal.

PAY DEADLOCK PERILS WATER FOR HAMMOND

A deadlock between Mayor G. Bertram Smith and 53 employes of the Hammond, Ind., water works and sanitary district over their request for a $20 pay raise to be included in the 1945 budget, yesterday threatened to impede service. Midnight tomorrow has been set by the men as the zero hour for an answer. Mayor Smith has announced that he will not recommend the raise. He said the plants will continue to operate in any event, altho service might be impaired.

NEW YORK G. O. P. TO SCAN SENATE BID FOR WILLKIE

Buffalo Backers Urge He Be 'Drafted.'

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP).—A proposal by Buffalo supporters of Wendell Willkie to nominate the 1940 Republican Presidential candidate for United States senator will be brought before the Republican state executive committee Monday in Albany, Edwin F. Jaeckle, state G. O. P. chairman, said today.

The suggestion was embodied in a letter received by Jaeckle from the group which organized the Buffalo Willkie club four years ago. It urged that Willkie "be drafted in the best interests of the Republican party, the national ticket, the state, and the nation."

"I shall be very glad to present the letter to the members of the committee," Jaeckle said.

Willkie Given Slim Chance.

New York, Aug. 5 [Special].—Observers in close touch with the New York political situation tonight said Wendell Willkie's chances of obtaining the nomination for senator are slight. They said the managers of Gov. Dewey, who control the state organization, have never seriously considered Willkie for the post.

Willkie himself, reached in his home, would make no comment when asked about a dispatch from Buffalo saying his name would be presented to the meeting of the Republican state executive committee, which meets in Albany next week to choose a senatorial candidate. The committee, in addition to the senatorial nomination, will choose Presidential electors and a candidate for the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, on which a vacancy now exists.

It's News to Dewey.

Gov. Dewey, returning to his home at Pawling from the conference of Republican governors at St. Louis, today discussed the senatorial situation at a press conference. Told about the Buffalo development concerning Willkie, the Presidential nominee said:

"I don't believe Mr. Willkie is a candidate for it, is he? I hadn't heard of it."

The Republican senatorial candidate will have as his opponent the Democratic senator, Robert F. Wagner. Speculation over the Republican nomination has rested mainly on Irving Ives, majority leader of the New York state assembly; State Sen. Frederic Coudert Jr. of Manhattan; W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of Suffolk county, and Thomas J. Curran, secretary of state and Republican leader of New York county.

Slasher Hunted by Police After Woman Is Wounded

Police were searching last night for a Negro who seized Miss Nadena Merry, 36, of 6522 Kenwood av., dragged her into some bushes, and slashed her with a knife near her home early yesterday. She had alighted from a street car at 67th st. and Kenwood av., on her way home from work in a war plant, and was walking north when the man grabbed her. He fled after she screamed.

Lost in Air Collision

CAPT. ROBERT MISKELL.

Capt. Robert Burke Miskell, 22, a nephew of Miss Florence Burke, 5805 Dorchester av., and Miss Mildred Burke, Chicago Tribune librarian, has been reported missing after a collision of three transport planes during night maneuvers July 21 off the North Carolina coast. Fourteen others were listed as missing.

There'll Be a Drawback to Victory in Portland

DEWEY PLEDGES BUSINESS WILL GET A FAIR PLAY

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pawling, N. Y., Aug. 5 [Special].—After a week of conferences in Pittsburgh, Pa., Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo., where industrial leaders impressed him with the urgency of their reconversion problems, Presidential Candidate Dewey arrived here this afternoon for a week-end rest on his farm.

In a press conference aboard his train en route here this afternoon, Gov. Dewey summarized his discussions. Business men told the Republican nominee that any collapse of Germany would find America unprepared for the economic repercussion.

The governor said business men are most anxious that the federal government adopt a reconversion policy so industry can be ready for the cancelation of war contracts. Without an established government policy, they said, industry cannot set up its plants and its finances to reassign its arms workers to production of peace goods. A fair and impartial treatment of all sections of the country in industry's post-war reconversion was pledged by the 26 Republican governors who met in St. Louis.

Confidence Required.

"The readjustment," said Dewey, "requires more confidence in the administration at Washington than has been shown by business to date. It requires a competence never yet shown by the present national administration in anything.

"I think every one recognizes there will be a very substantial reduction in production when the war in Europe is over. There may be an increase in some items but the overall picture will decline very substantially."

Western governors, particularly Warren of Califiornia, advised the candidate of the peculiar problem facing their region if war in the Pacific continues after the war against Germany has ended. At Washington, D. C., the prevailing thought has been that, to conserve transportation, arms production would be cut first on the east coast when munitions are needed to fight the Japanese only.

Fear Eastern Advantage.

The industries of the west are concerned that their eastern competitors might be the first to resume civilian production, gaining a big advantage in the peace time market.

This anxiety is aggravated by the fact that the western states are not represented in the national capital by a single man in the cabinet or in any other policy making job.

Gov. Snell of Oregon and Gov. Langlie of Washington also discussed this west coast problem with Dewey. The candidate indicated a sympathetic understanding.

En route here from St. Louis last night, Dewey shook hands from the rear platform when the train stopped for service at Mattoon, Ill., Terre Haute, Ind., and Indianapolis. There were no pre-arranged demonstrations.

COLLAPSES ON STREET.

An unidentified man who police say may be George Beaton, address unknown, was taken to County hospital yesterday after he collapsed from a cerebral hemorrhage at Desplaines and Harrison sts. He is about 70 years old.

OPA LAYS WASTE OF GASOLINE TO OFFICE WORKERS

At least 83,000 gallons of gasoline is consumed unnecessarily every day in Chicago by office workers who ride alone but who have B and C rations, Marion W. Isbell, acting Chicago area OPA director, said yesterday. In announcing the results of a spot examination made by an OPA gasoline specialist, Isbell said he has sent letters to all local ration boards, calling attention to the fact that car sharing is mandatory for B and C card holders who drive their automobiles to their jobs.

Under a new rationing order, boards now may issue only 30 days' supplemental gasoline to any one who is not a member of a car sharing pool, or who fails to show an adequate reason why he cannot make a regular sharing arrangement. Isbell said the burden of proving inability to form a ride sharing pool rests with the applicant.

The investigation showed that the average automobile driven by a "white collar" worker is carrying fewer than two persons. If each driver carried his quota of three riders, 124,795 automobiles could be left home each day, and, Isbell estimated, 83,000 gallons of gasoline would be saved.

MIDWEST TO GIVE US 2/3 OF VOTES WE NEED: G.O.P.

Leaders Talk at Opening of Western Offices.

BY GUY GENTRY.

Amid enthusiastic reports from party leaders of the midwest, where resurgence of Republican strength first began six years ago, the western headquarters for the Republican campaign were opened yesterday at 105 W. Adams st., with predictions that nearly two-thirds of the electoral votes needed for a Republican victory next November would come from the middle west.

Short speeches from party leaders in Illinois and other states showed a confidence of victory next fall that has not been evident since 1932. National Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr. sounded the keynote when he asserted that the party "has demonstrated the necessary unity and spirit that will enable it to take over the administration of our country in January, 1945."

"Destined to Lead America."

Speaking after a series of conferences in midwestern states, Brownell said the middle west "has accepted with enthusiasm the plain truth that Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker are destined to lead America in a solution of the problems of winning the peace."

Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska who was named by Brownell as western headquarters director, announced that George B. McKibbin, Illinois finance director, will have charge of the headquarters until McKelvie arranges his personal affairs and returns to take charge about Sept. 1.

Sen. Wayland Brooks told the dedication crowd that "the thing that brought on more murder and destruction in this world than anything else was one man rule" and added: "The world is waiting for a Republican form of government with a democratic society. That's what we're going to give them."

Time Ripe, Says Hamilton.

John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman in 1936 who was an unscheduled visitor at the opening program, told the Republicans that "the time is ripe to take Roosevelt to a cleaning."

Earlier in the day Brownell met with more than 150 Illinois state committeemen, downstate county chairmen, and ward and precinct committeemen of Cook county, and assured them of the wholehearted backing of the national committee in the fall campaign.

"I told them I favored an organization built from the ground up rather than from the top down," Brownell said after the conference.

Lets State Rule on Clubs.

"We expect a large number of Democrats and Independents to work with us," Brownell explained, but he emphasized the national committee would carry out its campaign plans thru the regular Illinois organization. He said such decisions as the formation of Dewey-Bricker clubs, which are opposed by State Chairman John Tyrrell, would be left to state and local organizations.

At a luncheon tendered the Illinois party officials by National Committeeman Werner Schroeder and Leonard Reid, Chicago committeeman and cousin of Gov. Dewey, Gov. Green announced a campaign pamphlet would be released this week giving "the truth on soldier voting."

The pamphlet, Green said, will disprove Democratic claims that the Republican party in Illinois does not want service men and women to vote.

New Deal Ballot Under Fire.

"We want them to vote," the governor said, "but we want them to have the same privilege of voting that we here at home enjoy. The New Deal limitation ballot destroys the secrecy of the ballot, a fundamental principle under the Australian ballot system."

Brownell said he plans to confer today with James S. Kemper, chairman of the Republican finance committee, and will leave tonight for Indianapolis to confer with Indiana Republican leaders tomorrow.

War Worker Slain

IDA ELIZABETH SIENNA.

Old Lyme, Conn., Aug. 5 (AP).—The rape-slaying of Ida Elizabeth Sienna, 23, Portland, Conn., war worker, has been confessed by a sailor, Frank Higgins, 18, of Boston, Mass., Police Commissioner Edward Hickey, said today.

Hickey said Higgins is being held in the New London county jail on a warrant charging murder. He was arrested after police found a package of matches bearing a submarine base inscription and linked it with reports the girl had been seen with a submarine base sailor.

Hickey said the girl had not been dead long before her nude body was found yesterday behind a billboard along the New Haven railroad. Police said it appeared she had been strangled.

TRAFFIC POLICE SCHOOL TO GIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

Fellowship and scholarship winners for the 1944 fall four month course in traffic police administration at Northwestern University Traffic institute, which starts Sept. 6, will be named Wednesday when the two selection boards meet in Evanston.

Police officers from all parts of the United States and Canada are candidates for the fellowships and scholarships, which are made possible by grants from the Kemper Foundation for Traffic Police Training, Chicago, and the Automotive Safety Foundation, Washington, D. C. State and provincial police, as well as city police, compete for awards.

WOMEN STORM AT DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 5 (AP).—Connecticut Democrats today chose a state ticket headed by Brien McMahon as nominee for senator, and Former Gov. Robert A. Hurley for governor in a turbulent windup of their convention which brought angry protests from women because their sex was not represented on the slate.

The Republicans will hold their convention next week.

The 41 year old McMahon, a former assistant to the United States attorney general, and Hurley, who won the governorship in 1940 and lost it two years later, gained top places on the ticket against the opposition of Sen. Maloney and Former State Chairman J. Francis Smith as a climax to one of the bitterest factional fights within the party in many years.

Boo Own Senator.

Feeling ran so high that some of the delegates booed Maloney when he ascended the platform to place before the convention the name of Leo V. Gaffney, New Britain lawyer, for the gubernatorial nomination.

McMahon, political protege of Homer S. Cummings, former attorney general in President Roosevelt's cabinet, was nominated by acclamation when opposition to him suddenly collapsed with the withdrawal from the race of Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, the Maloney-Smith candidate, and Prof. Odell Shepard of Trinity college, a former lieutenant governor.

Woman Leads Protest.

Protest over the "all male" ticket originated with 74 year old State Rep. Dorothy Bartlett of Putnam who angrily ascended the platform and without the formality of seeking recognition from the chair and demanded:

"What's the idea? What's the rush?"

Asserting that it was "bad enough" that no woman had been placed on the ticket, Mrs. Bartlett protested that the chair had not given the delegates enough time to place names in nomination.

"You are going to need us as doorbell ringers this fall," she declared.

Mrs. Woodhouse, who four years ago was nominated for secretary of the state, joined in the demonstration when delegates surged to the platform shouting "We want Woodhouse, we want Woodhouse."

Struck by Wooden Block, Kane County Worker Dies

German U-boat commander (without hat) talks with United States naval officer, after former's submarine was sunk in Atlantic. He said he had once lived in California.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—Blasting a Nazi submarine with depth charges, a Coast Guard-manned destroyer escort sank the raider in the Atlantic "recently," the navy reported today.

"As the submersible was about to make its final plunge," the navy said, "its crew took to the sea and were picked up by the Coast Guard ship as prisoners of war."

Among the prisoners, the navy said, was the 26 year old skipper of the raider.

New York, Aug. 5 [Special].—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the newly organized national citizen's political action committee, said today the organization has set a goal of 1½ million dollars to be raised for backing the reëlection of President Roosevelt and the election of a "progressive" congress in the current political campaign.

TRANSIT STRIKE IN PHILADELPHIA IS CALLED OFF

Troops in City; Union Leaders Seized.

journed to Aug. 22, will convene in a special session.

Biddle said the probe will seek to determine whether a criminal conspiracy existed to cause the strike and whether there has been any violation of the anti-strike law.

Other Leaders Seized.

Biddle disclosed that he had requested Gerald A. Gleeson, United States attorney in Philadelphia, to arrange for the calling of the grand jury.

Besides McMenamin, the three other men arrested on charges of violating the Smith-Connally anti-strike act were William C. Dixey, identified as a ring leader in the strike; Frank P. Carney, president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Employes' union [unaffiliated], which formerly represented the employes, and Frank Thompson, who at times had been a spokesman for the strikers. None of the four was a member of the CIO Transport Workers' union, the leaders of which denounced the strike, altho the vast majority of strikers were members of the CIO union, which is bargaining agent for the employes.

McMenamin a Transit Veteran.

The warrants charge instigation and encouragement of the strike while the system was in the possession of the United States by virtue of an executive order. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine, one year's imprisonment, or both.

McMenamin, 43, has been an employe of the PTC for 21 years. He operated a Broad st. subway train until the company's operators walked out Tuesday in protest against the upgrading of eight Negro porters to jobs as street car motormen.

Tonight's appeal by McMenamin to the employes to return to their jobs was in contrast to the statement he issued yesterday.

Objected to Negroes.

At that time he said: "Until we get a written guarantee that there will be no further hiring of colored operators and no further instruction of the colored operators now in training, we will stay out."

In ordering the workers back to their jobs, Gen. Hayes made no reference to the racial issue. He guaranteed that any worker who returned would be given the full protection of the army.

A bus line serving the Philadelphia naval hospital resumed operations shortly before McMenamin's announcement. It was the first to run since Tuesday morning. No trolleys ran today. Ten trains, compared with a normal 42, ran on one subway line. The other line did not operate.

War Production Curtailed.

Army and navy officers estimated a loss of 500,000 man hours in war production as absenteeism remained high and many who did get to work were late.

The Red Cross blood donor center reported donations fell 2,100 pints short of the quota this week, largely because of the transportation tie-up. The quota was 3,500 pints, but only 1,400 were contributed.

Slurs against the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen as being responsible for the strike were assailed by A. F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood. He asserted the brotherhood has no argreement with the Philadelphia company, as the brotherhood withdrew when a representation vote was being taken several months ago and washed its hands of the entire matter.

Orders Issued by WMC.

The war man power commission last month issued a directive, supporting an earlier one by the President's fair employment practices committee, to end racial discrimination. The WMC's directive provided for the upgrading of Negro employes to operating jobs.

The strike, which the CIO union leaders have said was against the upgrading of Negroes, caught the union by surprise. It had won the bargaining right only last March and had not yet elected officers locally or completed negotiations for a new contract. International officers brand the strike as a move by "disgruntled elements" to regain control.

Soldiers Roll Into Philadelphia

[Acme Telephoto.]

Army machine gun combat automobile, with .50 caliber machine gun, arriving in Philadelphia, scene of transportation strike that has curtailed war production and caused race violence.

SHOOTS WIFE, 52, THEN FIRES ON NEARBY COUPLE

Mrs. Jean McGuinness.

Mrs. Jean McGuinness, 52, was shot and wounded critically last evening by her husband, James, 48, after a quarrel in their apartment, 3791 Archer av., because dinner was served late. After wounding his wife in the right breast and abdomen, McGuinness crossed a rear porch connecting with the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dauksan, 3793 Archer rd., and fired a shot at the couple who, with their son, Kenneth, 5, fled to a front parlor. Downstairs, McGuinness saw the landlord, Ben Tein, standing in his kitchen and fired a shot at him thru the screen door.

Mrs. McGuinness staggered into the apartment of Mrs. Mary Lockman in the same building and her husband fled to a tavern down the street, where he dropped the .32 caliber pistol he had used. He was arrested on his return by Patrolman John Reinert of Brighton Park police.

TOMMY DORSEY 'SWINGS' IT—IT'S O, JONNY, O-O-O!

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 5 [Special].—One of the nation's top orchestra leaders, a movie actor, and a one time champion auto racer today were added to the long list of participants in Hollywood's periodical "one punch" fistic battles, and "Prince Mike" Romanoff, restaurateur, was listed as having played a return engagement.

Top half of the unscheduled double feature was a swingfest between Band Leader Tommy Dorsey and Actor Jon Hall on the balcony of Dorsey's apartment in swank Sunset Plaza at 4:30 this morning.

No Bloodless Bout, This!

The fracas was something more than Hollywood's usual bloodless bouts, Hall receiving face and scalp wounds which required hospital attention and which brought from the actor charges that he had been slashed by "two guys who jumped on my back with either knives or broken bottles." Dorsey's wounds were confined to a bruised nose and skinned knuckles.

Hall said he met Dorsey and the latter's wife, Pat Dane, at a night club and that Tommy invited him home. Later "there was a little misunderstanding," said Hall, apparently over Dorsey's wife, whose real name is Thelma Burns and who hails from Alabama.

Dorsey was not available for comment today and his servant said he did not wish to be disturbed.

A Case of Right-of-Way?

The second half of the bill featured Romanoff, who entered Hollywood's select circle of "one punch" veterans in an encounter with Movie Actor Ivan Lebedeff in 1937, and Barney Oldfield, the former racing champion.

Romanoff, a one time Detroit pants presser whose real name is Harry Gerguson, charged that he was just leaving his Beverly Hills home "when this man, whom I had never seen before, came rushing up to me, called me a phony and other things. Then he scratched my face. That's all there was."

Oldfield said Romanoff "tried to crowd me off the highway," an alleged act repugnant to an old race driver. One thing led to another and Prince Mike found himself stargazing at high noon.

After several blows were landed, Oldfield related, "I let him up and we went our ways."

CHICAGO MARINE LOSES LIFE IN PACIFIC BATTLE

Pvt. Andrew W. Johnson Jr., 20, of the marine corps, who was wounded at Tarawa, has been killed in another engagement in the Pacific, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson of 3531 Carroll av., have been notified. The war department telegram did not give the place or time of his death. Pvt. Johnson, a graduate of Crane Technical High school, entered the marine corps in March, 1943. Surviving also are a brother and a sister.

WAITER DISAPPEARS WITH $40.

Arthur Heaver, a restaurateur at 2167 North av., asked police yesterday to search for a man about 30 who disappeared with $40 after he had been hired as a waiter.

OUR HALF ALLY.

With the collapse of Germany expectable in the near future, the anomalous position of Russia toward our two wars must either be cleared up or become ever more anomalous.

America and Russia are at war against Germany and Stalin confers with Roosevelt as an ally in that war. But Russia is at peace with Japan and Stalin is so jealous of his neutrality that he refuses to meet our ally, Chiang Kai-shek, who while he declared war on Germany in 1941, is fighting only against Japan. That strange situation has persisted for two years and a half, since Dec. 7, 1941.

Japan calculated risks carefully before it attacked Pearl Harbor. Its war lords apparently felt certain that the attack would cause Germany and Italy immediately to declare war against us, as they did. They were bound to do so by the axis pact. Whether Hirohito apprised Hitler of his plans is more doubtful. Hitler wanted to get Japan into the war, but he wanted the Japanese to spring on the backs of the Russians. The Japs thought they saw a softer touch elsewhere.

If the Japanese did not also have assurances from Stalin that he would stay neutral in their Pacific adventure against his allies, the British and Dutch, and his future allies, the Americans, the Japs at least proceeded with complete assurance that his neutrality would be dictated by necessity. On Dec. 1, 1941, when the Jap carriers were already at sea bound for Pearl Harbor, the slowing of the Nazi steamroller in Russia was not apparent. The two German horns intended to envelop Moscow had been pushed out, one of them far to the east of the Russian capital, and while they were meeting stubborn resistance, that resistance then appeared no more stubborn than the Russians had offered earlier at Smolensk, where eventually they had been engulfed.

Stalin's conduct toward the Japanese since has been scrupulously correct. To put the best face on the matter from his side, it may be argued that he has felt unable to fight, as we are, on two fronts, but both his conduct and that of the Japanese have operated to the serious detriment of their supposed allies.

On the one hand we have the spectacle of American munitions being carried by Russian ships thru Japanese dominated waters to be used in war against Germany, the ally of Japan. On the other hand we have the continuance by our half ally, Russia, of diplomatic intercourse and, according to rumor, trade with our enemy, Japan. Russia has regularly renewed the treaty by which the Japanese get fishing rights in the territory from which they launched their attack on Alaska. The Japanese maintain weather stations there which are of inestimable value to them in the air war conducted in the Aleutian area. There have been reports, unconfirmed, that Russia has obtained rubber and other tropical booty from the Japanese and has furnished, in return, materials that the Japanese find essential in their war against us.

This is an unnatural situation, and with the collapse of Germany the last vestige of an excuse for its continuance will have vanished. In the joint allied representations to Turkey, Portugal, and Sweden among the European neutrals the stand has been taken that those who are not with us against Hitler must be against us. Russia, when the pressure of the German war ceases, can no longer evade the query whether she is with us or against us in the war against Japan.

THE EIGHTH PLAGUE OF EGYPT.

Illinois doesn't produce many peaches—only a million and a third bushels even in a good year—as against 30 million in California, 5 million in Georgia, 3½ million in Michigan, and over 2 million in six other states. The Illinois peach, grown chiefly in the northern part of Egypt, isn't much in quantity, but in quality it is outstanding. It is the peach de resistance.

Last year the crop was a failure. Spring frosts killed more than two-thirds of the blossoms. Only 400 thousand bushels were picked, and that was little more than enough to take care of the household canners in Egypt. The truckers from St. Louis managed to get a few loads, but virtually none reached the Chicago market.

In 1942, altho the peach yield over the country was very big, Illinois had less than half a crop. And for a Chicagoan that year to get some fruit really representative of the state's best, he had to have a friend looking out for him in Mount Vernon or West Frankfort.

This year nature had a heart. The government, upon the basis of July 1 findings, reported that there would be 1 million 386 thousand bushels of Illinois peaches. The nostalgic immigrant from south of Springfield could read the statistics and smack his lips.

Then along came Chester Bowles. The OPA boss who was born in the east and spent all his life there, knew of the fruit Ty Cobb made famous, and the kind that comes in cans. But he probably never saw an Illinois peach, and he positively never tasted one.

Bowles has set the wholesale ceiling price at $3.66 on Illinois peaches, after letting the much more plentiful Georgia product be sold here for half again as much. If there is a price differential between them it ought to be the other way around. The Illinois orchardists are up in arms. They insist that they are being discriminated against, and point out that they got $2.75 a bushel here when fruit pickers could be had for one-third to one-fourth present wage rates.

Please, Mr. Bowles, don't make the war harder than is necessary. The elements that have kept us from having a sweet, juicy Illinois peach for three years have relented. Don't spoil it by making it impossible for the growers to get the fruit off the trees.

THE ALASKAN HIGHWAY SURPLUS.

Lt. Gen. Somervell, chief of the army's service forces, has ordered an investigation into charges that army equipment and supplies have been burned and wantonly destroyed along the Alaskan highway. The road was built partly by the army and partly by private contractors employed by the government. Some of the contractors have reported that they could not sell or otherwise salvage their surplus materials because of Canadian tariffs and the cost of transportation back to the United States. Others have denied that anything of value was burned.

The destruction of property was first reported by B. A. McKelvie, a Victoria, B. C., newspaper man. He told of visiting dumps where usable furnaces, stoves, and other articles were being destroyed. He also reported hearsay evidence about the burning of rubber tires, clothing, medical supplies, office furniture, and other materials. Investigation of these reports is not a job for the army, which, along with the contractors, the Canadian government, and the New Dealers who bossed the job, will be responsible if the waste actually took place. Nor should Americans be content to allow these parties, who may have some covering up to do, to correct the situation by themselves and without supervision. It is an investigation that should be undertaken by congress.

The destruction of Alaskan highway surplus, purchased with American tax dollars, is another proof that newspapers are the real guardians of the people's property and rights. It was only after American newspapers had printed the Canadian news man's story that the Canadians arranged for sale or distribution for re-use of the remaining highway surplus and Gen. Somervell decided to launch an investigation. If public indignation had not been aroused by the newspaper stories, the scandal might have continued indefinitely.

CHICAGO IN THE 5TH WAR LOAN DRIVE.

The 5th war loan drive in this community was a tremendous success. More than a billion dollars has been subscribed here for the war fund. Six cents out of every dollar raised in the United States during the drive is Chicago money.

Cook county was given a bond quota which was beyond anything that had been attempted before. And we went over the top by nearly 300 million dollars. This county alone bought enough bonds to meet the quota for the whole state.

As usual, corporations supplied the bulk of the total. They went over their top by 44 per cent. But success was to be measured not alone by the total amount provided, but by the amount sold to individuals. For a time it seemed that the quota in this particular would not be reached. But in the last days of the drive this goal, too, was surpassed. Sales to individuals amounted to 100.35 per cent of the objective.

The financing of the war is one of the means employed to head off inflation. Money invested in bonds is diverted from spending and thus cuts down the demand for goods. Accordingly, the main objective in the 5th war loan, as in every preceding one, was to sell a stated amount of "E" bonds, which are mostly purchased by wage earners. As a large part of the current spending power is disbursed as wages in the big cities, they have been given huge "E" quotas.

But it is commonly reported that none of the big cities in the past campaigns has ever reached the "E" bond objectives set for them by the treasury. Thus total sales of these bonds in New York City in the campaign just ended have been reported as 205 million dollars, or only 90 per cent of the goal.

There is now one outstanding exception among the big cities. In contrast with the record of New York City, where people talk about their monopoly of patriotism, but fall down in buying the war bonds they are called upon to purchase, we can point to Chicago, where "E" bond sales in the 5th war loan drive have amounted to 110.22 per cent of the quota. Make the comparison on any basis you wish, and you'll find Chicago ahead and New York behind. The average New Yorker bought about $30 worth of bonds in the drive, the average Chicagoan about $35 worth.

New York City is not the only bond buying slacker, using "E" bonds as the test. The whole state of New York was able to reach only 91.3 per cent of its quota. A caption in a Philadelphia paper for Aug. 1 said "'E' Bond Sales Lag as Drive Ends Here." It was derelict in its bond buying by about 10 per cent. Both Baltimore and the state of Maryland failed to buy the "E" bonds they were called upon to purchase.

Meanwhile, this community did more in the 5th war bond drive in every particular than was asked of it. The working people more than met the mark in "E" bonds that was set for them. The total for all individuals surpassed an objective that almost up to the last seemed unattainable. And corporation subscriptions were far ahead of the quota. It was a grand slam!

This great achievement here didn't result from people walking into banks to ask that their bond subscriptions be taken. It was done by the hardest kind of hard work. The biggest single factor was Philip R. Clarke, who took time from his duties as president of the City National bank to organize and direct the greatest fund raising movement ever conducted anywhere. Mr. Clarke has enabled the people of this outstandingly war conscious city to set a mark which apathetic people elsewhere will find it difficult to equal.

STRATEGY IN FRANCE

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune*, on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]*

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

The effort to advance on Paris by way of the Seine valley having been stopped, our troops have broken thru to the south with the apparent intention of going up the valley of the Loire. This maneuver will have the advantage over the original plan, making a much longer front, and therefore a less defensible one than an attack straight up the Seine.

Whether Le Havre itself was considered too strong to attack or whether an attack was made there that did not succeed, we do not know. At all events, it remains in German hands. If Le Havre was too strong for naval attack, the great naval base of Cherbourg, strongly fortified by the French, and greatly reënforced by the Germans, was not, which calls attention to the fact that the war on sea, even more than the war on land, has been a succession of technical surprises.

There was an old naval saying that "a gun on shore is worth two at sea"—the inference being that ships could not engage shore batteries. In this war they have done so continuously and successfully. Gun for gun, presumably, the shore based cannon is more potent than the one on shipboard, but modern fleets have brought such quantities of guns to bear as to overwhelm such weapons as could be assembled at any one point on land.

Before the outbreak of the war in Europe, the ranking officers of our navy considered themselves air minded because they believed in the extensive use of airplanes for reconnaissance purposes and of other planes to regulate the fall of shot.

The British navy did not have reconnaissance planes, and confined the regulation of gunfire to observers on shipboard.

The suggestion that airplanes could sink battleships was repelled with scorn. These theories were not abandoned when the German air force drove the British surface and submarine navy from the Norwegian coast, or when it took Crete in the face of intensive navy opposition, but they were finally sunk with our fleet at Pearl Harbor and the British ships Prince of Wales and Repulse off the Malayan coast two days later.

Since then, surface ships have come into contact only at night and by surprise.

It must be said that all naval aviators failed to comprehend fully the power of their bombs and torpedoes, because all the aircraft carriers of all navies were left unnecessarily vulnerable to such missiles and were easily sunk when enemy airplanes or submarines could get to them.

Torpedoes are the sinking missiles. They have been used effectively by cruisers, destroyers, submarines, P-T boats and airplanes. Only airplanes can use bombs. While these are less deadly than torpedoes, they destroy flight decks, fire control, and anti-aircraft guns—leaving their victims helpless.

After the battles of Norway and Crete, much stress was laid upon the superiority of land based aircraft over sea borne aircraft because of greater possible speed and weight carrying capacity of land based aircraft. This was especially borne out at Midway and Guadalcanal, where we had air fields that more than offset the Japanese superiority in carriers—their carriers supported by battleships, and our carriers supported only by cruisers and destroyers.

We have seen of late, however, that a sufficient superiority of carrier borne aircraft can overcome the advantage of airplanes flying from landing fields. A sufficient superiority in the air protects the vulnerable carriers and so damages the landing fields and keeps the landing fields so damaged that the land based planes cannot exist. This situation has pertained in parts of the Pacific since Guadalcanal.

The question of how big a ship should be has agitated naval construction from time immemorial. At certain periods in naval history, it has been possible to build ships so large that smaller ships could not injure them. That was the theory of the battleship admirals, but it is no longer tenable now that battleships can be crippled by airplanes, submarines, or even by little P-T boats—for in one of the battles of Guadalcanal, three American P-T boats were sent against a whole Japanese fleet, and upon another occasion their mere presence drove away a squadron that was bombarding Henderson air field.

The smaller the ship, the less target it presents, the less loss when it is destroyed.

As with battleships, so with carriers. It appears to be a lot of smaller carriers that has secured air dominance in the Pacific. Risks can be taken because a few of them could be spared, while a few of a lesser number of large carriers could not be lost without losing a campaign.

On the other hand, still supreme at sea, on land the airplane has lost some of the reputation it acquired from German dive bombers and the allied bombers at El Alamein. The great air bombardment at Cassino was a complete failure. The bombings of Germany at most are of second importance. Our results have been obtained by the artillery, the infantry, and the tanks the hard way. Even the efforts to disrupt the German communications before D-day seem to have been abortive. They may be of a greater value in the pursuit.

When our progress up the Loire river outflanks the German army in France, it will have to pull back to the West wall, and whenever the immense maneuver begins, road bombing and bridge bombing may so slow it up as to enable the pursuit to catch up with the retreating troops and destroy them piecemeal.

SNEAK APPROACH TO LABOR DRAFT.

[New York News.]

The Hershey wing of the Hershey-McNutt team of public befuddlers has issued the latest in the long and bewildering series of draft regulations. These were printed in yesterday's papers. What the McNutt wing is now cooking up, we don't know.

At the moment, the Hershey ukase is the last word on what your draft status is if you're an American male between 18 and 44 inclusive. As we read these long and elaborate orders, they are a sidewise approach to the national labor draft which congress up to now has refused to put directly into a law.

Take, for example, the Hershey statement that "registrants aged 26 thru 37 described as follows will be available for filling calls: [a] Registrants who are volunteers; [b] registrants who are delinquents; [c] registrants who leave agriculture without the permission of their local board; [d] registrants who do not qualify for occupational deferment under the provisions of this memorandum."

Occupational deferments are to be granted to men engaged in "activities in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest." That leaves it up to the draft boards to decide in each case.

Plainly, the object is to force as many men as possible either to go into the armed services or get jobs in war plants. That is the object, too, of the aforementioned national labor draft proposal which congress, aware of widespread public opposition to such a nation-wide straitjacket, has up to now refused to consider very seriously.

What congress refuses to do directly, Hershey tries to do by an indirect sneak approach to a national labor draft.

The list of occupations deemed essential to the war effort omits, too, one occupation which we always thought was essential to the existence of any country in war or peace. That is the occupation of a father who is bringing up one or more boys for the next war, steering them clear of juvenile delinquency, and in many cases procreating still more boys to fight in the next war.

MEAT FOR MUSCLE REPAIR.

It is difficult to understand why there are so many fad diets. Many believe apparently that they are better able to determine the needs of the body than the skilled physiologist, who has spent a lifetime in studying its behavior. While no one of these individuals would chance a bout with pneumonia or typhoid without the assistance of a medical expert, many will adopt a nutritional program which may be as devastating as a serious illness. The more we know about the duties of the vital organs, the more intricate, complex, and marvelous they appear.

Not long ago I received a communication from an intelligent reader who took me to task for recommending protein [meat] as part of a typical food regimen. I then began to keep track of letters regarding eating habits. Even among those who regarded themselves as strict vegetarians, there was no agreement. Some rely chiefly upon fruits and nuts; others on milk, which contains animal protein; still others, on eggs. Many correspondents apparently have not looked upon these latter products as coming from living creatures.

The principal argument against meat seems to be that it is degrading to our moral and intellectual faculties. It must not be forgotten that the greatest ethical leaders the world has ever known, whose careers are set forth in the Old Testament, were all consumers of flesh.

Perhaps the time will come when the population of the earth will increase to the point where we will be obliged to resort mainly to grains, vegetables, and fruits. But we will be forced to eat substantially larger quantities in order to obtain nitrogen containing elements, which are essential to health and activity. The one who toils hard all day must restore fatigued muscles to their proper nitrogen balance. First class protein [meat] accomplishes this perfectly. Our digestive systems will be called upon to work overtime if we consume plants alone. To depend upon milk solely, the manual laborer would be compelled to ingest six or more quarts per day.

We can use peas, beans, and grains, but authorities have shown that we will require a fairly wide variety because each item is incomplete. No one will furnish all the amino acids demanded for the rebuilding of muscles.

We can take a lesson from the observations of a physician who accompanied the MacMillan arctic expedition. He examined a number of adult Eskimos between the ages of 40 and 60. They were all meat eaters exclusively, as were their fathers and grandfathers before them. Only three exhibited a blood pressure slightly above normal. Of 200 natives over 60 years old, only one showed a mild disease of the kidneys.

Yes, it is possible to exist on vegetable sources of starch, carbohydrates, fats, and proteins—but it is so unnecessary. Furthermore, we run some risk that vitality may drop because the menus are not well planned. If the vegetarian will add milk and eggs, I will have no quarrel with him. Cow's milk, particularly if skimmed, can be employed in huge amounts and will supply fluid as well as calcium.

COMMANDER IN CHIEF DEFINED.

Chicago, July 30.—Let's get this commander in chief thing straightened out. The President of the United States is at all times ex officio commander in chief of the army and navy. He is also commander in chief of the militia of the several states when the militia is called into the active service of the nation, and only then. That is specified in the Constitution.

He is not commander in chief of the United States or any of them, and in peace time, is not even commander in chief of the militia. The Constitution does not prescribe his duties as commander in chief of the army and navy and militia in war time, but it does enumerate several things which, as commander in chief, he cannot do. He cannot declare war. He cannot raise money for defense. He cannot raise and supply an army. He cannot provide and maintain a navy. He cannot make rules for the government of the land and naval forces except as congress may delegate that power. Those are the exclusive prerogatives of congress, and any claim by any President that he has done any of these things is false, or else he has done them in violation of the fundamental law of the land.

Furthermore, he cannot make treaties without the advice and consent of at least two-thirds of the senate, and he cannot quarter troops in any house without the consent of the owner except in a manner which congress may prescribe by law. He is not a member of the military forces, is not entitled to wear a uniform, and, except in a reviewing stand, does not rate a salute from the lowliest buck private.

As President, he is entitled, when at sea, to fly a special Presidential flag, which, by custom—not by constitutional authority—is broken out on the main as he steps on deck. When he is in a barge or boat, the Presidential flag is customarily displayed from a staff in the bow, and when his barge passes, naval vessels, in deference to the flag, parade the full guard, sound four ruffles on the drums, four flourishes on the bugle, the band plays the national anthem and all officers and men salute—the flag, not the President.

E. W. WILLIAMSON.

NO SHOES FOR HER BABY.

Chicago, July 31.—I've noticed no scarcity of shoes for adults, yet it is practically impossible to buy shoes for small, rapidly growing feet. Altho we are people of moderate means, we've bought the best possible shoes for our young son so that his feet might be well fitted and develop as they should. He is now 18 months old, and needs new shoes about every two and one-half months.

This week I combed two local neighborhoods in vain. The shoe store where I've been buying his shoes, which specializes in children's shoes, has received no shipment in weeks and is almost out of all sizes. Saturday I brought the little boy to the loop and tried the best stores, and again was unable to have him properly fitted. In another week or so it will not be safe to put on his present shoes. What is a mother to do?

Surely it is more important to provide enough shoes to guarantee against foot deformities in our children than to ship carloads of shoes on lend-lease, and provide all the fancy shoes that are available for women.

Members of any branch of service released "by reason of an injury or disability incurred in service in line of duty" are not required to have served 90 days or more before being eligible for any or all benefits under this act. Thus if the disability discharge you received resulted from a service connected injury you are qualified. VISIT TO A TRIBUNE HORSE.

Dear Tribune Horse: Not so long ago I wrote you a letter expressing my admiration for the way you go about your day's business and how much I enjoy your action and spirit as you go prancing past our breakfast nook mornings on your way home. In my letter, I promised that some fine day I would call and have a chat with you. Well, yesterday was a fine day and I walked up to Tribune Tower and asked an officer "Where do they keep the Tribune horses?" I was referred to the circulation department. Well, with the military secrets, why not horse secrets? Anyhow I finally found a barn with Tribune wagons and asked where the horses were kept.

Instead of being directed down into some dark basement stable, I was directed up a ramp into a well lighted, airy, screened-in horse hotel. If I had known about this convention week, I would have been able to help a friend who could find no hotel room. I was escorted about the establishment by two excellent gentlemen, one the maitre d'hotel, Mr. Kovac, the other maitre de chiropology, Mr. Nielsen. Mr. Nielsen's job is to keep the feet of 35 horses in working order. Says he, "they are the same as we are. Nellie is hard on heels. Jim wears his shoes down on the side. We change from summer to winter shoes, and I do the same for the horses. When the ice comes, they get non-skids."

He took me over and introduced me to a dandy sorrel that goes bouncing down Michigan av. at 9 a. m., the one with whom I have been corresponding. His name is Sam, and Sam is one peach. Any one else, hearing our praise, would have got so stuck up there'd be no living with him. Then I made the rounds with Mr. Kovac who has been with the Tribune horses since he was a kid. When horses were discarded for motors he drove a truck, then in '40 when the war brought back horses, here was their friend, Kovac.

He knows each horse personally, his age, where he hails from, and his habits, and when he calls one by name he surely gets a friendly response. And, Sam, here is my big surprise. You horses work a 21 hour week, 6 hours every other day. That's something. I had a most enjoyable visit with you and your pals at the hotel d'horse and I came away, with the thought that today, while man mistreats man, it is an honor and a privilege to be treated like a horse.

EGINGTON FRANKLIN.

SOME THINGS HE ISN'T FIGHTING FOR.

Greensboro, N. C., July 28.—I am an officer in the army air forces and I am on my way overseas for my second period of duty on the other side. I will probably stay this time until the war is over, but before leaving I want to thank The Tribune for its stand against un-Americanism.

Here are a few things I am not fighting for:

1. The communistic CIO and its bedfellows.
2. An "indispensable" anybody.
3. One man dynasty.
4. The end of government by the people.
5. The crucifixion of American enterprise and American business men.
6. The machines of Hague, Kelly, Flynn, and Pendergast.
7. The end of the unnumbered freedoms given us by our forefathers.
8. A Goebbels bureau to feed American service men only what the "C in C" wants.
9. An international WPA.
10. Economic, political, diplomatic, or military subservience to any other power or combination of powers by the United States of America.

Contrary to Quentin Reynolds, the G. I. Joe or G. I. Jim knew long before he left this country what kind of a country he was fighting for. He didn't need the "atmosphere" of foreign soil to teach him. I know—I was a G. I. Joe myself for a long while before being commissioned. The question in our minds is: What will we return to? I can't put it too strong when I say to all Americans: Please don't let us down! Don't sell the United States out to un-Americans!

AN AIR CORPS OFFICER.

OR EVEN A CIGAR.

Columbus Junction, Ia., July 31.—Several years ago a Vice President of the United States made the statement that "What the country needs is a good 5-cent cigar."

That remark carries a lot of weight today for the country still lacks a good 5-cent cigar.

J. D. DARROW.

THE OLD RIVER CALLS HIM.

Chicago, July 31.—Mr. Roosevelt has told us in his acceptance speech just where his thoughts are. Remember? That's right, on the Hudson. He hears that old river calling him and he wants truly to answer that call. Let's put him back on that river in November.

M. G. L.

HARBOR VANDALS.

Western Springs, Ill., July 29.—Boat owners have always been conscious of vandalism on the lake front. This year it is particularly vicious. We are told by the harbor master and the director of the park district, with a shrug of the shoulder, that the "police have gone to war." In Burnham park I personally have lost two dinghies, a rubber life raft, sails and all equipment. I have told the police. I have told the harbor master who suggests, "why don't you come out here with your squirrel rifle and get a few of these thieves?"

It may come to that. Boat owners, who never know when they come down to the harbor just what will be missing, are about to organize a posse or vigilance committee to protect their property. Chicago has excellent harbors, but has never gone out of its way to encourage boating. Mooring fees are high, higher now than ever before. One wonders what he gets for this fee. Certainly no protection. One also wonders what the duties of the harbor master are, and if the Coast Guard shouldn't feel some of the responsibility.

Contrary to popular opinion, most boat owners are not wealthy. Most of us are as broke as our next door neighbor. I made my own boat. There are a lot of others who have done the same. We do our own repairs. We cannot afford to buy new equipment each week, things required by law. I have decided to give up boating until Chicago parks become a little more concerned about it.

WILLARD LEONARD.

A JOB FOR THE SAFETY COMMISSION.

Chicago, July 11.—I wonder how many passengers on the north side elevated lines have noticed that the windows of the cars are now blocked so that they can be raised only about eight inches. In the event of a bad accident, possibly accompanied by fire and the doors jammed so they would not open, what might happen to the occupants of cars crowded as they are at present?

I have been told by a number of the guards that the windows are being blocked to avoid the possibility of a passenger being struck by one of the high signal posts near Armitage av. These posts should be lowered instead of creating a possible death trap out of the cars. The mayor's safety commission might well take notice of this.

T. C. FETROW.

WANTS A RADIO DAMPER.

Chicago, July 31.—Would it not be a good idea if an ordinance could be passed limiting the sound volume of home radios? When so many have to sleep during the day, it seems especially urgent. It is terribly annoying and even health robbing to have to listen to a blaring radio all day long. Would it not be much more satisfactory all around if the radio could be held to a certain low volume, let us say so that it could be heard in one room only? Most hotels have this type of control. Why not make it compulsory for the home, too?

K. K. R.

HE SEES A CHANGE.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 2.—The Cubs changed managers in the middle of the first half of the season, and forthwith started to win. Roosevelt ordered the Democrats to change Vice Presidents, and Truman was nominated. The New Dealers have constantly changed the heads of the various alphabetical bureaus. In other words, all change is for the best, but perish the thought of changing Presidents. Well, there'll be a change in November.

ADMINISTRATOR.

Chicago, July 26.—My brother died in Chicago. As he left no will, an administrator must be appointed. 1. Does the administrator have to be a resident of Cook county? 2. What is the procedure in such a case?

J. G.

1. No, but he must be a resident of Illinois. 2. The first step is to petition the Probate court to appoint an administrator. Ordinarily, it is advisable to appoint an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY.

Chicago, July 27.—1. I was married in 1926 and I am greatly troubled because my maiden name was misspelled on the license. 2. What can I do to have correction made?

F. L.

1. This would not invalidate the marriage. We see no reason for you to worry about it. 2. We see no necessity for correcting it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CLAIMS AGAINST AN ESTATE.

Chicago, July 26.—Can an unpaid bill be presented and collected four years after the death of the debtor?

L. C.

Creditors of the deceased have nine months in which to file claims against his estate. Claims not thus filed are, in general, barred.

CAPT. HARRISON TELLS 'MURDER AT THE DRAKE'

Criminologist Reports on Williams Killing.

diction the crime was committed. [I was not in command at the time of the murder; I assumed charge later.] I have given many official hours to the study of this case. For weeks I have worked on it with the help of THE TRIBUNE'S police reporters. Frank Winge, in particular, has given me great assistance. I have formed conclusions, as have other investigators. Some of us disagree, violently, it must be admitted, but this disagreement adds competitive spice to the inquiry.

In the days since Mrs. Williams was slain painstaking investigation has enabled us to separate the plausible from the illogical, to bring into sharper focus curious circumstances and situations, and to draw a clearer picture of what took place in room 836 of the Drake.

It is my intention to present in several articles a detailed, unbiased and, I hope, analytical report of the Williams murder case, with comment on certain aspects of it. I believe that new interpretations of statements and testimony will help remove some of the mystery.

Chief Character in Mystery.

First, let us examine the cast of characters who were in and out of room 836 in the Drake on Jan. 19, 1944.

Heading the list on that ill fated night was Adele Swabaker Born Williams, once divorced, twice married, and mother of two grown daughters. An intelligent, vivacious woman, she had led a life of ease; traveled around the world, and possessed a comfortable fortune—$500,000. She moved in the social circles of Washington, New York, and Chicago.

She was 54 years old, daughter of Isadore Swabaker, a well to do merchant who during her childhood gratified her every whim. She studied at private schools for girls in the east. In time, she inherited part of her father's estate, and also a sizable portion of the estate of her uncle, the late Joseph S. Rosenfield, vice president of the Sunny Brook Distillery company.

And in time she became the wife of Edgar R. Born, chairman of M. Born and Sons, an old established tailoring firm in Chicago, who was later to be described by friends as "a man about town." Two daughters were born of this marriage, Elizabeth, now 33, and Patricia, now 28.

Cruise Brings Them Romance.

In 1935, Mrs. Born and Patricia went on a world cruise, and to both it brought romance. Mrs. Born met a suave and personable diplomat, Frank Starr Williams, a southerner, who had spent most of his adult life in the orient, first as a teacher, then as an economics adviser, and finally as an attache of the American embassy in Tokyo. Patricia met Lewis J. Goodbody of Dublin, Ireland, who was doing business as a foreign exchange broker in Bombay, India.

Patricia within a year become the wife of Goodbody. Mrs. Born returned to Chicago in the fall of 1936, divorced Born after 25 years of marriage, and a month later was married to Williams.

For a period thereafter, the new Mrs. Williams made her home in Tokyo with her husband, and her daughter resided in India. But as war threats became more convincing, Mrs. Williams returned home; so did Mrs. Goodbody. And just in time, for soon afterward the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor.

Husband Interned a While.

Williams was temporarily interned in Japan, but eventually repatriated, and assigned to Washington, where he and his wife made their official home. Mrs. Goodbody came to live with her father and sister in the Churchill hotel, 1255 N. State st.

Just as Mrs. Williams plays the lead in the murder mystery so does the pretty Mrs. Goodbody play the next important part. I expect to tell you much about these interesting women as this report of my investigation unfolds.

Character No. 3 in the tragedy in room 836 is "The Killer"—the woman who since Jan. 19 has been sought for the murder of Mrs. Williams.

Two women and two men say they saw her. None can identify her. This mystery woman has been variously described as red haired, gray haired, and brown haired. Her age has been estimated as from 35 to 45 and even 50.

Agree on Size and Coat.

In general, there is agreement that she was of medium build, say 5 feet 2 or 3 inches tall, 130 to 135 pounds in weight, and that she wore a black Persian lamb coat and red flowers in her hat or hair. I will discuss this description more fully in subsequent articles.

Next, in order of their appearance on the eighth floor murder scene, are:

Walter Shawke, a Drake service room waiter.

Clyde P. Brewster, Lancaster, Pa., Cook's boss.

Ray Riley, the Drake's chief house detective.

John Tierney, also a house detective.

Edgar Born, ex-husband of Mrs. Williams.

Thomas Rosenberg, Chicago lawyer, and personal friend of Born.

Dr. Thomas J. Coogan, house physician for the Drake and Blackstone hotels.

Lt. John A. Quinn, veteran police officer of the Chicago av. station.

Others in Minor Roles.

There are many other figures, most of whom played minor roles. There were the Edgar A. Smiths, occupants of Room 801-02, across from Mrs. Williams' room; Robert O'Connell, first policeman on the scene; Fred Lindsey, an ambulance attendant now in the merchant marine; Pringle Terrill, ambulance driver now in Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Eva Fritz, a Drake maid now running a chicken farm near Wheeling; E. E. Jantz, formerly a Drake desk clerk, and Mrs. Ellen Valanis Bennett Larkworthy, also known as Mrs. Murphy, also formerly a Drake clerk.

To complete the case I might include the scores of newspaper men and women who hurried to the eighth floor that Jan. 19 night, and each of whom, I'm sure, is still hoping to "break the Drake case."

Some Statements Disagree.

Some of the men and women in and out of room 836 gave formal statements to police. Some testified at the coroner's inquest. Each gave his or her mite of information.

In the human nature of things, some statements do not jibe with others. That is typical of many a criminal case. The professional criminologist takes a mass of apparent contradictions and endeavors to sift the true from the false—fact from rumor. It is no simple matter to separate and grade the various elements, but in most cases, the pattern eventually shows thru. My report may help bring out a picture which will help find the slayer of Mrs. Williams.

But so much for the preliminary and characters; and now for the scene back of the footlights of the murder stage in room 836.

[In tomorrow's Chicago Tribune Capt. Harrison will continue his "Report on the Drake Murder Mystery!"]

ENTIRE COUNTY HOSPITAL PUT IN DARK BY BLAZE

Fire in a fourth floor fuse box caused a black-out last night in the 3,000 bed Cook County hospital and in the adjacent Psychopathic and Children's hospitals and county morgue. All are supplied with lighting power from a central generator.

The power failure occurred at 8:30 p. m. Firemen extinguished the fire but electricians encountered difficulty in tracing a short circuit from the fuse box, in ward 46, and restoring service.

Medical Care
Is Available at United Medical Service

IN addition to years of training and experience in the various fields of medicine, physicians at United Medical Service have the support of X-ray, elecrocardiograph, clinical laboratory procedures and many other scientific instruments. As a result their knowledge reaches maximum efficiency in solving the health problems of their many patients. For with these modern facilities our physicians can see the heart beat, see its size and shape; they can also see and study the condition of the lungs; see the stomach in operation and follow the passage of food from the mouth through the entire gastro-intestinal tract. They can study the kidneys, bladder and the rest of the genito-urinary system; the brain, sinuses, teeth, spine, joints, bones, gall bladder and other formerly inaccessible parts of the body. With these indispensable facilities our doctors can make early diagnoses of beginning heart trouble, tuberculosis, kidney disorders, diabetes, and detect conditions which if neglected may lead to cancer, apoplexy, pneumonia, appendicitis and other serious ailments. All persons, and especially those who are finding it difficult to obtain medical care because of the many physicians now serving the armed forces, are invited to use these facilities and services. The fees are moderate and the same to all. Use the railroad trains, street cars, buses, elevated and subway trains or automobiles. Information upon request.

If Back Aches or Ankles Swell, Flush Your Kidneys

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids
Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Seventeen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

3 Day Trial Offer
To prove that Cystex may be the very medicine you need make this fair-play trial offer: Get a three-day supply of Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c. Take it exactly as directed and see the results in your own particular case—if not delighted and really surprised, or if not satisfied for any reason at all, simply return the empty package, and your money will be refunded in full. This is guaranteed. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, so start your Cystex 3-day trial today.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: *Cystex is produced under the direction of a licensed physician for The Knox Co., one of the largest drug companies in the world with laboratory connections in the U.S.A., Canada, England, Australia and South America. HARRISON PUT BRAINS, COURAGE IN POLICE WORK

Capt. Tom Harrison.

Thomas Harrison, who as captain of the East Chicago av. police station, kept order for years in Chicago's jumbled near north side, was known in the police department as a diplomat who spoke softly, but who was ever ready to battle when pacific means failed.

The diplomacy of Capt. Harrison, who is now writing a series of articles in THE TRIBUNE on the slaying of Mrs. Adele Born Williams in the Drake hotel Jan. 19, was the secret of his almost uncanny knack of solving murders by persuading the murderers to confess. And in the years when he was on the way up, Harrison's ability to handle the rougher customers soon made a name for him.

Good Lad in Fight.

Even as a youngster, attending the St. Charles and Precious Blood schools, he was known as a good lad in a fight. He still was when, at 16, he began following his father's trade as a bricklayer. By the time Harrison found himself in Company G, 129th infantry in World War I., he had improved sufficiently to contend for the welterweight championship of the 33d division.

Back in Chicago, he worked again as a bricklayer, then joined the police department in 1922 when he was 26.

Harrison's name first appeared in the papers in 1924 when he was chosen to guard Judge John R. Caverly during the Loeb-Leopold trial. Four years later he was promoted to a sergeancy. He became a lieutenant in 1935. The next year he was Acting Capt. Harrison in charge of the E. Chicago av. district. Keeping order in it is a job calling both for diplomacy and ruggedness. In 1938, Lt. Harrison was a captain.

A short time after his appointment, his district passed a crimeless period of 72 hours for the first time in its history. During his years as a district commander, records show, 65 per cent of all arrests in his territory brought convictions.

On Feb. 1, 1942, Capt. Harrison was transferred to the Warren av. station where he warred on crime as vigorously as he had in the East Chicago district. He led raids on 76 handbooks, arrested 175 persons for gambling, and obtained convictions in 62 per cent of the cases.

Two Cases Cited.

Two cases in his 22 year record as law enforcer stand out.

The first concerned Vernon Royals, a boy of 16 suspected of having murdered Mrs. Agnes Lavendar, 52, for the $10 her purse contained. Sgt. Harrison started young Royals walking slowly down the railroad tracks to the point where the robbery-murder had occurred. As they walked, Harrison kept his arm about the youth's shoulders in a gesture of comaraderie. When they reached the crime scene Royals confessed.

This was in 1931. Six years later, when Harrison was a lieutenant, Leslie Homer, a former pal of John Dillinger and Harry Pierpont, took $2,700 in the holdup of a currency exchange at Ohio and La Salle sts. Harrison led a squad from the East Chicago av. station, arriving in time to see Homer flee into a dead end alley, from which he opened fire on them.

Wrests Away Pistol.

Harrison and the squad returned the fire for a few minutes, then the lieutenant ordered his men to take cover. Alone, he walked fearlessly into the alley, seized Homer and wrested away his pistol.

It was last June 16, after 22 years service in the police department, nine years as an officer, that Harrison was dismissed with five other captains and a lieutenant when the civil service commission found him guilty of failing to keep records of all complaints filed in his district and failure to supress gambling. He fought the charges and now is seeking a rehearing.

Father Testifies at Inquest

Death Held Accident

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in Glenview in the electrocution Friday of Ward Hibben, 5, son of Joseph W. Hibben of 1000 Wagner rd., in the north suburb. The boy was killed when he touched an electrified fence while standing in a water trough. The current had been stepped down to a point supposedly harmless and had been intended to keep a horse within its inclosure, Hibben told Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein.

Leroy Koetz, Glenview electrician who had tested the fence current at Edelstein's direction, testified the voltage was low. Death resulted only because the victim was standing in grounded water, he said.

Services for the Hibben boy were held at 3 p. m. yesterday in the Glenview Community church. Burial was in Forest Home, at Forest Park.

900 GIVEN RAISE ON INLAND STEEL CONTAINER JOBS

The sixth regional war labor board in Chicago has granted a wage increase to 900 employes of the Inland Steel Container company, Chicago, and has denied maintenance of membership to local 1422 of the United Steel Workers of America [CIO], recognized union bargaining agent, Edgar L. Warren, board chairman, said yesterday.

In denying maintenance of membership, the regional WLB followed the recommendation of the disputes panel, which reported that the union had violated its no-strike pledge.

The wage increases included 5 cents an hour for all female job classifications; 12 cents an hour for certain skilled maintenance occupations, and night shift premiums. Other requested wage increases were denied. The board also directed the company to deduct union dues from the pay of workers on individually signed authorizations.

FEW MOURNERS SHOW GRIEF AT MANGANO'S BIER

A mere handful of mourners, mostly women relatives who embraced each other tearfully, gathered last night at the bier of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, murdered Chicago gambling chieftain, in Salerno's chapel at 813 Taylor st.

Mangano, the immigrant who became "public enemy No. 4," was laid out in a silver bronze coffin. Three bouquets were placed about his bier, one the offering of "the Mangano family," another from "The West Side plant," and a third to which no card was attached. Services will be at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Mangano and Mike Pontillo, the gangster's bodyguard, were assassinated Thursday. The police theorized Mangano was slain because he had levied tribute on dice games in the Greek colony or in reprisal for the killing of Ben [Little Zukie] Zuckerman, west side gambler, last Jan. 19.

WORK SPEEDED UPON DOUGLAS PLANT OFFICE

Work was progressing yesterday on the new Douglas Aircraft company administration building at Mannheim and Higgins rds., which will replace the one destroyed by fire July 18. Masonry and structural steel work are expected to be completed by Sept. 16.

Plumbing, heating, and carpentering contracts will be let next week, with the new building scheduled to be completed by the first week in October. The building will be a replica of the old two story wooden structure except that it will be of fireproof construction.

Three new cafeteria buildings, completed at the time of the administration building fire, but unused because of a delay in chinaware shipment, have been housing office workers. Army barracks used during the plant's construction were also made available.

O, BUOY! WHISKY BOMBS TO RAIN ON MEN ADRIFT

Dropped from Planes; Chasers Included.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—The Smithsonian institution is packing 'em in with its newest exhibit—a bottle of blended whisky in a locked, glass top case just east of the stuffed bird department.

While drinking liquor is pretty scarce around the capital, the Smithsonian probably would not have put the jug on display if it hadn't been one of the presents in a "Christmas stocking bomb" which the coast guard contrived for the relief of shipwrecked mariners and downed air men.

Floats Like a Buoy.

About a foot thick and four feet long, the light metal cylinder has a concrete weighted nose and an air-filled rumble seat, which makes it float like a buoy when it splashes from a rescue plane into the sea alongside a life raft. It's labeled "food and water" in four languages —English, Norwegian, French, and Spanish—so the men on the raft won't think they're the target for tonight.

Over and above the whisky, the big yellow-painted "lifesaver" contains sunburn lotion, cigaret, fishing tackle, and other provisions for life on the deep, including food.

14 Cans of Water.

A sunburned air force captain from Texas leaned over the case, contemplating the equipment with the unfeigned interest of a potential customer. He checked off two sets of signal flares, a first aid kit, four packages of K rations, four packs of cigarets, three boxes of sunburn lotion, a can opener, a waterproof can full of matches, a flashlight, a tiny compass, a length of heavy fish line, two colorful fishing lures, a fifth of 86 proof whisky, and 14 sealed beer cans full of water.

The captain shook his head.

Robber with a Red Beard Ties Victim, Takes $275

TEEN AGE PARTY SCANDAL STIRS YOUTH LEADERS

BY KAY CLANCY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 5.—The disclosure of a wild party in a South Bend hotel, which involved two minor girls, a former movie actor, and three other adults is the same old story of juvenile delinquency, Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer said today.

Two foolish little girls, the lure of a uniform, mixed drinks, an all night party, and a police investigation are the ingredients in the scandal that has given the community much to think about.

Only the characters and setting are different from hundreds of similar stories. The leading character in this drama is Jackie Cooper, former child movie star who made a fortune before he was 6 years old. He is now a V-12 trainee at the University of Notre Dame. In the supporting cast are Pauline Frederick, 19, and George Bender, 24, another V-12 trainee. The fourth, against whom an affidavit was filed, is Olie Lowery, Negro waiter at the La Salle hotel, scene of the party.

Six Months Term Maximum.

Each is charged with contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, one 15 and the other 16 years old. Such charges are misdemeanors in Indiana and the maximum penalty is $500 or 6 months in jail.

A warrant was served on Miss Frederick today at her home. She was released on $1,000 bond.

Executive Officer Walter S. Gabel of the navy training unit at Notre Dame refused today to relinquish Cooper and Bender to civilian authorities, after accepting the warrants containing the charges against the two.

"These papers will be processed," he said, "and be sent to the 9th naval district headquarters at Great Lakes [Ill.], which, in turn, will present them to the secretary of the navy."

Pair Taken Into Custody

Cooper and Bender were taken into custody by naval authorities last night, public relations officers announced.

Charges against Cooper and the others were based on statements given the prosecutor's office by the girls involved.

According to the girls, on July 22 they met by plan in downtown South Bend and, after visiting several restaurants and finding them crowded were en route to another when they met Pauline Frederick, a brunette, who invited them to a party.

Drinks Four Whiskies.

Then, according to the statement, the drinking got under way and, altho the 15 year old girl said she was not accustomed to intoxicants, she drank one Scotch and soda, two Scothes with ginger ale, one straight bourbon, and a bottle of beer.

News of the affair caused consternation among local youth leaders, women club members, and church groups.

"Citizens are duty bound to take definite action to curb delinquency," said Mrs. George L. Miller, president of the Progress club, which has 500 women members. "We are going to build our fall study program around delinquency."

Pastors were shocked. "We have a wide youths program," one of them said, "but evidently we are not reaching the group we should."

The same story was told by Mrs. G. L. Hoffman, who is a board member of various social agencies. "We established a teen age night club, the Hi-Spot," she said. "Altho a lot of young people have fun there, we will have to admit that many of them only come when they don't have money to spend in more exciting places, like taverns."

REPORT PARTIAL BREAK IN SCREW PLANT STRIKE

A wildcat strike at the Chicago Screw company, 1026 S. Homan av., involving 1,200 of the company's 2,600 employes, was reported broken yesterday, altho this was not verified by officials of the United Automobile Workers, local 59 [CIO], of which the workers are members. At the company's plant, where differences arose over discharge of a chief steward, it was reported that some of the men returned to work. Union officials have opposed the strike.

47 DIE AS TRAIN HITS FREIGHT ON GEORGIA SIDING

Victims Are Rail Workers; 32 Others Injured.

Stockton, Ga., Aug. 5 (AP).—Crushed in the twisted wreckage of a railroad coach, at least 47 Negro laborers homeward bound for the week-end were killed and 32 others injured here early this morning when an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train hit a broken rail and hurtled into a sidetracked freight.

Four more bodies were believed pinned in the tangled mass of steel and work crews tonight were attempting to extricate them.

Wounded Soldiers on Train.

A hospital car carrying wounded soldiers to Finney General hospital at Thomasville, Ga., was one of six coaches derailed but railroad officials said only four service men were injured, and these only slightly. The soldiers were taken to Moody field at Valdosta, Ga.

The last six cars of the 14 car train, No. 57 en route from Waycross, Ga., to Montgomery, Ala., left the tracks, said A. C. L. General Manager C. G. Sibley at Wilmington, N. C. The cars struck the engine of the freight, one splitting lengthwise. It was in this car that the work crew was riding. Another car was a sleeper, in which no one was injured, and three were empty coaches.

Death Coach Was All-Steel.

The Negro laborers, all employed by the railroad, occupied a coach belonging to another railroad but under lease to A. C. L., Sibley reported. He described it as all-steel construction.

Traffic was rerouted thru Albany, Ga., until the track could be cleared, probably some time tonight.

No one in the crew of No. 57 was injured, the A. C. L. statement said, but H. L. Tomlinson, station agent at Stockton, said he was informed the fireman on the freight, whose name he did not learn, was scalded.

Tomlinson said rescue work at first was hampered by lack of lighting facilities at the scene but army trucks from Moody field at Valdosta arrived early in the morning and flooded the surrounding terrain with light from their high power searchlights.

Tomlinson told of one Negro who was cut from the wreckage, walked to the highway a few feet away, asked for a cigaret, lit it, then dropped dead.

CITY PROMISED BREAK IN HEAT WAVE FOR A DAY

While New York and the eastern seaboard generally continued to swelter, Chicago was promised a week-end respite from the heat last night by Forecaster G. L. Canaday. High today, he believes, will be somewhere around a pleasant 85. But there's a catch to it. It will be warmer tomorrow.

Yesterday wasn't so bad. A light breeze off the lake kept the temperature in the high eighties most of the afternoon, but for a few minutes at 6:45 p. m., the breeze shifted, and the mercury jumped to 91.

In New York yesterday the temperature went to 95, an all time record for the date, and the forecast was for continued hot and humid weather. It was 99 in Boston, Mass., and 96 in New Haven, Conn.

Parks and beaches were crowded yesterday and park district officials anticipate even larger crowds today.

RECRUIT'S FEET BAFFLE NAVY; ARMY FITS THEM

When Eugene Bauknecht, 18, of 4926 N. Talman av., signed on at Great Lakes naval training center two weeks ago, examining physicians pronounced his feet the smallest of any recruit admitted there since World War I. He wears a size 3½ shoe.

Unable to find shoes to fit Bauknecht, the center's footwear department finally got a pair from the army.

Even then Bauknecht's worries weren't over, for the army shoes were regulation tan, while navy rules call for black.

Not to be balked at this stage, the navy ordered a coat of black dye applied to the tan shoes. Yesterday, Bauknecht was waiting patiently for the dye to dry, hopeful that soon he'd be in step with the rest of the new recruits at Great Lakes.

BO M'MILLIN NAMED ON ALL-STAR COACHING STAFF

INDIANA CHIEF LED COLLEGIANS TO '38 VICTORY

Practice for Bears Opens Saturday.

BY ARCH WARD.

Bo McMillin of Indiana university, who led the College All-Stars of 1938 to a 28 to 16 victory over the Washington Redskins, is coming back to the All-Star coaching staff. He will serve as an assistant in the preparation of the 1944 squad for the game with the Chicago Bears at Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 30.

McMillin, who is starting his 11th season as head coach at Indiana, is the dean of Western conference gridiron instructors in length of service at one school. His 1943 eleven was one of the strongest all-civilian units in the country.

Thrilled by '38 Victory.

"Nothing in my coaching career has given me a greater thrill than the experience of working with the 1938 All-Stars," said the head master of Indiana football yesterday. "Beating the Chicago Bears will be a stouter assignment than defeating the Redskins, but it looks as if we have the personnel to do the job. I hope we'll have a forward passer like Cecil Isbell." [Isbell was the star of the game the year McMillin was head coach of the All-Stars.]

The practice period, which will begin at Northwestern Saturday, will be a reunion for McMillin and some of his pre-war stars. Among the wealth of outstanding back field talent seeking positions on the All-Star team will be Bill Hillenbrand, Lou Saban, and Charles Jacoby, who played for the Hoosiers in 1942. There will be at least three other Indiana athletes on the squad.

In Football for 32 Years.

McMillin, christened Alvin Nugent, was born 46 years ago in Prairie View, Tex., and he has been identified with football as player and coach for 32 years. He was only a grade school pupil when he began to attract gridiron attention. He had been forced to drop out of school when he was 11 years old to help support his family and when he returned to the fifth grade he was older and larger than most boys of his class.

As a sixth grader Bo started to play with the North High school team of Fort Worth where his family had moved when he was a small boy. He was declared ineligible for high school competition with one year of his academic course remaining. Other schools apparently became tired of looking at him. He migrated to Somerset, Ky., where he wound up his interscholastic career.

Played at Centre College.

The next year McMillin and most of the Somerset team entered Centre college. With him were Red Roberts, Red Weaver, and Red Armstrong, all of whom were destined to become famous as members of Uncle Charlie Moran's Praying Colonels. Centre started winning as soon as Bo and his cohorts moved in, but it wasn't until 1919 that the team's name was blazoned in sports pages across the nation. It was a victory over a strong West Virginia eleven which had trounced Princeton, 25 to 0, the previous Saturday that brought national attention to McMillin and the Colonels. Centre ran its string of consecutive victories to 32 in 1920 before it lost to Harvard, 31 to 14, but the next season in Harvard stadium Bo climaxed his career by scoring the touchdown that whipped the Crimson, 6 to 0.

Began Coaching at Centenary.

After his graduation from Centre McMillin went to Centenary college as head coach. In three seasons there his teams won 25 and lost three. From Centenary he went to Geneva college where his phenomenal coaching success continued. His Geneva teams in three seasons lost only five and won 27. By this time his reputation as a coach was as great as his fame as a player. Kansas State called him in 1928 and he spent six seasons there before transferring to Indiana. His Kansas State teams won 32 and lost 21.

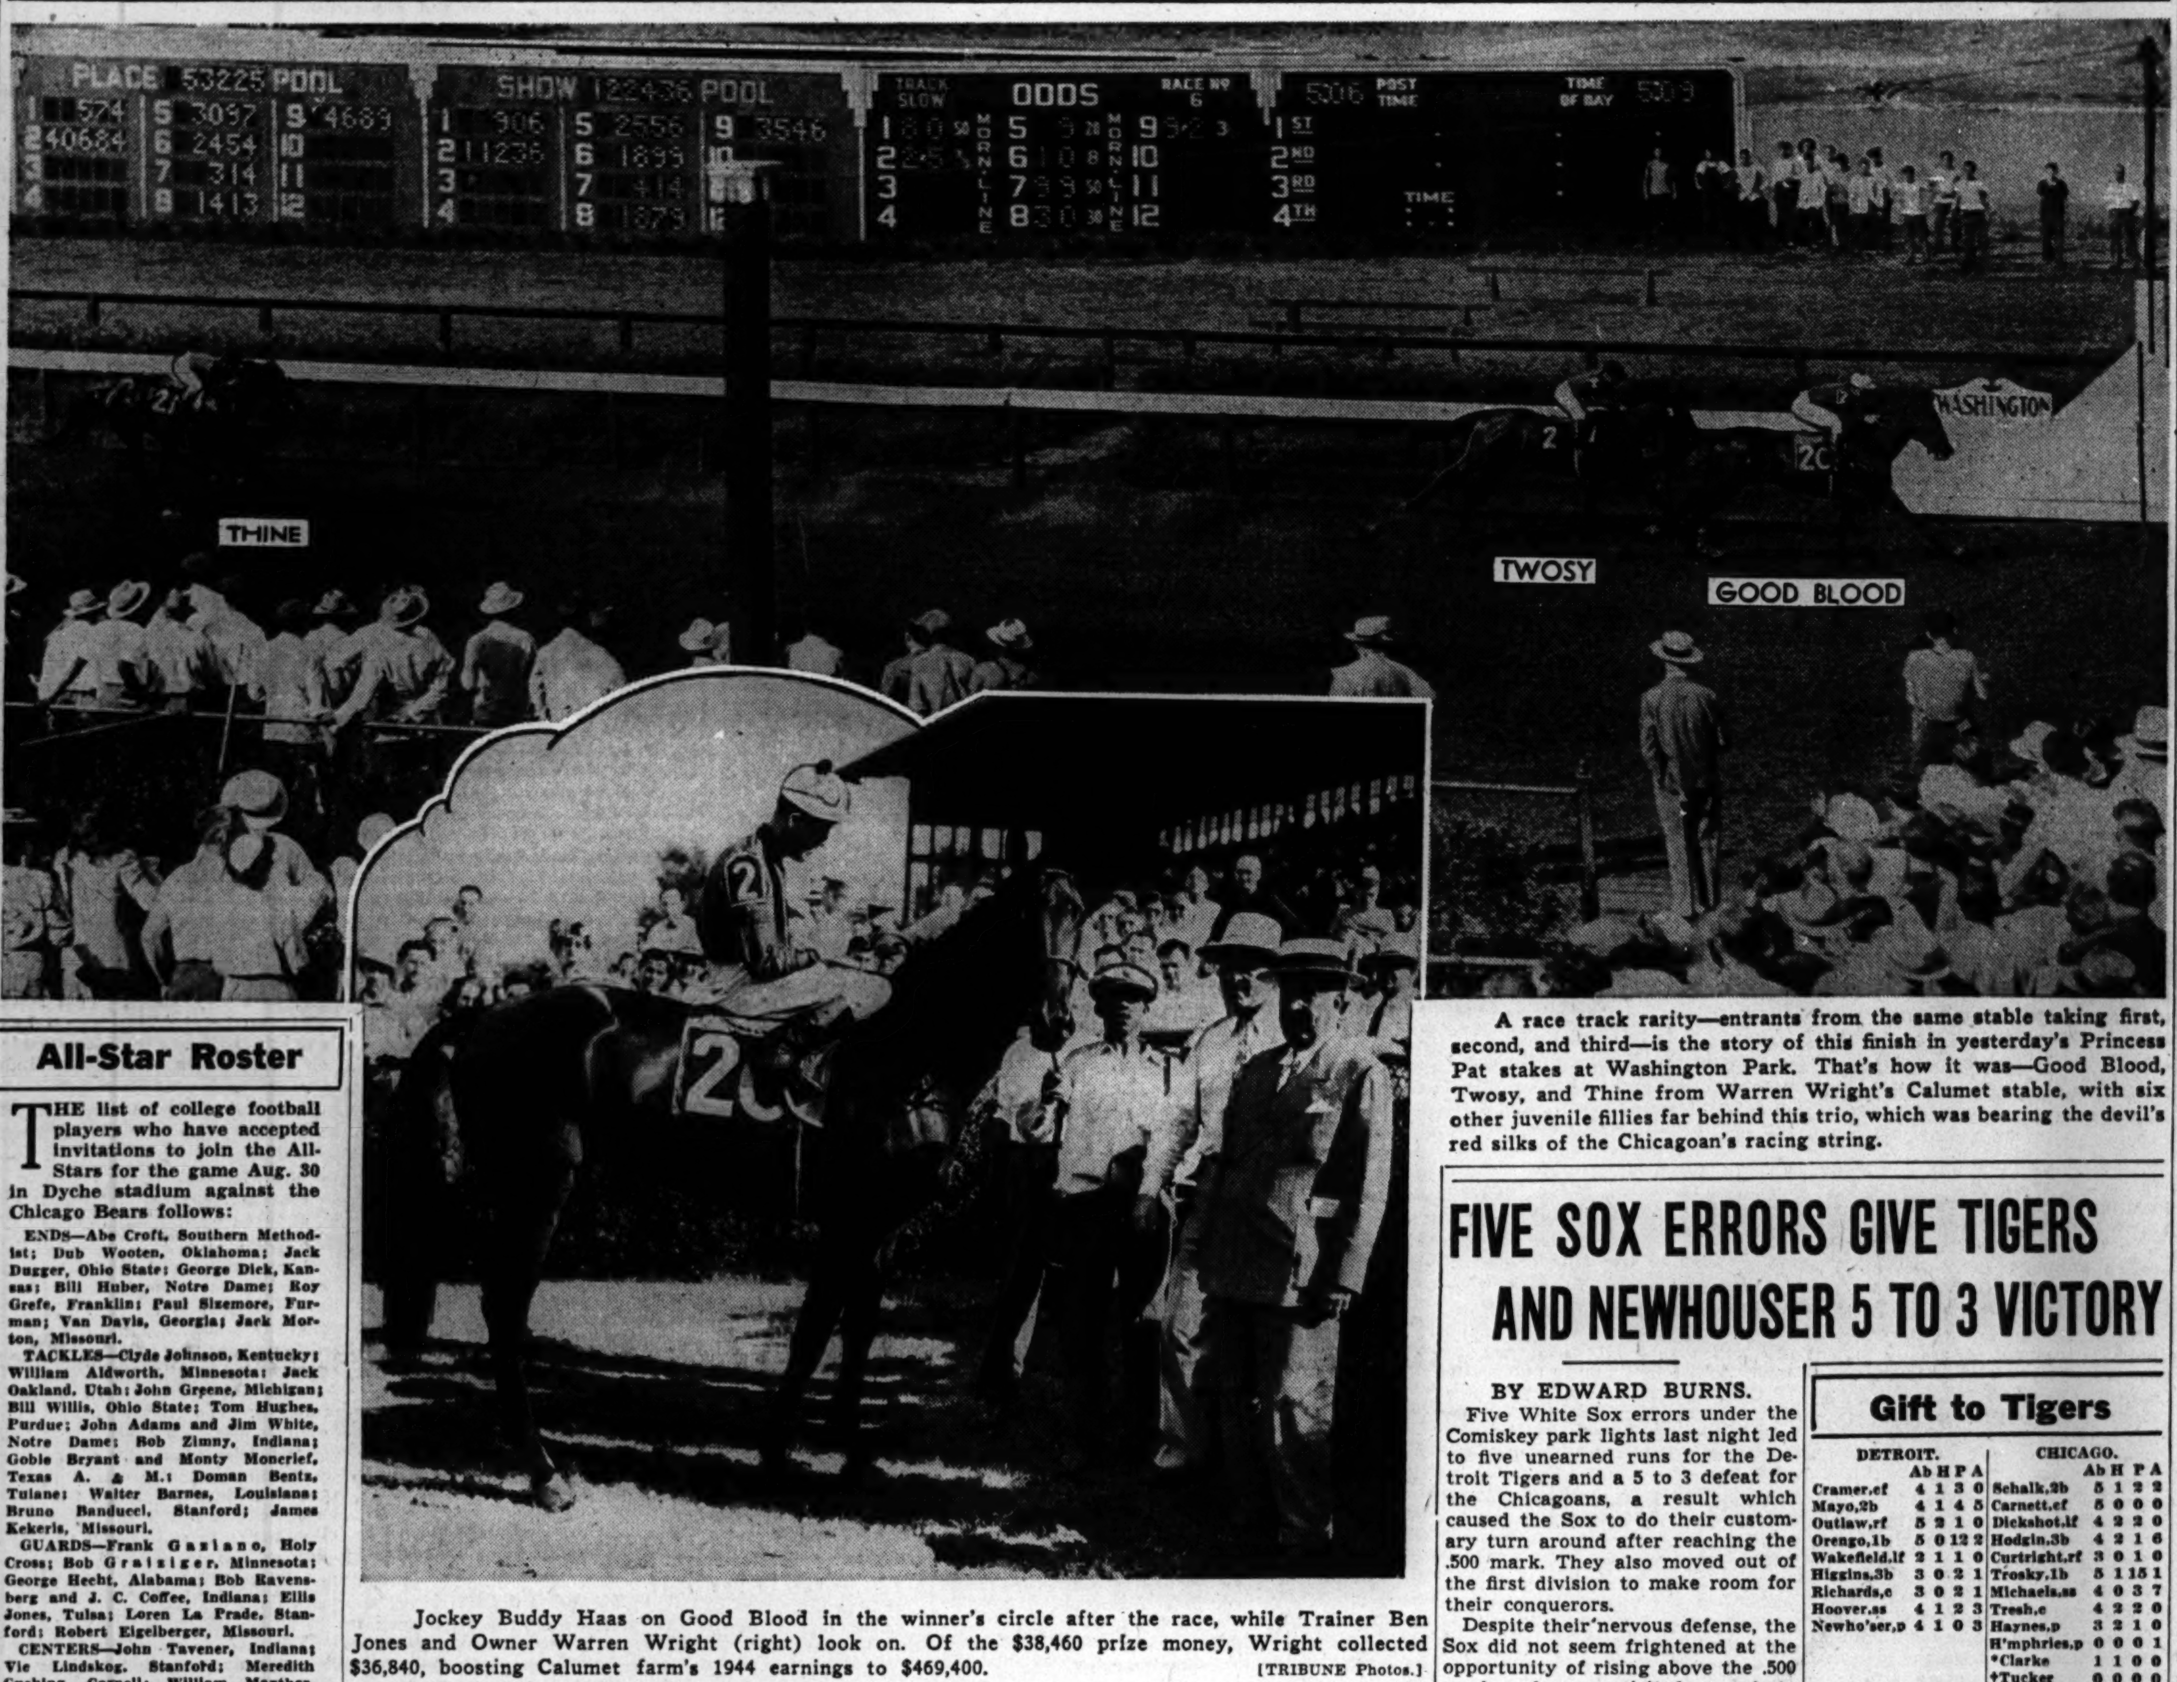
VICTORY PARADE OF THREE LITTLE GALS IN RED



A race track rarity—entrants from the same stable taking first, second, and third—is the story of this finish in yesterday's Princess Pat stakes at Washington Park. That's how it was—Good Blood, Twosy, and Thine from Warren Wright's Calumet stable, with six other juvenile fillies far behind this trio, which was bearing the devil's red silks of the Chicagoan's racing string.

Bruno Banducci, a member of Stanford's Rose bowl championship team of 1941, and Paul Sarringhaus, half back on the 1942 Ohio State university eleven which won the Western conference title, head today's list of nine All-Stars who have accepted invitations to play against the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. The college squad now numbers 63—there still will be a few additions—for the 11th game with the champions of National Football league, annually sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Loren La Prade, a guard who was Banducci's teammate in 1942, is the only other All-Star in today's list from the far west. In addition to these three men, acceptances of invitations have been received from William Baughman, Iowa center; Wayne [Red] Williams, Minnesota half back; John Knezovich, Bradley Tech center, and Jack Morton, end; James Kekeris, tackle, and Robert Eigelberger, guard, from the University of Missouri.

Played for Shaughnessy.

Banducci, a native son from Richmond, Cal., was a sophomore when Clark Shaughnessy brought Stanford to the top of the Pacific conference and climaxed the season with the 1941 New Year's day victory over Nebraska in the Rose bowl. He continued to play superlative football at guard and tackle for two more years under Marchie Schwartz and was graduated with a degree in engineering. Banducci now is an engineer for an oil company. He weighs 210 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall.

La Prade, 22 year old blond guard, weighs 213 pounds. He's a square jawed, rugged fighter who was

City Amateur Won by Evans, '11 Champion

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chick Evans, a young fellow of 54 summers, has had many a happy homecoming during his long golfing career, but none so satisfying as his arrival in the ancient clubhouse at old Jackson park last night. It was nigh on to 6 o'clock when the ever grinning Edgewater veteran accomplished one of the truly great feats of the 1944 sports year. That deed took the form of a 3 and 2 victory over Harold Mathisen in the 36 hole battle for the 40th annual city amateur tournament championship, grandpappy of all Chicago fairway competitions.

Evans' triumph would have been an unusual one, if only on the fact that a man of his years could play a total of 107 holes in five days of the most enervating heat of the summer. His success, however, is even more remarkable when you consider that this same event marked Chick's first big time victory, 'way back there in 1907. He repeated in 1908 and scored again in 1911. Two years ago, at the age of 52, he went to the final against the same Mathisen, but Harold won then, 4 and 3.

Mathisen Threatens Early.

Yesterday it seemed time and again that Mathisen, the steel chemist who has won the title four times, would make it No. 5. Evans, however, never permitted him to be more than 1 up at any stage of the match. Chick was one down at the 18 hole intermission, finally squared it at the 21st, then won the 27th, 28th and 29th for his ultimate advantage. The meticulous Mathisen's mastery of the Jackson park greens enabled him to stay in the fight longer than might have been expected. In the afternoon, Chick outplayed him from tee to green.

A True Comeback.

Evans' return to the winner's circle after 33 years undoubtedly establishes a new record for sports comebacks after a lengthy lapse of time. Chick's old rival, Francis Ouimet of Boston is the only comparable parallel. Francis captured his first national amateur title on Sept. 5, 1914, and repeated on Chicago's Beverly course on Sept. 5, 1931.

Mathisen began building up a lead as early as the 400 yard first hole, where he scored a birdie

CUBS WIN OVER PITTSBURGH, 7-2; THAT MAKES 11

Grimm's Record

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 5.—When Charley Grimm was made manager of the Cubs on May 7 they were in the National league cellar with a record of one victory and 10 defeats. Since that time the north siders have won 45 games while losing 37 for a .549 percentage and have climbed to fourth place.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 5.—Charley Grimm's Cubs continued to roar along the baseball turnpike this afternoon to attain their 11th successive victory and at the same time strengthen their pincer movement on third place. In contrast to their technique last night, when they waited until the ninth to give the Pirates the all-out punch, they whaled away at the enemy pitching in almost every inning today for a final count of 7 to 2 before a meager crowd of 2,861, most of whom apparently weren't satisfied with the grade of entertainment provided by Frank Frisch's chattels.

It was well for Bill Fleming that the Chicagoans were in the mood to give Fritz Ostermueller, the old lefty, a pasting that caused him to desert in the eighth, just after Bill Nicholson had recorded his fourth straight hit. Fleming, altho accorded the decision for his seventh in his last eight starts, was beset with trouble from the very start. With the aid of brilliant fielding, however, he managed to hang on until the first two Pirates singled in the seventh. The pair of hits brought Claude Passeau forth in a rescue role and the change marked the end of the Pirates' attack.

Bill Is Wild at Start.

The Pirates helped themselves to a momentary one run lead in the first inning because Fleming was a bit careless about his aim. He walked Pete Coscarart and Jim Russell before retiring anybody. The former got home on a single by Bob Elliott but it took a man-sized running catch by Andy Pafko to halt the disturbance.

FIVE SOX ERRORS GIVE TIGERS AND NEWHOUSER 5 TO 3 VICTORY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Five White Sox errors under the Comiskey park lights last night led to five unearned runs for the Detroit Tigers and a 5 to 3 defeat for the Chicagoans, a result which caused the Sox to do their customary turn around after reaching the .500 mark. They also moved out of the first division to make room for their conquerors.

Despite their nervous defense, the Sox did not seem frightened at the opportunity of rising above the .500 mark and were spirited enough to effect a 3 to 3 tie after two were out in the eighth. The tying run was batted home by Grey Clarke, batting for Joe Haynes, and Johnny Humphries went in to pitch the ninth and took the rap when the Tigers made a pair of runs thru misplays, physical, and mental.

Sox Collect 11 Hits.

All the Sox's runs were earned. The Tigers did not make an error. The Chicagoans made 11 hits off Hal Newhouser, including five doubles, but were constantly under the shadow of their jittery defense after the Tigers had scored two runs in the second inning without a base hit.

Newhouser thus was presented with his 17th victory of the season, against six defeats. Two of the victories and three of the defeats have been acquired in Detroit-Chicago competition. Never before, however, did the Sox so suffer from the shakes in competition with the youthful lefty.

Added to the Sox's notorious horror of rising above the .500 mark, was the fact they were playing under the lights for the 20th time this season. In the 20 night games they have been pushed over 15 times. Strangely enough, one of their night victories was over Newhouser.

The Sox scored in the first inning and it was apparent that their friends in the crowd of 17,257 were hopeful that they might shake off the .500 flutters and the mazda creeps. After Le Roy Schalk had fanned and Eddie Carnett had tapped to Newhouser, Johnny Dickshot walked and scored on Ralph Hodgkin's double. Guy Curtright walked but Hal Trosky bounced to Joe Orengo.

Dick Wakefield walked at the start of the second inning. Pinky Higgins rolled a double play ball to Cass Michaels, who fumbled, and both runners were safe. Paul Richards walked on four pitches, loading the bases, then Joe Hoover flied to Dickshot, Wakefield scoring the tying run. Newhouser was out on a nice play by Schalk, but Haynes fumbled Doc Cramer's dribbler toward first, Higgins scoring. Mayo was thrown out by Hodgin.

After Michaels and Mike Tresh had supplied infield outs in the second inning the score was tied on successive doubles by Haynes and Schalk. Carnett fanned to leave Schalk on second.

Tigers Take Lead in Fourth.

The Tigers went ahead in the fourth. With one down Hoover was safe on Hodgin's first fumble and stopped at second on Newhouser's single. Cramer fouled to Tresh, but Eddie Mayo singled to center, scoring Hoover. Carnett kicked the ball around while Newhouser went to third but Jimmy Outlaw supplied the third out.

The score continued at 3 to 2 until the home eighth. With two out, Tresh singled and reached second on a wild pitch. Clarke batted for Haynes and dropped a single in short left center, Tresh scoring the tying run.

With Humphries starting his

GOOD BLOOD'S STRETCH DRIVE BEATS TWOSY

Thine 3d in $38,460 Washington Stake.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

A crowd of 20,500 and the representatives of six thorobreds saw nothing but red in the fifth running of the $38,460 Princess Pat stakes at Washington Park yesterday. Red was the color sported by the three horse entry of Warren Wright's Calumet Farm which streaked across the finish line in tandem, Good Blood first, Twosy second, and Thine third.

Nine of the nation's fleetest juvenile fillies went to the post, but for most of the spectators there was interest in only the three bearing the devil's red of the Chicagoan's stables. Backers of the entry received $2.80, $2.20 and $2.20 for their $2 tickets.

Flyweight Second Choice.

The Calumet threesome was established a 2 to 5 favorite by the time the field had lined up in the starting gate, with Col. C. V. Whitney's sensational Flyweight second choice at 9 to 2. Flyweight, ridden by Ted Atkinson, the country's leading rider, came in a poor eighth as Darby Dunedin took fourth, Blue Alibi fifth, Blue Skimmer sixth, and Regal Maid seventh. Jeanie Berry was last.

Jeanie Berry and Blue Skimmer engaged in an early pacemaking duel as Good Blood, ridden by Buddy Haas, was last away from the gate. Her stablemate, Twosy, with Conn McCreary up, was following close on the pacemakers during the run down the backstretch and the third member of the Calumet trio, Thine, handled by F. A. Smith, was working her way thru the middle of the pack.

Good Blood Makes Up Ground.

Jeanie Berry and Blue Skimmer continued their race around the turn but the former soon weakened. Flyweight was in fairly close quarters along the rail, racing in the second flight, and at one point Atkinson had to take her under restraint.

As they approached the stretch, Good Blood was rapidly making up all the ground she had lost by her slow break. Sweeping up on the outside, she joined her stablemate, Twosy, and together they went after Blue Skimmer.

The field straightened in the stretch for the dash to the wire and the Calumet pair, running as a team, went to the front. Good Blood gradually forged past Twosy. Flyweight meanwhile had made the turn well, as she saved ground along the rail, and was in perfect position for a strong finish, but she didn't have what it takes.

Thine Closes Fast.

Good Blood and Twosy came galloping on. Then a new roar went up from the crowd. As they neared midstretch, the third member of the Calumet team, Thine, came charging down on the extreme outside. In easy stride she outstepped the rest of the pack and followed her stable mates across the line.

The winner's time for the six furlongs was 1:13 1-5 on a slow track.

The three-pronged triumph raised the Calumet Farm's earnings for the year to $469,400, just $5,691 under the record Wright's stable set in 1941 when Whirlaway was the farm's big money winner.

The betting on the race totaled $266,119, the largest for any one race this season and of this amount $111,236 was bet on the entry to show, whereas only $57,937 went into the win pool and $40,684 into the place pool. The day's mutuel handle totaled $1,138,085.

THINE was in hand early, moved up when ready and was easily best of the others.

SARRINGHAUS, BANDUCCI JOIN ALL-STAR SQUAD

Three Missourians Also Accept Invitations.

feared thruout the conference in 1941, his sophomore season. The following year, Stanford's last in intercollegiate football, he led interference and was play maker for the backs. His home is in Phoenix, Ariz., and his father is a Supreme court judge in that state. La Prade was graduated this year with a B. A. in political science and this summer is in Yakima, Wash.

La Prade is a fine golfer, perhaps the best of all those who have played on All-Star football teams, for in 1940 he and Johnny Bulla won the Phoenix pro-amateur tournament with a low ball of 60.

Running Mate to Fekete.

Sarringhaus was a junior at Ohio State when the Buckeyes won the Western conference championship. He now is in an army ordnance company and is stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky. His home is in Hamilton, O.

Sarringhaus' brilliant running and passing matched Gene Fekete's line plunging and the pair carried Ohio State's attack in the drive to conference honors. Paul weighs 190 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. He again joins Fekete, Jack Dugger, Bill Willis, and Gordon Appleby of the 1942 Ohio State eleven for the All-Stars' assault on the pro champions.

Played for Alabama, Iowa.

Baughman, who was Iowa's center last season, played for the University of Alabama in 1941 and 1942 and transferred when the Crimson Tide dropped the sport for a year. His home is in Jeannette, Pa., and he is waiting induction into service. Baughman is 24 years of age, weighs 195 pounds, and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. He played in the last East-West game in San Francisco.

Williams, who has received two football awards at Minnesota and who was the Gophers' ball carrying ace last season, has an honorable discharge from the marines. He's another of the Minneapolis stars—he attended Roosevelt High—who made good at the state university. He weighs 180 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. Red also has one baseball award.

The Missouri trio is headed by Jack Morton, three letter man at end who won Big Six honors last season. He's a rough defensive player and a fine pass receiver, weighing 182 pounds and standing 6 feet tall. Eigelberger, whose home is in St. Louis, has been discharged from service. He captained McKinley High school in a title season and returns to Missouri this fall.

Kekeris, the last of the Missouri men, also comes from McKinley High, St. Louis, and last year played tackle and full back for the Tigers. Kerkeris' weight is 285 pounds, tops for the All-Star squad. He wears a 52 jersey and is 6 feet 2 inches tall.

Knezovich, Bradley center who now is coach of the East Peoria High school, was honorably discharged from the marines in July 1943.

White Cloud Wins in Night Yachting Race

White Cloud, George Sollitt's 60 foot cruising cutter, was first to finish late last night in the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club's second annual moonlight race from Montrose harbor to Chicago [downtown] harbor, a distance of nearly eight miles.

Commodore P. H. Danly's flagship, the 54 foot yawl Trident, was a close second, crossing the finish line off the Van Buren street gap less than a minute astern of White Cloud. Bangalore Too, Ted Lumbard and John Kinsey's 44 foot yawl, recent Mackinac race cruising victor, came in third and was in a position to win the cruising time prize, as it did last year.

After the first yachts finished, the light breeze dropped to a calm, leaving more than a score of sailing craft drifting.

Safara, owned and sailed by Russell Moon and Russell McGee, won the Chicago Yacht club's 12 mile race off Belmont harbor yesterday in light to moderate winds. The 38 foot sloop defeated nine other R boats with an elapsed time of 2 hours, 28 minutes, and 19 seconds. Harry Nye Jr. in his double ended 39 foot yacht Gale was second and Dr. T. J. Morris' Alert IV. was third.

Harvey Heiss' 30 foot S class sloop Orn won the Eagle boat race sailed on the club course. Orn covered the eight miles in 2:35:42.

Sam Clarke captured the Tumlaren class event in 2:45:12, on the eight mile course, with his 27 foot sloop Svek. Summaries:

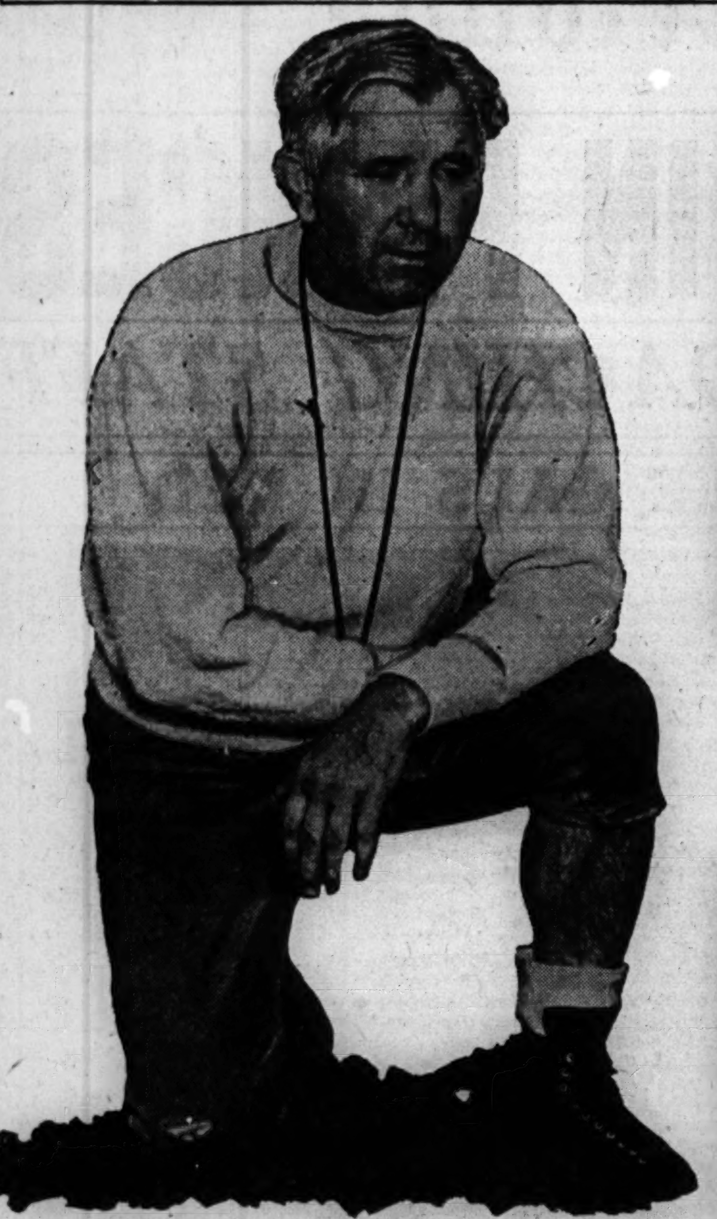
A FAMILIAR FIGURE AGAIN ON ALL-STAR SCENE



Alvin (Bo) McMillin, Indiana university's head football coach will serve as an assistant in preparing the 1944 College All-Star squad for its battle with the Chicago Bears in Evanston's Dyche stadium on Aug. 30.

The game will enable Bo to hold a reunion with several of his outstanding players of the past two or three years. Standing out among the other Hoosiers on the squad are the three members of the great 1942 back field including (left to right): Right Half Chuck Jacoby, Quarter Back Lou Saban, and Left Half Billy Hillenbrand. brand.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

The Hoosier coach received one of his greatest thrills in football from the 1938 All-Star game with the Washington Redskins when he guided the Collegians to a 28 to 16 victory. He's shown with two stars of that game, Cecil Isbell of Purdue (center) and Gus Zarnas of Ohio State.

Bears Start Work Wednesday; Expect Squad of 40 to Report

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Almost everything's new about the Bears, including the training camp they'll open Wednesday at St. Joseph's college in Collegeville, a hamlet in northwestern Indiana 80 miles from Chicago's loop.

The Bears have more question marks than a radio quiz, but of one thing they're certain. They'll show up in Northwestern's Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 30 for their fifth trip into the College All-Star series annually presented by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Beyond this, the three coaches, who aren't new by any means, have remained discreetly silent so far. The Messrs. Luke Johnsos, Hunk Anderson, and Paddy Driscoll know that no Bear team has faced more formidable odds than will the one they dress for the All-Star game. They're going to work Wednesday in a philosophic mood, just hoping for the best when they collide against an imposing array of collegians.

O, for Bulldog and Sid!

The Bears have a record of three victories and a tie in four All-Star appearances, so perish the idea that the purpose of this essay is to build up sympathy for them. For years the Bears have knocked down everyone in their path on the gridiron. They have won graciously and say they can accept defeat the same way, but not without fighting, of course.

They are hoping that Bulldog Turner and Ensign Sid Luckman will show up in their hour of need. With these two all-star National leaguers in the lineup, the Bears' chances of winning would be considerably enhanced. Ensign Luckman is in the maritime service, stationed at Sheepshead Bay, Long Island. The Bears' acting president, Ralph Brizzolara, says the club will not try to pull any strings to bring Sid to Evanston for the game. Ralph admits he would be pleased, tho, if Luckman made such arrangements, which is putting it mildly.

And What of McLean?

Turner recently passed his physical examination in Texas and being an uncommunicative sort, has not contacted the Bears. It is believed that the burly center, who hands the ball to the quarter back, then bulls his way into enemy territory, may play in at least this one game before being called.

The Bears are having minor contract troubles. Ray McLean, the speedy half back, is playing baseball in the east and is reported to have designs on becoming a big leaguer. It is believed that he will weaken as the All-Star game nears. Gary Famiglietti has been working in a Chicago war plant. Ray Nolting has agreed to play another season. Bob Snyder, who underwent a back operation several months ago, has recovered faster than anticipated, and probably will come back for another year.

Plan to Use Mundee.

If Turner doesn't return, Fred Mundee, the handy man from Notre Dame, will succeed to the center job and forget all about playing tackle. The first player among the 30 drafted to sign was Darwin Seeley, a center from Stanford. Seeley will be familiar with the Bears' style of play as Stanford uses the T formation.

Veteran linemen who are counted on to show up at St. Joseph's for the three week training session are Tackles Bill Steinkemper, Dom Sigillo, and Al Babartsky; Guards George Musso, Pete Gudanskas, and perhaps Dr. Dan Fortmann, and Ends George Wilson and Connie Mack Berry.

The Bears, in winning the pro title last season, made a lot out of what rival coaches thought was too little. They have the greatest offensive system in football, a smart coaching staff, fortitude, and the winning tradition. These all are important assets and even without Luckman they'll be dangerous.

BOB FALKENBURG WINS JUNIOR NET CROWN 2D TIME

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 5 [Special].—Robert Falkenburg of Mercer Field, Cal., successfully defended his national junior tennis singles championship today when he defeated Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., 0-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Bob Falkenburg.

Falkenburg had trouble in the first set and scored only seven points while Bartzen picked up 29. Falkenburg came back in the second set and with the score tied at 4-all, he broke Bartzen's service and then won on his own service.

He duplicated this in the third set and had an easy time taking the last one, 6-2.

Falkenberg later teamed with John Shea of Los Angeles, Cal., to win the junior doubles championship from Bartzen and Ed Ray of Sinton, Tex., 8-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Buddy Behrens, 15, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., won the boys' singles championship, but gave up a share of the boys' doubles title as MacDonald Mathey, 15, of Princeton, N. J., and Sidney Schwartz, 14, of Brooklyn, N. Y., beat Behrens and Richard Mouledous, 14, of New Orleans, La.

Neither championship match in the boys' division was close. Behrens defeated Mathey for the singles title, 6-2, 6-0, forcing the Princeton youth to stay in the back court by placing shots that prevented Mathey from being able to use his strong game at the net.

In the doubles, Mathey and Schwartz won, 6-2, 6-3, over Behrens and Mouledous. Mathey and his brother, Dean, have won the national interscholastic doubles title the last two years.

Bill Peterson Named Swim Coach at N. U.

William Peterson, assistant swimming coach at Northwestern university, has been appointed head coach to succeed Tom Robinson, who will retire Aug. 31 after 35 years of service, it was announced yesterday by K. L. Wilson, athletic director.

Peterson, who is 38 years old, is a graduate of the university and has been a member of the athletic staff since 1931 as an instructor in physical education. For the past several years Peterson has been assistant swimming coach, and served as acting coach for the last year while Robinson was on a leave of absence.

The new coach has been actively identified with swimming for a number of years and has been associated with the American Red Cross as an instructor in life saving and first aid. Since the establishment of the navy V-12 training unit at the university a year ago, Peterson has been in charge of the swimming program.

Illness resulting from an automobile accident two years ago has forced Coach Robinson to retire from the position which he has held since 1909 when he became the university's first swimming coach. During his long career he compiled one of the outsanding recorsd in swimming history as his teams won 10 Bib Ten crowns and six N. C. A. A. titles. Ten of his swimmers were members of United States Olympic teams.

because of southpaw opposition, inaugurated the move that wound up with two runs in the second. He led off with a single to left and continued to second on Russell's fumble of the hit. A pass for Pafko came next and this was followed by Don Johnson's first single, Novikoff waddling home in his own inimitable stride. With one out, Fleming singled to score Pafko. Stan Hack then walked, but Roy Hughes put the Cubs out of business momentarily by grounding into a double play.

Nicholson got his bat into stride with a single in the third, went to second on Novikoff's infield tap and to the plate on a single pumped into left by Pafko, who took second on Russell's throw-in. Johnson's second single gave Pafko a flying trip to the plate. The next outbreak was a Pirate affair. Babe Dahlgren singled and two guys walked with one out in the fourth. Two fly balls followed, one of them by Ostermueller, scoring Dahlgren for a 4 to 2 count. The Cubs made a prompt adjustment. Nicholson tripled in the fifth and counted on a fumble by Frank Zak.

The Pirates were slightly on the of two runs. Passeau led off with a single and Hack bunted him to second. Hughes beat out a grounder which Pete Coscarart tossed to the grandstand, Passeau scoring. Dahlgren recovered the loose ball and tossed it into the Cub's dugout, Hughes going to third, whence he counted the last run on Nicholson's fourth hit.

Hunters Face Job in Finding Enough Shells

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho it's only the first week in August and there will be many an outdoorsman giving first thought to fishing during the coming weeks we know that autumn isn't far away because here's Barney Weir, Huron, S. D., with the first report of the year on the South Dakota pheasant crop plus the desperate appeal that shotgun shells be released in sufficient quantity so that the boys out there can reduce the huge bird population. And if we needed further evidence that the hunting season can't be far away Ducks Unlimited is sending out a call for hunters to begin to think about shooting mudhens this fall. There are so many mudhens that the authorities would like the hunters to help cut down the coot population.

Weir's report on South Dakota may be summarized like this: Pheasants haven't done much damage to the crops [so far], but they are going to be a pest unless "they give us fellows out here shells by the case." That "shells by the case" has a lovely sound! It's a phrase that all of us like to roll on our tongues. [Wouldn't we like to be able to buy shells in case lots? Yes, along with a few million others.] But we hear that each hunter probably will get about four boxes for the whole season.

While we are dreaming about shells by the case we're being practical by investing in some more black powder for our old muzzle loader. It looks like a small supply of shotgun shells so back we go to our muzzle loader, old Betsy, the queen of the "oompah" guns. We hate to discourage our hunting partners this early in the season, but they might as well steel themselves against the inevitable. They will have to put up with our muzzle loader with its dense, black-powder smoke screens, burning wads, and the odor of overripe eggs, for we are not going to stay home because of a shortage of shotgun shells.

The mudhen business in this country shows how control measures have to be taken when certain birds get too plentiful. Right now the lowly coot is the second most plentiful waterfowl on the North American continent. A survey by the United States fish and wildlife service confirms Ducks Unlimited Canadian waterfowl breeding reports of the last few years that the coot rates next to the mallard with a population of more than 20,000,000

THEY DRAW AT HOME.

There is indication that the A's and Phils will be seen at 1944 home games by a million fans judging by the attendance records to date. Last year each exceeded 450,000 in paid admissions.

The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

INDUSTRIAL sports' big summer contribution to war time relief will be made Monday, Aug. 21, when four softball games will be played in Weber park for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. world service and prisoner of war fund. The participants will be six men's and two girls' teams picked from four leagues operating under the supervision of the Division Street, North Avenue-Larrabee, and Lincoln-Belmont Ys.

The idea was started last year and was such a success that it was a matter of course that it would be repeated. Followers of the 37 industrial teams in the four leagues already have shown enough interest to indicate a possible attendance of from 800 to 1,000. All receipts will go toward the funds named as beneficiaries.

Players and Managers to Try Hands at Picking All-Stars.

Each of the three men's teams will select two squads, with the provision that each team must be represented by three players on its league's squad. The method to be used in picking the squads is left to the leagues. The Division Street league, for example, will let the players on each of its member teams elect three of their own number for the all-star squad, a plan which proved successful last year, when that league won both of its games. The North Avenue circuit will place its hopes in the hands of the managers, who, acting as a group, will draft three men from each team.

The girls' game will be strictly a North Avenue proposition, since that is the only association of the trio which has a feminine league. The Schwinn Bicycle company girls, leaders in the league, will oppose an all-star group selected from the other six clubs.

Three Division St. Teams to Play for First Half Title.

Three softball teams — Bendix Aviation, Thordarson Electric, and Eicor Incorporated, which tied for first place in the Division Street Industrial league for the first half of the season, will play off the deadlock tomorrow night. The scene will be Weber park and there will be three games, starting at 8 p. m., as follows: Bendix vs. Eicor, Eicor vs. Thordarson, and Thordarson vs. Bendix. What will happen if each team wins one game is something for Steve Barak, the league director, to worry about. This session will also be the Thordarson homecoming night, the special night originally set aside for that industry having been rained out.

Tommy Lo Presti, who played softball with the Eicor team last season, has been in a hospital for some time recovering from a fractured leg which he suffered during the invasion of Saipan.

How much time do the employes of a big war time industry devote to recreation in a year? Probably there would be almost as many different guesses as there were persons asked such a question and it's a sure thing all of 'em would be too low. The Employes Recreation club at the Lockheed Aircraft corporation in Burbank, Cal., has done some figuring and comes up with the startling statement that Lockheed workers will devote five million hours to sports and recreation during 1944.

North Zone Teams Complete Their Fourth Round Today.

The I. A. G. A. north zone teams—there now are 102 foursomes on the official list in that area—will complete their fourth preliminary round today, when 41 teams play at Bonny Brook and the Waukegan Suburban C. C. The west zone played its fourth round last week with the Belden Manufacturing quartet, Frank Kiss, W. Kimball, J. Schaeffer, and J. Wise, getting the low gross of 341. Lindberg Steel Treat had low net, 294.

Inland Champion

Jim Faltus plays iron shot in Inland Steel company employes' golf tournament at Burnham Woods. Faltus and Leonard Kraay tied for the championship in field of 185 Inland workers.

TWO Inland Steel golf teams continue to set the pace in the Calumet Industrial Golf league, which has a membership of 24 teams in the northern Indiana industrial area. The two Inland teams at present are tied for the lead, with prospects for a hot battle down the stretch, in which they not only will have to watch each other, but also such rivals as Lever Brothers, American Steel Foundry, and Sinclair Oil. Standings of the Calumet league to date are:

Inland No. 1, 90½; Inland No. 2, 90½; Lever Brothers, 84½; American Steel Foundry, 80; Sinclair Oil, 78; I. H. B. Railway No. 1, 69; Continental Foundry No. 1, 68½; E. I. du Pont, 65; Continental Foundry No. 2, 58½; Socony-Vacuum, 53; Youngstown S. & T. No. 2, 48; Graver Tank No. 1, 48; Ucopco, 48; I. H. B. No. 2, 47½; Youngstown S. & T. No. 1, 45; Graver Tank No. 2, 44; United Boiler and Foundry, 43½; Nipsco, 41½; Taylor Chain, 34; Keene Foundry, 33½; Carbide and Carbon No. 2, 30½; Carbide and Carbon No. 1, 30; Pressed Steel Car, 27½; Graver Tank No. 3, 27.

Main topic of conversation these days in the widespread Industrial Amateur Golf association, one of Chicagoland's biggest industrial sports organizations, are the activities of the Douglas Aircraft boys. Instead of playing in their own west zone preliminaries last Sunday, three Douglas foursomes, in charge of Art Sweet, the old time amateur star, accepted an invitation to play with the north zone industries at Waukegan Suburban Country club and Glencoe. More than that, the Douglas No. 1 foursome turned in a gross of 306 strokes, second best made by any I. A. G. A. team this year. It has been beaten only by the 305 total made by American Steel and Wire of Waukegan, the 1943 league champion.

1st Pitcher to Reach Mark; Senators Are Victims.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5 (AP).—Big Cecil [Tex] Hughson, triumphed today over the Washington Senators, 6 to 2, to gain the distinction of being the first major league pitcher to win 17 games this season. He also struck out nine batters to raise his total to 107.

This gives the young Texan, who stands ready to answer an early call for naval duty, first place for the strikeout honors.

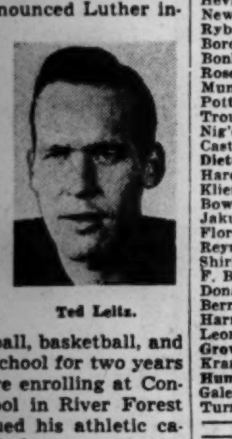
Ted Leitz Named Luther Institute Football Coach

Athletic Director Louis A. Menking yesterday announced Luther institute will be represented in the Private High School Football league this year and named Ted Leitz as football coach. It will be the school's first venture into football since its organization in 1930.



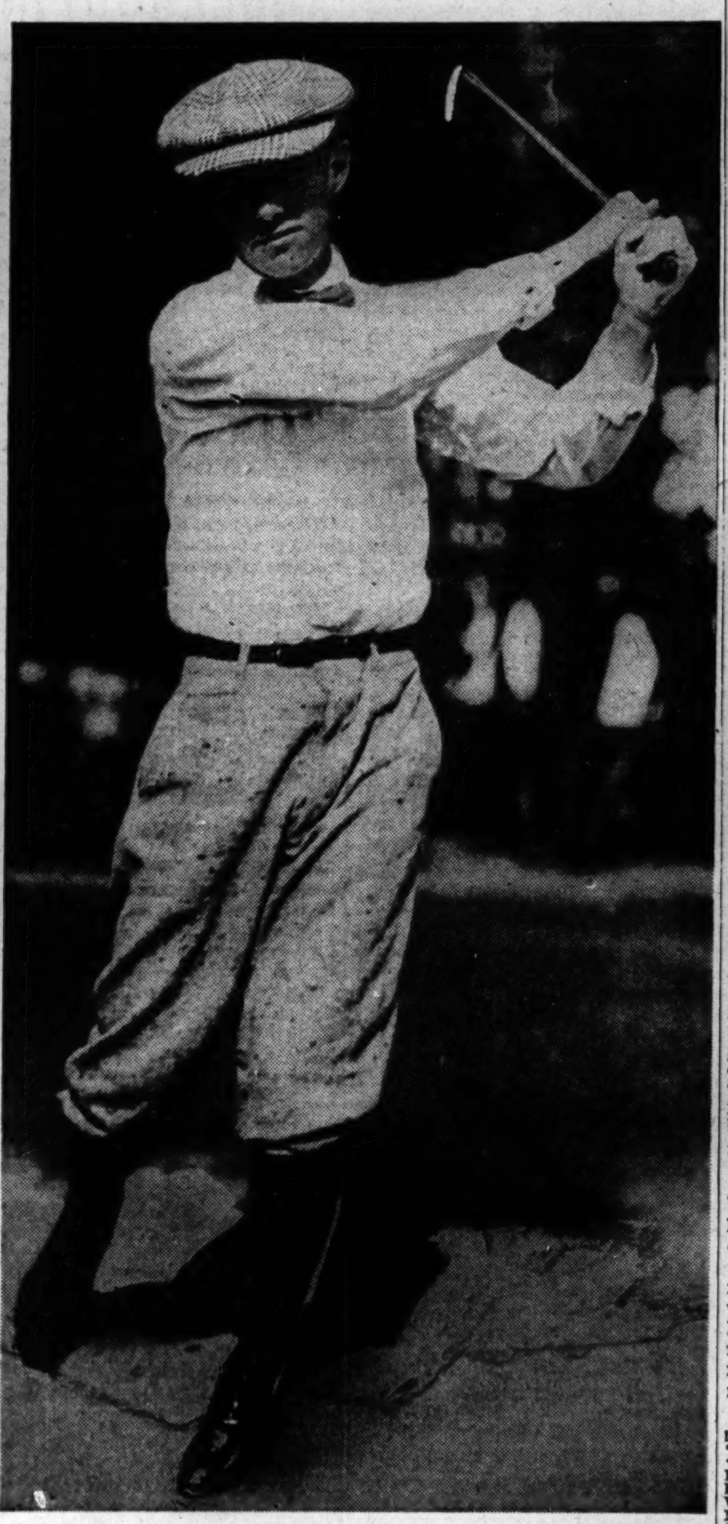
Ted Leitz.

A native of East Detroit, Leitz played football, basketball, and baseball in high school for two years in Michigan before enrolling at Concordia High school in River Forest where he continued his athletic career. He earned four monograms each in football and baseball and two each in basketball and track at Concordia college.

Leitz will continue teaching full time at the First St. John's Luthern school in addition to coaching football at Luther next season.

IT'S CHICK AGAIN IN CITY AMATEUR AFTER 33 YEARS

Sometimes they DO come back. Chick Evans (left), who first won the Chicago golf championship in 1907 and repeated in 1908 and 1911, prepares to accept the trophy emblematic of the 1944 crown from George Donoghue, superintendent of the Chicago Park district (center), at Jackson park yesterday. At right is Harold Mathisen of St. Andrews, who was beaten by Evans in the finals, 3 and 2. Evans represents Edgewater. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



And here is Chick as he looked in 1911, the year of his third City triumph. Evans, then 21 years old, was at the threshold of a career which was to lead him to two National Amateur and one National Open championships.

three. They halved the next two, but it was even after Harold drove poorly on the fourth and struck a tree with his recovery. Both missed the fifth green for bogey fives. Then Mathisen won the 183 yard sixth, where Chick missed the green and took a four.

Both went for bogeys at the 295 yard 11th, Harold failing to hit the green, while Evans missed a three foot putt for a win. Chick then squared it again with a 10 foot birdie putt at the 475 yard 15th, Harold dubbing his second shot. The latter regained the lead with a birdie at the 347 yard 16th, where he planted his approach one foot from the flag.

Chick Gets Going.

Chick appeared to have the 17th won, after Mathisen had sent his drive into the left rough, but the four time champion gained half with a neat four foot putt that circumvented Evans' ball. Mathisen had to drop a six footer for a birdie three at the 260 yard 18th after Evans had nearly holed out for a deuce.

They played the 19th and 20th, first of the afternoon round, in orthodox style. Harold then overshot the 21st green, and lost it to Evans' par four. Chick had a chance on the 23rd, where Mathison drove the bushes and hit a poor third shot, but the veteran failed on a short putt, while his younger foe was holing a 25 footer for a half.

Finally Takes Lead.

Chick finally went one up for the first time at the 27th, Mathisen's second shot going over the green while Evans was getting a regulation four. Chick drove the 267 yard 28th, eventually winning the hole with a birdie. He was three up after No. 29 when Mathison sent his approach into the sand back of the green. Harold had an eight foot chance for a deuce at the 119 yard 31st, but couldn't run it down.

He earned a fine half at the 475 yard 32d, where he dubbed his second shot. Firing an iron within 25 feet of the hole, he dropped the putt to match Evans. Chick made sure of his half on the decisive 34th with two neat shots and an approach putt dead to the hole.

BAKSI, SAVOLD MEET TOMORROW IN WRIGLEY FIELD

Each Seeks Victory in Third Battle.

Joe Baksi, ex-coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., and Lee Savold of Paterson, N. J., are ready for their 10 round bout in Wrigley field tomorrow night. Baksi finished training yesterday while Lee concluded drills on Friday. Both appeared in fine form in final workouts and indications are the meeting, which will be the third between the men, will be evenly waged.

Savold Won 1st Bout.

Savold, who is 27 years old and originally made his home in St. Paul, was awarded a split decision in 10 rounds when they met the first time in Madison Square Garden on March 10.

Baksi, who is 22, evened the score in a 12 round rematch, also offered in the Garden, two months later. Joe has displayed considerable skill since then and off the encore is favored to make it two out of three tomorrow.

Has Won 38 Bouts.

On the strength of his previous conquest of Savold, the 212 pound Pennsylvanian was named No. 1 civilian contender for a shot at Joe Louis' title by the National Boxing association.

During his five year campaign, Baksi has engaged in 45 fights. He scored 38 victories, 14 by knockouts, fought four draws, and lost three decisions, one was that first loss to Savold. Altho he has met some tough fighters, Joe's hardest battle was with a 224 pounder from Washington, D. C., named Al Hart.

Baksi recovered from a fourth round knockdown to earn a draw with Hart, whom he fought in a preliminary to a championship match between Louis and Abe Simon two years ago. Joe then knocked out Georgie Parks in Washington and defeated Jimmy Carollo, former New York intercity Golden Gloves title holder, in New York.

Defeated Tami Mauriello.

Those conquests gained for him his first 10 round main event against Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia trial horse, in Washington a year ago last March. He lost to Dorazio in a return fight, but came back to score five straight victories, his victims including Herb Marshall and Dan Merritt. He knocked out Merritt in the sixth round in Baltimore, the feat giving him his big chance against Tami Mauriello in the Garden in February of this year. Tami, recognized as No. 2 challenger, had registered seven triumphs in a row and was expected to beat the newcomer from Kulpmont with ease.

Mauriello was due for a rude awakening. He not only was beaten but Baksi added insult to injury by flooring him for a nine count in the first round.

Savold, who is a physical training instructor in the United States maritime service, will be making his first Chicago appearance since knocking out Lou Nova, also in Wrigley field, just two days short of a year ago. It was his fourth straight knockout in the midwest metropolis.

Parks Faces Lane.

Parks, Washington fighter, is paired with Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in an eight round semi-windup on tomorrow's card. Georgie has won his last three starts at the expense of Johnny Tuck, Wallace Cross, and Nate Bolden. Lane knocked out Lem Franklin in Newark, July 24, but was beaten by Tony Shucco and Lee Oma previously.

The 10,000 paying guests anticipated at the show, first major program of the outdoor season, will be augmented by an estimated 8,000 service men and women, who will be admitted free thru the coöperation of the Coliseum Boxing club, which is promoting the fight, and the Chicago Amusement commission on national defense.

HEADLINE FIGHT CARDS

Lee Savold (right), Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, will renew his ring feud with Joe Baksi, Kulpmont, Pa., slugger, tomorrow night in the headline attraction of a pro card in Wrigley field.

Sgt. Lou Woods, Camp Grant middleweight, clashes with Lou Angelucci, former city Golden Gloves champion, in one of the four eight round bouts that top the program in Marigold Gardens tomorrow night.

WOODS BATTLES ANGELUCCI IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Sgt. Lou Woods, Camp Grant boxing instructor, and Lou Angelucci, 1940 city Golden Gloves middleweight champion, ended training yesterday for their eight round bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow night.

If Woods wins he will earn a match with Ray [Sugar] Robinson in Chicago Stadium Sept. 15. The noncom will be making his first start since stopping Tommy James in a Stadium semi-windup on June 2. Previously, he lost a split decision to Jack Lamotta of New York, also in the Stadium, March 31.

Unbeaten in Chicago.

The setback was Woods' second in 30 professional appearances and snapped his string of nine straight victories.

Angelucci, who used to be a soldier stationed at Camp Devens, Mass., is undefeated in his last five Chicago starts. He was held to a draw by Mike Edwards on July 12, but earlier conquered Bishop Murphy, Joe Conrad, Eddie Lipsky, and George Sapolich, the latter three by knockouts.

Brown Meets Taylor.

Other eight round events on the card will bring together Collins Brown, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, who is undefeated as a pro, and Tito Taylor; Johnny Bratton, this year's lightweight Golden Gloves finalist, who also is unbeaten as a money fighter, and Ted Christie, and Jimmy Hunt, still another former Golden Glover, and Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor 160 pounder.

CAMERONS SEEK 4TH STRAIGHT IN AMATEUR PLAY

The Camerons will seek their fourth straight victory in the Humboldt-Welles park bracket of the Metropolitan Amateur Baseball league this afternoon when they meet the St. Barts club in Humboldt park. In the junior division, the Nelson Hirschbergs, leaders in the Kilbourne-Portage bracket with two in a row, clash with the Cardinals in Jefferson park.

Thurnblad, who used to play basketball at St. Mel High school in Chicago and performed on a basketball court at Illinois Wesleyan, will be at short, while Boyd, erstwhile catcher for Lane Tech in Chicago, will be behind the plate against the Seahawks. Jerry Kerschner will represent this station in the national A. A. U. men's senior diving and swimming meet in the Green Bay area pool at Great Lakes Aug. 25, 26, and 27.

Pvt. Tim Dalton, 1943 Chicago Golden Gloves lightweight champion, knocked out Harold Tanner of Warren, O., in a show held recently at Camp Reynolds, Greenville, Pa., to which Dalton has been transferred from this establishment. . . . Vince Pellegrini and Mickey Grod, Chicago lightweights, now are the only remaining experienced members of the camp boxing team. . . . Both are in limited service. . . . The next game for the Camp Grant baseball varsity will be Saturday when the Warriors play a 6th Service command engagement at Fort Sheridan. . . . A return contest scheduled last Tuesday against Glenview Air station was cancelled at the request of the naval flyers shortly after the Warriors dealt them a 13 to 6 drubbing in their first meeting.

Fort Sheridan.

BOXING representatives of this post will swing back into action against Fort Custer at Battle Creek, Mich., Thursday. . . . Civilian Coach Ike Bernstein will have an entirely new squad to represent Fort Sheridan since he has lost the services of the team which was defeated by the Catholic Youth organization, five bouts to three, at this establishment on July 20. . . . The fort's baseball team will meet Truax field at Madison, Wis., this afternoon and Camp Grant's Warriors at this installation next Saturday. . . . In the only contest played last week Fort Sheridan beat the Falk corporation of Milwaukee, 8 to 6, behind the pitching of Bob Essex of Green Bay. . . . It was Bob's fourth victory of the season. . . . Ed Watkins, former Chicago Bears tackle, is among the candidates for a place on the fort's football team. . . . More than 250 soldiers of this camp have received free tickets to tomorrow night's heavyweight bout between Lee Savold and Joe Baksi.

FIELD OF 16 PIN STARS TO VIE IN MASTERS' MEET

A real test of the pre-season sharp shooting ability of some of the nation's better bowlers will be made at Dearborn-Jackson recreation Friday when the third annual Masters' round robin tournament will open.

The Masters' individual brings into competition 16 top flight bowlers, including Ned Day, national individual match game champion, and Bill Flesch and Buddy Bomar, the Monarch Beer stars and holders of the national two-man match game title. The two previous winners of the Masters', Joe Sinke and Russ Creamer, also will participate.

Each Bowls 28 Games.

The field of 16 will be split into two eight men groups, with each man required to bowl every other man in his group four games across eight alleys to complete the round robin pattern. This makes a bowling task of 28 games in all for each bowler entered. The Petersen point system of scoring will determine the winner.

The event will run nightly except next Sunday and will continue thru Aug. 19, starting each night at 8 o'clock.

Squad No. 1, consisting of Day, Bomar, Jules Sowa, George Calder, Creamer, Charlie Drs, Wally Freitag, and Pete Petersen, will open the shooting Friday with their first four game block and follow this on the 12th, 14th and 15th with eight games each evening.

Winners Play for Title.

Squad No. 2, composed of Sinke, Flesch, Eddie Zajac, Johnny Small, Walley Genter, Mel Schwoegler, Rudy Habetler and Tubby Reichart, will take over on the 16th with their first block of four games and complete their schedule by shooting eight each of the following three nights. The winner of each squad will battle for the championship over an eight game route Sunday, Aug. 20.

All entry money will be returned in prizes plus the net receipts of admissions.

JOCKEY ROBERT PERMANE, the former vaudeville trouper, who has moved into second place in the national jockey parade, says a left handed jockey has an advantage in a race. . . . Permane, who is a southpaw himself, contends that some horses have a habit of bearing in toward the rail and by whipping them on the left side it keeps them off. . . . Bobby has booted in more than 142 winners since the first of the year. . . . Ted Atkinson leads with 163. . . . John Hertz, owner of Count Fleet, which has been retired to the stud, speaking . . . "Passenger car tires made from synthetic rubber are essentially as good as those made from crude rubber. Certainly good enough so that difference in compounding techniques, tire design and quality of workmanship are far more important to the user than differences due to the use of synthetic rubber."

—FROM A RECENT ADDRESS BY COLONEL BRADLEY DEWEY, RUBBER DIRECTOR, WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

READ those underscored words again: difference in compounding techniques, tire design and quality of workmanship are far more important to the user than differences due to the use of synthetic rubber.

That has been true since tires were first built. Leadership in tire engineering always has determined leadership in tire quality and performance.

And it is even truer now, because synthetic rubber requires more skill and ability to fabricate into tires—a fact that makes Goodyears your smartest buy today.

For in Goodyear tires you get a product of the experience that has produced more than 350,000,000 natural rubber pneumatic tires and more than 4,000,000 synthetic rubber tires—millions more than any other manufacturer!

And beyond this, Goodyears are benefited by the vast technical resources of the world's finest rubber research laboratory—a background that includes twenty years of pioneering in synthetics and the development of America's first all-synthetic rubber tire.

What this means you'll find in the severe "stop-start" service record of nineteen taxicab fleets who report an average of 22,574 miles before retreading from Goodyear synthetic rubber tires.

With tires still as precious as they are today, it's more important than ever to get the best when you get a certificate. That means Goodyears, now, as for the past twenty-nine years, the world's first-choice tire—because it's the best-built tire!

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES THAT MAKE GOODYEAR SYNTHETIC RUBBER TIRES WEAR LONGER

2. SCIENTIFIC DESIGN keeps tread under compression, improving wear and providing greater resistance to cutting.
3. PROVEN NON-SKID TREADS—designed to give maximum cooling essential with synthetic rubber.
5. BEADS—designed to fit rim securely, reinforced with high carbon steel.

The 44th annual amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association, one of the oldest and best fairway competitions in the game, will go to the tee tomorrow morning at Lake Forest's Onwentsia club, scene of the inaugural championship in 1901. The tournament, one of the few established golf events which have not been interrupted by the war, also was held at Onwentsia in 1902 and 1924. All proceeds of the 1944 battle will be directed to the recreational fund of the new Vaughan General hospital for wounded veterans of World War II.

Tomorrow's opening program will consist of 18 holes of medal play, thru which the 32 players in the championship bracket will be determined. All other scorers beyond these 32 will play in subsidiary flights. Match play will begin Tuesday morning, with another morning round on Wednesday. Thursday's quarter-finals will be played in the afternoon, as will Friday's semi-finals. The championship match on Saturday will be at 36 holes.

Will Defend Title.

Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphia collegian who has identified herself as one of the longest hitters in women's golf, will return to defend the championship she won last summer at Evanston. This personable protege of Harold [Jug] McSpaden, pro golf's leading money winner in 1944, indicated only last June that she is ready for the job by going to the title match in the W. W. G. A. Open meet, wherein it took none other than Mildred Didrikson Zaharias to defeat her.

Miss Germain, first easterner to win the W. W. G. A. amateur, will find plenty of competition in the six day struggle at Onwentsia. Among those returning are Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., runnerup to Miss Germain at Evanston, and a finalist in 1941 also, and the co-medalists of the 1943 tournament—Kay Byrne of New York and Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J.

Jeanne Cline to Play.

This would seem to be a talented foursome in itself, but there will be more than a few other feminine stars on the Onwentsia premises this week to debate the issue with Miss Wall and the three eastern swingers. Among these are Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., new state champion and one of the semi-finalists in the 1944 Open at Park Ridge; Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D.; Betty Jane Rucker of Spokane, Wash.; Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia.; Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia., and Betty Jane Haemerle of St. Louis, another of this year's semi-finalists in the Open.

In addition to the qualifying medal and the championship proper, two other W. W. G. A. honors will be decided this week. One is the contest for the Marion Miley trophy, named for the late Kentucky star and awarded to the player who has the lowest combined score for the medal play tests in the Open and amateur. Mrs. Zaharias won the medal in the Open, but does not plan to play in the amateur. Miss Germain was runnerup for the medal at Park Ridge with a 79, followed by Miss Otto with an 81.

Another prize is the Machmeyer team trophy, which will be awarded to the foursome from any one club which has the low aggregate score for tomorrow's 18 holes.

SISTO WINS TWO FEATURE RACES AT ROCKINGHAM

Salem, N. H., Aug. 5 (AP).—Jockey Rocco Sisto of Providence, R. I., rode the winners of both featured races at Rockingham Park this afternoon.

He brought home W. Gullett's First Draft in the $5,000 added Granite State handicap after riding the same owner's Clyde Tolson under the wire first in the Barnstead allowance purse for $1,800.

Sisto rode First Draft from fifth place in the 11th running of the Granite State to overcome the early lead of M. Marmorstein's Castleman, the favorite, in a spirited stretch run.

The winner's time over the mile and sixteenth route was 1:46.4. First Draft paid $11.00, $4.40 and $2.80. Coronal returned $4.40 and $3, while Castleman paid $2.60 to show.

The daily double paid $695.20 for the largest price of the meeting as J. Tucci's Wood Robin won the first race and I. J. White's Henry Payne, a 35 to 1 shot, won the second.

Race Horses Quit Running in Berlin to Help Nazis Run

THE LOCKER ROOM

ROUND-OF THE-WEEK
The 67's shot by Chick Harbert and John Revolta in Central Motor Freight meet.

SHOT-OF-THE-WEEK
Jane Nelson's 160 yard 3 iron for duece at 386 yard first hole in C. W. D. G. A. event.

THE Locker Room today salutes the Women's Western Golf association as it enters its second and final phase of the 1944 competitive season with tomorrow's qualifying round in the 44th amateur tournament of the organization at its debut site, the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest. . . . The W. W. G. A. thruout the war years has been one of the strongest factors in maintaining the game on a championship basis. . . . The work of such women as Mrs. F. A. Bunte and Mrs. Charles Dennehy in this trying period has been an outstanding contribution to the game's part in the war. . . . The efforts of such groups as the Chicago District Golf association, the Chicago Women's District Golf association, and the Professional Golfers' Association of America have been superb; no record of war time golf would be complete without a bow to the W. W. G. A. . . . They outdid themselves in their recruiting campaign of 1943, and the tournament at Onwentsia the next six days is another testimonial to them. . . . All of the proceeds of the Amateur as well as the highly successful Open at Park Ridge in June will be directed to the recreational fund of the new Vaughan General hospital for wounded veterans of World War II. . . . The worth of the cause will find no argument. . . . Nor will the caliber of the bright field, which includes last year's champion, runner-up, and co-medalists and a host of able gal swingers from every section of the country.

Eagles to Bob Zeddies for His Fine 71 at Bob o' Link.

Last week the Locker Room sent eagles to Tommy McMahon for his fine 75 in the annual Pro-Presidents' tournament at Oak Park. . . . Today it is pleased to accord same to Bob Zeddies, who on last Sunday shot a 71 at Bob o' Link, one of the real golfing problems of this section. . . . Bob, the noted collector of golf curios, putted for 11 birdies and one eagle and got five of them. . . . Last winter, at Florida's Everglades club, Zeddies shot a 72-74 against Johnny Farrell, former Open champion, who posted a 74-76 for the same distance. . . . Bob Harlow, long time manager of Walter Hagen and later director of the P. G. A. tournament bureau, is still editing the Pinehurst [N. C.] Outlook, one of the best golfing newspapers in the game. . . . The Bowling Proprietors of Chicago will gather on Aug. 24 for their annual golf outing at the St. Andrews club in West Chicago. . . . The L. R. regrets its absence, since that is the day a fellow named George S. May opens his $42,500 war bond party at Tam o' Shanter. . . . Among the out of town guests expected to join in the ten pin officials' fun are Harold Allen, Detroit; A. O. Sackin, Kansas City; Eli Whitney, Milwaukee; Harry Feuser of St. Louis, and the following Michigan delegation: Wilfred G. Albert, Frank Mitzel, and W. W. Edgar. . . . Medinah will hold its annual Camel Trail, one of the leading invitational tourneys of the season, at the big west side club on Wednesday.

The Inquiring Golfer

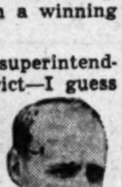
THE QUESTION.

What was the best single shot of your golfing career?

THE ANSWERS.

Chick Evans, Edgewater, Chicago city amateur champion—The one that stands highest in my memory was a shot in the first round of the 1920 National Amateur. I was one down with one to go to Reggie Lewis. My drive was poor and my recovery turned up in ankle deep clover. Then I smacked the ball six feet from the hole and dropped the putt to square the match, since Reggie three putted. I won five holes later, on the 41st green, and later went on to win the championship.

Harold Mathisen, St. Andrews, Chicago city amateur runnerup—I'll always recall a shot I made in the final match of the 1937 city amateur here at Jackson park. I was one up on Pete Miller on the last tee. He hit a fine drive to the center of the green. I was short, near the third tee, and about 80 yards from the pin. My approach stopped three feet from the flag, and I was able to earn a winning half.



George T. Donoghue, superintendent, Chicago Park district—I guess every golfer's ambition is to make a hole-in-one, and while I have yet to join the select circle of those who have, I came mighty close not long ago at Edgewater. Playing with Cap Wenger, past president of the club, I hit a 5 iron to the par three eighth, which struck the rim of the cup and then stopped a foot past.

MANY a golfer, having made a single hole-in-one, cherishes the memory of the feat for a lifetime, but Dr. Augie Pecaro, the bowling-golfing dentist from Elmhurst, has one of the finest collections in the district of great shots at his home club. . . . He has scored aces at the 145 yard seventh and 185 yard 13th. . . . That would seem to be sufficient glory, but he also fired a No. 1 iron last year for a deuce at the 448 yard ninth, and only a week ago holed out a No. 8 iron for another deuce on the 463 yard 17th. . . . This leaves the doctor with a field of 14 more holes to attack with super golf, his only other chance for an ace being the 224 yard 18th. . . . Walter Mullady, the noted southpaw golfer and fancier of prize porkers, had a busy week. . . . In addition to finishing runnerup in the Central Motor Freight tournament, he also conducted a quite successful sale of Hampshire bred sows at his farm near Elgin. . . . As long as two fellows like Chick Evans and his protege, Jack Atten, continue to play the sort of golf they did in the 40th city amateur at Jackson park, the old show will still be one of the best in the game. . . . Jack, who has caddied for the veteran, eliminated the Midwest amateur finalists, Lou Esposito and Bob Dougherty, before bowing to Harold Mathisen, four time winner of the championship, on the last green. . . . This week-end finds Lincolnshire southpaw golfers determining their annual left handers' title with 36 holes of medal play. . . . And speaking of southpaws, they should not forget that the C. D. G. A. has scheduled its annual argument among them for Aug. 18 at Ravisloe.

Harbert, Laffoon, Foulis, Dennison to Meet in Midlothian Exhibition.

When it comes around to discussing foursomes who really enjoy golf, Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley submits the quartet of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gunderson; Tom Duffy and Jack Tucker. . . . The four are always on deck at 5:15 p. m. each Thursday at Westgate. . . . Tom also reports that his brother Packey, who was doing a grand job at superintendent of golf in the Chicago Park district before he went into the army, is now out of the hospital in New Guinea and has rejoined his unit. . . . Midlothian will offer one of the best exhibition matches of the season at 2 p. m. next Sunday when Pvt. Chick Harbert, Ky Laffoon, Jim Foulis, and Red Dennison tee off in an 18 hole session for the U. S. O. . . . Midlothian, in a single day, contributed $180 to the C. D. G. A. Dime-A-Round fund. . . . Tam o' Shanter tomorrow will give its caddies their big annual party.

ALSAB, RETIRED BY AL SABATH, TO ENTER STUD

Alsab, one of the greatest bargain yearlings in the history of the turf, has been retired and will enter the stud next spring, it was announced last night by owner Albert Sabath. The 5 year old bay horse was purchased for $700 and went on to earn $350,015 in purses.

In making the announcement Sabath said that Alsab has been on the Washington Park track every day this summer and has galloped and breezed soundly. But he has grown in bulk and stature and because he requires from two to three actual races before being ready to do his best, it was decided not to risk any possibility, however remote, of injury to him or of aggravating the leg injury suffered last year.

UNBEATEN PAVOT TAKES BELMONT JUVENILE SPRINT

New York, Aug. 5 (AP).—George Woolf accounted for both stakes in the Saratoga at Belmont meeting today, guiding Walter M. Jeffords' unbeaten Pavot to a triumph in the six furlong sprint for juveniles and the Boone Hall stable's Princequillo to a close verdict in a mile and three-sixteenths event for older horses.

Pavot shot his earnings to $52,475 with his fourth consecutive triumph by taking the $10,000 United States hotel stakes by three lengths from William Ziegler Jr.'s Esteem. War Jeep, from the Main Chance stable, was the early leader and wound up third.

Pavot Pays $3.40.

The muscular brown son of Case Ace-Coquelicot by Man O'War, tore thru the distance on the main track in 1:12 1-5 to return $3.40, $3, and $2.50 to his backers. He carried 126 pounds.

Princequillo, last year's marathon champion altho beaten four times before his recent triumph at Jamaica, rallied from behind a fast early pace by A. S. Hewitt's Some Chance. The winner, last out of the starting stall, drew even with the leaders in the stretch turn and when Some Chance weakened, Princequillo moved out in front.

Ramilles Half a Length Back.

Lt. W. P. Chrysler's Ramilles was a half length in back for second and held a similar margin over Ziegler's third place Wait A Bit, the favorite. Princequillo went the distance in 1:56 1-5 and paid $8, $4.40, and $2.90.

ADAMS ON 3 WINNERS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5 (AP).—Johnny Adams returned today to the Fair Grounds from a 10 day suspension to ride three favorites to victories before 13,710 spectators, scoring on Seven Hearts in the $7,500 Godolphin handicap, on Black Badge in the $5,000 Myrtlewood handicap, and on Favor in a turf course race.

Riding three different kinds of races on the three winners, the 4 foot 8 inch jockey led every step of the mile and one-sixteenth with Seven Hearts to beat out Wise Moss in 1:44 1-5. Col. Teddy was third.

With Black Badge he jumped into the lead half way in the 6 furlong race to cross the line in 1:10 4-5 ahead of Amber Light. My Pet Rambler finished third. It was Black Badge's 20th triumph in 38 starts.

Favor came from far back in the stretch to beat Stell by nearly a length in 1:31 4-5 and score its first victory in 21 starts this year.

The mutuel handle today was $556,003.

RECORD AT GARDEN

Camden, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP).—Alex Barth, under the silks of Louis Minkoff's Millbrook stable, cut a second and one-fifth off the track record today in winning the Quaker City handicap, feature of the Garden State Park racing program.

Ridden by Eric Guerin, he went the distance in 1:42 3-5 and earned $13,350. He was a 3 to 5 favorite.

Closest to the winner and just failing to last was W. L. Ranch's Paperboy, and only a neck away, E. C. Eastwood's Challamore was third after setting the early pace.

Despite sweltering heat, a crowd of 16,277 turned out for the program. The mutuel handle totaled $1,265,853.

STEEL PROSPECTS.

A leading statistical organization estimated recently that, as a result of the prolonged diversion of industrial and transportation facilities to military requirements, "the heaviest consumers goods demand of all time will develop after the axis powers are crushed."

Accumulated shortages to the end of 1943 were put at 7 million automobiles and trucks, 4.7 million refrigerators, 3.3 million vacuum cleaners, 4.8 million cooking stoves, 20 million radios and phonographs, and so on. Necessarily there is guesswork in such figures, but these needs along with requirements for residential and other construction, including capital goods, are counted on to create large post-war demands for steel, following a temporary slump expected on completion of the war production program.

Noting, as an example, that when Bethlehem Steel recently was selling at only 2 points above its 1940 low, Chrysler was quoted not far from double its low for that year, the monthly letter of a stock exchange firm conclude that steel stocks have been "valuing their post-war prospects modestly." Some of the reasons, as discussed in market quarters, are that the steel industry has an excess of capacity; that it is competitive; that wage costs will be kept higher after the war than in the past because of unionization; and that other materials to some extent will replace steel.

The other side of the argument holds that in the light of the comparative costs and availability of competitive materials, even tho the supplies have been largely increased, steel's position as the basic industrial material is secure. Problems of excess capacity and increased wage rates, according to these more optimistic views, are solvable if demand for steel permits the economies that accompany high output levelt. But much uncertainty surrounds the "if."

Part of any decline in steel operating earnings would be absorbed by a decrease in federal tax liabilities. It is believed, moreover, there is some leeway for an advance in steel prices. The bureau of labor statistics index of iron and steel prices at 97.1 for May this year compared with 95.8 for 1939, altho the all-commodity index of wholesale prices has risen from 77.1 to 104.

PROCTER'S NET EARNINGS FALL IN FISCAL YEAR

Procter and Gamble company, producer of soap and allied products, yesterday reported reduced earnings in its fiscal year ended June 30. Settlement of patent litigation was reflected in the figures.

Richard R. Deupree.

Net income for the year, after payment of $5,675,000 in settlement of the suit, amounted to $19,440,182, equal to $2.94 a share, compared with $20,677,054, or $3.13 a share, in the preceding year. The figures excluded English and Canadian subsidiaries.

Fat Allotment Increased.

Richard R. Deupree, president, said business increased slightly as the result of increased allotments of fat, and that production should be maintained at a similar volume for the next several months. However, shortages of fats and oils and of paper board for packaging restrict output, he asserted.

Concerning foreign operations, Deupree said the company still was doing a normal volume of business in England and Canada.

"All of our plants in England are operating," he said. "They have suffered no damage in the last year. Our business in Cuba continues to be good, and we have every reason to believe normal progress will be made.

Believe Java Plant Destroyed.

"Since the Philippine Islands and Java are still in the hands of the Japanese, we are unable to make a positive statement about the condition of our plants there, but we believe the Philippine plant is intact and being operated by the Japanese. The Java plant is believed to be largely destroyed."

The Rudolph Wurlitzer company, Chicago piano manufacturer engaged in war production, reported profit of $58,744, equal to 14 cents per share, in the three months ended June 30.

MECHANIC LACK HELD THREAT TO CAB OPERATION

Yellow, Checker Officials Tell War Problems.

Despite war time shortages of man power and replacement parts, Chicago's larger taxi companies are carrying on, altho, as one official put it, his company is barely "keeping its head above water." Officials of the Yellow Cab and Checker Taxi companies agreed the main shortage is in skilled mechanics. Continued operation at present levels hinges on this factor, they said.

Another bottleneck in the operation of the cabs is the shortage of repair parts, altho the easing of government restrictions has relieved the situation, the officials said.

Major Pinch in Mechanics.

"If it were not for the shortage of mechanics our company would be over the hump insofar as ability to weather the war with present equipment is concerned," said Benjamin Samuels, Yellow Cab vice president. "If the war is over by January we will be in good shape."

Samuels and M. M. Sokoll, president of Checker, agreed the tire situation offered no problem. Closer attention thru regular inspection and care in holding inflation at the required point have prolonged tire life, they said.

Sokoll said that formerly 27,000 miles were considered the limit for tires on his company's cabs, but that, thru conservation methods, the life of the average tire has been prolonged to about 47,000 miles.

Replacement Point Passed.

Both said they were operating their cabs past the peace time replacement point. Sokoll said that his company's cabs normally would have been replaced about a year ago. Samuels said that his company's practice was to replace cabs after an average of 150,000 miles and that its fleet had reached that point.

Samuels said the company that provides and services his company's tires is satisfied with the performance of the synthetic tires, in use for about a year and a half.

Both officials said that ingenuity on the part of drivers and mechanics had aided in keeping cabs rolling.

FOUR AREA WAGE LEVELS SET FOR METAL WORKERS

Edgar L. Warren, chairman of the regional war labor board in Chicago, announced yesterday that in recognition of historical wage differentials between Chicago and outlying cities the board had established four separate areas in the Chicago district for stabilized wage rates in the metal working industry. Stabilized rates will be set for each area, based on the existing wage structure in that particular area, he said.

The four areas are Chicago proper, Fox River valley, Joliet and Lockport, and Calumet. The regional WLB has yet to decide whether Harvey and Chicago Heights shall be included in the Chicago city area, in the Calumet area, or whether they shall be made a separate area.

It was decided that Waukegan and North Chicago do not belong in the Chicago city area, and the board is to decide whether these communities will be made a separate area or part of the Racine-Kenosha [Wis.] area.

WHEAT AND OATS FUTURES SLIP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

December and May wheat sold at new seasonal low prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, and the deferred deliveries of oats went to the lowest level in more than a month. Selling was attributed to favorable war news from Europe and weather bureau predictions of rains in Iowa, Missouri, and eastern Kansas.

Trading activity increased on liquidation by commission houses. Prices never bettered Friday's close, and ended at about the lowest level of the day. Wheat closed ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower. Oats lost 1⅛ to 1½ cents. Rye and barley ended 1¼ to 1⅝ cents lower.

GLOBAL FUNDS' LABELS RATED AS MISNOMERS

Don't Mean What They Indicate.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Neither of the global financial mechanisms on which agreements were reached at Bretton Woods has been properly labeled, in the opinion of those who have analyzed the agreements.

The conference, at which 44 nations were represented, approved plans for setting up two international agencies. One is the 8 billion 800 million dollar international monetary fund, commonly referred to as the currency stabilization fund. The other is the 9 billion 100 million dollar international bank for reconstruction and development.

The fund is not primarily a stabilization agency, altho one of its objectives is "to promote exchange stability, to maintain orderly exchange arrangements among members, and to avoid competitive exchange depreciation."

Seeks to Promote Trade.

More descriptive of the fund's purpose is the second objective stated in the introductory article:

"To facilitate the expansion and balanced growth of international trade, and to contribute thereby to the promotion and maintenance of high levels of employment and real income, and to the development of the productive resources of all members as primary objectives of economic policy."

It was clear that the nations' representatives at the conference did not believe currency depreciations would be avoided after the war.

The most that the fund would do was provide for "consultation" with the fund before a member country devalued its currency. Nor would the fund be in a position to prevent a country from changing the value of its currency or criticize internal domestic policies that might lead such devaluation.

British Reserve Rights.

The fund's statement of purposes, however, expressed the hope that by such consultation "competitive exchange depreciation" would be avoided.

The British delegation, in particular, made clear that it was not binding itself to an agreement that would interfere with Britain's management of her domestic economic affairs or prevent her from changing the external value of her currency if the need arose.

On the other hand, the agreement does propose to put in the hands of the fund's directors power to mobilize world opinion against any country that consistently may pursue a trade policy detrimental to that of other nations.

It was commonly accepted that this provision would be used against the United States if the country refused to take imports in sufficient volume to enable other countries to pay for American goods purchased.

Keynes Opposes "Squeeze."

This provision was underscored by Economist John Maynard Keynes in explaining the advantages the plan would have for Great Britain.

"For it will no longer be entitled to squeeze gold out of the rest of us," he said, referring to the United States.

From the speeches of Keynes, who headed the British delegation, and the comments of spokesmen of other countries it was clear that the achievement of "full employment" at home was the most important single objective they had in mind.

Keynes said the best the agencies could provide was a "breather" period during which the world might get back to economic health.

To the foreign countries the most important provision of the fund agreement is that it will make available to them dollar resources for the purchase of American goods.

Expect Big Dollar Demand.

It is freely conceded by all that there will be a great demand for dollars with which to purchase American goods. Nearly all countries will want American goods and their major concern has been how to finance the purchases.

The international bank emerged from the conference in a form differing greatly from that proposed at the outset by the American treasury experts. They had expected an agency that would guarantee international credits up to a total of 30 billion dollars on terms running up to 50 years.

As approved, the so-called bank is limited in its loans and guarantees to its capital. A spokesman for the treasury said the bank leans over so far to the conservative side that it almost touches the floor.

The spokesman conceded that it is not a bank at all, but said it seemed to be too much trouble to change the name. Actually, the agency would function as a credit guarantee association in which member countries would jointly indorse loans made under the agency's sponsorship.

Eggs Bought by WFA for $9 Bring 20c

New York, Aug. 5 [Special].—Thousands of dozens of eggs purchased by the war food administration for nearly $9 a case have been sold for 20 and 50 cents a case in northeastern states under its support buying program, Francis E. Robinson, WFA official, disclosed today. Each case has 30 dozen eggs.

Robinson said the WFA had dumped 14 carloads of spoiled eggs purchased in the northeastern region this season and had offered, or was in the process of offering, back to the trade 14 more carloads. Twenty-six carloads have gone into tankage, Robinson asserted, and the WFA expects some of this to be converted into egg powder.

Defends WFA Sales.

Of the 540,000 cases bought in the northeastern region since the first of this year, WFA has sold about 16,000 cases or 26 carloads for animal feed, Robinson revealed. Prices realized on eggs disposed of in this region exceed the 5 cents a case for which WFA sold large quantities of eggs to midwest feed processors earlier in the summer, he said.

Robinson defended the WFA against trade charges that the New Deal agency is not advertising for bids on "distress" eggs because it does not wish to call attention to a serious situation.

No Time to Advertise.

Robinson explained there is no time to advertise for bids when a carload of eggs is waiting on a railroad siding without adequate refrigeration.

Clarifying reports that the WFA was offering to the trade graded eggs which it previously had announced it would hold until fall, Robinson said two lots of eggs in the merchants' cold storage warehouse in Providence, R. I., had been offered to the trade.

The WFA still is in the market "technically and theoretically," altho it has purchased only seven carloads of lower grade eggs in the last six weeks, Robinson said.

FURTHER REDUCTIONS IN CONSUMPTION OF PAPER RECOMMENDED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—The paper industry advisory committee has recommended further curtailment of paper consumption in newspapers, books, and magazines, the WPB reported today. Rex W. Hovey, paper division director, said studies were in progress on this proposal and on plans to increase paper output, and that a decision would be announced as soon as all facts could be assembled.

WPB issued new standards by which appeals for extra paper tonnage from newspaper, book, and magazine publishers will be decided. The only factors which will be taken into consideration in considering appeals for extra tonnage from newspapers were listed in the revised supplement as follows:

1. Extraordinary growth of population in the newspaper's trading area since Jan. 1, 1943, requiring additional paper in order to maintain adequate newspaper service to the community.
2. Discontinuance or merger of newspapers requiring adjustments in the quotas of other newspapers in the trading area in order to maintain adequate newspaper service to the community.
3. Any other unforeseen conditions which may constitute undue and excessive hardship.

WLB UNITS RULE AGAINST PACKER WAGE INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—More than 140,000 employes affected by the "Big Four" meat packing cases are not entitled to a general wage increase above the Little Steel formula, thru panels reported to the war labor board today.

Reports were received in cases involving chiefly the CIO United Packing House Workers of America, representing 120,000 employes in 21 Armour plants, 16 Swift plants, 10 Cudahy plants, and seven Wilson plants.

Should there be any revision of the Little Steel formula, however, the packer employes should obtain benefits of any such change in policy, the panel said in the CIO union case. It rejected the demand for a general increase of 10 cents an hour, "not because it is lacking in equity or reasonableness, but because it is contrary to the basic principles of wage stabilization."

Also involved were the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters, representing 9,100 employes; a sausage makers union, representing 58 employes, and the International Brotherhood of Swift Employes, independent representing 11,600.

New Disputes Hold Walkout Idle at 31,000

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Altho in five strikes involving 11,200 workers the employes yesterday either returned or voted to return to work, another major war plant walkout and a resumption of the seven state midwest truck drivers strike held total strike idle in the United States and Canada above 31,000.

At St. Louis construction of amphibious tanks for the navy was halted at the St. Louis Car company by an unauthorized walkout of 1,200 employes which developed when one worker objected to assignment to a new operation on a new model tank at a lower piece work pay scale. CIO United Steelworkers were involved.

Midwest Operators Affected.

The truck drivers' strike which began Friday night again involved lines which are members of the Midwest Operators association covering seven states. The walkout started in Minneapolis-St. Paul struck, spread to Kansas City, Mo., where 1,500 struck, spread to Kansas City, Mo., where transports operated by nine large over-the-road lines were halted and then to Omaha.

A wage increase of 7 cents an hour, retroactive to Nov. 17, had been granted the drivers, but operators said they were unable to pay it and after a previously threatened strike, the dispute was referred to President Roosevelt. In Washington, D. C., the WLB said the case was still on the President's desk and out of the board's hands.

At St. Paul Lou Hosking, secretary of the Midwest Operators, said the lines will make no attempt to operate their approximately 6,000 semi-trailers. He said shutdowns were complete at Omaha and Kansas City, and with the association's third main terminal, Minneapolis-St. Paul, also closed, "traffic just naturally ceases in the rest of our territory." The association has members in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas.

5,000 Workers Affected.

At Kansas City the Frisco Transportation company said it had agreed to pay the WLB approved wage scale and that its drivers were working. Fred Wheelock, representative of the Associated Highway Carriers, said other operators would not pay the increase and that 5,000 employes would be affected if the strike continued.

In Detroit settlement today at a CIO United Automobile Workers meeting of the strike which has closed five General Motors Chevrolet gear and axle division plants was predicted by a union official. Involved are 7,000 workers and five other plants are threatened with closing by Tuesday because of a lack of parts made in the affected factories.

Twenty-two additional strikes involving more than 22,000 workers continued in the United States and Canada. Included were three Illinois war plant walkouts at the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, Ottawa; the Carbondale ordnance plant, and the International Harvester company, Canton.

CHICAGO BANK VOTES AUG. 28 ON STOCK PROGRAM

Directors of the Mercantile National Bank of Chicago yesterday called a stockholders meeting for Aug. 28 to vote on changing the par value of outstanding shares from $100 to $20 and increasing the capital stock from $600,000 to 1 million dollars.

If the change is approved by stockholders and the controler of the currency, outstanding stock will be exchanged for new on a one for five basis.

The directors wish a larger capital stock structure because of the growth in deposits and the consequent need for providing a capital ratio more in keeping with the bank's resources, W. W. Farrell, president, said.

SOME STOCKS CHANGE LITTLE IN WAR PERIOD

No Lush Profit Era Shown by Group.

After nearly five years of world war, stocks of 25 "representative" American companies are selling at prices only moderately changed from those in the days just before Hitler invaded Poland in 1939 and in 1940 when he was at his military zenith just after the fall of France.

War has not brought the lush profits to munitions companies it has in the past, the stock market indicates. The war engaged companies whose shares are making the best showing are those having favorable post-war prospects—such as the automobile companies.

Most of the shares of the companies included in the list of 25 made moderate declines on Aug. 1, 1940 when the outlook for the Nazi regime appeared brightest.

Utility Stocks Lose Ground.

Today with the full power of the United States pounding at Hitler, the prices of most stocks are not far out of line with the earlier ranges. Utility shares are selling below the 1939 and 1940 levels.

Shares of the General Motors and Chrysler corporations, two of the largest war producers, which sold down a little after Hitler smashed France, are among those which have recorded the most noteworthy gains. General Motors is selling $15 a share higher than in August, 1940, and Chrysler is up $18. These stocks belong to the automotive group which has bright post-war prospects.

Both United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel are selling well below 1940 levels.

Railroads Gain Momentum.

Of stocks of five of the larger railroads, all except one declined in the first year of the war, the Pennsylvania going against the trend. However, the others later gained momentum and all five are above the pre-war level. Santa Fe showed the largest rise of the five, from 28¾ five years ago to 66½ yesterday.

Five representative utility stocks had steady but small declines in the five years. Commonwealth Edison sold at 31¼ five years ago, slid only ¼ point net in the next year, and yesterday closed at 27½.

Du Pont climbed 5 points in the first year of the war, but in the succeeding four years lost 13 points to stand 8 points below its pre-war level.

AUTO SHARES ACTIVE

New York, Aug. 5 (AP).—The stock market today ended a losing week with low priced motors active and numerous leaders meeting mild selling. Auto issues quoted under $10 accounted for more than one-quarter of the two hour turnover of 463,130 shares. The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.1 point at 54.2 and for the week showed a loss of 0.5.

Graham-Paige, the fastest mover of the week, climbed 1⅛ to 5½ today, a high for several years, and since Monday was up 2⅝.

BOND PRICES STEADY.

New York, Aug. 5 (AP).—Bond prices held about steady today for the general domestic corporates while foreign dollar loans were irregularly lower in light dealings. Rail changes were uneven.

HUPP TOUCHES PEAK.

Prices dipped in reduced turnover of 16,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 76 issues traded, 18 advanced, 46 declined, and 12 were unchanged. Hupp Motor Car was active and closed at a new 1944 high of 4¼, up ⅜.

Decline in Used Car Stocks Attributed to Illegal Market

Stocks of used automobile diminished substantially since price ceilings went into effect, either because of black market operations ceiling prices determined car owners not to sell, a survey of the Chicago used car business disclosed yesterday.

Altho recognizing that some car owners were reluctant to sell at what they considered sacrifice prices, dealers were convinced that black black markets were getting many of the vehicles which formerly flowed thru regular trade channels.

Sales Continue Normal.

One dealer said his supply had dropped 20 per cent since ceiling prices went into effect on July 10 and was certain that cars were being purchased by operators of illegal markets.

"People come in here every day with their cars for appraisals," he said. "We offer them the top ceiling price for their car, but they drive off saying they can get more than that elsewhere. Unless the OPA stops this black market business, it looks as if we and other dealers may be out of business in 90 days."

Another large dealer, who said his stock had dropped substantially since July 10, insisted "quite a black market sprang up."

"We are not able to buy at top ceiling prices," he said. "The people seem to be selling them elsewhere. The OPA has not been able to police the law the way it should be policed, but that may come when the law has been in effect a little longer."

One dealer said he had "not been offered a decent car in three weeks."

Bought Before; Can't Now.

E. L. Cleary, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, said several dealers who bought on an average of five to 10 cars a week before July 10 now are able to purchase only one or two automobiles, and sometimes not that many.

"Many individuals are willing to pay more than ceiling prices, and this provides a lucrative opportunity for the unethical dealer, but it hurts the legitimate dealer," Cleary said.

The ceiling price order applies both to dealers and individuals and lists the prices for 23 makes and about 6,000 models built from 1937 thru 1942. Cars built before 1937 may not be sold at prices higher than corresponding 1937 models. Prices are on a level with those prevailing in January.

WPB INCREASES TRUCK OUTPUT FOR NEXT YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—The WPB said today it has scheduled production of 56,705 trucks in the first quarter of 1945 for essential civilian use. The program compares with slated output of only 93,562 units during all of this year.

A total of 41,068 is scheduled the last three months of 1944, WPB said.

Production planned for the first quarter of next year calls for 40,000 medium trucks, 13,366 light heavy trucks, and 3,339 heavy trucks.

WPB also reported that its trailer and truck tank industry advisory committee has recommended that the agency limit by directive the number of tires which manufactures may deliver as original new equipment with a trailer.

FIRST POST-WAR CAR, REFRIGERATOR PRICES MAY RISE 20 TO 35%

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—The first new cars, refrigerators, and washing machines will cost 20 to 35 per cent more than their prewar counterparts, a survey of government and trade sources indicated today.

Radio sets will not increase so much, but householders can expect a post-war trend to better quality receivers with war time improvements, industry spokesmen reported.

Wage increases, higher material costs, and taxes account for the bulk of the expected price rises. The OPA, altho inclined to doubt that prices must climb to the extent claimed by industry, nevertheless indicated it would avoid any price clampdown which would obstruct the rapid reconversion of industry.

OPA is preparing to issue before Aug. 15 a statement of policies to govern the pricing of items newly restored to production.

Illinois Liquor Control Cancels Report Order

Charles J. Fleck, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, announced yesterday that the commission had rescinded its order of Sept. 11 requiring manufacturers and distributors to submit to the commission monthly records of purchases and sales of alcoholic liquor. Fleck explained the regulation was adopted as an emergency measure, and because the emergency had passed, the regulation was dropped to save man power and paper. The emergency involved illegal marketing operations in liquor.

UNITE TO FIGHT U. S. DICTATION ON JOBLESS PAY

South, G. O. P. Back States' Rights.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—A coalition of Republicans and southern Democratic senators lined up today against a proposed federalized system of unemployment benefits for dismissed war workers, while supporters of the plan denied it was an invasion of states' rights.

Sen. Russell.

As the issue headed for a decision on the senate floor in debate opening Tuesday, Sen. Russell [D., Ga.] joined the bi-partisan bloc backing the rival bill of Sen. George [D., Ga.] which would leave control with the states.

Russell asserted that the proposal that congress fix more liberal unemployment compensation rates and standards was the beginning of "permanent government pensions" for war workers.

Vandenberg Calls G. O. P.

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], as chairman of the minority conference, telegraphed all G. O. P. senators not back in Washington to return for a conference Tuesday morning. The conference was expected to discuss the party stand on the controversy.

Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] contended meanwhile that the bill proposing federally-fixed benefits up to $35 a week—approximately double present average state rates—would not disturb state administrative machinery.

"The states would have the right to say who was eligible for benefits and who wasn't," Kilgore said. "They would actually pay the benefits, with federal funds merely supplementing the state payments.

Predicts Heavy Burden.

"The states' rights issue is being raised in an effort to prevent adequate benefits to the people who are going to be thrown out of jobs as war production is cut off."

Russell predicted that the plan, if approved by congress, would mean "further deficits of 15 to 20 billion dollars a year in the post-war period."

"I want to take any reasonable steps to prevent hardship and suffering among displaced workers, but the people cannot indefinitely maintain government spending at the present war scale without changing the whole form and character of our government," he said.

"As I see it this plan has in it the genesis of a system of permanent government pensions for thousands of war workers. Once adopted, it could never be repealed. It would be as hard to stop it as the Townsend plan would have been."

Are You Doing Postwar Financial Planning?

Will you actually have the needed cash for reconversion?

MANY manufacturers . . . including some whose working capital position is the best in their history . . . are going to find themselves short of ready cash before income from civilian production is flowing in.

They're going to need cash to reconvert or rebuild plants, tools, equipment . . . buy supplies and materials . . . meet payrolls, taxes, sales and advertising expenses. It's going to be a real problem—money flowing out week after week . . . flowing out faster than wartime assets may become liquid . . . and with no income from sales for many months, perhaps a year or more.

Plan Your Cash Requirements Now

It's not safe to assume that you'll have all the cash you'll need when your green light comes. Give your reconversion financial requirements the same advanced thinking and planning you've given production and merchandising. Plan now what cash you will need during your transition period. Plan now at what points on the road you will need it. Decide now what cash you can be absolutely certain of having on time from your own working capital. Plan now where the balance is coming from. Then you'll know you'll be able to operate successfully till your product reaches the market and brings you returns.

Over A Billion Advanced Since Pearl Harbor

Farsighted manufacturers, including some of the biggest, have done just such intelligent financial planning. They've planned for the outside cash they may need, when and if they need it. Since Pearl Harbor, Commercial Credit has advanced more than one billion dollars to manufacturers and wholesalers. And Commercial Credit is equipped and ready to exceed that record in the coming transition to civilian production.

A Commercial Credit representative will be glad to sit down with you and help you analyze your financial reconversion needs . . . and plan for them. He will explain how Commercial Credit is equipped to lend thousands or millions for any sound business need . . . to finance reconversion . . . to give your business more working capital . . . to make tax or renegotiation payments . . . to buy other companies, etc. Address your inquiry to or telephone Mr. Angus Fraser, Vice-President, Commercial Credit Corporation, Chicago 6, Ill. You will receive prompt attention.

EFFIE CHERRY, LAST OF FAMED SISTER ACT, DIES

They Dodged Bushels of Vegetables.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 5 (AP).—The curtain dropped for the last time today on one of the most famous [but terrible] acts of the gaslit "Floradora" days when Effie Cherry, last of the famous Cherry sisters, died in a nursing home. She had suffered a broken hip last spring.

Effie was left a lonely woman when her sister and stage partner, Addie, died Oct. 25, 1942, at the age of 83. Nobody knew exactly how old Effie was, for she turned aside all queries on her age with the remark "I ain't a-sayin'."

One source, however, listed her birth date as Aug. 26, 1878, which would make her 65.

So Bad They Were "Good."

Soon after making their stage debut in an amateur show at Marion, Ia., late in the last century, the Cherry sisters were taken to New York by Oscar Hammerstein because he had heard they were so terrible they attracted huge crowds.

He was right, and the sisters commanded a price in excess of $1,000 a week, altho they had to dodge bushels of fruits and vegetables hurled by their audiences.

The sisters' act was a gypsy skit relating in song and gesture the fate "worse than death" in store for the virtuous maiden who ignored the gypsy's warning and succumbed to the wiles of a Spanish cavalier, a scoundrel portrayed by Addie.

On Stage Two Decades.

They played before the footlights for nearly two decades and then, appropriately enough, went into truck farming near here. Effie ran twice for mayor of Cedar Rapids on reform platforms but was defeated both times. The sisters tried comebacks several times, as recently as 1938 at the Strand theater here, but never clicked.

Effie once sued a Des Moines newspaper for libel after appearance of an uncomplimentary review in the paper in which Effie, among other things, was termed "An old jade of 50 summers."

The court took the case from the jury and directed a verdict in favor of the defendant, holding that the newspaper had full freedom to express its opinion of the show and that "on the face of the record" the article was no malicious.

KENILWORTH
UNOBTRUSIVE LUXURY
IN EARLY AMERICAN.
Designed by a top flight architect, the room arrangement of this Kenilworth home is as good as any we have seen in 20 years' selling fine North Shore homes. Simplified modern housekeeping and comfortable living are remarkably achieved here.
Of a good deal of importance is the fact that this fine home can now be had for what it cost 8 years ago to build. It will be long time before such quality and price can be offered.
So ask to see it, for only by seeing can its many fine features become real to you. Or ask us to send the 3 page brochure with miniature plans.

HINSDALE
WE APPEAL TO THE EXECUTIVE WHO WANTS A HOME NOW or
WHO HOPES TO BUILD
IN 1945 TO 1950
WE INVITE HIM
to inspect the
RESIDENCE OF A HINSDALE EXECUTIVE

Certain plans of our client, make it NECESSARY for him to sell. HE WILL SACRIFICE. His home of FINE MASONRY CONSTRUCTION partly of stone, with a heavy slate roof, is one of the STRIKING BEAUTIFUL homes in our village. Grounds are large; landscaping is in harmony.

There are 4 MASTER BEDROOMS AND 2 FINE ROOMS FOR THE SERVANT[S]. The 4 baths are luxurious and spacious. The living room is 28x17; the dining room, the library and the ceter hall are proportionate. The fine kitchen, the breakfast room and the powder room are all of ample size. The entire home is bright and cheerful.

THE SUNROOM, with tiled floor and indoor fountain, is a feature; a flagstone porch is shaded and screened. The well equipped RECREATION ROOM will meet every desire.

The high functional value of this home is exemplified in its MANY LAVISHLY APPOINTED CLOSETS AND WARDROBES. The attached 3 car garage is oversized.

The heating, the cooling, the humidification system are of great efficiency. The laundry room is complete.

THIS HOME SHOULD APPEAL TO THE EXECUTIVE WHO IS ON A FIRM FINANCIAL FOUNDATION; one who recognizes that in "quality merchandise" price is of secondary importance. However, in order to have quick action, THE OWNER HAS PRICED THE PROPERTY LOW ENOUGH TO MAKE THE PRICE A FACTOR OF PRIMARY CONSIDERATION. The property is clear and a 50% mortgage at a low rate of interest will be arranged for the buyer.

Chicagoans familiar with suburban trends, recognize the GREAT DESIRABILITY OF THE VILLAGE OF HINSDALE. We believe that NO COMMUNITY OFFERS MORE TO ITS CITIZENS THAN DOES HINSDALE.

CALL, PHONE OR WRITE. We will furnish details and, if you are interested, will arrange for your early inspection.

The lodge was built only 5 years ago, completely of stone, with 4 outside bedrooms, a lge. living rm., a natural fireplace, a mod. kitchen and a built-in bath and shwr. It has its own electric light plant, its own gas plant and heating system, completely equipped. This is the kind of place in which you can really enjoy yourself. Roll along the cement drives curving among the trees, pull up to a 2 car garage, step into one of two luxurious power boats in the boat shed, sweep over the waves to really good fishing spots, or walk out to the end of a 150 ft. cement pier and pull in fish as big as 15 pounds.

In fall, make up a hunting party. Over 1,500 deer were counted on the estate last year. Located just 35 miles east of Eagle River, Wis., the place is easy to reach. A proposition worth investigating at once. Apply to

CHAPLAIN CALLS AMERICAN LIFE JITTERBUG DANCE

De Paul Graduates Hear Modern Ethics Hit.

The whole intellectual and moral life of America was likened to "a dance of the jitterbugs" yesterday by Capt. Joseph T. Casey, chaplain of the 9th naval district, speaking to 148 summer graduates at the 36th summer convocation of De Paul university. The Rev. E. J. Kammer, C. M., dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences, conferred the degrees at the commencement, which was held in St. Vincent's church, 1010 Webster st.

"When young men on the dance floor find recreation and amusement in jitterbugging, it suggests itself as mere fun. But it is a far more serious matter when our whole intellectual and moral life becomes a dance of the jitterbugs," Capt. Casey dance of the jitterbugs," Capt. Casey said.

Movies Are Assailed.

"Some 20 per cent of our movies today are built around crime," he continued. "Magazines, books, and the stage openly flaunt obscenity, parade adultery, mock at marriage, degrade the home, and jeer at the sacredness and purity of womanhood. Eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we may be dead."

The "platform of the modern world" is love, wealth, pleasure, comfort, safety, and security, he said, with no respect for the real freedom and sacredness of the human being and no ethics beyond the standards of the barnyard. He turned to the young service men as the hope of the country.

Uniform Is Praised.

"We have always found, he said, that the man who is in the uniform of the man at arms has shown himself a finer example of faith than the business man or professional artisan. So not only our own beloved country, but the world in general, is appealing to young men today, not only to win the war and save civilization, but to save us from ourselves, to keep us from surrendering our own liberty and to prevent us from becoming slaves to our own senses after fighting to escape the slavery of savage barbarians and invading tyrants."

FLOOD OF BOGUS MONEY FEARED, PROFESSOR SAYS

Government officials fear that the United States may be flooded with counterfeit money produced by men who have learned the trade turning out bogus ration stamps for the black market, Prof. Joseph D. Lohman, University of Chicago sociologist, said yesterday. One of the effects of rationing has been to give new and added employment to counterfeiters, he said in an address at the Institute of the Society for Social Research at the university.

Prof. Lohman reported that recent arrests have produced evidence that such professionals now are organized as part of black market rackets.

In discussing the "countless" black market violations which have developed since rationing, Prof. Lohman asserted that as in the prohibition period, the establishment of price controls and rationing had been accompanied by widespread infractions by both consumers and merchants thruout the community. He said that violations of office of price administration regulations are "overwhelmingly committed by individuals and firms of conventional status and reputation."

SYMPHONY PUTS A GAUZY CHARM OVER RAVINIA

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor; Alexander Brailowsky, pianist. Presented at Ravina Saturday evening, Aug. 5, 1944. The program:
Overture to "Coriolanus"....Beethoven
Fantastic Symphony ....Berlioz
Concerto for Piano, No. 2, C minor
........................Rachmaninoff

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Something new had been added at Ravinia last night when an audience of about 7,000 turned out to hear the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Desire Defauw, with Alexander Brailowsky as soloist in Rachmaninoff's second piano concerto; or perhaps it is more accurate to say something new had been added and something old restored. The latter was the orchestral fanfare, once a feature of all Saturday night Ravinia concerts, which was discontinued last season just as Mr. Defauw was making his Ravinia debut. It was restored last night in his honor.

The something new was a three ton boulder, found on the west side of the Ravinia railroad tracks, and moved to the big petunia bed as a memorial to the late Louis Eckstein, who made Ravinia possible.

Memorial to Eckstein.

Its inscription says, "Ravinia park attained international renown in the world of music thru the guidance and generosity of Louis Eckstein, and is the gift to the community of Mrs. Louis Eckstein, July 1944." A modest woman, Mrs. Eckstein declined to participate in any unveiling ceremonies, so the trustees will do their best to honor her generosity this evening at the annual Ravinia round-up.

Both of Mr. Defauw's choices for the pre-soloist part of the program were repetitions from last season's concerts at Orchestra hall. Apparently Berlioz' fantastic symphony is one of his specialties; otherwise, he scarcely would play that work twice in such a short time.

Definite Clarity Lacking.

Last night's was an interesting rather than a definitive performance. It lacked the pinpoint clarity to make the symphony's hackles rise, and this extraordinary orchestration of an opium dream is happiest when it pricks thumbs like Macbeth's advance on the witches. But the opening of the waltz had a gauzy charm, the English horn sang dulcetly in the fields, and there was a bit of a febrile touch to the witches' Sabbath, tho the whole thing missed the curious effect produced by perfect performance, a kind of lovesick languor tangled with the ominous refrain of the Dies Irae.

The "Coriolanus" overture was adequate but not distinguished Beethoven.

Brailowsky's Earns Encores.

Mr. Brailowsky's Rachmaninoff sent Ravinia up in a blaze of bravos, which the orchestra shared. It went considerably better than Tuesday's Tschaikowsky, being better coördinated, with more sweep and style.

The slender Russian was at his best when the adagio swelled into brilliance, and in the spectacular finale his tone cut thru the orchestra like tempered steel. This steely quality had disadvantages, too, of course. It cut away much of the poetry and passion and fire that can be the heart of the concerto, tho perhaps no one will hear it that way again, because the magnificent Russian who wrote it has left us. Now, we take it the best way we can get it, and Mr. Brailowsky's way at least sent his audience into granted demands for encores.

FAUCETS GO DRY; HYDRANT USERS TO FACE ARREST

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said yesterday that his department has asked the arrest of persons who open fire hydrants without authorization and that those arrested will be prosecuted. Hewitt acted after receiving many telephone calls from householders whose water taps were dry or who had been inconvenienced by low pressure. The calls came from west and south side areas where 27 hydrants had been opened Friday and 58 on Thursday during the record heat wave.

The more serious aspect of hydrant opening is that it reduces pressure needed in vital war plants. Chicagoans in previous years have coöperated during the summer months by keeping their use of water to a minimum. This year, said Hewitt, the citizens are growing careless.

AUDIENCE HEARS OPERA WAFTED ACROSS LAGOON

Friendship Gardens Hit Once by Rain.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 5 [Special].—Imagine an opera house whose stage is a grassy island and whose orchestra pit is a raft moored in a lagoon. The audience sits on a terraced, wooded hill and looks across 40 feet of lagoon at the performers.

This is the theater of nations, in the International Friendship Gardens, near Michigan City. Here Anna Fitzu, with the coöperation of the Chicago Opera company, tonight presented a performance of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" which was as extraordinary in some respects as the setting in which it was performed.

Audience Retreats in Rain.

In the first place, there was an unscheduled intermission early in the opera when the clouds, whose majestic mass and sunset colors had been commanding every one's admiration, blackened and closed over the gardens. Rain came pouring down, the orchestra men snapped their instruments into their covers and scurried away, and the audience retreated into the densest part of the woods and waited.

Soon it was over and again it was a sunny Easter morning in a little Sicilian village. Now the singers poured forth their troubles amid airs fresher and more fragrant even than before the storm.

The performance was extraordinary also in that the principal role, that of Santuzza, was in the hands of a 19 year old girl who had never sung in public before. As some one remarked, she had never found out what fright was, so she went thru her part with an aplomb and a disdain for difficulties which most professionals might envy.

Indiana Girl Takes Rôle.

She is Helen Claire, an Indiana girl now studying in Chicago. Supporting her were David Johnson as Turiddu, the youth who loves and leaves Santuzza; Mary Kampo as Lola, Turiddu's new infatuation; Stefan Kozakevich as Alfio, Lola's not-to-be-trifled-with husband, and Vera Jeske as Lucia, Turiddu's mother.

Despite the weather's temporary opposition the tale of jealousy and death moved along with a reasonable amount of conviction and power. Jerzy Bojanowski conducted and a portion of the Chicago Opera orchestra and chorus assisted. The stage director was Joseph Tessmer.

Splendid costuming and lighting added to the natural beauty which any production in such surroundings would have had. The unpretentious scenery—a church facade, a tavern, a flower hung wall—blended well with the poplars, willows, and evergreens which backed and flanked the stage. An extra touch of the unusual was the reflecting lagoon which mirrored the stage action faithfully.

Hopes for Regular Festival.

Miss Fitzu, well known singer and lecturer on music, said she hoped to establish a regular opera festival at Friendship Gardens to give Chicago area people an opportunity to enjoy their favorite lyrical works out under the summer sky and to furnish deserving singers with an outlet for their talents.

Following "Cavalleria Rusticana" Leon Cavallos' "Pagliacci" was presented. The audience was estimated at more than 3,000. Prominent citizens of Michigan City had helped work up interest in the project.

50 CIO WELDERS FAIL TO REPORT IN PAY DISPUTE

Fifty welders failed to report for work yesterday at the General American Transportation corporation's plant in East Chicago, Ind., where 200 other workers were forced into temporary idleness in the welding shop. The issue was reported to be a wage dispute over piecework on a job which a plant spokesman said had not yet been started.

Lester Thorton, subdistrict director for the CIO Indiana Harbor, Ind., area, said the strike was unauthorized and that the piece rate dispute was in process of negotiation. He called a meeting of the workers at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the union hall at 3436 Michigan st., East Chicago, and said he would ask them to return to work. They are affiliated with the United Steel Workers, local No. 1132 [CIO].

The No. 1 plant, where the wildcat strike broke out, is engaged in freight car welding and 100 per cent war work. The company employs 2,500 workers.

'OKLAHOMA' CAST WILL APPEAR AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Escort of City Cowboys to Welcome Artists.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

When the "Oklahoma!" company rides into Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 19, to present a half hour of its musical hits as a feature of the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival, the nearly 70 members will be greeted by 30 cowboys who will precede them into the arena. Galloping around the cinder track and onto the greensward, punctuating their arrival with pistol shots, these cow hands will provide a fitting setting for the brilliantly costumed cast.

A word about these cowboys. Many of the 30 never rode the open plains, but found gentle horses on Chicago's city streets more to their liking. Fifteen of the 30 will be members of Chicago police department's traffic detail, assigned to the "Oklahoma!" welcome by Commissioner Allman, with Capt. Flynn, head of that detail, fitting his men out in true western regalia.

Berwyn Av. "Ranch.

The other 15 cowboys will come from the Flying V. F. Ranch, which, believe it or not, has its headquarters at 2434 Berwyn av.

Festival scouts looked all over Cook county and suburbs for a surrey with the fringe on top, the carriage which is so sweetly sung about in the "Oklahoma!" show. Fred Miller, field supervisor of the festival, finally found the only authentic surrey with the proper white fringe, and it will be driven on to the field as the magic word "surrey" pops up as the song is sung by John Raitt, the cast's "Curley," Betty Jane Watson, the farm girl heroine, Laurey, and Mary Marlo, who plays the character of Laurey's aunt.

Horse in Strange Pasture.

Drawing the surrey will be a Chicago Tribune circulation wagon horse more familiar with loop deliveries of newspapers than making a debut before 90,000 people.

This portion of the three hour evening program will be heard and seen from 7:24 to 8 o'clock.

Festival reserved seats are on sale at THE TRIBUNE's public service offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and in the lobby of The Tribune Tower. They are $1.25 and 80 cents each. They are also available by mail. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and sent to festival ticket manager, in The Tribune Tower. Kindly inclose self-addressed stamped envelope.

THEATER OF AIR'S FANTASY HEARD BY 25,000 AT PARK

Spared by passing showers, Grant park proved an oasis last night to an audience of 25,000 gathered to hear the W-G-N Chicago Theater of the Air production of "Court of the Moon," a Jack La Frandre fantasy with the great composer, Ludwig van Beethoven, as its central figure.

"The Court of the Moon," as described in Mr. La Frandre's script, is "the meeting place of all voices—the apex of all mortal tone." Time takes on Einsteinian characteristics in this never-never land, and as the deaf Beethoven discourses with the spirit of night, he hears not only his own music and that of his predecessor, Mozart, but is able to tune in on the future and hear such variegated items as "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto," sung by Virginia Haskins; Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries," played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under Henry Weber, and the Song to the Evening Star from "Tannhäuser," sung by Bruce Foote; and Landon Ronald's "O Lovely Night," sung by Attilio Baggiore, a number on which it would have been interesting to have heard the master's opinion. Debussy's "Claire de Lune" and Beethoven's own "Moonlight sonata were used for night motives, the latter attaining a climax in an arrangement for three solo voices, chorus, and orchestra.

After the broadcast the second half of the concert was devoted to a continuation of night inspired music by Liadow, Lehman, Saint-Saens, Debussy, Wagner, and Schubert. A. G.

Dr. F. E. Bollaert

East Moline, Ill., Aug. 5 [Special].—The Mississippi Valley Music Festival will be held tomorrow night, beginning at 7 o'clock in Soule stadium here. Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan Opera company baritone, will be the guest star of the three hour program. Dr. F. E. Bollaert is the festival director.

More than 5,000 people are expected in the audience and about 1,000 men, women and children will participate in the entertainment. Albert Petersen will lead the festival orchestra in the opening number and it will be followed by the C. A. P. Headquarters Squadron band, directed by Warrant Officer John Zimmerman.

The East Moline high school band will give a pageant, "Uncle Sam in Review," directed by Alvar Berghult and Louise Piano. The match lighting ceremony which has become so popular at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Music Festival in Soldiers' field, will be conducted by Philip Maxwell, THE TRIBUNE's festival director, who also will be the evening's master of ceremonies.

RENTAL SUBSIDY URGED TO MOVE SLUM DWELLERS

Housing a Failure, Says M. H. Baker.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Declaring that public housing has failed to solve the slum problem, Melvin H. Baker, president of National Gypsum company, yesterday suggested that families living in blighted areas be moved into reconditioned old houses in better sections of American cities. His slum reclamation plan, outlined in the American Builder magazine, calls for the discontinuance of any new building of publicly financed housing and for the rehousing immediately after the war of low income families in sanitary and livable old houses in sections classed above the level of slums.

"We need a new point of view on the whole subject of cleaning the slum areas out of our cities," Baker said. "Those who were in favor of public housing said it would eliminate slums and rehouse the unfortunate families who were obliged to live in them. Billions of dollars have been spent. The slums are still with us and very few of the slum dwellers are accommodated in the high cost apartments built by the federal government and some of our state governments.

Urges Fresh Start.

"Let's start all over again. Let's recognize that there are two separate problems here. One is to get the families now living in slums out of the slums. The other is to clear the slums, tear down the old buildings and put the cleared land to its best use."

Baker proposed that the states pass enabling legislation to permit the cities to set up a working arrangement, based on the following points:

1. Permit each city to create its own rental subsidy board to be constituted of five members, to be paid for their time an amount to be determined by the city council.

Use Suitable Old Homes.

2. The five board members to be selected by the following: One by the mayor with approval of the city council; one by local labor unions; one by the association of commerce; one by the city's welfare agency, and one by the governor of the state.

3. The board shall be prohibited from building new housing but shall use suitable old houses to accommodate the families qualified for rental subsidy.

4. The board will be empowered to enter into agreements with owners of older houses to guarantee them an agreed rent per month when the houses meet the standard of sanitation and livability set up by the board. The difference between what the tenants are able to pay and the regular rent shall be paid out of local welfare funds toward which most states pay a pro rata share.

Bigger Income—Higher Rent.

5. As a family's income increases it shall be required to pay an increased rental. When a family becomes able to pay the full rent it will be dropped from the welfare roll and from then on deal directly with the property owner.

6. The board will withhold from the amounts paid the owners for monthly rents one-twelfth of the local taxes and keep the taxes always paid up to date.

"By this process these two unrealized but declared objectives of public housing finally will be attained," said Baker. "First, those families who are unable on their own incomes to vacate slum dwellings will be removed to better districts and enjoy a higher plane of livability.

"Second, clearing the slums, putting the land to its best use, and beautifying our cities will be speeded. Owners of this land will be more willing to sell at reasonable prices when they see their tenants vacating."

CALLNER PLANS POST-WAR SHOPS FOR WINNETKA

Milton H. Callner, president of Milton H. Callner & Co., yesterday reported the purchase of the 50 by 150 foot business property at 931-33 Linden av., Winnetka, for an undisclosed consideration. The present two story store and flat building will be razed after the war and a three story building erected from plans by Raymond Gregori. Callner said he has bought approximately 25 pieces of vacant property, both business and residential, in Chicago and suburbs in the last few days.

The three story store and apartment building, 100 by 150, at the northwest corner of Linden and Merrill avs., adjoining the Winnetka property bought by Callner, was purchased by the Alschuler trust from Linden Manor Building corporation, for $140,000 thru L. C. Odh Realty company. The building contains seven stores and 26 apartments. H. F. Philipsborn & Co. negotiated a $70,000 first mortgage, 4 per cent, for the new owner.

BUY LOOP LAND.

Part of the land under the Lorraine Hotel building at the southeast corner of Wabash av. and Van Buren st., 80 by 97 feet, was sold for $85,000 by New England Mutual Life Insurance company to Charles J. Cohen, and Jean and Betty Cohen, heirs of the late Benjamin E. Cohen, master in chancery.

'Ghost' Comes to Life

After standing unfinished since 1928 the flat building at 2001 Lunt av. will be rebuilt with federal funds into homes for war workers, from plans by Mark D. Kalischer.

The three story apartment building at 2001 Lunt av., which has been standing unfinished for 16 years, is to be completed with federal funds and its 19 three and four room suites rented to war workers, Charles W. Collins, regional director of Home Owners Loan corporation, announced yesterday.

The government has leased the property for seven years and will spend $41,500, the estimated construction cost, in finishing the building from plans by Mark D. Kalischer. The Welso Construction company has the general contract. Completion is set for Oct. 1.

The 2001 Lunt Avenue Building corporation, Edward M. Herman, president, is the owner. War housing center, 39 S. La Salle st., Leonard R. McDonald, director, will pass on the eligibility of tenants. WHC approved conversion plans before they were submitted to HOLC.

BEGIN CONSTRUCTION OF LARGE ADDITIONS TO FOUR FACTORIES

Four big industrial construction jobs totaling $660,000 yesterday were reported under way from plans by A. Epstein, structural engineer. The largest is a two and three story steel and concrete rectifier plant, 80 by 125 feet, being built by Poirot Construction company for Fansteel Metallurgical corporation in North Chicago. It adjoins the new 5 million dollar plant of the Tantalum Defense corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Fansteel.

The Rosenbloom Barrel and Drum company is building a two unit plant at 4437-45 W. Fifth av., to cost $200,000. The C. Rasmussen corporation has the general contract. It will be operated by the Chicago Pail Manufacturing company, a subsidiary of Rosenbloom company.

The Emulsol corporation, chemical manufacturer, is building a $150,000 plant addition at 1914-24 S. Kilbourn av. Carl E. Erickson & Co. is the contractor. Isgo Wall Paper corporation has a two story addition to its plant at 2121 W. 21st st. under construction by the Kaplan Construction company.

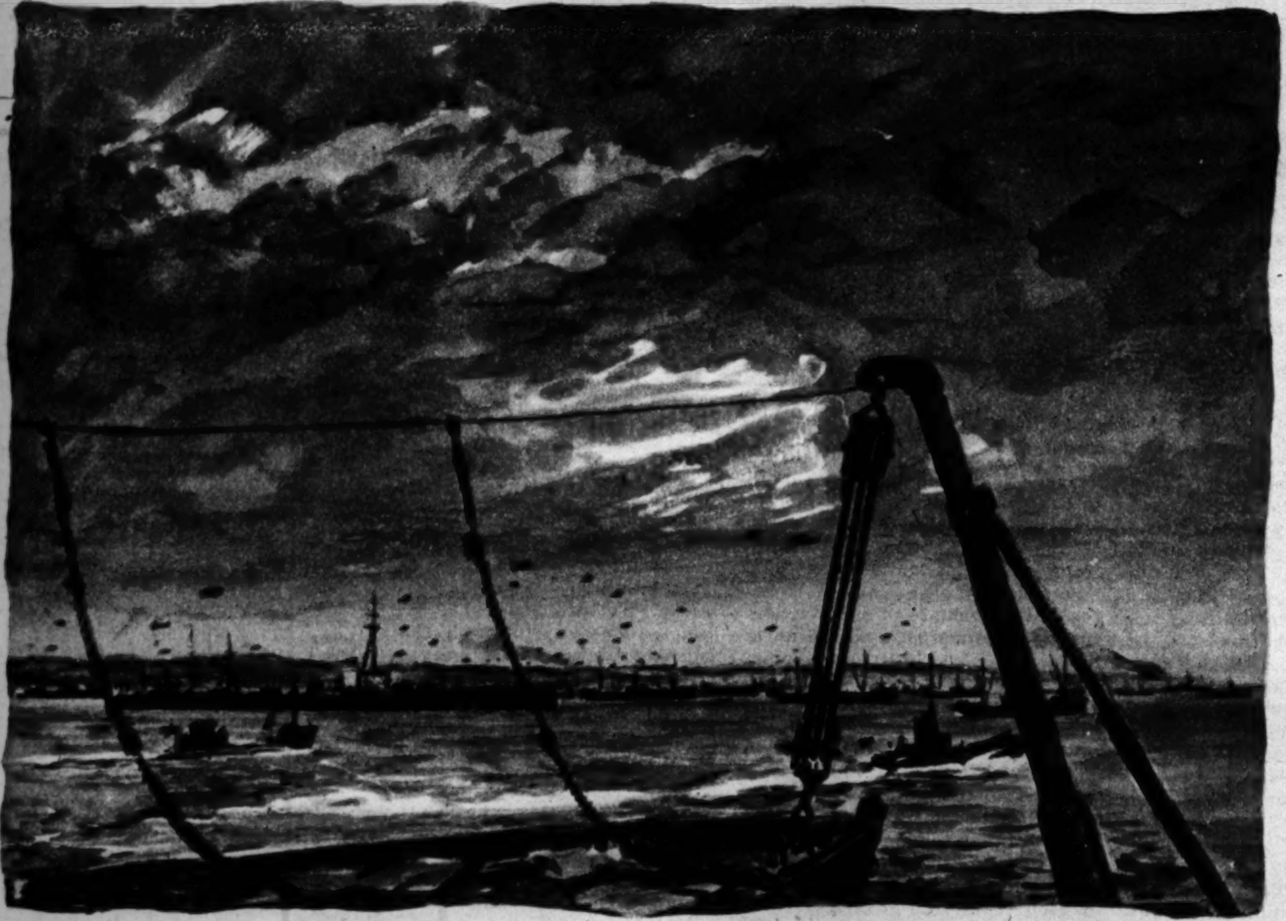
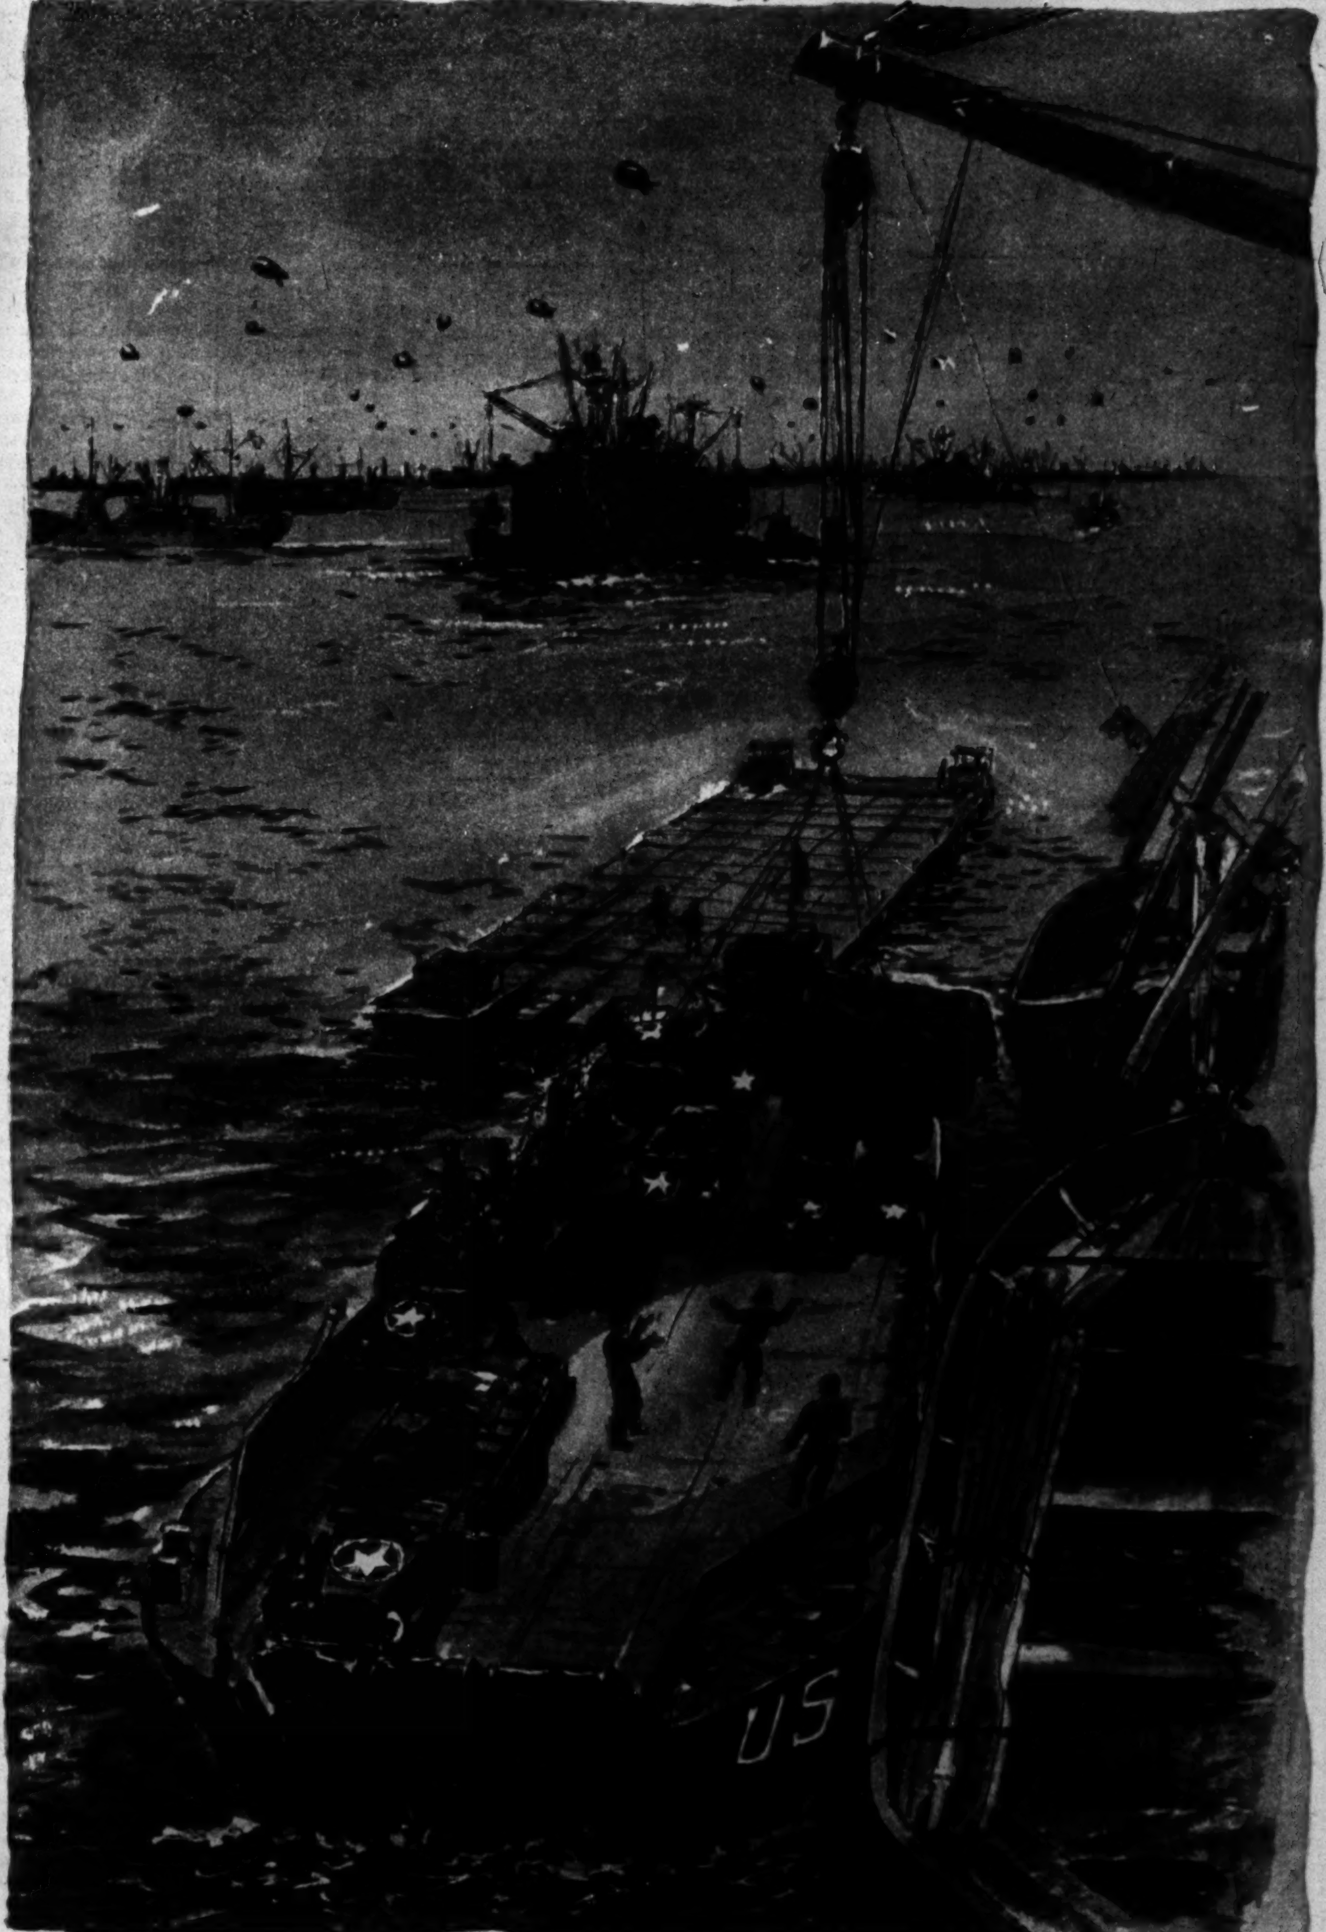
ARTIST ON THE INVASION





Tribune Artist-Correspondent Gary Sheahan, right, sketches the portrait of a soldier aboard a troop-carrying Liberty ship in the invasion convoy.

THE THREE paintings reproduced on this page are the work of Gary Sheahan, Tribune artist and war correspondent, who has already put onto canvas the drama and color of the war in the Southwest Pacific. They were painted during the invasion of France.

At the top of the page is Sheahan's on-the-scene sketch of troops, jeeps, and trucks going ashore on the Normandy coast from landing craft. Trucks and equipment have been waterproofed so that they can be driven and carried thru the surf without damage. Except for a thoro wetting, the soldiers reach shore ready for battle.

At the right is a scene painted on the deck of a Liberty ship. Trucks and other heavy motorized equipment go over the side into an LCT, lifted easily by the Liberty ship's jumbo crane. Just astern lies a Rhino barge ready to take on a load of equipment. Both craft will deliver their loads directly to the beaches.

GANDHI

KEY to ENIGMA of INDIA

By JOHN A. O'BRIEN, Ph. D.
(Author, Lecturer, and Professor of Graduate Apologetics and Political Science at the University of Notre Dame.)

INDIA holds a large share of the spotlight of the world today. The role which her teeming millions will play in the global war will have far-reaching consequences. India is an enigma to the western world. The man who holds the key to that enigma is Mohandas K. Gandhi. He has often been in prison because of his refusal to comply with British orders. Known as the Mahatma to the millions of his followers, his is a character and a personality which the people of the western world would do well to explore.

Out of the east have come from time immemorial great prophets, seers, and mystics. But not for centuries has there come out of the orient an ethical character of more impressive stature than Mahatma Gandhi. Among the statesmen and rulers of the world today Gandhi towers above them all in utter simplicity of life, in asceticism, and in sheer willingness to follow his conception of ethical principle at whatever cost to his political cause and to himself.

I know of no man in the world who surpasses him in sheer moral courage. Even his enemies acknowledge the power of his indomitable will and his inexhaustible courage. A courage that led him into repeated self-imposed fasts wherein he went about as close to death as man can go without entering that silent portal. A little man of skin and bones, weighing scarcely 90 pounds, wearing only a cloth from waist to knees, Gandhi has pitted himself against the power of the mighty British empire on many an occasion. Without arms or any army, relying only on the invincible might of moral power and the claims of the human soul to freedom, the Mahatma has hurled defiance into the face of king and parliament.

"Strike the chains of slavery from my people," he said, "and we shall coöperate. But on no other condition." His weapon is not violence but passive resistance which he calls soul force. More than any leader in the world today Gandhi has infused ethical principles into political action and has made them the lodestar of his policy.

• • •

"The idea-tight division of human activity into religious, social, and political compartments," Gandhi said, "is the prime fallacy of the modern world. If religion is not needed in politics, where on earth is it needed?"

He is a splendid illustration of the "terrible meek" who pit their gentleness, implemented only by the power of the moral law, against empires with tanks, battleships, and bombing planes. He has won the unquestioning loyalty of the vast millions of the Indian people because of the transparent unselfishness of his aims and the exalted holiness of his personal life. He has given to the modern world a striking demonstration of the power of personal sanctity lit up by high intelligence.

Gandhi was not always so courageous. A study of his life discloses that as a boy he was timid and shy and suffered from an inferiority complex. His conquest of fear, however, would seem to be as complete as any person in our generation has achieved. "The lad who dared not speak to anybody," observes Upton Close, "became the most fearless orator in India. The boy who was deathly afraid lest some one should poke fun at him grew up to flout all accepted theories and manners of life, to dress only in a loincloth, and to face trial and punishment as a felon for the sake of his convictions."[*]

After completing his law course in England in 1891 Gandhi was sent by an Indian client to conduct a case in Pretoria, South Africa. The young lawyer set out on his mission with high hopes, little realizing the humiliations and the sufferings that were in store for him. Landing in South Africa, he found himself thrown off trains on which he had paid his fare, refused admission to hotels, and insulted on the streets.

One day while walking in a park he wandered innocently into a section where only the ruling race were permitted. A man on horseback struck him in the face with his whip. "Get out of here, you black ———," he swore, "and stay where you belong."

Discrimination, jeers, insults were his daily lot. The only members of the ruling race who showed some feeling for his people were the Christian missionaries. Their kindly interest prompted him to read that year some 80 books on Christianity. Thus was engendered in him a deep reverence for the teachings and the character of Jesus, which remains among the potent influences of his life.

• • •

The injustice of the treatment meted out to him and to his people in South Africa kindled a slow flame of indignation within him. The leaders of the Indian community in Durban besought him to undertake a legal attack upon the legislation which discriminated against his countrymen. His people were helpless. Their only hope lay in this young barrister, skilled in the white man's law. Gandhi accepted the invitation. Then began the work that was destined to become the life work of Gandhi—the slow, painful process of wresting what measure of reluctant justice he could from the mass of discriminatory statutes weighing like millstones around the necks of the Indian people.

The leaders of the Indian community were willing and able to pay him well. Gandhi, however, refused all fees. Instead of remaining for the one year in South Africa, as he had planned, Gandhi found it necessary to remain for 23 years to accomplish his difficult mission.

It was here that he founded in 1904 his first ashram, or retreat, in the form of an agricultural colony 14 miles from Durban, Natal. To that coöperative enterprise he turned over all his wealth, keeping for himself but two loincloths. He was bidding a long farewell to the pride of life and to the things upon which the world sets so much store. No more was he to be known as the carefully groomed dandy, the clever lawyer, or even as a mere statesman. His people were soon to reverence him as the Great Soul, the Mahatma.

Gandhi as young barrister in South Africa and London.

Returning to India in the summer of 1914, the Mahatma encouraged his people to support the British in the war on the strength of promises that long-sought reforms and liberties would be granted them. The war was won, but the Indians waited in vain for the promised freedom. The welled-up anger of his people was about to burst forth in destructive violence when Gandhi directed it into passive resistance. This involved mass civil disobedience to British law and proved a weapon of surprising effectiveness.

It required enormous discipline on the part of masses to keep it within the domain of nonviolence, and into this work of training the Mahatma threw himself heart and soul. "It is an expression not of physical power," said Gandhi "but of moral power. Right is its own defense." It welded the Indian people together as never before. It brought unity out of the heterogeneous masses of a disunited nation.

In May, 1921, there was a strike of 12,000 coolies in the tea gardens of Assam. This was followed by a railroad strike in Bengal, with ensuing riots. A bloody outbreak of the fanatical Mohammedan moplas took place in Malabar in August. The situation was ripe for revolution to sweep the country like a prairie fire. The native troops, especially the Sikhs, awaited a nod from Gandhi to rebel. The Mahatma scorned, however, the tempting voices of opportunism and expediency and stuck to his principles. "The British want us," he said, "to put the struggle on the plane of machine guns. They have the weapons and we have not. Our only assurance of beating them is to keep it on the plane where we have the weapons and they have not."

It was on that plane that Gandhi issued his "declaration of war" to the viceroy. In it he gave Lord Reading seven days to change the government's policy.

Here is a striking demonstration of the moral power that comes from the consciousness of the righteousness of a cause. Here, too, is the evidence of a conviction that if a campaign is waged on a moral plane and, instead of being detoured or by-passed by irrelevant episodes of blind violence, is addressed to the conscience of a government, the largest measure of justice and right will result. This is based on the further conviction that all men have a moral nature which cannot remain permanently deaf to appeals persistently addressed to that tribunal enthroned by God in the soul of man.

Whether one accepts his line of reasoning or not, there can be no denial that Gandhi has forged a weapon of enormous power in his system of passive resistance. It is a weapon whose usefulness might well be explored in greater degree by other countries. True, rulers have traditionally shown impatience and even disdain for the slow weapons of the moral order to secure their ends and satisfy their imperious demands. It seems so much easier and quicker to smash their way thru to their objectives by unleashing their instruments of slaughter and destruction.

If, however, the men whose tongues have been stilled by the millions could speak, would they not, we wonder, clamor with unyielding insistence upon all the governments of the world to work out their claims exclusively before the court of the moral order implemented with international sanctions? This may appear as something of a digression. It seems to me, however, to be the logical conclusion from Gandhi's premise—the insistence on keeping the contest on the moral plane.

I spent a day with one of the disciples who lived with the Mahatma at his ashram or collective retreat. From this young Indian scholar I got an intimate glimpse of Gandhi's home life. When out of prison he spends most of the year at his ashram at Segaon, near Wardha, one of the most primitive villages in India and inhabited largely by untouchables. The members of his household can have no personal belongings and are expected to do a certain amount of hand spinning every day. They arise before dawn and divide most of the day between prayer and work.

The schedule which Gandhi himself follows is even more rigorous. For at least three decades he has been a celibate as well as a vegetarian. The Mahatma has, however, four sons and several grandchildren. To help break down the barrier which has for so long put the lowest caste beyond the pale of normal human life and intercourse the Gandhis adopted a girl from the untouchables as their daughter. Here is moral courage in a superb degree.

Pundit Jawaharlal Nehru, who will succeed Gandhi.

Tho thin almost as a skeleton, with wrinkled skin, bald head, and a toothless smile, such charm and grace emanate from him that his enemies, British and Indian alike, seek to avoid personal encounters, lest they be taken captive. "His smile is delightful," says Nehru [Pundit Jawaharlal Nehru, whom Gandhi has selected as his successor], "his laughter infectious. . . . When he enters a room he brings a breath of fresh air with him which brightens the atmosphere. . . . His calm, deep eyes would hold one and gently probe into the depths; his voice, clear and limpid, would purr its way into the heart and evoke an emotional response."[*]

In March, 1942, Britain's domination of India was threatened by the Japanese. Churchill had previously justified British policy by saying, "Two out of 10 Englishmen depend on India." The threat of Japanese invasion, however, induced him to send Sir Stafford Cripps to beg the help of India, with the promise of dominion status after the war. Gandhi and his colleagues, remembering the glowing promises made during World War I. and the oblivion in which they were largely buried after the war, countered with demands for freedom now. "We have no army," said Gandhi, "no military resources, no military skill, and nonviolence is the only thing we can rely on. . . . Remember, I am more interested than the British in keeping the Japs out."

On Aug. 8, speaking before congress at the session which authorized a mass campaign of civil disobedience, Gandhi declared: "I do not want to be the instrument of Russia's defeat, nor China's. If that happens I would hate myself." He predicted, nevertheless, a repetition of the disasters of Malaya, Singapore, and Burma "unless Britain trusts the people of India to use their liberty in favor of the allied cause." He promised furthermore, "If India is free, effective resistance could be offered against the aggressor."

• • •

The following day he was arrested and imprisoned in Aga Khan's palace near Poona. While there, in protest against the British policy of refusing freedom to his people, he underwent a fast of three weeks, which brought him deeper than ever into the valley of the shadow of death. "I always get the best bargain," he said, "from behind prison bars."

An analysis of Gandhi's work discloses the interesting and curious fact that tho still a Hindu, he has taken the precepts of the Sermon on the Mount and has endeavored to apply them with a definitness and literalness rarely found in the governments of so-called Christian countries. Many if not most of his ideals he has drawn from the winsome figure of Jesus. He has inspired India with his own life of sacrifice and taught her moral principles to which political statesmen pay lip service but at which they often wink in practice.

"Since his advent," says Shridharani, "no one can stir up the Indian masses except thru doing genuine service and thru self-sacrifice."

"Fast nigh unto death for us," the Indian people can say, "and then we will know you are sincere and not a mere self-seeker."

Gandhi's greatness lies primarily in his exalted moral character, secondly in his political leadership of his people. Whether his methods lead to the ideal of complete liberty and independence or not, he will go down as the creator of the Indian nation that shall eventually emerge. History will acclaim him as the father of India. That is no small title to enduring fame.

"Reactionary or revolutionary," says Nehru, his friend and disciple, "Gandhi has changed the face of India, given pride and character to a cringing and demoralized people, built up strength and consciousness in the masses, and made the Indian problem a world problem." Possessing neither guns nor tanks nor bombing planes, and relying only on the invincible power of the naked human soul conscious of the righteousness of its cause, Gandhi has restored a sense of racial dignity to the Indian people, beaten down by the rifle butts of the west.

Pale, ascetic, fasting often, spending long hours in communion with God, from whom he derives his strength and his courage, Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi towers above the statesmen of the world in his noble scorn of physical force and in his determination to keep the controversies with the oppressors of his nation upon the moral plane. That is the only plane upon which disputes between rational creatures should ever be put. For it is only before the court of reason and conscience that the problems of justice and right, agitating mankind, can ever be properly settled. Gandhi will occupy a unique niche in history—that of a saint among the statesmen of the world.

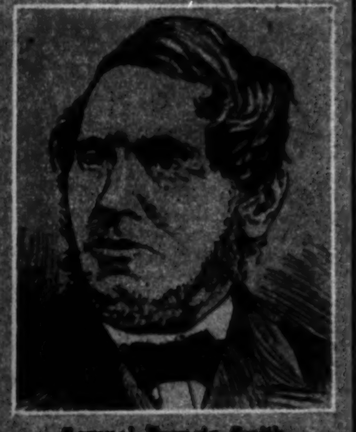
LET FREEDOM RING!

The Story of the Writing of "America"

By DELOS AVERY



Samuel Francis Smith

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, looking back from 1859 to his Harvard days and Harvard friendships, wrote a poem called "The Boys" in which these lines occur:

And there's a nice youngster of excellent pith,—
Fate tried to conceal him by naming him Smith;
But he shouted a song for the brave and the free,—
Just read on his medal, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee!"

The Smith of whom the poet wrote was Samuel Francis Smith, born Oct. 21, 1808, and died Nov. 16, 1895. He was a native Bostonian, graduate of the Eliot school and the Boston Latin school. He went to Harvard, turned his mind to theology, was graduated from the Andover Theological seminary, became a Baptist clergyman and a professor of languages, and displayed a notable talent for verse writing.

• • •

One day a colleague, Lowell Mason, the composer, brought Smith some old German songs and asked him to translate the words "or write new ones to go with the music." Smith looked them over and found one tune that set his mind in motion in such a lively way that words came to him without conscious effort. The song he wrote was "America."

"I wrote it one gloomy day in February, 1832," he said, "in half an hour." The words just poured themselves out and he had only to set them down on paper. They remain virtually unchanged today.

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.
Land where my fathers died!
Land of the Pilgrims' pride!
From ev'ry mountain side
Let freedom ring!

My native country, thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love.
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze
And ring from all the trees,
Sweet freedom's song.
Let mortal tongues awake;
Let all that breathe partake;
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God, to Thee,
Author of liberty,
To Thee we sing.
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King!

The hymn was first sung on the Fourth of July, 1832, at a children's celebration at the Park Street church in Boston. It was published the same year by Mason in his book of songs called "The Choir." The popularity of the song was instantaneous and for many years it was accepted as the national anthem of the United States, altho without any official sanction.

The history of the tune to which the words were fitted is a curious chapter in musical history. The consensus is that the German composer Handel took it—if not by piracy, then by the more polite expedient of adaptation—from the French composer Lullie.

The Germans fitted a patriotic song to the music, and the English took it—and since have been singing "God Save the King."

Bavaria used the same music for a patriotic song when Bavaria was independent; so also did Switzerland, Brunswick, Hanover, Württemberg, Prussia, Saxony, Weimar, and Norway.

In the United States, however, while the beauty of Smith's words never have failed to charm, there was a feeling of discontent because the tune was used internationally. Played by an orchestra or band without singing, the composition could belong to England or Germany or any one of several other nations.

So when the time came for giving official standing to a national American anthem "The Star Spangled Banner" was chosen. That, too, takes its music from an alien source, the old English air "To Anacreon in Heaven," but as a patriotic anthem it is exclusively American. The words were written by Francis Scott Key on the night of Sept. 13, 1814.

More planes, more ships, more of everything for war mean more Long Distance calls. And right now things are moving double-quick.

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

If They're Eggs, They're Golden!

(Copyright: 1944: The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood.

IF ANY Hollywood movie lays an egg this year it will surely be a golden one, 'cause our movie moguls have cooked up the most elaborate, ambitious, and expensive program in the history of this industry.

The period 1943-'44 is known as the Year of the Big Take in movie circles. Box office returns hit a new high, exceeding even producers' wildest nightmares. Theaters are crammed from opening to closing time with an enthusiastic public, which some of the time must be looking for a quiet place to rest its tired feet as much as for entertainment.

If there ever was a time when movie men could get away with a slap-dash product, now is that time. But, true to the counter-clockwise method of working, for which they take so much ribbing, the boys are planning films with multimillion budgets and enough star names in the cast to choke a horse. Well, that's Hollywood for you.

Darryl Zanuck, never one to do things by halves, wiped all B pictures off the slate and came up with two super-films—"Wilson" and "The Keys of the Kingdom"—which top anything before attempted in size, outlay, and big-name casts. "The Keys of the Kingdom" is the logical Academy award rival to "Wilson," since it is in black and white and the latter in technicolor, which makes both films eligible for the Oscar. "The Keys" also has an all-star cast, altho Gregory Peck and Rose Stradner, who play the most important roles, have each had but one previous Hollywood film experience. But they've both had fine theatrical training.

With these two films as a sample, and the B's thrown into the discard, Twentieth's staff of producers has had some reorganizing to do, but quick. The upshot is a program leaning heavily on musicals—extravagant musicals that will rival the biggest attractions on Broadway.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has much the same idea. It's going to be a struggle in this era of super-productions to see whether William Perlberg's musical can outdo Jack Cummings' "Little Bit of Heaven." (It was also Jack Cummings who did "Bathing Beauty.") Or whether "The Ziegfeld Follies," into which Arthur Freed has thrown the two top dancing men of the world today—Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly—plus Fanny Brice, Jimmy Durante, Judy Garland, John Hodiak, Lena Horne, James Melton, Marion Bell, Victor Moore, Mickey Rooney, and Red Skelton, can make a bigger noise than Perlberg's "State Fair," for which Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein have written music which Twentieth claims will out-Oklahoma "Oklahoma."

Ira Gershwin and Kurt Weil are responsible for the tunes in "Where Do We Go from Here," Morrie Ryskind's story of a 4-F. I don't know why some one didn't think of the laugh possibilities of this sooner. Agnes De Mille, C. B.'s talented niece, will do the dance routines. Agnes loves to play with color and humor, and this one will be in technicolor, which fits her like a glove.

Metro has an answer to this in "Music for Millions," in which Jose Iturbi and Margaret O'Brien are drawing cards. With Larry Adler's harmonica, Jimmy Durante and Hugh Herbert for laughs, how can it lose? Warners have "Hollywood Canteen," also "Rhapsody in Blue," the story of George Gershwin's life.

Georgie Jessel is music-minded, too. His "Kitten on the Keys" calls for a hunk of stars. Includes Dick Haymes, Perry Como, and both Benny Goodman and Jimmy Dorsey with their gangs. He'll bring Alice Faye and Betty Grable together in "The Dolly Sisters"—they haven't been in the same film since "Tin Pan Alley."

• • •

Ernst Lubitsch's main concern centers about "Czarina," the satiric comedy which will be Tallulah Bankhead's next. Charles Coburn has been signed to play the chancellor; also Vincent Price has a big part. "Dragonwyck," the story of the Dutch patroons, is another Lubitsch epic for Gene Tierney and Gregory Peck. But, with Peck's four-way deal and complicated contract clauses, he may have to be elsewhere. In which case Vincent Price would be a bet for Nicholas—a man with the arrogance of Dutour and the pathological warp of the husband in "Angel Street"—a role Price played to the hilt on Broadway.

Bette Davis ripens "The Corn Is Green." And the setup for "Roughly Speaking" includes Roz Russell and Jack Carson. The Ingrid Bergman-Gary Cooper special, "Saratoga Trunk," will soon be seen, and "The Conspirators," with Hedy Lamarr and Paul Henreid, can't fail to please the eye.

Our boys at the front have been shouting for more musicals, and Bing Crosby and Betty Hutton oblige in "Here Come the Waves." Columbia puts Rita Hayworth into "Tonight and Every Night" and Ina Ray Hutton and her girl band into "Ever Since Venus."

If it's shivers you want, Alfred Hitchcock's "The House of Dr. Edwardes" will scare the living daylights out of you. It's the tale of a guilt-complex gent in a private sanatorium.

• • •

And the boys in khaki themselves put in an appearance in "Winged Victory," straight from Broadway.

Yes, producers would seem to be fighting hard for those long, long lines of patrons that bulge the walls of every movie house in the land. They've paid top price for material. They're the men who have bought titles at $50,000 per, only to scrap them later. The boys who have provided funny men with some of their most precious cracks for well over a quarter of a century now. So it's quite in the picture that, with more audience than they know what to do with, they embark on an all-out competitive schedule on a scale hitherto undreamed of.

You Must FEEL Attractive to Look So

By MAUREEN DALY

(Author of "Seventeenth Summer" and "Smarter and Smoother.")

WHAT ARE little girls made of? That's right—sugar and spice and everything nice from sparkling eyes to clean, shiny hair and a bright smile—that's what smooth little gals are made of. And no high school honey chile can snow herself into thinking she's sweet and lovely, ideal date bait, just 'cause her sweater is long and loose, her lipstick is on just right, or because she wears a new pink flower pinned in her hair. It takes more than that to put a girl on the ball. And to look attractive a gal has to feel that way.

Beauty is skin deep, and that is just where you have to start, with a "rub-a-dub-dub, time out for a tub" routine every morning and 15 minutes set aside every night around bed time for a final scrubbing and brushing up. A clean, white smile is worth all the mouth magic you can work with lipstick, and a hundred strokes a night with the hairbrush will leave your hair as smooth and bright as brushed sunshine.

• • •

Why is it that some girls can move right up to the top ten on the hep parade even tho they are wearing the same wardrobes they wore this time last year, they never see the inside of a beauty salon, and they don't have brown eyes like Judy Garland? It doesn't even take a genius (i. g.) to figure that one out—it is because these gals know the value of good grooming. They are considered attractive, but king-sized, because they take stock of personal assets and make the most of them. Fellows like girls who have that healthy, well scrubbed look—[illegible]

First, stand back and look over your wardrobe. Most high school smoothies select their clothes with an eye to practicality and durability. Long sweaters and short skirts have become the national high school uniform for tickin' chickens for a good reason—they are comfortable, variable, and easy to keep clean. To give yourself that cover girl appearance, set aside one night each week for a wardrobe once-over [illegible]

Be sure to think of yourself as a whole and from all angles when selecting something new to wear or when giving a retread to the same sack and snood you wore last season. Don't overdo this sweet sixteen slant. High school fad and fashion dictate the correctness of wearing flat shoes with an ankle bracelet and no stockings, autographed station wagon coats with the sleeves pushed up, bright, full peasant [illegible]

[illegible] ber, no matter how old it is—if the shoe fits, wear it. Just be sure it's well shined!

Second, how is your hair these days? It could and should be your crowning glory if you give it the care it deserves. Whether you prefer it long and soft or cut short in a feather bob, take time out nightly to keep it smooth and well brushed. The more simple your hair-do the more simple it will be for you to keep it looking wonderful. Cleanliness and natural beauty will make your hair more lovely than all the curling, coifing, and lacquering in the books.

And when it comes to the important matter of keeping your teeth bright and clean—be lavish, MacTavish. The time and attention are worth it. A sincere, attractive smile is worth half an hour of persuasive conversation when you are making friends. There are smiles that make you happy, there are smiles that make you blue, and the latter are from those off-the-cob characters who have forgotten the "twice daily, up and down, 'round and 'round" routine that makes teeth clean and white.

• • •

A morning scrubbing should be as important a part of your daily routine as drinking orange juice and reading the newspaper, and a thoro cleansing, brushing each tooth carefully, before you go to bed at night will help you to attain that feeling of well groomed confidence that only a clean, healthy smile can bring. You can be sure that when any Jackson picks out a gal as smooth stuff or interesting whistle bait she has a smile worth watching for.

Every high school girl has the makings of a smooth and attractive character, so make the most [illegible]

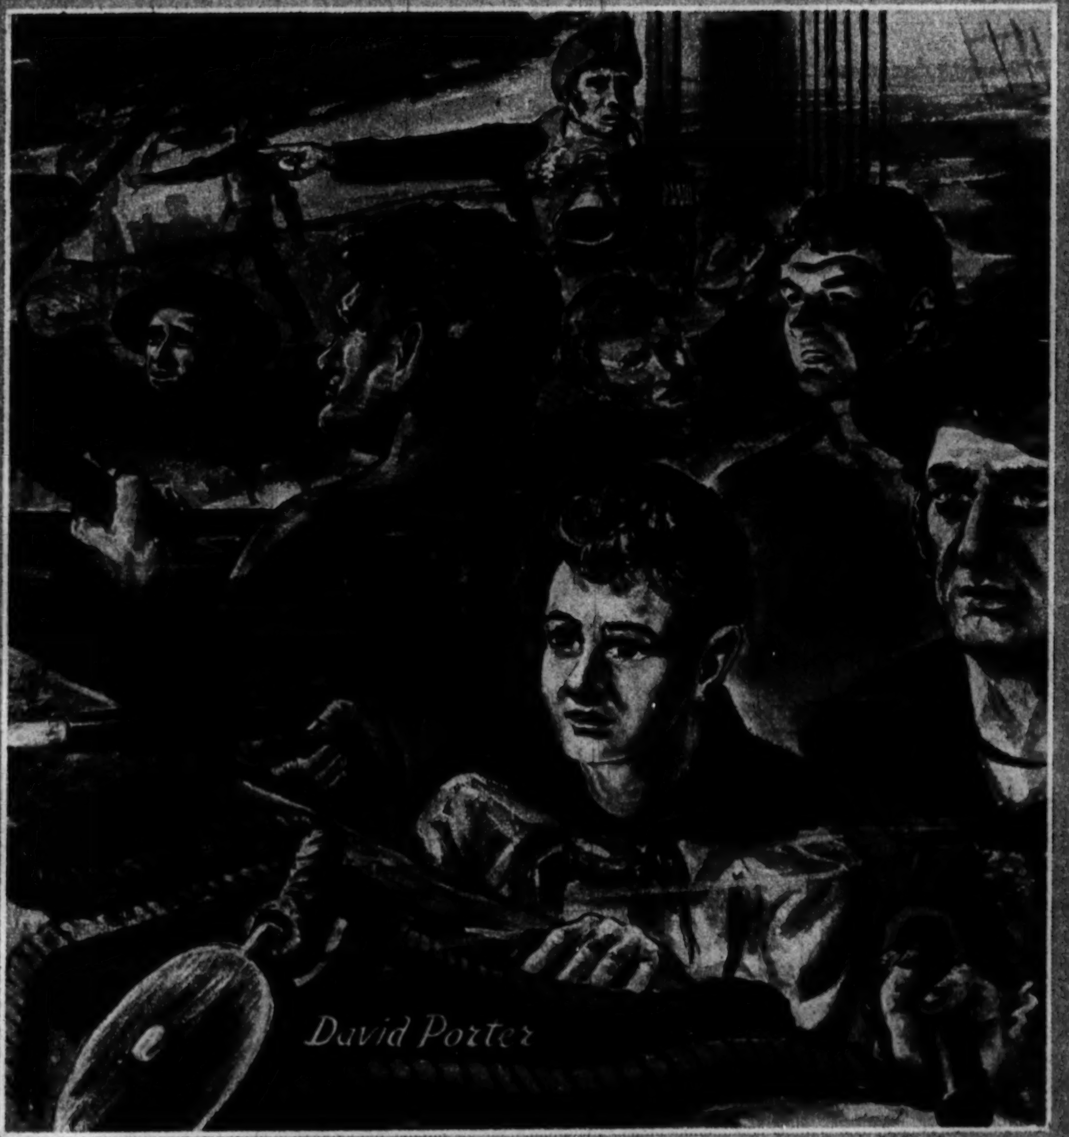
ROMANTIC FIGURES of AMERICAN HISTORY



David Porter

The dramatic illustration above, by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak, is another of the series appearing currently in this section with biographical sketches. Watch for this series every Sunday.

MOST CELEBRATED member of a family famous in American naval history was David Dixon Porter, who at one time commanded the largest Union fleet ever assembled during the Civil war.

Porter was born in Chester, Pa., June 8, 1813, and while still a small boy served under his father, Capt. David Porter, in operations to suppress piracy in West Indian waters. The illustration above pictures him at this time.

It was in the West Indies in this naval campaign that his father got into trouble by forcing an apology from the Spaniards who had imprisoned one of his officers at Fajardo, Puerto Rico. The elder Porter was court-martialed and suspended from the service for six months.

When his father resigned from the navy in 1826 to become commander in chief of the Mexican navy young Porter also entered the naval service of Mexico. He withdrew from it in 1828, however, after the ship upon which he was serving was taken by the Spaniards and its commander, his cousin, David H. Porter, was killed.

• • •

In 1829 David Dixon Porter became a midshipman in the American navy. During the Mexican war he served as a lieutenant and later as the commanding officer of the Spitfire, with which he took part in the bombardment of Vera Cruz. In 1855-'56 he made voyages to the Mediterranean to bring back to America herds of camels for use of our army in the southwest.

When the Civil war broke out he was assigned to the Powhatan and soon elevated to commander. In May, 1861, his ship assisted in the blockade of the mouth of the Mississippi river. In the naval operations against New Orleans, in April, 1862, under the command of his foster brother, David G. Farragut, Porter was in charge of the mortar ship flotilla. The fire of his vessels played an important part in this action.

• • •

At Vicksburg on June 28, 1862, the bombardment by Porter's ships made it possible for Farragut to run past the forts there. In the operations in 1863 that eventually resulted in the capture of Vicksburg, Porter's fleet made an unsuccessful effort to get in behind the city's defenses by penetrating the bayous of the Yazoo river. The fleet nevertheless ran past the Vicksburg batteries, shelled the forts at Grand Gulf, and made it possible for General Grant to carry out the brilliant campaign that ended in the fall of the Confederate stronghold. For this Porter was thanked by congress and elevated to rear admiral.

In the spring of 1864 he commanded the Red river expedition, and in the autumn of that year he assumed command of the North Atlantic blockading squadron. With the greatest federal fleet of the war he captured Fort Fisher, N. C., on Jan. 15, 1865. Again he was voted the thanks of congress.

From 1865 to 1869 he was head of the naval academy at Annapolis, and on July 25 of the last-named year he was promoted to vice admiral. In 1870 he succeeded Farragut in the grade of admiral.

He died on Feb. 13, 1891, in Washington, D. C.

Two of his brothers, William David and Henry Ogden Porter, were naval officers, and a third brother, Theodoric Henry Porter, was an army officer, the first to be killed in the Mexican war.

THE GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER

Presents

"Two Girls and a Sailor"

1 The Deyo sisters are headliners at a New York night club. Patsy (June Allyson) has had to be sister and mother to Jean (Gloria De Haven), who's always falling in love.

2 Outside the club Jean meets Sailor "John Brown," who in reality has been sending her orchids. She invites him to the sisters' apartment canteen.

3 Johnny loves Jean but finds that there's an army sergeant who is paying much attention to her, too.

4 Helping Patsy in the kitchen, Johnny discovers that the girls would like to open a big canteen. Patsy is fond of Johnny, but knows he is interested in Jean.

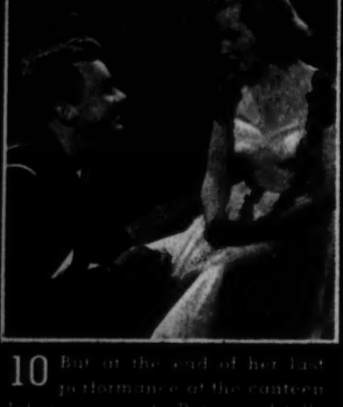
5 Soon somebody makes the girls a present of an abandoned warehouse for their canteen. In the warehouse they find Billy Kipp (Jimmy Durante), an old vaudeville star who believes he is washed up, but agrees to help them run the canteen.

6 The canteen is a great success. Famous stars and orchestras offer their help, and Billy makes a hilarious comeback.

7 In a dream Johnny comes to Patsy as an admiral, asks her to marry him. She accepts, altho she knows she's stealing him from Jean.

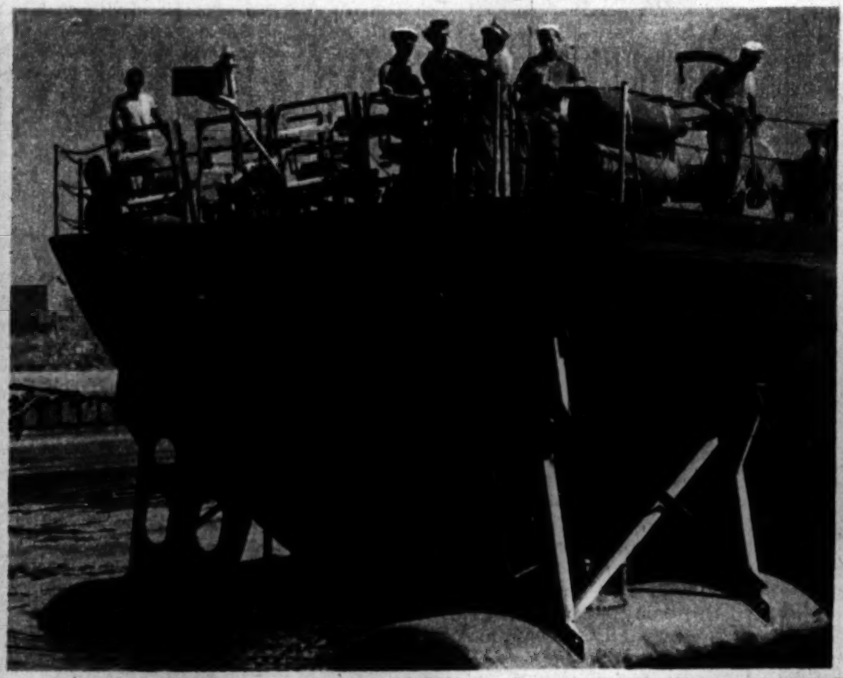
8 In her dream dozens of models parade before her with clothes for her trousseau, while Harry James plays sweet music.

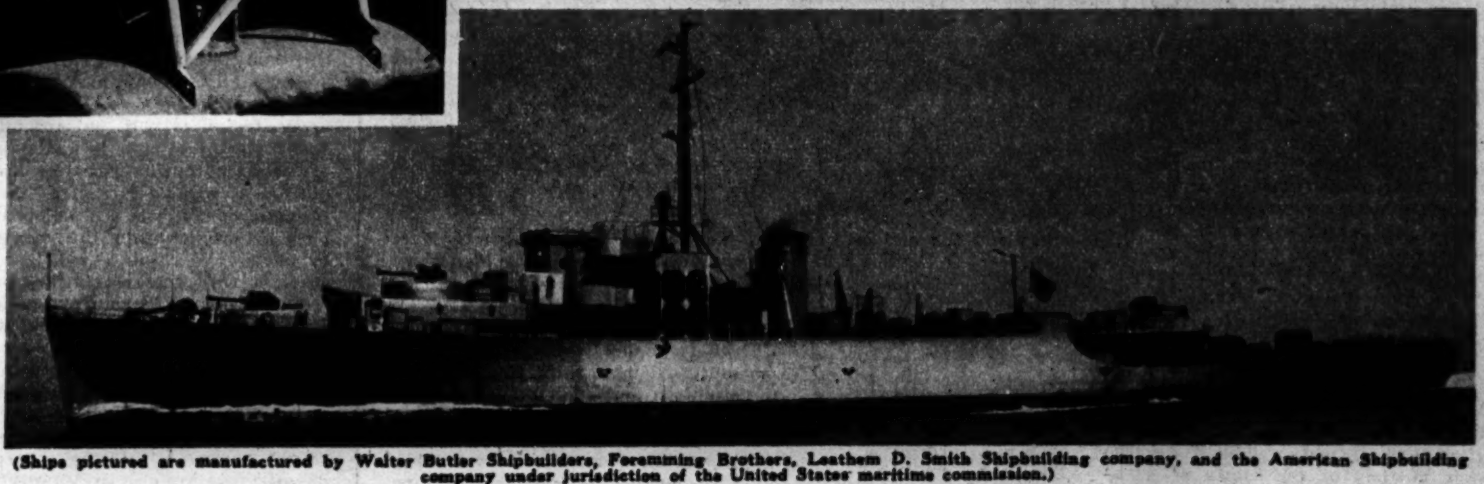
9 Billy discovers that Johnny is really J. Dickman Brown III, millionaire. Patsy rushes to him to see what he intends to do about Jean, then decides to leave town so Jean can marry him.



10 But at the end of her last performance at the canteen Johnny comes to Patsy and tells her she, not Jean, is the one he loves. (THE END)

Down to the Sea





Frigates, 306 foot sub chasers, are being manufactured in the middle west and shipped to sea by unique methods. Their masts removed at Chicago to facilitate bridge clearance, the sleek vessels are fitted at Lockport, Ill., with stern floats (above), two 20 foot steel drums, that lift the stern nearly out of the water. Pusher boats (above, right) guide them thru the Des Plaines, Illinois, and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans. There they are refitted and put into service (at right).

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

OF PARAMOUNT importance to every dog owner, and especially the inexperienced possessor of a new puppy, is the question of what to feed the pet. And everywhere you go you find different theories on feeding dogs, with big kennels and individual owners offering all kinds of ideas on what represents a sound diet for dogs.

By far the most thoro and scientific study on dog nutrition that we have seen in all the years we have been interested in dogs is that done by Dr. Clive M. McCay, professor of animal nutrition at Cornell university. His recent book, "Nutrition of the Dog," contains a wealth of practical information on the proper and economical feeding of dogs. If any owner wants to go along with a recognized authority on dog feeding he may well consider the following excerpts from his book. For example, Dr. McCay makes this point:

With one major exception, the nutritional needs of the dog are like those of man: Man develops scurvy if his diet lacks vitamin C, whereas the dog makes this vitamin within his body.

In the wild state the dog could doubtless do a good job in balancing his diet. A house dog can be maintained in just as good condition upon a modern diet of dry feeds, instead of the bones of a rabbit (which a wild dog would devour). Such a diet of dry feeds provides calcium and phosphorus and bone meal. In place of the plant products found in the stomach of a wild rabbit, the dry feed provides carbohydrates in the form of corn and wheat products. (Note: The obvious suggestion here to all of us dog owners is to rely on a well prepared modern dry dog food in feeding our canine pets.)

• • •

Dogs can pass thru their whole life cycle in good health without fresh meat or raw bones. In such cases the feed mixtures (dry dog foods) given to such dogs have usually contained meat meal and some dry milk products as well as dry bone meal.

As a result of many balance studies the author found that the dog digests and absorbs about four-fifths of the protein in the usual mixed dry feed.

It's a waste of time and money to feed raw eggs to a dog, because only about one-half of the raw white of an egg can be digested.

This study of a dog and cat friendship features a German shepherd, Marc von Staarberg, C. D., and a Siamese cat. Both are owned by Mrs. Mary Mouns, 813 W. Sheridan rd., Chicago.

Still in first place as the most popular breed in the United States is the cocker spaniel. This year-old specimen, owned by Mrs. Robert Anderson, Chicago, is named Brucie's Lady Sandra.

The author found in his experiments that puppies grow well upon a diet containing 20 per cent protein, with part of this provided by animal or soybean products.

Many attempts have been made to relate skin diseases to diet, but no one has done so. The author made this experiment: Dogs were divided into four different groups, with each group getting a widely different diet. One dog in each unit developed skin trouble. That situation persisted for six months. If diet were the cause of the skin trouble, all dogs in a certain group should have had the same trouble.

In general, at least in the cairn terrier breed, dogs that overeat and become very fat tend to develop skin troubles.

• • •

Beef products are preferred for dog foods. There is no good evidence against using meals made from pork scraps. The author has run some feeding trials with such meals and found them equal to similar products from beef. Dogs are fond of small amounts of cheese and wheat germ. They also like skim milk.

The best diet for a puppy, says Dr. McCay, is a well designed dry feed supplemented by milk. Once or twice a week the puppy should have a little cod liver oil and some cheap organ meat such as boiled pig liver. Special puppy feeds or milks are not needed.

Puppies need to be fed three to five times a day when they are very young. The period of greatest food consumption corresponds to that of the most rapid growth; that is, from the fourth week to about the sixth month of age, says Dr. McCay.

YOUTH on the CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE

Bloomington, Ind.

QUIET REIGNS this summer beneath the magnificent beeches that dot Indiana's campus. The thud of marching feet which for the last two years has been more familiar music on every campus than the wail of the juke box is no longer heard. And civilian undergraduates here, as everywhere, are fewer in number than they have been for the last two summers, when the enthusiasm for "accelerating" kept thousands of them on campus thru the hot months.

Students arriving for the opening of the first semester on Aug. 30 will find on the campus at least some signs of pre-Pearl Harbor normalcy. The military, with the exception of a few hundred army trainees, will be absent. And for the first time in a couple of years an amusing war time displacement will be corrected—the women's dormitories will be occupied by women and the men's by men.

When the navy established a training school for storekeepers (male) on this campus in 1942 it housed the bluejackets in West, South, and North halls, the compact trio of men's dormitories that suited its purpose so perfectly. Early last summer this school became a training center devoted exclusively to WAVES, SPARS, and marines, and women occupied the quarters vacated by the sailors. Meanwhile the army, in need of quarters for a large number of A. S. T. P. men, had taken over the women's dorms, Sycamore, Forest, Morrison, and Memorial. Civilian women students retained some dormitory space and overflowed into fraternity houses, many of which had been converted into university residences for women.

This summer changes were made. The naval training school for women closed in June, so the army men remaining on campus—some language students, premeds and dents, and the 17-year-olds in the A. S. T. reserve—have recently been moved into the original men's dorms. The women's dormitories will once again be occupied by co-eds, and the fraternity houses will be restored to their owners.

• • •

And there is every indication that the university will have no housing space to spare. Enrollment for the fall is extremely heavy—mostly feminine, of course. tho registration has already been sought by a large number of discharged service men who wish to resume their college education. At least 80 such attended the third semester, about to close, among these many who had seen violent action and who found the shady campus and the pleasant college life thereon almost therapeutic in its serenity.

During the summer semester campus life inclines to be leisurely and informal; every one knows every one else. Bridge seems to be the principal diversion between classes. After classes almost half the student body seems to head for the quarries not far from campus. Spring-fed, the cool water in these is a temptation to swimmers, who are asked by the authorities this summer to resist the urge. But the huge slabs of limestone which wall the green pools are the perfect sun bathing tables. Armed with oils and sun tan aids, both women and men students climb the rocks at every opportunity, picnicking, studying, playing bridge, or just soaking up sun.

Going to college in summer, say the students, isn't drudgery. It's the pleasantest possible way to get good work done and to chalk up more credits toward the necessary grand total.

OIL SHALE

IF AMERICA'S oil wells give out, the United States still will have an oil reserve of 100 billion barrels, according to some estimates of the amount of oil shale in this country. Oil has been extracted experimentally from this shale at a cost of about $1.25 a barrel.

Large quantities of the oil shale are found in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming. Two naval oil shale reserves were established in this area in 1916, and a third has since been added.

The United States bureau of mines has produced gasoline from western shale oil experimentally for 8 cents a gallon. This gasoline did not measure up to standard, but congress recently authorized large-scale experiments by the bureau with a view to working out new and improved extracting and refining methods. In general oil is extracted from crushed shale by heating in retorts.

• • •

Scotland got its first oil from shale 250 years ago. Commercial production began the middle of the last century, when the growing scarcity of whales had boosted the price of whale oil, long used for lighting. France had begun commercial production of shale oil in 1838.

By 1865 Scotland was operating 65 shale oil plants. Meantime Pennsylvania had begun to get petroleum from wells. Shale oil had sold in New York City for a dollar a gallon; Pennsylvania's product never cost as much as 50 cents.

Scottish shale now yields 18 to 45 gallons of oil from a ton of shale. Government analyses showed Colorado shale contained an average of more than 44 gallons to the ton, of which perhaps 95 per cent could be extracted commercially.

From experiments started 25 years ago, shale oil production became one of Estonia's outstanding industries, much of it in German hands. The year before the war Estonia's total output was estimated at nearly 1⅛ million barrels.

When the first World war cut off Sweden's supply of imported petroleum the Swedes turned to the production of shale oil from sources within their country. Estimated production in 1943 exceeded a half million barrels.

Next to the United States the soviet union is the largest producer of petroleum, but it also has been developing its oil shale mines. In the 10 years before the present war shale oil production increased rapidly. In 1942 the soviets planned processing 4 million tons of shale. The oil content of Russian shales has not been announced.

Charles Coburn

● For 51 years Charles Coburn has been an actor. But only recently did he engage in his first screen romance and sing a song. The precedent-shattering episodes came in "Knickerbocker Holiday," and Constance Dowling was the object of his screen affections. A lover's role, however, is not new to Coburn, for on the stage he appeared often as Romeo and was the fiery lover in "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

The Coburn career goes back to a May day in 1893 when as an ex-program boy he was ushered onto the theater stage to fill a small role in "The Mikado." He was 16 and stage-struck, and this initial taste of the theater in his home town of Savannah, Ga., decided his future. Broadway spurned him, but when he was about 20 he finally made the grade.

• • •

In 1906 he met and married Ivah Wills, an actress, and before long they were starring in their own company, known as the Coburn Players. In 1935 they founded the Mohawk drama festival at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y. It wasn't until after the death of Mrs. Coburn in 1937 that Charles accepted a film offer. He since has been sought after steadily. One of his most recent roles was with Jean Arthur in the picture "The Imperfect Years."

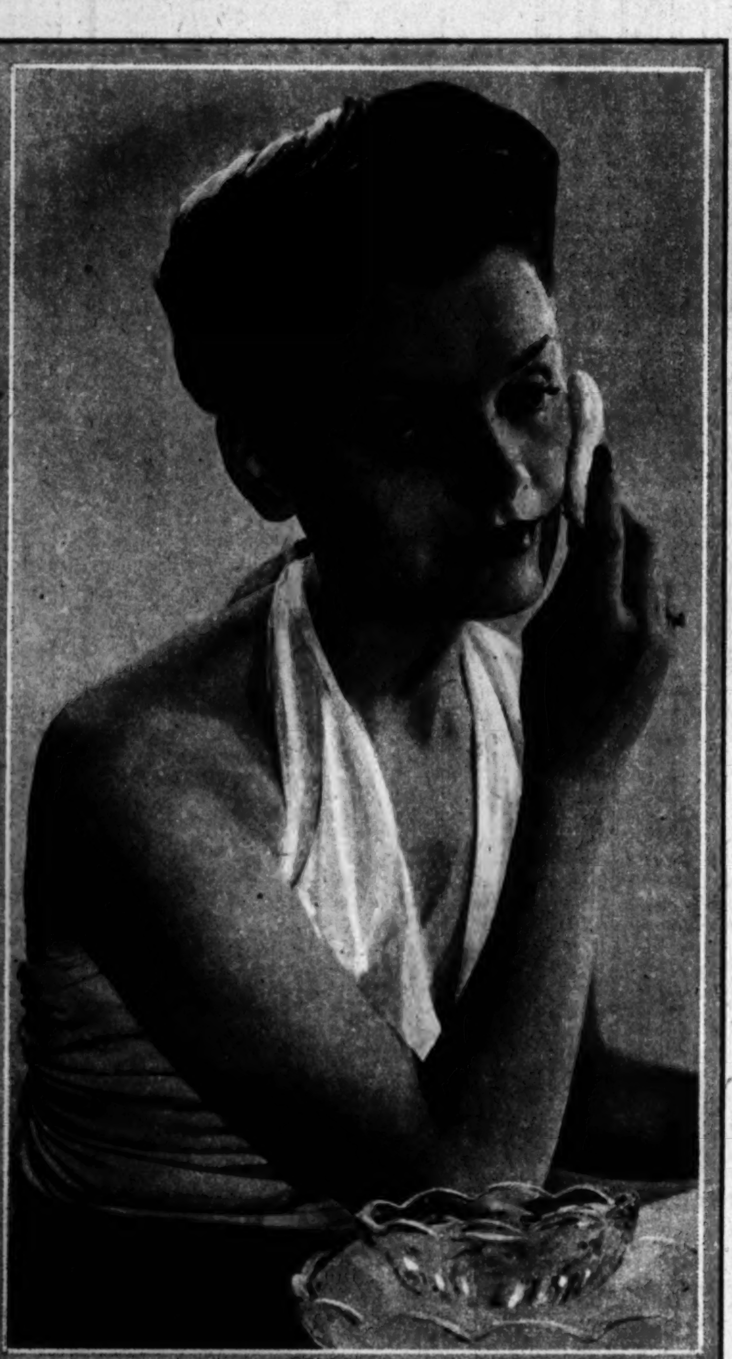
COOLTH Is the Goal of Makeup

By ELEANOR NANGLE



NEXT TIME you want to look radiantly fresh and delectably cool for a big date on a steamingly hot evening, try a special hot weather beauty treatment.

This isn't really very different from your usual methods of face fixing except that in every step it's geared to the promotion of what, for want of a better word, is known as "coolth." And it involves the use of the family icebox, in which you must store your cleansing cream and face lotion early in the day, or, if pressed for time, from which you will need a big bowl of ice in which to chill them quickly.

• • •

The starting point of dolling up for an evening is the systematic laying out of the clothes you'll need, down to the last handkerchief. This does away with the last-minute flurries that leave you flushed and jittery; you can dress serenely and leisurely if you've everything within hand's reach.

Then, of course, there is the bath. This should be as lazy and slow as time permits, with water neither hot enough to enervate you nor cold enough to overstimulate. Wind up the ritual with the use of cologne, toilet water, or a body lotion, in a fragrance that's lilting rather than lush. Heavy, heady perfumes simply won't do for hot weather.

One of our very favorite hot weather cleansers is light as a cream can be. It has a cool, sweet fragrance and is thin and cool against the skin just by virtue of its texture. When stored in the icebox it takes on a special, welcome snowflake quality. Use it to cleanse quite thoroly, and, this removed, give yourself a little extra massage with it, always stroking upward. If the cream is cold—as it should be—the skin will be cooled thoroly and lastingly.

But the best of the cooling face treatment is the use of the freshening lotion. This, one of the nicest on the market, is mild but wonderfully efficient in clearing away the last smudges of cream. It should be as cold as you can manage. If it's been standing outside the refrigerator, pour some in a small bowl and set in a larger bowl of ice. When it's thoroly chilled wring out a pad of cotton in the icy lotion and go over the face and neck thoroly to remove the cream. Then, using the pad of cotton again saturated in the skin lotion, briskly slap the entire surface of the face and the neck.

This will have all the pleasant effect of a cold but soft rain against your face. It will stimulate circulation nicely—your skin will have a glow, and one that sticks for hours. It will have a lasting feeling of being cool, too. This simple trick of using chilled cream and lotion is almost insurance against the hot looking face, no matter what the temperature.

In hot weather try storing your light cream and your refreshing skin lotion in the family icebox. Cleansing with chilled cream, then patting briskly with cotton pads wrung out in icy lotion, will cool the skin thoroly—and help you look cool for hours.

Your choice of makeup aids is important in hot weather, too. Use foundation a bit more sparingly than usual, avoid eye makeup heavy enough to smear if you perspire—and above all stick to color accents that are clear and bright instead of torrid.

Your makeup has to be geared to hot weather, too. Torrid lipstick shades don't help you look cool. Clear, brilliant shades do. Use your foundation sparingly and be sure it is a light rather than a heavy one. Go easy on eye makeup in exceedingly hot weather—it can get smeary looking when you perspire.

• • •

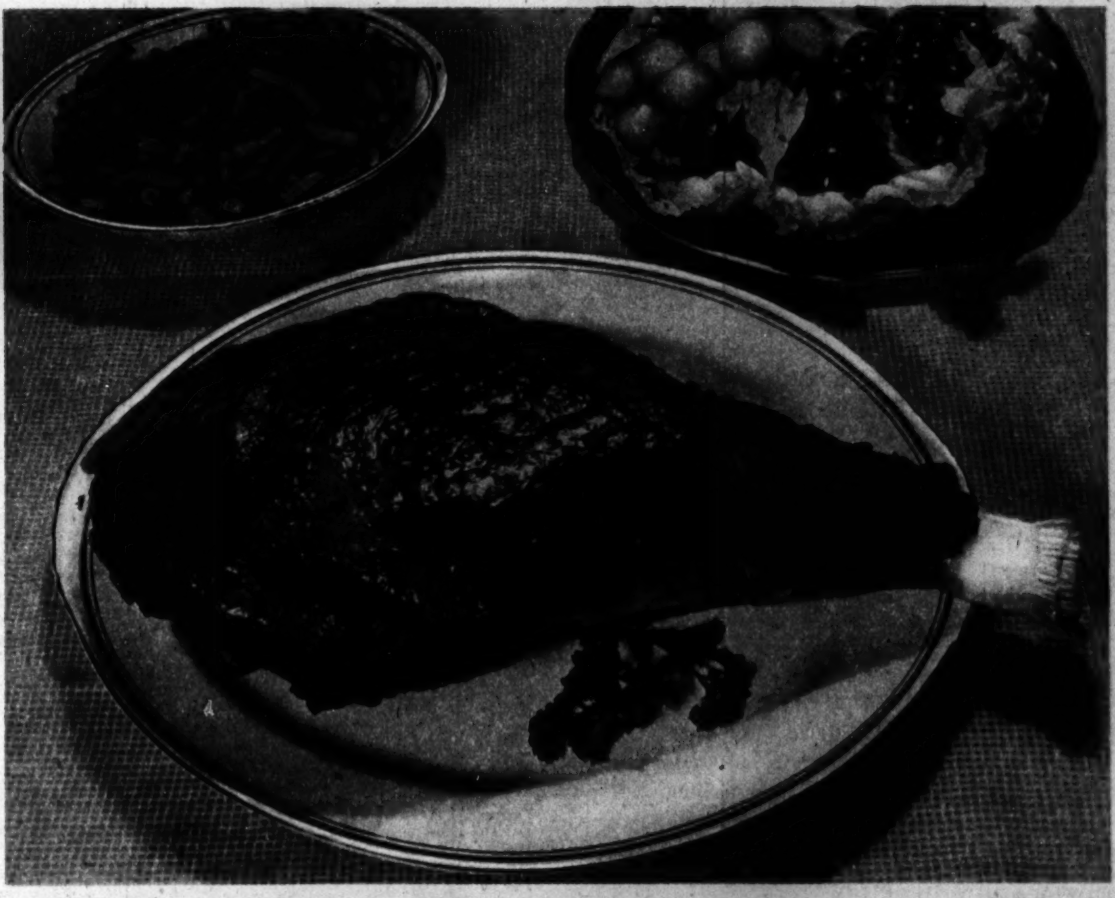
Arm yourself with a flock of little cotton puffs, the disposable kind, so that when you repair makeup you won't be mixing old powder and perspiration with the new coat.

The cool look is worth its weight in gold these days. No woman can be attractive if she looks flushed and messy of makeup. Cooling the skin thoroly by using well chilled cream and lotion first will help you look and feel as fresh as a snowy freesia.

SHIP AHOY!—In next Sunday's Graphic Section will be reproduced in full color two paintings of old clipper ships.

LAMB HOT or COLD

By MARY MEADE



Leg of lamb should be served hot or cold, but never lukewarm. Roast it uncovered.

A LEG OF LAMB provides at least two meals for the average family. It's good hot or cold, but not lukewarm. Lamb and mutton are two meats which aren't appetite-appealing at an intermediate temperature.

Fresh mint sauce is the perfect accompaniment for leg of lamb, so if you have a mint patch in your back yard you're all set. Bruise the fresh-washed leaves and cover them with diluted warm vinegar. Sweeten to taste and let stand until the mint flavor has permeated the vinegar solution.

Lamb may be served well done or on the pink side, as you prefer it.

Don't remove the fell, that paperlike covering on the leg of lamb. It helps hold in juices and flavor during roasting. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, season with salt and pepper, and rub lightly with garlic if you like garlic, which has an affinity for lamb. Slivers of garlic may be inserted in gashes in the meat.

• • •

Insert a meat thermometer if you have one, but be careful that the bulb does not rest on bone or in a fat layer. What you want is the temperature of the muscle—the meat itself.

Place the leg of lamb fat side up on a rack in an open roaster. Roast at 300 degrees until thermometer registers 175 degrees (pink-tinged meat) or 180 degrees (well done). Allow 30 to 35 minutes to the pound for roasting.

Creamed or parsley potatoes, green beans, fruit salad, and Parker House rolls round out an attractive menu featuring lamb. Don't forget the mint sauce! Complete such a meal with cake and coffee.

Cold lamb slices could be served with potato salad or with a jellied raw and cooked vegetable salad for supper. Or make a salad of the cold lamb, dicing it and adding celery, a little onion, cooked peas, and mayonnaise to blend.

There are several pleasant ways of serving left-over lamb hot, too. One is to chop the meat fine, season it well, and moisten it with white sauce or gravy, then to encase it in pastry and bake until hot and brown. Use pie pastry and cut it into squares. Spread the meat mixture on a triangular half of each square, fold the other pastry half over it, and press the edges together. Gash each turnover before baking at 400 degrees. These turnovers are delicious with gravy or with mushroom sauce.

• • •

A second hot dish with left-over lamb is a curry. You combine the diced meat with chopped onion, green pepper, and celery, brown lightly in drippings, sprinkle with flour, and add broth, bouillon, or vegetable cooking liquid, cooking the mixture until thickened, and seasoning with curry powder and whatever additional condiments seem necessary.

See that cavity in the tooth at the right? It's NOT decay or erosion! That cavity was caused by daily scouring. Dental clinic studies have shown that over half of all adults examined had these cavities—and more than 8 in 10 risked getting them—cavities ground into the softer tooth structure exposed by receding gums.

BUT— extensive laboratory tests show this: TEETH CLEANED WITH TEEL ARE PROTECTED FROM SUCH CAVITIES . . . BECAUSE TEEL CONTAINS NO SCOURING ABRASIVES. MOREOVER, TEEL IS THE ONLY LEADING DENTIFRICE THAT GIVES YOU THIS PROTECTION.

③ BUT YOU TAKE NO RISK—WHEN YOU USE TEEL! Look at TEEL! Hold it to the light and see what a tempting, sparkling-clear liquid it is! TEEL works on an entirely new principle . . . cleans and brightens teeth without abrasives. Leaves your brush as clean as your teeth; and leaves your breath so sweet, so kissable!

NEW SAFE TEEL WAY TAKES ONLY
One Extra Minute a Week!

Yet the TEEL way makes your teeth look their loveliest, fast! Just brush your teeth daily with TEEL. And for one extra minute each week brush with TEEL and plain baking soda. Local Business Man Retires Because of Lost Hearing

Edward D. Wilk, well-known sales promotional executive, was compelled to retire from an active business career because of a progressive hearing loss, and remained in retirement for some time.

Today, Mr. Wilk finds himself again an active, energetic, driving executive as of former years. Because science has made it possible for him to successfully rehabilitate himself in society, he has decided to devote the rest of his lifetime to aiding others who may have lost, through defective hearing, their place in the social scheme of things.

Recently in a talk before a group of prominent Chicago business men, Mr. Wilk said in substance: "Through the miracle of modern science I have regained an amazing part of my life that I thought was utterly lost to me, lost to me for so long a time that I had actually forgotten how much it meant to me. You who are listening to me tonight cannot possibly imagine what a tremendous effect on one's whole well-being, on one's very personality, deafness or even a partial hearing loss can mean.

"When I realized fully that I was becoming progressively deaf, I tried everything in a frantic attempt to regain my hearing—all to no avail. People with normal hearing do not realize how easily they can offend the deafened . . . and often are unintentionally cruel, cutting short their conversation. It is then that the deafened individual usually gives up the effort to listen.

"In my case I had never been subject to the common ailment of the deafened—a feeling that they are being talked about and pointed out as eccentric individuals; nevertheless, I found myself making embarrassing or ridiculous comments because I misunderstood others, and felt that I was a kill-joy in a group. I had a tendency to back out smiling, nodding, and pretending.

"A blind person makes no pretense at seeing, yet the deaf are always pretending that they hear and usually grumble at people, saying that all people mumble. Poems and music have been written about the blind, but only 'funny' stories have been told about the deaf. I felt that I had no friend to unlock the door of escape from the soundproof cell of silence. In other words, my whole life was changing; I began to lose interest in business, friends, and even my own family.

"Then, just as I thought that everything was lost, through the help of a dear friend, science came to my assistance. My eyes widened in startled, joyful amazement, then filled with tears, for the first note of a new horizon of hearing burst on my consciousness and I realized with a sweep of emotional ecstasy that I could hear again, and was the Ed Wilk of old. With this realization came a decision to aid the many millions of those who, like myself, have been on the brink of despair, that they might rehabilitate themselves as I did and again be useful to society."

Mr. Wilk has not only regained his lost hearing but has edited a booklet which he calls HE WHO HATH EARS LET HIM HEAR. This booklet is dedicated to the hard-of-hearing and brings them inspiration and hope. It is free; it will be mailed in a plain wrapper to any one addressing E. D. Wilk, Suite 1602, 6 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

EDWARD D. WILK after short retirement again enters business field.

New Kind of Face Powder Makes Her Look Years Younger!

Once this lovely girl looked quite a bit older. For she was the innocent victim of an unflattering face powder! It was an unkind powder—treacherous and sly. It showed up every tiny line in her face—accented every little skin fault—even seemed to exaggerate the size of her pores.

But look at her now! Can you guess her age? Would you say she is 20-30-35?

At last she has found a face powder that really flatters her skin—makes it look younger and more enchanting!

Why Lady Esther Face Powder Is So Flattering

Lady Esther Face Powder isn't just mixed, just sifted, in the usual way. It's blown by Twin Hurricanes—blended with the speed and power of hurricanes!

And because of this patented, exclusive method of hurricane blending, the texture of Lady Esther Face Powder is much smoother and finer than ordinary powder. The first touch of your puff spreads a delicate film of beauty on your skin, hiding little lines, little blemishes.

But the most exciting difference is in the shades. Lady Esther shades have a subtle new quality—because the color is blown in by hurricanes. Many women say that the Lady Esther shades are so fresh and alive that ordinary powder shades seem dull and drab by comparison.

Living Proof—In Your Own Mirror!

Try Lady Esther Face Powder! Get the smallest size box, if you like—but try it! When you see how much smoother and younger it makes your skin look—it's time enough to get the largest and most economical size. But to prove this is the most flattering powder you have ever used, get the small-size box today!

WELL, LT. CHARLES IS FUN, BUT HE'S NOT VERY TALL... CAPTAIN TUMBLIN IS TALL, BUT HE'S NOT MUCH FUN... LT. TERRY LEE IS SORT OF, WELL, IN BETWEEN...
WHICH PUTS HIM JUST ABOUT OUT IN FRONT AT THE THREE QUARTER POLE, HUH? SOUNDS AS IF TERRY– HEY! SIREN! AIR RAID!

FORGET THE FLASHLIGHT! HIT THAT TRENCH! I SHOULD LIVE SO LONG– AND THEN END UP AS PART OF THE TOPOGRAPHIC MAP OF THIS SNAKE FARM!
BURMA! WILLOW!
IT'S TERRY!... WE HEARD THE SIREN — WE'RE DRESSED!
I'M NOT ALERTED–YOUR TRENCH WILL BE FULL OF WATER AND WHAT NOT... THERE'S A COVERED, DRY SHELTER DOWN THE LINE... I'LL TAKE YOU THERE!

Teenie Weenie Lemonade

THE weather had been very hot under the rosebush where the Teenie Weenie village stands. There was nothing for the little people to do but lie in the shade and rest for Teenie Weenies sweat and suffer from heat just as much as big folks.

Of course the little people had their swimming pool which had been made out of an old sauce dish and they spent a great deal of time in the water trying to keep cool. There hadn't been any rain for more than two weeks and the dish was half empty. The warm weather had dried up a lot of the water and then the birds wasted a lot by taking baths in the pool.

"Lawsy!" yawned Gogo one afternoon while he and the Dunce lay on a soft patch of moss near the shoe house. "Ah wish Ah had some lemonade."

"Say!" exclaimed the Dunce. "Let's go over back of the grocery and see if we can find a lemon."

After a little urging Gogo climbed to his feet and the two Teenie Weenies strolled across the lane and thru a field to a grocery store where the little people often found useful things which had been thrown out. The little men's eyes nearly popped out of their tiny heads when they saw a big lemon lying on the ground. There was a bad spot on one side but the Teenie Weenies could see that most of the lemon was in good shape.

"O boy!" exclaimed the delighted Dunce. "There's enough lemon there to keep us in lemonade for the rest of the summer."

The two Teenie Weenies hurried to the shoe house in spite of the heat and gave the news to the rest of the little tribe who were delighted with the thought of lemonade. The General thought it would be best to roll the lemon to the Teenie Weenie village, for then the little folks could preserve it and have fresh lemonade whenever they liked. It was quite a long way from the grocery to the Teenie Weenie village, so the Old Soldier with a wooden leg suggested that they hire a mouse to pull the lemon on a Teenie Weenie sled.

That suggestion met with immediate approval of the Teenie Weenies and in a short time they had hired a white footed mouse, put on it a set of Teenie Weenie frog skin harness and hitching it to the sled they soon dragged the lemon to a shady place under the rosebush.

Now the Teenie Weenies have lemonade to help keep them cool and sometimes, on a very hot day, the little tribe will drink four or five thimblefuls.

"In plannin' to please my family- BREAD COMES First"

Bread is playing a bigger part in keeping America well fed than ever before—because the enriched white bread you get from your baker today is the best bread America ever had! Just loaded with food-values—the newest one being Vitamin B_2, or riboflavin, which authorities say is an essential to normal growth and good nutrition.

Read that panel at right and you see why bread is featured in one of the "Basic Seven" food groups of our government's official nutrition program.

So, to help make sure that your meals satisfy your bodily needs —eat plenty of baker's good, white bread every day. It's plentiful, inexpensive and convenient!

WHAT'S NEW IN BREAD? JUST LISTEN!

Made to standards approved by the U. S. Government, every loaf of baker's enriched, white bread contains useful amounts of all these important food-values:

VITAMIN B_1 — helps maintain good appetite and steady nerves.

VITAMIN B_2 — (riboflavin) — essential to sturdy growth and normal nutrition.

IRON—helps build good, rich blood.

PROTEIN—helps build tissue and promote growth.

CARBOHYDRATES—supply food-energy readily turned into useful work.

These standards have been assured for all baker's white bread through the joint efforts of the U. S. Government and the Baking Industry in the past two years.

MONTHLY REPORT

Parents Can help a child "keep his chin up"!

A receding chin is not always inherited. Often the "weak" chin that detracts from a child's appearance and poise can be corrected by proper dental care when young.

For example, the boy at right developed an abnormal "bite" when his first permanent molars came in. This habit forced his teeth out of line, interfered with normal jaw development. Fortunately, his parents took him to the dentist for treatments early enough to correct the cause of the trouble and improve his looks.

Parents, it's the truth—the care you give a child's teeth can influence his entire life. Neglect may breed trouble that cannot be undone. Don't put off your child's visits to the dentist. And insist on careful daily brushing to keep his teeth clean and bright.

You Can have Brighter Teeth!

Impartial laboratories made hundreds of tests. Scientists checked their findings with photoelectric measuring devices and authorize this statement: Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands...brighter than any of them—bar none! These results have been double-checked by identical twins who made practical in-the-home tests . . . by technicians in dental clinics . . . by dentists in their own offices. The result is always the same: Pepsodent Powder with Irium makes teeth far brighter.

NEW TRIER TAX BILL FOR 1943 TURNS UPWARD

Village Levies Up as Much as 8%.

An increase in land values and higher levies for township taxing bodies have resulted in higher taxes for property owners in New Trier township for 1943. One township official has estimated that tax bills in Wilmette, Kenilworth, and Glencoe are from 7 to 8 per cent higher while Winnetka property owners are facing approximately a three per cent increase.

Rates are higher in the township partly because some taxing bodies have increased levies and partly because few new homes have been built in New Trier during the past four years.

Township officials have estimated that New Trier would have had approximately a million dollars more in assessed valuation for new homes this year if it had not been for the war.

School Costs Up.

Altho there has been a general increase in land values thruout the township, property owners in Kenilworth Gardens, Indian Hills, and north of Glencoe particularly have been affected, Sanborn Hale, township collector, declared after studying the tax bills for the first half of the year.

Higher village and school levies this year have resulted from higher cost of maintenance and repairs on old equipment and increased salaries. Allen Bray, township school treasurer, explained that school budgets provide for a systematic increase in teachers' salaries but that salaries for beginning teachers are higher than they used to be.

Glencoe Has No School Bond.

The Glencoe school district is one of the few in the state which does not have a bond issue, Mr. Bray said. Its tax levy is .70 cents in comparison to 83 cents for Winnetka, 82 cents for Wilmette and Kenilworth, and 39 cents for the unincorporated area which includes New Trier taxpayers in Northfield and Glenview.

School budgets are compiled by the district school boards. Village residents have an opportunity to be heard on their village budget at a board meeting usually held in April. Laws permit school budgets up to 1 per cent of the assessed valuation and village budgets are limited to 66 2-3 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

One of the wealthier townships in the county, there is no poor relief. Unlike most of the other 30 townships neither does New Trier have a township nor a road and bridge levy.

Escapes Full Assessment Blow.

Because it does not have a relief load, New Trier is not affected by the new full assessment policy which was inaugurated this year by John S. Clark, county assessor, as some of the other townships are. In townships where state funds are needed, there must be a levy of three mills of each dollar which amounts to 270 per cent more under full assessment than under the old 37 per cent assessment policy.

Altho most taxing bodies in New Trier have levied more taxes this year, they are well within their maximum levies, Mr. Hale declared. Under the law their levies could be increased 2.7 times the 1942 maximum when taxpayers paid on 37 per cent of their assessed valuation.

Tax rates of the various districts are: Wilmette, $2.77; Kenilworth,

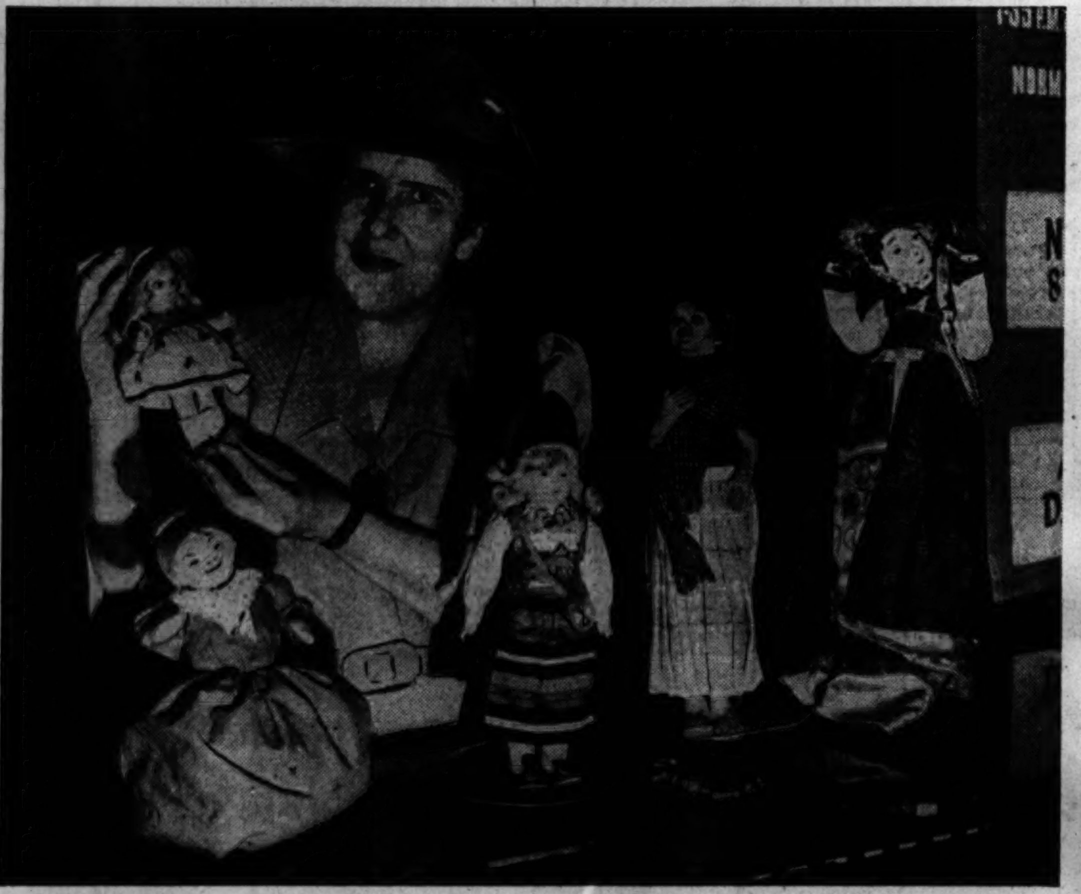
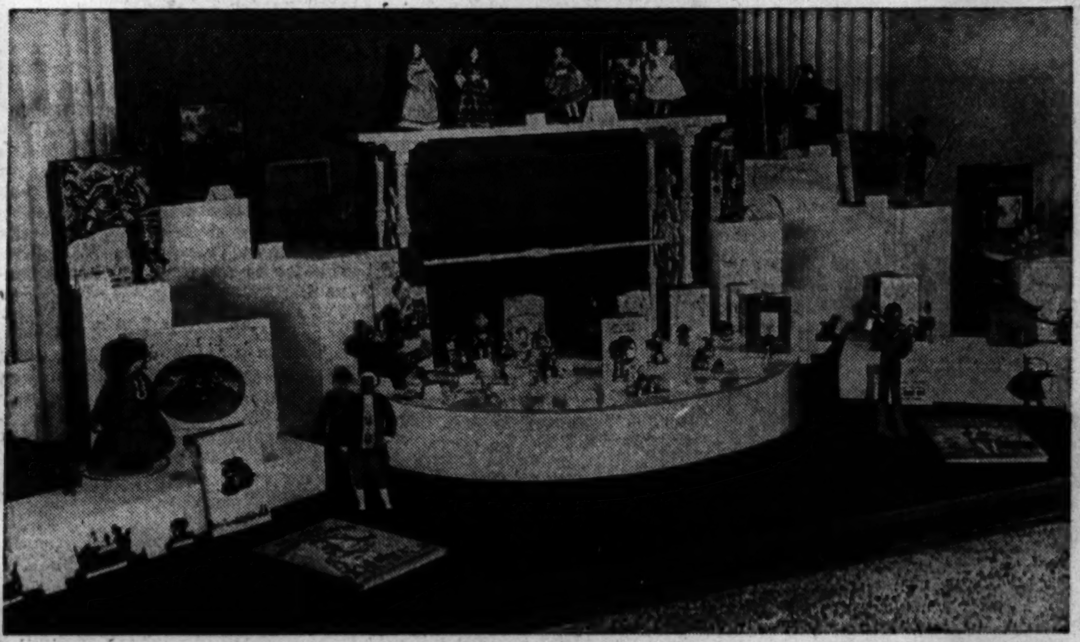
Evanston School Librarian Exhibits 600 Dolls at Treasury Center



At Treasury center in the Commonwealth Edison building, 72 W. Adams st., Miss Katherine Waller, librarian for school district 75 in Evanston, has been exhibiting her collection of 600 dolls. Francoise, the doll she is holding, was her first—bought in 1930 when she was in France. The others are, left to right, Madame Pouf, a Swedish girl, a Mexican woman, and a Korean sword dancer.



In one of the display windows on Adams st., Miss Waller has arranged an exhibit of some of her dolls that illustrate characters in books for children. She uses them in connection with reading periods at the schools. She has dolls for "Alice in Wonderland," "Winnie, the Pooh," "Mother Goose," "Little Women," and many others.

Miss Ann Werner.

Miss Ann Werner, 20, of 1023 Thorndale av., has been selected as one of six sweethearts of the 143d field artillery on New Britain, according to the Red Devil Tropic Topics, a field artillery newspaper received here yesterday. Miss Werner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Werner, is a policy writer for the Hartford Fire Insurance company, in the Wrigley building. She writes insurance on cattle, she said.

Miss Werner said her photograph was entered by Corp. William Peniston, Beverly Hills, Cal., "who is the best friend of my boy friend." She said she began writing Peniston a year ago and sent him her picture at his request. The picture was one of 38 entered in the contest.

She admitted she was at a loss to say how the Tropic Topics concluded that she has "both an attractive figure and a marvelous personality," since she has never met the editors and the picture is merely a profile. Miss Werner has brown hair, weighs 112 pounds, is 5 feet 2 inches tall, and until recently was a Northwestern university co-ed.

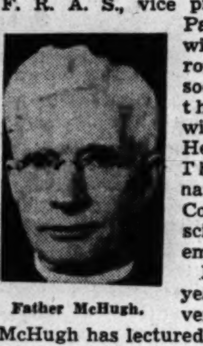
REV. D. J. McHUGH LEAVES DE PAUL UNIVERSITY POST

Vice President to End 40 Year Association.



Father McHugh.

The Rev. Daniel J. McHugh, C. M., F. R. A. S., vice president of De Paul university, will retire tomorrow after an association of more than 40 years with the school. He will go to St. Thomas seminary, Denver, Colo., to teach science and mathematics.

During his years at the university Father McHugh has lectured on philosophy, science, and psychology, has taught in the secretarial department, and has served as treasurer.

Worked for Railroad.

Born in Danville, Ill., he came to Chicago in 1892 at the age of 15 and worked as a messenger boy for the Wabash railroad. At 17 he began studying for the priesthood and in 1906 was ordained by Bishop Muldoon at St. Charles church, 2060 Roosevelt rd.

In the fall of the same year he began teaching at the university. Previously, in 1898, he had figured in the founding of St. Vincent's college, which became De Paul. In 1910 he was appointed treasurer, a position he held for 30 years.

Father McHugh regards 1909 as one of the most colorful years in his life. He was asked to write a paper on physical sciences in Catholic colleges for the National Catholic Education association. As a result of this and of research which he did on Halley's comet he became well known in scientific circles.

He is a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, a member of the American Astronomical society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and similar organizations. From 1923 to 1925 he was president of the college department of the National Catholic Education association.

In Washington a Year.

In 1940 he went to Washington, D. C., to become rector of the Vincentian House of Study, affiliated with Catholic university. Many of the present members of the De Paul faculty lived with him there while completing their studies, among them the Rev. Edward J. Kammer, now head of the college of liberal arts, and the Rev. Bernard Miller of the department of chemistry.

In 1941 Father McHugh returned to De Paul to succeed the Rev. Thomas C. Powers, C. M., A. M., as vice president. His greatest thrill, he thinks, has been watching the growth of the university during the years he has been there.

Urban League.

Dr. Louis Binstock, chairman of the Urban league, announces the opening of a new club office at 203 N. Wabash av., which will serve as a clearing house for all matters involving race relations.

ADDING MACHINE HOLDER ADDS UP MORE MAIL NOW

Former employes of the Bell & Howell company, 1801 Larchmont av., now in service, are receiving something new in the way of letters. The "letter perfect" is what Al Bruder has called his new gadget, which encourages fellow employes to write to their friends in service.

The gadget consists of a holder from an adding machine that permits 6 inch strips of paper to be exposed on a flat surface. This paper is hung on the wall of the office. Then each week a name is chosen from the departmental service honor roll and attached to the holder. Employes are thus encouraged to jot down a few lines on the letter.

The response from the recipients of Al Bruder's novel letter has been so enthusiastic that the entire Bell & Howell plant has adopted the idea, and the letter roll is a standard fixture in almost every department.

Hubert S. Wall Named to Illinois Tech Staff

Dr. Hubert S. Wall of Evanston, professor of mathematics at Northwestern university since 1927, has been appointed to the faculty of Illinois Institute of Technology.

NAVY OFFICERS ASK PUBLIC AID IN HOUSE HUNT

Shortage Critical at Glenview.

The housing officers of the Glenview naval air station, under Lt. C. W. Teague, are seeking the assistance of north shore property owners living within a 15 mile radius of the station in helping to solve their housing problem.

The station has a large number of officers and enlisted men who want houses, apartments, or kitchenette units for family living. Despite the efforts of community leaders in the vicinity of the station, the housing problem has become acute, because of the introduction of the newly established naval air primary training command.

To date many of the command officers, while searching for living quarters, are in residence in the bachelor quarters at the base, while their families remain in various sections of the country awaiting the establishment of a north shore home.

320 In New Group.

The naval air primary command, which was moved from Kansas City, Mo., to Glenview on July 1, has supervision over 129 training units located thruout the country. Navy, marine corps, and coast guard personnel receive primary aviation instruction under the guidance of the 70 officers and 250 enlisted members of the command.

The housing problem for this group was aggravated by the necessity of transferring the entire staff almost overnight to an area already crowded.

Find Half Enough Homes.

The command sought to meet the Glenview housing problem by sending an advance scouting party headed by Lt. Comdr. Burress Moore Jr., and Lt. C. W. Teague of staff headquarters, to contact north shore property owners.

A public appeal was made to house owners in the north shore. This brought enthusiastic response, but the number of available residences listed met less than 50 per cent of the demand.

Find Rentals Higher.

In many cases the monthly rentals were found to be higher than the personnel had paid in Kansas City. Some rentals ran as high as $175 to $250 a month, which is considerably above an officer's rental allowance, and consequently attractive to the few with independent incomes.

To date approximately 50 per cent of the officers and a smaller percentage of the enlisted personnel, wishing to live off the station, have found homes, and many of these have summer leases. This contingent will join the home seekers of

More than 7,000 OCD volunteer block wardens and their supervising staffs took part in the campaign. There were 104,935 responses to the house to house canvass.

TOOTHPICK TOWN WINS SHOW TITLE FOR 12 YEAR OLD

Peter Ohlwein Architect by Accident.

Picktown, a model village built by Peter Ohlwein, 12, of Highland Park, with 8,750 toothpicks, was "sort of an accident," according to the young builder. The village, which took first prize at the recent Highland Park Hobby show, was begun when Peter decided to give up making model airplanes.

The planes were a pretty expensive hobby, for no sooner was one completed than Peter would think of some improvement. In order to try out the new idea, he would have to have a new supply of materials . . . and in Peter's case, his wealth was more ideas than money.

Mother Suggests Change.

Helping her son to solve his problem of model building and budget, Mrs. Edward P. Ohlwein suggested that Peter try making a toothpick village. He started out with a model of Fort Dearborn, and when that was completed started on his prize winning Picktown.

The toothpick community, built to scale, consists of a city hall, school house, fire station, church, ice cream parlor, cigar store, 10 houses, and a replica of the Ohlwein home. "Four thousand toothpicks went into the Ohlwein home," said Peter's mother, as she proudly described her son's handiwork.

Telephone Poles Are Straws.

The village now on exhibit at the Public Service store in Highland Park speaks of modern development. Telephone poles made from soda straws with white thread as wiring line the thorofares. Picket fences enclose war gardens, where vegetables made of painted string cleverly fashioned into carrots, beets, and tomatoes, grow in ordered rows.

Infinite detail is seen in the inclusion of a bell which really rings in the church steeple. The school yard is complete with teeter totter, swings, slides, and a sand box, shaded by a gayly colored umbrella.

Ice Cream Near School.

Placement of the ice cream parlor across from the school house and the cigar store near the city hall seemed to Peter the way folks would like it. "Kids like ice cream —and dad likes cigars." Peter's father is employed as assistant city clerk of Highland Park and makes his headquarters in the village hall.

Peter had a period of difficulty in constructing his village. It came when he wanted verdure—trees and bushes and grass. He solved the grass problem easily enough by dyeing a turkish towel green and covering the plyboard platform upon which he mounted his model. But the trees were a different matter. When he came to them it was winter—and "there I was—stuck," Peter said.

Hydrangea Makes Trees.

"Mom had a hydrangea bush in the back yard and there's where I got the tree tops" so Peter's story goes. The miniature trees look like elms. One would scarcely believe they are the dead blossoms of the hydrangea bush.

Encouraged at the success of the painted blossoms, Peter went to the woods and gathered dead weeds. They are now the green hedges and bushes landscaping the village. The stones of the church terrace were collected and matched by the young craftsman from a box of gravel, and the streets are made of sand sprinkled on shallacked board.

Takes Summer Vacation.

Peter likes architecture, but is not sure just what he will be when he grows up and has to decide on a career. Meanwhile he will enter the 8th grade at the Immaculate Conception school in September, where he is rated an excellent student.

This summer he hasn't worked on any new models. He's just gotten a good sun tan playing baseball and swimming with the kids in the neighborhood.

Church Wedding for Wilmette Couple

Bermingham, Wilmette, became the bride of Charles Joseph Ryan, son of Mrs. Margaret Farrell Ryan, Wilmette. Mrs. Ryan is a graduate of New Trier High school. She attended Mundelein college and the Academy of Fine Arts in Evanston. Mr. Ryan is a former student of Northwestern university. The couple is at home in Wilmette.

A PRETTY DOLL IS JUST LIKE AN APPLE OR A NUT

BY PHYLLIS FORD.

In 1930 Miss Katherine Waller had just finished her first year as librarian of Evanston's school district 75 and was touring Europe for the summer. She had thought that to add to the interest of the reading periods for Evanston children she might get some dolls, typical of the countries the children studied so much about but knew only from books. That summer she brought home five, a French doll, a pair from Oberammergau and one from Brussels.

Since then she has built up her collection to more than 600 dolls from all parts of the world. The majority has been given to her, as the fame of her collection spread. "The fun of having it is sharing it with the children," she says.

Dolls on Exhibit 8 Times.

However, she shares it more widely than that. She has loaned her dolls for exhibit eight time, and they are now on display at treasury center in the Commonwealth Edison building, 72 W. Adams st. As an attraction at the all nations booth the dolls contributed to the sale of over $5,000,000 in bonds. Thousands of persons a day stop to look at the collection, which will be on exhibit until Sept. 1.

Miss Waller, who lives in the Orrington hotel in Evanston, keeps the 600 dolls in boxes on the closet shelves and in a suitcase under the bed. For weeks before an exhibit she is busy washing and ironing costumes and combing wigs. Once she sent 60 of them to a friend in New Jersey. Her anxiety over their welfare was relieved by this telegram: "Your family arrived this afternoon. Splendid journey. All well."

What Little Dolls Are Made Of.

Many of her dolls are made of unusual materials. For example, a Vermont couple is made of dried apples. The smallest pair of all are dried fleas from Mexico, dressed as a bride and groom. Pappy Hicky, an American regional doll, has a nut for a head, and a Wisconsin doll is made of rolled cotton.

Miss Waller likes to have in her nationalities groups at least one peddler doll. Typical of this type are a London fruit vendor, a New Orleans vegetable vendor, a Chinese street merchant, and an American colonial peddler woman in a gingham shawl who is selling brass and pewter utensils.

Dolls Dressed to Tell Stories.

She illustrates the types of industries in other countries by showing her library classes a Gaspe peninsula fisherman or a Guatemalan weaver doll. Stories for children she brings to life with dolls that resemble the principal characters. Elizabeth Orton Jones, author of children's books, made a Mme. Pouf doll to illustrate her story especially for Miss Waller.

Many of her pupils have given her dolls to add to the collection. Ruth Fricke, whose father was the German consul in Chicago, gave her a pair of dolls from the Black Forest in Germany. A Korean sword dancer dressed in red and purple silks was donated by Alice Appenzeller, the first white child born in Korea, where her parents were pioneer Methodist missionaries.

Miss Waller has shown her collection four times for the Red Cross, twice for China relief, and once for the benefit of an orphanage in Syria.

Evanston Wedding

MRS. STEPHEN E. BURKE.

Among the recent north side brides is Mrs. Stephen E. Burke Jr., the former Catherine Jaeger, daughter of John Jaeger of Evanston. Her husband, a lieutenant in an army anti-aircraft division, is the son of Mrs. Stephen E. Burke of Evanston. The couple are living in San Bernardino, Cal.

FLYER DOWNED IN FLAMES NOW A W-G-N SINGER

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dick Brown.

Dick Brown, a 25 year old army flyer, crashed on a Pacific isle two years ago. He spent the better part of a year in various hospitals, and when he got out he had only some 20 square inches of skin that had not been subjected to grafting or treatment. Today Dick Brown is a W-G-N - Mutual radio singer, in good health again. He's modest and discourages any references to his experiences.

"There are too many regular guys still out there," he says. "They're my friends and I know what they'd think if they caught me capitalizing on my experience."

Brown's reconnaissance plane came down in flames—that's why the extensive skin grafts. For six months he lay in a hospital overseas before he was well enough to be brought home for further medical attention. After his discharge, with blotches of skin graft still evident, Dick went back to work at the Wright Aeronautical corporation in Cincinnati. There he tightened screws on planes until physicians insisted that he had to have more rest. While recuperating he turned back to the singing he'd neglected since studying at the Cincinnati College of Music.

During a visit to New York a friend arranged a radio audition. That resulted in a job at the Roosevelt hotel grill. He was spotted there by a sponsor and now has his own show on W-G-N at 5:45 p. m. Sundays.

Dog day news: Ed Wynn, one of the first of stage comedians to make a hit on radio, but who has been absent from the airways for seven years, is returning Sept. 8 in a Friday evening series on the Blue network. Songstress Evelyn Knight and Jerry Wayne will be with him. . . . Bing Crosby has changed his mind about touring hospitals during his 13 week summer vacation and is standing by to go overseas. Sonny Tufts is filling in on the air for Bing. . . . Dinah Shore is ready to go abroad to entertain the troops. . . . Rudy Vallee's return to radio after a year or so in the Coast Guard has been set for Saturday, Sept. 9, on NBC.

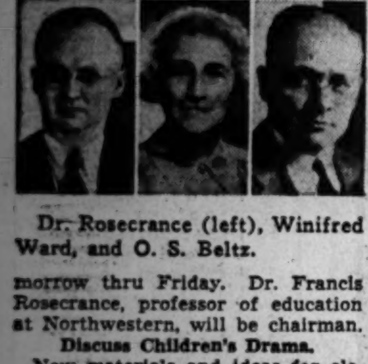
EDUCATORS PLAN CONFERENCES AT NORTHWESTERN

Expect Several Hundred at Annual Sessions.

Conferences, on guidance, children's dramatics, and church music, will be held this week on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. Authorities from all sections of the nation are expected to attend.

Several hundred educational and vocational counselors, school administrators, and teachers will be present at the eighth conference on guidance and personnel work tomorrow thru Friday. Dr. Francis Rosecrance, professor of education at Northwestern, will be chairman.



Dr. Rosecrance (left), Winifred Ward, and O. S. Beltz.

Discuss Children's Drama.

New materials and ideas for elementary school teachers and those interested in children's drama will be presented at the conference on children's theater tomorrow thru Wednesday. The conference is conducted by the school of speech in coöperation with the school of education and the Evanston public schools.

Winifred Ward, assistant professor of speech, will be chairman of sessions in the speech auditorium. Charlotte Chorpenning, director of the Goodman Children's theater, will talk at 3 p. m. tomorrow on "The Significance of Drama to Children." Directors of children's theaters in New York, Ohio, Indiana, and Wisconsin will take part in panel discussions.

Hold Hymn Festival.

Approximately 150 church choir directors and organists from 25 states will attend the 12th church and choral music institute today thru Friday. Oliver Beltz, associate professor of music at Northwestern, is chairman.

The institute will give two programs open to the public. At 8 o'clock tonight R. G. McCutchan, dean emeritus of DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., will direct a hymn festival at the First Methodist church of Evanston.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 7.

This is the time to cut the everlastings for winter bouquets. Nothing is finer than the small flowered baby's breath or gypsophila. Cut when in full bloom on a hot day and dry in the shade. Tie up in bundles. When thoroly dry store in paper lined cartons.

Bittersweet also may be gathered when ripe or just before the fruit opens, exposing the brilliant undercolors. Order peony roots at once. Let peonies alone unless they need moving and if they do make good sized divisions for they will respond much more quickly.

Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Make some cuttings of English ivy now. There is no better vine for indoor use, altho the philodendron and grape ivy are excellent and will stand much abuse. All three do well in a north window that has maximum light; no plant will stand long in a very dark place.

The potato harvest can start as soon as the tops die, but they will keep better in the ground than in a hot, dry place. Twist cabbage heads until the roots are loosened to prevent splitting and cracking. Twisting checks the growth. Late beets should be thinned to give each plant plenty of room to develop before autumn frost.

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Any one having a coldframe can sow some vegetables, such as lettuce, beets, and radishes in it for the slight protection they will need later on may be furnished by the sash. Many fail to realize the fun and value of a frame; its cost is insignificant considering the benefits derived.

But watch that the fruit is not injured by too intense sun. The fine white heads of cauliflower are obtained by typing up the leaves to enclose the head for blanching. It should be done as soon as the heads begin to form.

Late blight on celery, potatoes, and tomatoes may be controled with Bordeaux mixture. Celery blight is a seed blight and difficult to control. However, mild cases should not retard the growing of the plant.

Thursday, Aug. 10.

If the brussels sprouts do not form sprouts but make excessive leaf growth, firm the soil around the plant. Tomato fruits will ripen better if the growths are shortened. The sun can enter the plant and ripening is much more uniform and rapid.

Watch for aphids and spray immediately if any are seen. Use rotenone or nicotine preparations. Pick peppers as soon as they mature to give the developing fruits strength to develop.

Friday, Aug. 11.

Developing melons can be kept in fine condition if a board is placed under each fruit. It keeps them off the ground and prevents decay and attacks by wireworms. Bag grapes to prevent exposure to insect attacks. Try bagging and observe the difference between them and those not bagged.

Cut out the old fruiting canes of raspberry bushes and blackberries. These fine fruiting plants often are neglected and the gardener wonders why he fails to have more fruit.

Gardeners who plotted some of the strawberry runners should plant them out now and they will produce some fruit next season. As with all plants that are transplanted during the dry summer, see that plenty of water is given at all times.

Saturday, Aug. 12.

If the phlox seems covered with a grayish substance, it is mildrew. Dust with sulphur several times a week or spray with any recommended material. Mildew can hinder the proper functioning of a plant. Lilacs often are affected by it.

Keep the borders and beds in trim by edging. Get some chemical weed killer and keep the weeds down in gravel walks and driveways.

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.]

S. SIDE PHYSICIANS TELL HOW PLASMA SAVED FOUR FLYERS

Two south side physicians, now flight surgeons at an American 8th air force Liberator base in England, have told of four R. A. F. flyers, severely injured, who owe their lives to blood plasma.

Capt. Nash.

Capt. Keransky.

The physicians, Capt. David S. Keransky, 5337 Hyde Park blvd., and Capt. Charles B. Nash, 8134 Chappel av., said one was crippled over enemy territory. Three members of the crew bailed out over Belgium but the remaining four stayed with the ship in an attempt to reach England. The plane was demolished when it landed at the base.

The four flyers were injured so severely none was expected to live. The surgeons injected blood plasma, giving one flyer five units. All lived, but Captains Nash and Keransky agree that the injured men owe their lives to the precious plasma.

Plans for the service are nearing completion, according to Dr. I. E. Lunger of the University Disciples church, in charge of the program, and Dean Charles W. Gilkey of Rockefeller Memorial chapel.

The service, to last one hour, will be one of worship, with liturgies of thanksgiving, confession, and rededicaion to the task of creating a better world.

The University of Chicago choir, under direction of Mack Evans, will lead in the singing. Leading ministers and rabbis of the community, and representatives of the university's Federated Theological faculty, will speak.

CALUMET AREA HOUSE PROJECT TO OPEN SOON

Altgeld Gardens to Shelter 7,000.

The first of an anticipated 1,500 families is expected to move into Altgeld Gardens apartments in the next few weeks. The project is a 1,500 unit war housing development at 130th st. and Ellis av., covering more than 157 acres and costing $9,000,000.

The development, under management of the Chicago Housing authority, is expected to house 7,000 persons when it is completed late this year.

The buildings, which were designed by George Fred Keck, architect and proponent of modernism in architecture, are of the two story, row house type. One-bedroom apartments are on one floor, while apartments with two or more bedrooms have two floors.

Provide Facilities for Children.

Of the occupants, 3,500 are expected to be children under 17. Plans are being carried out for an elementary school, high school, and a gymnasium in the project. The schools will be operated by the board of education. A large community center will be built also with facilities for large scale social meetings as well as nursery, library, and medical care.

A variety of stores has been planned to make the community self-sufficient. Establishments will include a super-market and bakery, barber shop, beauty parlor, laundry and cleaning shop, secondary food store, drug stores, restaurant, movie theater, and professional offices. Parking facilities are planned close to the stores.

Kitchens Well Equipped.

Seats will be located in garden spots thruout the area. The benches will be surrounded by shrubs and small flowering trees with shade trees overhead. The development has provisions for more than 56 acres of lawns and meadows.

Among the advantages for the housewife are windows placed so sunlight will flood the rooms thruout the year. Kitchens will be well lighted, equipped with new gas stoves, refrigerators, work tables, a double bowl sink, and cabinet space.

Storage Rooms on First Floor.

Opening off the kitchen will be a storage room, substituting for a basement locker, with shelves for canned goods and staples. Adequate space for storing trunks, suitcases, and other things will be provided. Each apartment will be provided with two entrances—one into the living room and one into the kitchen. Each bedroom will contain a large closet. The living room will have a coat closet, and the bathroom a linen closet.

Altgeld Gardens was built to meet the housing needs for warworkers in the Calumet area who have to travel long distances to their employment or who now have inadequate shelter. Oscar C. Brown is manager.

The project was named after former Gov. John Peter Altgeld, who figured prominently in reform movements in Illinois and the nation at the turn of the century.

Takes New Position.

Gerald Dunn, principal of Mokena High school for the last 10 years, has been appointed to the high school staff at Caperon, Ill.

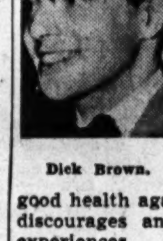
FLYER DOWNED IN FLAMES NOW A W-G-N SINGER

Ex-Army Pilot Makes Hit at Mike.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dick Brown, a 25 year old army flyer, crashed on a Pacific isle two years ago. He spent the better part of a year in various hospitals, and when he got out he had only some 20 square inches of skin that had not been subjected to grafting or treatment. Today Dick Brown is a W-G-N - Mutual radio singer, in good health again. He's modest and discourages any references to his experiences.



Dick Brown.

"There are too many regular guys still out there," he says. "They're my friends and I know what they'd think if they caught me capitalizing on my experience."

Brown's reconnaissance plane came down in flames—that's why the extensive skin grafts. For six months he lay in a hospital overseas before he was well enough to be brought home for further medical attention. After his discharge, with blotches of skin graft still evident, Dick went back to work at the Wright Aeronautical corporation in Cincinnati. There he tightened screws on planes until physicians insisted that he had to have more rest. While recuperating he turned back to the singing he'd neglected since studying at the Cincinnati College of Music.

During a visit to New York a friend arranged a radio audition. That resulted in a job at the Roosevelt hotel grill. He was spotted there by a sponsor and now has his own show on W-G-N at 5:45 p. m. Sundays.

Dog day news: Ed Wynn, one of the first of stage comedians to make a hit on radio, but who has been absent from the airways for seven years, is returning Sept. 8 in a Friday evening series on the Blue network. Songstress Evelyn Knight and Jerry Wayne will be with him. . . . Bing Crosby has changed his mind about touring hospitals during his 13 week summer vacation and is standing by to go overseas. Sonny Tufts is filling in on the air for Bing. . . . Dinah Shore is ready to go abroad to entertain the troops. . . . Rudy Vallee's return to radio after a year or so in the Coast Guard has been set for Saturday, Sept. 9, on NBC. . . . He will take the spot which has been occupied for three years by "Abie's Irish Rose." . . . Duffy's Tavern, when it returns on Friday, Sept. 15, will be on NBC instead of the Blue as heretofore. . . . Fritz Kreisler, who recently made his radio bow, will do another concert on Monday, Oct. 9. He has three subsequent dates.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 7.

This is the time to cut the everlastings for winter bouquets. Nothing is finer than the small flowered baby's breath or gypsophila. Cut when in full bloom on a hot day and dry in the shade. Tie up in bundles. When thoroly dry store in paper lined cartons.

Bittersweet also may be gathered when ripe or just before the fruit opens, exposing the brilliant undercolors. Order peony roots at once. Let peonies alone unless they need moving and if they do make good sized divisions for they will respond much more quickly.

Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Make some cuttings of English ivy now. There is no better vine for indoor use, altho the philodendron and grape ivy are excellent and will stand much abuse. All three do well in a north window that has maximum light; no plant will stand long in a very dark place.

The potato harvest can start as soon as the tops die, but they will keep better in the ground than in a hot, dry place. Twist cabbage heads until the roots are loosened to prevent splitting and cracking. Twisting checks the growth. Late beets should be thinned to give each plant plenty of room to develop before autumn frost.

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Any one having a coldframe can sow some vegetables, such as lettuce, beets, and radishes in it for the slight protection they will need later on may be furnished by the sash. Many fail to realize the fun and value of a frame; its cost is insignificant considering the benefits derived.

But watch that the fruit is not injured by too intense sun. The fine white heads of cauliflower are obtained by typing up the leaves to enclose the head for blanching. It should be done as soon as the heads begin to form.

Late blight on celery, potatoes, and tomatoes may be controled with Bordeaux mixture. Celery blight is a seed blight and difficult to control. However, mild cases should not retard the growing of the plant.

Thursday, Aug. 10.

If the brussels sprouts do not form sprouts but make excessive leaf growth, firm the soil around the plant. Tomato fruits will ripen better if the growths are shortened. The sun can enter the plant and ripening is much more uniform and rapid.

Watch for aphids and spray immediately if any are seen. Use rotenone or nicotine preparations. Pick peppers as soon as they mature to give the developing fruits strength to develop.

Friday, Aug. 11.

Developing melons can be kept in fine condition if a board is placed under each friuit. It keeps them off the ground and prevents decay and attacks by wireworms. Bag grapes to prevent exposure to insect attacks. Try bagging and observe the difference between them and those not bagged.

Cut out the old fruiting canes of raspberry bushes and blackberries. These fine fruiting plants often are neglected and the gardener wonders why he fails to have more fruit.

Gardeners who plotted some of the strawberry runners should plant them out now and they will produce some fruit next season. As with all plants that are transplanted during the dry summer, see that plenty of water is given at all times.

Saturday, Aug. 12.

If the phlox seems covered with a grayish substance, it is mildrew. Dust with sulphur several times a week or spray with any recommended material. Mildew can hinder the proper functioning of a plant. Lilacs often are affected by it.

Keep the borders and beds in trim by edging. Get some chemical weed killer and keep the weeds down in gravel walks and driveways.

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.]

NEGROES STAGE BIG BOND RALLY NEXT SATURDAY

A mammoth war bond rally will be held by south side Negro organizations Saturday in which celebrities such as Lena Horne and Duke Ellington will appear.

The event will start with a parade in which more than 2,000 children from Boy and Girl Scout groups, the Wabash avenue Y. M. C. A., and the Chicago Youth leagues of the Stanton avenue and Wabash avenue police districts will march. The parade, to start at 11 a. m. from 35th st. and Michigan av. to Washington park, will feature 15 large floats and will be led by Capt. Harry Deas of the Stanton avenue police station, president of the executive committee of the Chicago Youth league.

Army Band in Parade.

Also in the parade will be the 343d army band from Camp Ellis followed by a company of Negro WACS from Fort Sheridan. Marching in the parade for the first time will be five Negro ensigns from the Great Lakes Naval Training center.

Admission to the rally at the park will be a war bond. Lena Horne will sing several songs, Duke Ellington's band will play and Mayor Kelly will speak. There will be acts from several night club floor shows and the Great Lakes octet will perform.

Try for Bond Goal.

The south side groups will attempt to reach their million dollar war bond goal when the drive ends on that day.

Every child attending the rally will be treated to orangeade, red hots, candy, and ice cream, contributed by south side merchants for the event.

There will be an all Negro police detail in charge and Negro firemen from engine company No. 19 will be present as will be several veteran groups and patriotic organizations.

Maj. C. Udell Turpin, deputy administrator of the treasury department, is in charge of the rally and David W. Kellem has arranged the parade and children's picnic. The Chicago Defender is among the sponsors.

RELIGION COMES TO A MARINE IN SAIPAN BATTLE

Marine Pvt. Joseph E. Franchetti, 7531 Ellis av., got religion while on Saipan, Marianas Islands. His feelings are typical of the men who have been fighting the Japs in this region, chaplains say.

"I've always believed in it, but I didn't go to church as often as I could have," Franchetti explained. "Next time I hear the call on a ship for church services, I'm going to be the first one there and I'll have a seat in the front row, right in the middle."

His close escapes from death are comparable with those of many others since the marines began their push against the intrenched Jap defenders. He suffered under intensive artillery fire and mortar barrages from the moment he landed in one of the first assault waves with other members of a mortar crew. He was constantly the target chosen by Jap snipers and yet he escaped injury.

REVIVE PIONEER GLIDER GROUP IN GLEN ELLYN

Youths to Replace 22 Members.

The Glen Ellyn Glider association has been revived under the sponsorship of the Glen Ellyn Lions club with Theo Prescott as chairman of the organization committee.

The original club that had its beginning 16 years ago was a pioneer in glider activities. The club disbanded when all of its 23 members, except Harold Krueger, entered the service. Mr. Krueger, with the mayor of St. Louis, was killed in a glider crash a year ago.

Today, the other 22 members of the club are in some branch of the flying service, and 20 of them have commissions. Lt. William Prescott, son of the club's new chairman, is with the admirals' command in Washington, D. C.

40 Boys Join Club.

Faith in the importance of the glider has been justified by the part that glider transports have played in Burma and the Normandy invasion. Traditions of Glen Ellyn's first club are treasured in the village and have been an inspiration to the boys of junior high and high school age who have signed up for membership in the new club. Fifteen of the boys are from Glen Ellyn, 15 from Elmhurst, and 10 from Wheaton.

Stanley Corcoran, superintendent of the Frankfort Sail Plane company at Lockport, and holder of a world record in gliding, will be advisor for the new club which will meet Sunday mornings at the North av. and Main st. field where the village has cut out a 4,000 foot runway.

Old Members to Instruct.

Ed Ivison, a member of the original club, who has his glider wings for service with the glider division of the United States army, will act as primary instructor.

Victor Dujardin is chairman of the ground clearing committee. Officers of the club are Al Bonde, Glen Ellyn, president; Ken Olsen and Dick Lambie, Elmhurst, and Paul Fisher Jr., Wheaton, vice presidents; Jack Lambie of Elmhurst, secretary, and E. S. Mendin, Glen Ellyn, secretary.

ORGANIZE TRADE, BUSINESS GROUP FOR VILLA PARK

Wilmot Tompkins recently was elected president of the newly organized Villa Park Chamber of Commerce, which plans to meet the fourth Friday of each month at the V. F. W. hall on Villa av.

The new chamber has for its purpose the advancement of commercial, industrial, and civic interests of Villa Park and vicinity. As stated in the by-laws, the organization "shall be nonpartisan, nonsectional, nonsectarian, and shall take no part in, or lend its influence to the election or appointment of any candidate for national, state, county, or village office, or school boards."

Officers elected to serve with President Tompkins are Emil Novak, vice president; Harry D. Owens, secretary, and Vic LaBella, treasurer. Members of the executive committee are William Reising, Emil Johnson, Mrs. Alice Mohr, Alvin C. Dreckman, and Nick Savore. A membership drive is now in progress. The chamber hopes to include in its membership all business men and women of both the Villa av. and the Ardmore av. sections of the village.

Publicity Chairman.

Herbert W. Chadwick of Oak Park has been appointed chairman of the publicity committee for the Oak Park and River Forest Community Chest and National War fund campaign.

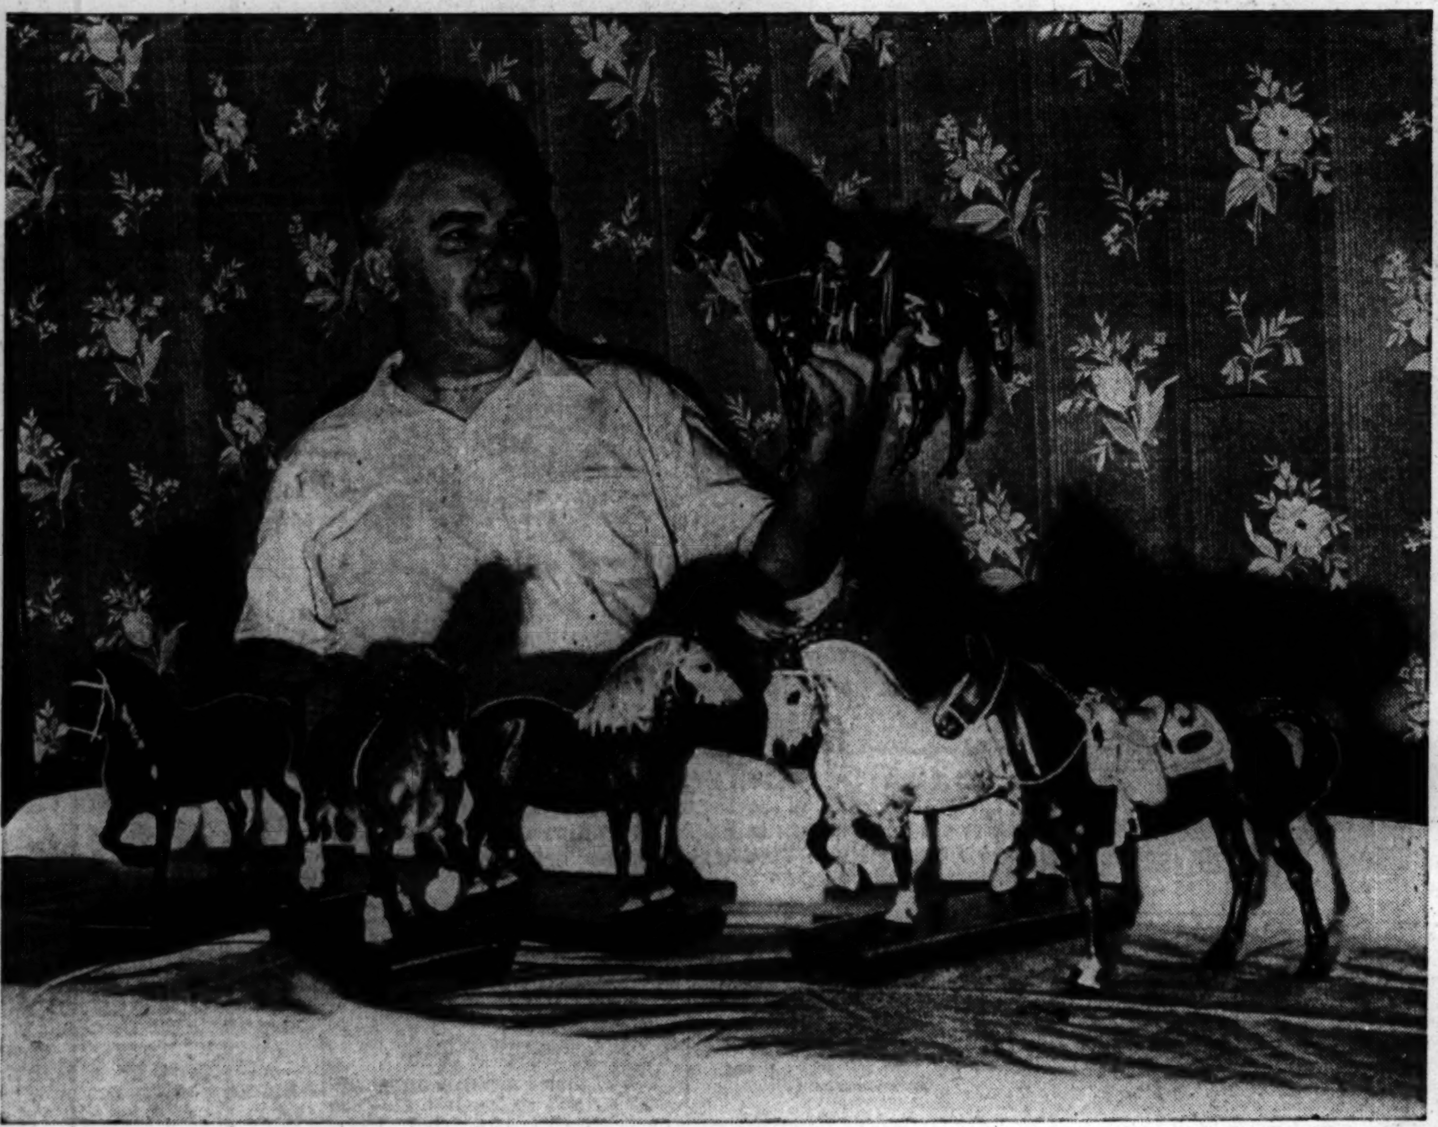
He's Crazy Over Horses—An Old Saw, but They're His Hobby



Collecting prototypes of horses is the hobby of Charles G. Dyxin, 1437 N. Austin blvd. Dating back 40 years, Dyxin began his hobby as a boy carving models of the animal he loves. His assemblage has been collected from every state in the nation, as well as representative models from foreign countries.

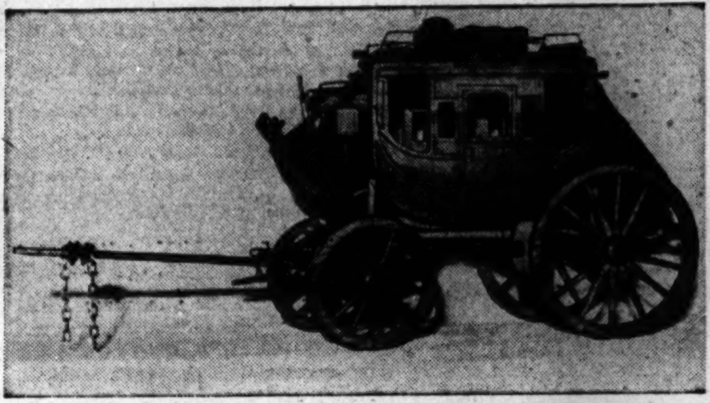
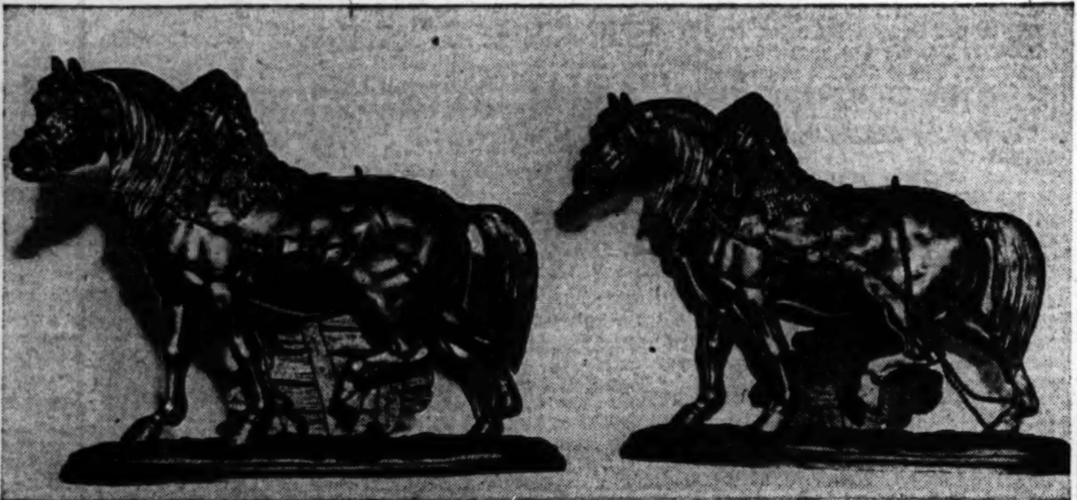
Fighting Arabian stallions carved from teakwood and shown in their typical fighting posture, are part of Dyxin's collection obtained in California.



An example of Dyxin's skilful craftmanship is his model of a stage coach, scaled to the correct proportions, that was two years in the building. The coach is accurate to every minute detail and is only one of the many vehicles he builds to fit his equine family.



The heavy Russian draft horses, modeled from iron, are characteristic of the horses used by the Russians for farm work. These horses are one of the strongest of all breeds, Dyxin asserted.

Another member of the family of hobbyists is Mrs. Dyxin, a collector of salt and pepper shakers. Her favorite pieces are the silver shaker she is holding and the camel, sent by her sons in the army

PLAN OAK PARK BUREAU TO AID WAR VETERANS

30 Groups to Set Up Service Office.

Oak Park's 6,000 service men will be remembered after the war. One of the first communities in the Chicago area to make post-war plans for their boys in service, the villagers are well on their way toward a permanent organization to aid returning veterans and their families.

Members of the Oak Park veterans commission, made up of representatives from 30 civic, service, and patriotic organizations, hope by early fall to have a service bureau with a full time counselor employed.

Outline Program.

O. Allen Postlewait, commission chairman, has outlined the threefold purpose of the bureau as follows:

To provide a central office where returning veterans may obtain advice on employment, legal matters, and family troubles.

To work with all private, public, and governmental agencies dealing with veterans problems.

To provide counsel with experts in any particular field in which the veteran is interested.

The bureau also will assist service men's families who need advice and assistance.

Decide Site Later.

The location of the bureau will be announced as soon as plans are completed. Edward A. Sipp is service chairman and his committee is working out details of service the bureau will handle. Allen Mersbach and his committee are in charge of finances and are developing plans to support the work.

So far the commission has been supported by the monthly salvage collection but more funds must be raised if the bureau maintains a full time counselor.

The counselor will be given special training in the office of Lt. William Bishop, liaison officer between the navy and selective service.

Agencies Aid Commission.

Among the agencies working with the commission are the United States Employment service; Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs; Disabled War Veterans' association, Army-Navy Wife club, American Red Cross, reëmployment committeemen of the selective service boards, all veterans' organizations, and Hines hospital. The Family Welfare association will deal with problems on home adjustment on referral from the Red Cross.

The commission was organized early last spring when a number of agencies met to plan a memorial and service program. Each organization appointed one or two of its members to a central committee and Robert McMaster, village president, authorized the commission.

Because of the lack of critical war materials, the memorial will not be started until after the war. For the present the 6,000 service men's names are being placed in a book which will be on display in the public library. A service flag and plaque will hang on the library door.

Harvard Congregational Church Calls New Pastor

The Rev. Martin Sargent of Westfield, N. J., has been called to the pastorate of Harvard Congregational church, Oak Park. He takes the place of the Rev. Walter H. Moore, who resigned last May to accept a church in California. The new minister and Miss Barbara B. Scherer of New York City will be married in the early fall and the couple will reside in the parsonage.

OLD SETTLERS TO HOLD 70TH ANNUAL PICNIC

Approximately 5,000 Old Settlers of Chicago and Cook county are expected to participate in their 70th picnic and reunion tomorrow in Harms park, 4200 N. Western av.

Members will compete for nine gold medals and bouquets of flowers in dancing, singing, and game contests. Awards also will be given for the most authentic costumes since 1845.

West side committee members include Al W. Rayner, R. Edward Stemm, Fred W. Martin, and Mrs. A. W. Rayner, all of Oak Park; Harry P. Eichin of Western Springs and Frank Gerlich of Hollywood.

Holy Name Society.

The Holy Name society of St. Catherine of Siena church will hold its annual golf tournament Wednesday, Aug. 23, at Westward Ho Golf club, North av. and Wolf rd., Melrose Park.

15 ROYAL LEAGUE LODGES TO HOLD PICNIC SUNDAY

The Go-Getters club, whose roster embraces the members of 15 west and northwest lodges of the Royal league, will hold its 7th annual picnic next Sunday in Fullerton woods in River Forest. Albert Simpson, 1123 N. Latrobe av., president of the league, is in charge of the picnic, assisted by William C. Brink, Ann Harding, Pauline Jarolinek, Elmer Carr, Peter W. Hayes, and Mrs. Clara Levy.

Elect Four Officers to Barber Shop Quartet

Ex-Army Pilot Makes Hit at Mike.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dick Brown.

Dick Brown, a 25 year old army flyer, crashed on a Pacific isle two years ago. He spent the better part of a year in various hospitals, and when he got out he had only some 20 square inches of skin that had not been subjected to grafting or treatment. Today Dick Brown is a W-G-N - Mutual radio singer, in good health again. He's modest and discourages any references to his experiences.

"There are too many regular guys still out there," he says. "They're my friends and I know what they'd think if they caught me capitalizing on my experience."

Brown's reconnaissance plane came down in flames—that's why the extensive skin grafts. For six months he lay in a hospital overseas before he was well enough to be brought home for further medical attention. After his discharge, with blotches of skin graft still evident, Dick went back to work at the Wright Aeronautical corporation in Cincinnati. There he tightened screws on planes until physicians insisted that he had to have more rest. While recuperating he turned back to the singing he'd neglected since studying at the Cincinnati College of Music.

During a visit to New York a friend arranged a radio audition. That resulted in a job at the Roosevelt hotel grill. He was spotted there by a sponsor and now has his own show on W-G-N at 5:45 p. m. Sundays.

"Jobs After the War" Review Stand Subject

Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, Alfred P. Haake, economics expert, and William Spriegel, professor of management at Northwestern university, will participate in the discussion.

PASTORS LAUNCH PRAYER SERVICE FOR MEN IN ARMY

St. John's Church to Hold Outdoor Meetings.

An outdoor series of prayer services for the service star homes of the community will be started by St. John's Lutheran church of Forest Park at 7:30 o'clock tonight. "Pray for us," the plea of many soldiers on the battle fronts, is the slogan of the assemblies which will be held every Sunday night this month in the village park, Harrison st. and Beloit av. The Rev. Marcun Wagner and the Rev. Alvin Wagner, pastors of St. John's, have been conducting religious rallies in the square for eight years.

Offer Biblical Messages.

Biblical messages regarding prayer and its power will be brought by outstanding pastors of the Lutheran church. These will include Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Lutheran Missouri synod; Dr. Edman Frenk, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church of Joliet, and the Rev. Theodore Nickel, pastor of Jehovah Lutheran church, 3740 Belden av. The discourses will be opened by the Rev. Alvin Wagner, who will speak on "The Need for Prayer."

A half hour concert of choral and organ music will precede every service. Included in these concerts will be the Concordia Lyrics of Milwaukee, Wis., a group of male singers under direction of Norman Bruer; the St. John's Treble Clef choir, and the St. John's Choral society, under direction of Alvin Bruns.

Church Has 350 in Uniform.

St. John's church has 350 of its members in military service and the pastors have been in contact with each thru correspondence. One of the boys who had an active part in the invasion wrote the following letter to the pastors: "I'm in France and got here D-day. I don't know how I could have stood it without my faith and help from the Lord. My most treasured possession is the prayer book that you gave me. Encourage the people to pray for us."

Ushers will take names of any service man requesting special intercession so that they can be mentioned particularly in the prayers of the assemblies. A series of printed prayers also will be distributed to members of service families.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 7.

This is the time to cut the everlastings for winter bouquets. Nothing is finer than the small flowered baby's breath or gypsophila. Cut when in full bloom on a hot day and dry in the shade. Tie up in bundles. When thoroly dry store in paper lined cartons.

Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Make some cuttings of English ivy now. There is no better vine for indoor use, altho the philodendron and grape ivy are excellent and will stand much abuse. All three do well in a north window that has maximum light; no plant will stand long in a very dark place.

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Any one having a coldframe can sow some vegetables, such as lettuce, beets, and radishes in it for the slight protection they will need later on may be furnished by the sash. Many fail to realize the fun and value of a frame; its cost is insignificant considering the benefits derived.

Thursday, Aug. 10.

If the brussels sprouts do not form sprouts but make excessive leaf growth, firm the soil around the plant. Tomato fruits will ripen better if the growths are shortened. The sun can enter the plant and ripening is much more uniform and rapid.

Friday, Aug. 11.

Developing melons can be kept in fine condition if a board is placed under each friuit. It keeps them off the ground and prevents decay and attacks by wireworms. Bag grapes to prevent exposure to insect attacks. Try bagging and observe the difference between them and those not bagged.

Saturday, Aug. 12.

If the phlox seems covered with a grayish substance, it is mildrew. Dust with sulphur several times a week or spray with any recommended material. Mildew can hinder the proper functioning of a plant. Lilacs often are affected by it.

Keep the borders and beds in trim by edging. Get some chemical weed killer and keep the weeds down in gravel walks and driveways.

TO HORSE! DYXIN IS FIXIN' UP MORE JUST AS A HOBBY

"Horses, horses, horses, crazy over ——." A love for horses that prompted a lifetime study is reflected in the hobby of Charles G. Dyxin, 1437 N. Austin blvd., a collector of equine prototypes.

The collection, which includes hundreds of the wood, clay, porcelain and metal animals, had its beginning 40 years ago when Dyxin began carving small wooden models as a hobby. Today carving of cow ponies of the old west, draft animals from Belgium and France, an English mare and her colt, adorn the Dyxin home alongside Jugheads [American work horses] and steeds from all parts of the world.

Makes Life Study of Horses.

"I have made a life study of horses and know them better than I know myself. Every animal in my collection is true to type and shows the characteristics, size, and physique of the specimen it represents," said Dyxin.

The hobbyist's love for horses can be seen in his perseverance in seeking models suitable for his collection. He has combed antique shops, private sales, and rummaged thru out of the way places all over the country to gather new members of his equine family.

Handles Tools Skilfully.

Dyxin, a big, amiable man of 50, is a craftsman of considerable artistic ability. His model stage coaches and covered wagons scaled to the proportion of the horses hitched to them are examples of his skilful handling of tools. Correct in every detail, some of them have been two years in the building.

The collecting hobby has been contagious in the Dyxin family. Mrs. Clarice Dyxin has an outstanding collection of salt and pepper shakers gathered from far corners of the earth.

"I'm proudest of the shakers sent by our sons, Lt. Bob and Sgt. Chuck, from Egypt and Iran. One is a pack camel with the shakers held in the pack, while the other from Iran is a beautiful silver piece tubular in shape with three short legs. My boys never forget my hobby and send me pieces from wherever they happen to be," said Mrs. Dyxin.

Lt. Robert W. Dyxin, 28, of the army air forces, who was missing in a raid on Paramushiro and later rescued, is a collector of guns, rifles, and ivory totem poles. Now in Florida awaiting reassignment, Lt. Dyxin brought back from overseas several guns for his collection.

Sgt. Charles J. Dyxin, 24, in Iran with the signal corps, is the family's most unique hobbyist. His working models of locomotives built in his spare time from such materials as used tin cans fill a display case in the family home. Models of most types of locomotives in use on the railorads today are represented in Charles' work.

Both boys are graduates of De Paul academy and De Paul university school of law and tho their law work has been interrupted by the war they intend to return to their profession when peace comes.

Daughters Are Hobbyists, Too.

True to the Dyxin tradition are Rhea, 21, and Lolita, 19, dyed in the wool hobbyists. Rhea's collection consists of dolls of all nations, while Lolita specializes in cigarets autographed by service men at service canteens. The girls are graduates of Alvernia High school and attended Wright Junior college.

"Bomber, the family spaniel pup, presented to Rhea by her fiance, an army flyer now in Normandy, is too young to specialize. He collects shoes, hats, gloves or anything he can carry. The only trouble with his hobby is that he hides the stuff so well he nor anybody else can find it," said Dyxin.

GLEN ELLYN CLUB FLOWER SHOW TO STRESS GROUPS

As gardens this summer have suffered from lack of help and moisture, special blooms are expected to be the more appreciated at Glen Ellyn's annual flower show to be held under the sponsorship of the Glen Ellyn Garden club for one day, Sept. 8, in the recreation house of Lake Ellyn park.

Flower arrangements for the home will be stressed at this fall's show. The flower arrangement group, a subsidiary of the club, has met once a month thruout the year, to plan for the show which will display flower arrangements for the dining table, the occasional table and the incidental table.

Windows Need Flowers.

There is a feeling on the part of club members that homes with service stars in their windows are more in need than ever of the spiritual uplift to be derived from artistically arranged flowers.

It is recognized that war has limited the supply of containers and that added study is required for making use of the blooms supplied by nature. Flower arrangements therefore will be the key to competition at the flower show.

Name Flower Committee.

Mrs. Harvey C. Duvall is chairman of the club, and Mrs. Harrison C. Stearn is chairman of the executive committee for the flower show. Members of Mrs. Stearn's committee for senior exhibits are Mrs. Harry E. Heinz, Mrs. George P. Bennett, Mrs. Oswald L. VanSteenkist, Mrs. J. B. Herboth, and Mrs. Studley Burroughs.

Mrs. Fred J. Mabrey is chairman of the schedule committee.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP IN CHICAGOLAND

Surprise Is in Store for Many.

BY MAURINE MYERS.

Fifty weeks of every year the average Chicagoan figuratively goes about with his eyes closed. At least, he seldom sees the things of beauty and historical interest on all sides. This year Chicagoans are being urged to stay home during their vacations to save gas tires; to relieve already crowded trains, and to save themselves a lot of grief over accomodations at overcrowded, short staffed resorts.

As a substitute, the Chicago recreation commission points out that an enjoyable vacation can be had right in Chicagoland, planned to include points within reach of suburban trains and buses, or within the radius of driving for an A book holder.

Many residents of the northwest side are newcomers to the area, drawn by war industries. They know little of the historical background of the community," the points of interest to be seen, and the recreational facilities available. Even many of the old timers aren't aware of all their area holds for an interesting vacation.

Many Beauty Spots.

Scattered thruout the northwest suburban area are historical landmarks and points of varied interest seldom visited by any one save out-of-state tourists. Close to the city there is the resort region of Fox River Grove and Crystal Lake, with boating, fishing, and swimming. Ski hill on the Fox river, particularly popular in the winter, is also a lovely summer sight.

In the picturesque town of Woodstock, the village square boasts several Civil war monuments and an old spring house. In West Dundee is located Pinkerton's cooperage, at Third and Main streets, built by Allan Pinkerton, Chicago's first detective and later founder, during Civil war days, of the famous detective agency which still bears his name. The Haeger pottery kilns in East Dundee produce vases and decorative pottery. The village of Carpentersville nearby was built almost singlehanded by Angelo Carpenter in 1830.

Here Is Henpeck!

Not far away is Henpeck, now only a few buildings on a curve in the highway, but once a busy little town—a stop on the Chicago-Galena stage coach. If the adage holds true, the world should be beating a path to a doorstep in Marengo, where one of the world's largest mouse trap factories is located. The pioneers who named Garden Prairie erected some of the buildings which still line the village streets.

Evidence of the first northwest side residents, the Indians, is still widespread in the names of towns and streams, and in the burial grounds and monuments which dot the area. Not far from United States highway 45, where it intersects Lawrence av., is an Indian cemetery maintained by the Cook county forest preserve. A family of Pottawatomies which befriended the whites in 1820 is buried there. At Belvidere a monument marks the resting place of Big Thunder, a friendly Pottawatomie brave.

At Volo, St. Peter's church is modeled after Salisbury cathedral in England. In Mount Emblem Masonic cemetery, off Mount Prospect road, stands the oldest of three Dutch type windmills, erected in 1850. The Park Ridge Masonic temple is a former residence built in 1854. Near Ontarioville is the Illinois pet cemetery, with graves of canaries, dogs, cats, monkeys and rabbits. Many monuments bear inlaid photographs of pets buried there.

Camp Grounds Now Open.

The Des Plaines Methodist camp grounds, open the year round, has cottages for vacationers who wish to spend a week or more in the woods. The country around Barrington, studded with the country estates of many of Chicago's business leaders, is interesting for a short drive. Lake Zurich, planned 100 years ago as a resort to copy the famous Swiss hostelry, is popular during the summer.

Dozens of forest preserves, with miles of bridle paths and paths for hikers, also are to be found. Fishermen can spend a lazy afternoon on the banks of the Des Plaines river or other streams. Many small towns have swimming pools, where one can get just as wet and sunburned as he could at a Cape Cod resort.

However, it isn't necessary to go outside the city limits in order to fill a vacation with interesting activities. The northwest side itself presents a varied enough picture to crowd a week or two with sightseeing.

Let's Visit Little Poland.

Areas which few Chicagoans visit, and some do not even know exist, are the Polish and Russian quarters on the near northwest side. The Polish section lies along Milwaukee av., near Division st. and Ashland av., which today is the chief Polish city of the world. Here reside more Poles than in Warsaw.

Among the institutions of interest, all open to the public, are the Polish National alliance, 1406 Division st.; the Polish Community library, 1249 N. Ashland av., and the Polish Historical museum, 984 Milwaukee av., with a splendid collection of Polish arts and crafts. The Northwestern university settlement is lo-

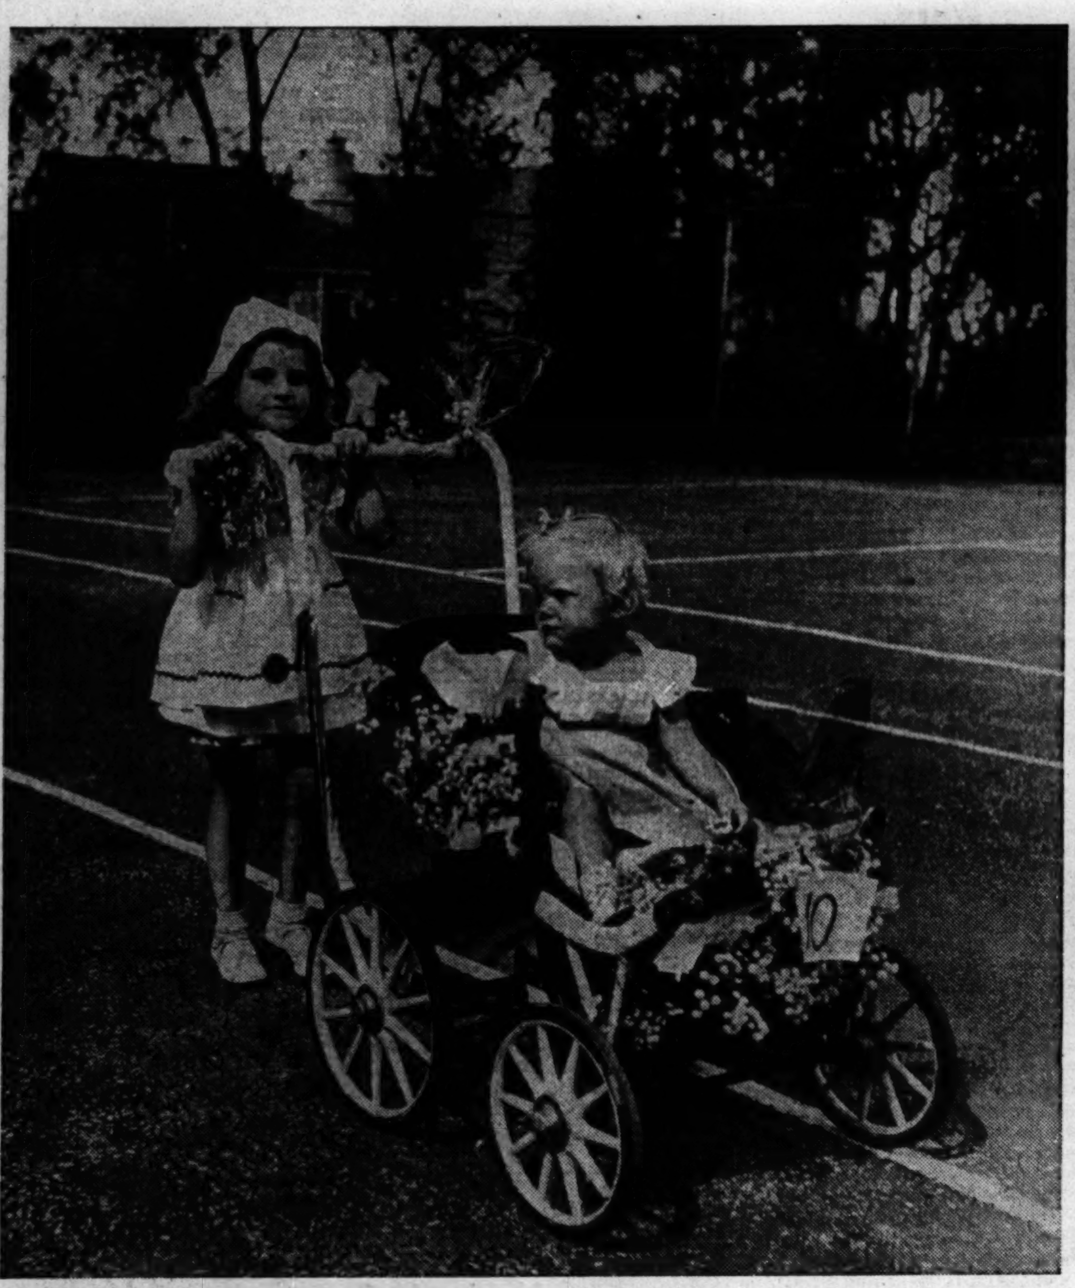
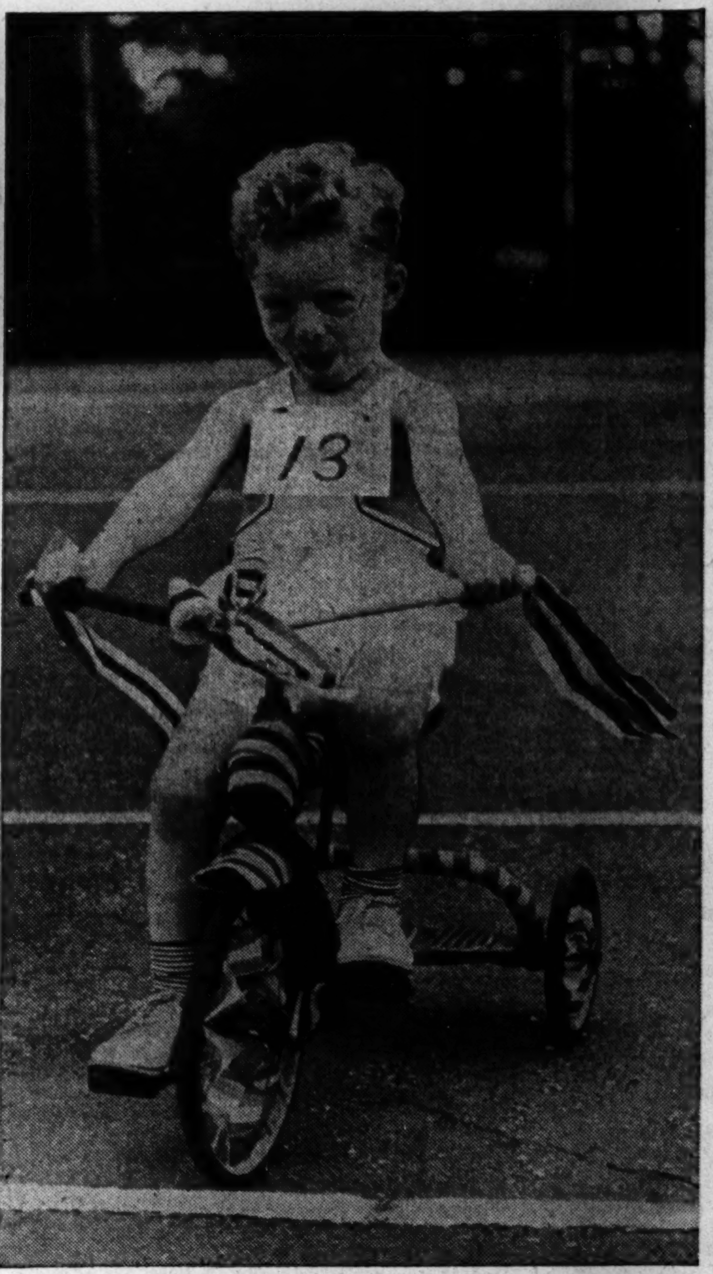
Edison Park 'Parade on Wheels' Draws Novel Costumes



Children of Edison Park recently participated in their sixth annual "parade on wheels," sponsored by the Edison Park community council. Year around activities have been planned by the council to help young people to use community recreational facilities. One of the prize winners in the midsummer parade was 7 year old Novelle Cunningham, 7250 Lunt av., who won a blue ribbon for the best decorated vehicle. Seated in the carriage is Marilyn Schultz, 14 months, 7240 Lunt av.



"Best on wheels" was the title won by parader David Ross, 3, 6726 Oxford av. His white and red suit echoed the red, white, and blue streamers which decorated his tricycle. David is one of an estimated 2,000 children in Edison Park who benefit by the juvenile recreational program sponsored by the community council.

FLYING PACKERS TAKE VACATION AMONG CLOUDS

Or How to Be Happy Tho Harried.

The Packers have their heads in the clouds most of the time nowadays. Vacation from their jobs as school teachers means more flying time to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Packer, 5700 Wildwood av. Packer is an instructor in automobile shop at Lane Technical High school, and Mrs. Packer teaches general science at Marshall High school.

Packer first became interested in flying when he flew as a passenger in Panama shortly after the first World war. He had served as mechanic with the naval air forces in that conflict, but "never went anywhere and never did anything." That background did prove useful, however, when he began flying in February, 1942.

Both Wanted to Fly.

It took the Packers a little while to get together on their flying plans. The husband wanted to fly, but he didn't think he dared tell his wife. Mrs. Packer wanted to fly, but she didn't think she dared tell her husband.

One day the two were driving along the road by the airport, and Mr. Packer was so interested in watching a plane take off that he almost drove into a ditch. "If you're so absorbed in flying, why don't you try it yourself," Mrs. Packer exclaimed. He did. Shortly afterward she began her flying lessons, too.

Packer says he didn't mind sitting around on an empty oil drum at the airport all day, waiting for a ship and an instructor. So he eventually had enough hours to solo, and now has his license. Mrs. Packer had the housework to worry about, however, and couldn't put in as much time flying as her husband.

Enroll at Northwestern.

A year ago they enrolled in the aeronautical course at Northwestern university. Since then they've been "doing their homework in the air," working out in actual practice what they are taught in the classroom.

For nearly 20 years Packer has been writing articles on automobiles, aeronautics, and power farm machinery for national magazines. It's really a collaboration, he points out. The Packers gather the material, he tells the story to a dictaphone, and then Mrs. Packer transcribes it into manuscript form. "That way I don't have to worry about the spelling," he explains.

Both Join C. A. P.

Both are enlisted in the civil air patrol. He now holds a second lieutenant's rank, and is qualified as a ground instructor in engines and aircraft. Mrs. Packer is ranked as a master sergeant, having passed the tests for aerial observation and C. A. P. regulations.

Recently they assisted in the distribution of 100,000 circulars for WAC recruiting by dropping leaflets over the north and northwest sides. Packer's most important C. A. P. assignment to date was a liaison trip, where he went on a rush order to pick up badly needed material for a war plant here. "It wasn't much of a trip," he recalls, "but they had men waiting at the airport with the stuff when I got there, and waiting here at the airport to rush it to the factory when I got back."

INDIAN VILLAGE CAMP WILL HOLD FINAL CEREMONY

The Indian Village Day camp will hold its concluding ceremonies at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Holstein park, 2200 N. Oakley av. The event will include community singing, entertainment around a council fire, and an Indian crafts exhibit.

Young people who will take part include Virginia Hyld, Annette Steward, Stanley and Chester Wietrzykowski, Shirley Kozlowski, Anita and Gloria Green, Betty Trojan, Phyllis Napolitano, Theresa and Joan Hylo, Patsy and George Steward, Harry Bromierski, Arthur Kobielusz, Robert Gueder, John Leske, Carl Korielusz, and Albert Afryl.

OLD SETTLERS TO HOLD PICNIC AT HARMS PARK

Reunion Tomorrow to Draw 5,000.

The 70th annual Old Settler's picnic and reunion will be held tomorrow at Harms park, 4200 N. Western av. Each year since 1874 some 5,000 old settlers of Chicago and Cook county have met for games, contests, and reminiscences of early Chicago days.

At tomorrow's picnic there will be competition for nine gold medals and numerous bouquets. Awards will be made for the most authentic costumes of any period since 1845.

100 Over 90 to Attend.

Attending this year will be approximately 100 people over 90 years old, many of whom lived here in the 1850's. There also will be approximately 300 others who lived in Chicago before the great fire of 1871, and thousands who knew the city in the gay '90s.

Taking an active part in planning and directing the picnic are a number of residents of the northwest side. L. O. Greiner, 5936 N. Kilpatrick av., is vice chairman of the general committee. Walter T. Meisner, 6436 N. Algonquin av., is chairman of the badge registration committee, and among his assistants are Lillie H. Eichen and Robert C. Eichen, 6718 N. Lightfoot av.

On Picnic Committees.

On the medal registration committee are Nicholas A. Andree, 6730 N. Talman av., and P. K. Neuses, Arlington Heights. Edward A. Joers, 2824 Barry av., and Victor Kristen, 1308 N. St. Louis av., are on the finance committee. The committee on refreshments includes Rudolph J. Steinhauser, 5041 N. Francisco av., and Felix Vidina, 3657 N. Bernard st.

The prize dance committee includes Carl Seubert, 3458 N. Natchez av.; Max Fred Zimmer, 1304 N. St. Louis av., and Alex J. Zabach, 5844 Eastwood av. Arranging the games is a committee including L. C. Allendorfer, 2440 N. Oakley blvd.; Victor Kristen Jr., 1308 N. St. Louis av.; Lynn M. Darville, 5821 Northwest hwy.; Carl A. Fahnse, 4825 George st.; LeRoy Fogarty, 4425 N. Newland av., and Fred J. Pitt, 6917 Foster av.

Ex-Army Pilot Makes Hit at Mike.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dick Brown.

Dick Brown, a 25 year old army flyer, crashed on a Pacific isle two years ago. He spent the better part of a year in various hospitals, and when he got out he had only some 20 square inches of skin that had not been subjected to grafting or treatment. Today Dick Brown is a W-G-N - Mutual radio singer, in good health again. He's modest and discourages any references to his experiences.

"There are too many regular guys still out there," he says. "They're my friends and I know what they'd think if they caught me capitalizing on my experience."

Brown's reconnaissance plane came down in flames—that's why the extensive skin grafts. For six months he lay in a hospital overseas before he was well enough to be brought home for further medical attention. After his discharge, with blotches of skin graft still evident, Dick went back to work at the Wright Aeronautical corporation in Cincinnati. There he tightened screws on planes until physicians insisted that he had to have more rest. While recuperating he turned back to the singing he'd neglected since studying at the Cincinnati College of Music.

During a visit to New York a friend arranged a radio audition. That resulted in a job at the Roosevelt hotel grill. He was spotted there by a sponsor and now has his own show on W-G-N at 5:45 p. m. Sundays.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION JAUNT IN CHICAGOLAND

Surprises Await Visitors at Many Places.

cated at 1400 Augusta blvd. There are also interesting Polish restaurants, shops, churches, and schools, as well as several Polish daily newspapers.

On Division st., from Ashland to Western avs., is the city's principal Russian settlement. Chief feature is the Holy Trinity cathedral, Greek Orthodox church at 1121 N. Leavitt st., and the St. Nicholas Ukrainian church, an Eastern Rite Catholic institution, at 2238 Rice st.

And Now to College.

Institutions of interest on the northwest side include North Park college, at Foster and Kedzie avs.; Parental school, 3600 Foster av.; Illinois State hospital, 6500 Irving Park rd.; Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, 5601 N. Pulaski rd., and the national guard armory, North and Kedzie avs.

Sports minded vacationers will find plenty to do in their own neighborhoods. Most Chicago parks have softball diamonds, and almost every evening finds some league involved in a bitter contest on each. There are tennis courts at most parks; many parks have horseshoe courts, and a number have outdoor wading pools for children. There are outdoor swimming pools at California, Dvorak, Eckhart, Holstein, Humboldt, Norwood, Portage, Pulaski, and Riis parks, and indoor pools at Blackhawk, La Follette, Portage, and Independence parks. Whealan pool in the forest preserve at Milwaukee and Devon avs. always is a popular spot.

Shuffleboard courts are located in Sayre, Wicker, Rosedale, Riis, Kosciuszko, Field, and other northwest side parks. There are boats for hire in the lagoon in Humboldt park.

Ever Go Exploring?

Present day editions of George Rogers Clark can find their own "northwest passages" in the forest preserves which lie within or near the city limits—Sauganash, Caldwell, and Che-Che-Pinqua woods, or even Rogers Clark preserve on North av. There are miles of paths for hikers in these acres.

Golfers will find many courses within easy reach of public transportation, including those at Harms woods, Edgebrook, Sauganash, and Billy Caldwell courses. In addition, there are scores of privately operated driving ranges on which the dub or experienced golfer can polish up.

Music lovers may attend open air concerts, held weekly in several neighborhoods. At Gompers park, 4224 Foster av., choral concerts are held each Monday evening. Concerts scheduled include those of the Borden Male chorus tomorrow night, the Millard Presbyterian chorus Aug. 14, the Greater St. John Baptist church choir Aug. 21, and the Pullman Choral society Aug. 28. Weekly concerts also are held on the lawn of the Norwegian Old People's home, Nina and Avondale avs., each Monday evening.

Whether a vacation extends a week or two, or longer, a careful check of facilities within the northwest side can fill the schedule of any individual or family. Before the war, many vacationers found it necessary to "rest up from our vacation." But not so this year if they stay close to home, soak up some sun, exercise judiciously, and do what a vacation is really for—rest.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 7.

This is the time to cut the everlastings for winter bouquets. Nothing is finer than the small flowered baby's breath or gypsophila. Cut when in full bloom on a hot day and dry in the shade. Tie up in bundles. When thoroly dry store in paper lined cartons.

Bittersweet also may be gathered when ripe or just before the fruit opens, exposing the brilliant undercolors. Order peony roots at once. Let peonies alone unless they need moving and if they do make good sized divisions for they will respond much more quickly.

Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Make some cuttings of English ivy now. There is no better vine for indoor use, altho the philodendron and grape ivy are excellent and will stand much abuse. All three do well in a north window that has maximum light; no plant will stand long in a very dark place.

The potato harvest can start as soon as the tops die, but they will keep better in the ground than in a hot, dry place. Twist cabbage heads until the roots are loosened to prevent splitting and cracking. Twisting checks the growth. Late beets should be thinned to give each plant plenty of room to develop before autumn frost.

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Any one having a coldframe can sow some vegetables, such as lettuce, beets, and radishes in it for the slight protection they will need later on may be furnished by the sash. Many fail to realize the fun and value of a frame; its cost is insignificant considering the benefits derived.

But watch that the fruit is not injured by too intense sun. The fine white heads of cauliflower are obtained by typing up the leaves to enclose the head for blanching. It should be done as soon as the heads begin to form.

Thursday, Aug. 10.

If the brussels sprouts do not form sprouts but make excessive leaf growth, firm the soil around the plant. Tomato fruits will ripen better if the growths are shortened. The sun can enter the plant and ripening is much more uniform and rapid.

Friday, Aug. 11.

Developing melons can be kept in fine condition if a board is placed under each fruit. It keeps them off the ground and prevents decay and attacks by wireworms. Bag grapes to prevent exposure to insect attacks. Try bagging and observe the difference between them and those not bagged.

Saturday, Aug. 12.

If the phlox seems covered with a grayish substance, it is mildrew. Dust with sulphur several times a week or spray with any recommended material. Mildew can hinder the proper functioning of a plant. Lilacs often are affected by it.

Keep the borders and beds in trim by edging. Get some chemical weed killer and keep the weeds down in gravel walks and driveways.

PATRIOTIC MOTIF RULES IN PARADE OF N. W. CHILDREN

Little girls in the ruffled hoop skirts of the Colonial period, boys in commando attire, youngsters in Dutch costumes, and juvenile Red Cross "nurses" were among those who marched past the reviewing stand in the Brooks park tennis courts recently as children of the Edison Park community took part in the sixth annual parade on wheels.

The event was one of a series of year-around activities sponsored by the Edison Park community council for the benefit of neighborhood children.

Win Parade Prizes.

Prize winners for the parade in miniature were James Perry, 9, 7011 Osceola av., whose mobile first aid station was judged the most original entry; Novelle Cunningham, 7, 7250 Lunt av., whose open baby carriage decorated with flowers and yellow cellophane was voted the best decorated vehicle, and Caroline Warden, 3, 6830 Osceola av., whose turquoise, ankle length costume was classified prettiest in the parade.

Blue ribbons also went to David Ross, 3, 6726 Oxford av., whose tricycle, decorated in red, white, and blue, was classified the "best on wheels"; and to Nancy and Ruth Ann Richards, 7001 Osceola av., whose Red Cross costumes were voted the most patriotic entries.

Residents Support Council.

Judges at the event were Mrs. O. P. Fox, Mrs. Winfield Scott, and Mrs. George Savageau of the Edison Park community council. Arrangements for the parade were made in coöperation with Miss Beulah Muehlhausen, director of the Edison Park fieldhouse, and Fred Hoffman, recreational supervisor of Brooks park.

The youth movement, sponsored by the community council, has the support of all Edison Park residents. Designed to help children use community resources as an aid to personal development, events are scheduled on a seasonal basis.

Have Seasonal Events.

The summer program, in addition to the "parade on wheels," includes a midsummer picnic, a pet show, and a tennis tournament. A Halloween party will usher in the fall season, while skating parties and a Christmas festival are scheduled for the winter months. The chief event of the spring season takes place annually on Easter Sunday when boys and girls participate in a traditional Easter egg hunt.

Activities are financed thru funds donated by members of the community. Once a year members of the council hold a youth drive, during which they canvass neighborhood homes for donations. The money is then allocated to defray expenses for the various competitions.

Direct Council Efforts.

The community council, which is a clearing house for civic groups of Edison Park, is composed of delegates from 16 organizations. In addition, 21 delegates at large represent residents who do not hold membership in organized groups.

Officers of the council include Jerome J. Sladkey, president; George Savageau and Mrs. George Savageau vice presidents; Mrs. J. A. Erickson, treasurer; Mrs. O. P. Fox, recording secretary, and Mrs. A. G. Schmidt, corresponding secretary.

W. S. Scott, G. H. Simmons, and Robert Keay are directors of the council. Chairmen of the standing committees include O. P. Fox, Winfield Scott, P. C. Forney, George Simmons, Mrs. Robert Beard, Joe Mayer, Hohn Erickson, John Daniels, and Mrs. Jerome Sladkey.

Logan Square Legion Will Hold Picnic Today

PURPLE HEARTS GIVEN N.W. SIDE AIRMAN, MARINE

Lt. Schumacker, Pvt. Kiolbassa Cited.

Lt. R. L. Schumacker.

A bombardier stationed in England and a marine private at Bougainville, both residents of the northwest side, recently were awarded the Purple Heart. The bombardier is Lt. Robert L. Schumacker, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schumacker, 3617 Palmer st., and the marine is Pvt. Anthony P. Kiolbassa, 22, brother of Mrs. Alice Siemplinski and Miss Berenice Kiolbassa, 3918 Montrose av.

Lt. Schumacker, bombardier on the Flying Fortress, Hard to Get, also was awarded the distinguished flying cross for courage and skill during pre-invasion 8th A. A. F. bombing attacks on Nazi military and industrial targets. He also wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Hit on Short Run.

Altho Lt. Schumacker has flown with formations of Fortresses during deep penetrations of enemy territory, he received his wounds during a short mission to bomb military installations on the invasion coast.

"A burst of flak caught our Fort on its plexiglass nose," relates Lt. Schumacker. "It killed the navigator outright, and fragments hit me in the face. It turned out that the wounds weren't serious, but this happened right on the bomb run. I had a difficult time of it, but managed to dump my bombs on the target. My face shows no signs of the wounds now, but I sure thought I was hit badly when it happened."

Enlisted in 1942.

Lt. Schumacker enlisted in the A. A. F. in January, 1942, and received his wings and commission at Big Springs, Tex., in May or the following year. He attended Wright Junior college after graduation from St. Phillips High school.

Marine Pvt. Anthony P. Kiolbassa was awarded the Purple Heart medal for wounds received when his ship was torpedoed near Bougainville, Solomon Islands, last Nov. 17. The concussion of the explosion knocked him down to the lower deck. He was helped up a ladder by two navy men who placed him in a life jacket and helped him over the railing into the water. While in the water he was burned on the face by oil flames.

Kept Under Water.

"Some sailors in a small boat fished me from the flame covered water a short time later," said Pvt. Kiolbassa. "I had managed to keep under water most of the time, so I wasn't burned badly. After two days I rejoined my unit, which already had landed on Bougainville. After three weeks I was evacuated and hospitalized."

Pvt. Kiolbassa graduated from Lane Technical High school in June, 1942. An older brother, Flight Officer Chester L. Kiolbassa, 26, is now stationed at Charleston, S. C.

MARK 50TH YEAR OF FIRE BRIGADE IN BENSENVILLE

The Bensenville volunteer fire department will parade the village streets this afternoon and local business houses and organizations will join in the department's celebration of its 50th anniversary. The parade will begin at 2 o'clock, and will be followed immediately by a program and picnic in Kebby's pavilion. A dance will be held at 8 o'clock.

Back in the summer of 1890, the 200 residents of the village of Bensenville held a picnic and with the proceeds bought a small, hand operated fire engine. The engine didn't succeed in putting out the three fires that threatened the village during the next several years, but it did keep those same fires from spreading to adjacent buildings.

Minutes Tell Life Story.

The volunteer fire department was organized officially in 1894. Minutes of the meetings held during the 50 years since chronicle the progress of that ill equipped group to the present company of 20 men who have three modern trucks, an inhalator, and gas masks at their disposal.

The minutes also record many anecdotes in the company's history, such as the payment of $7.87 for three days' work by a carpenter in 1895, the occasion in 1896 when an investigating committee was instructed to try to ring the fire bell and "if same does not work have it repaired immediately," and the time in 1903 when the department's meeting hall burned down.

Three Organizers Living.

Three members of that original volunteer brigade still live in the area. F. H. Volberding Sr., who retired from active membership only two years ago, was treasurer of the department for 43 years. Mr. Volberding, 82, operated a general store in the village until 19 years ago.

J. T. Tiedemann, 83, was also a member of the first department. He sold his general store and retired from active business less than eight years ago. Third of the charter members is Henry Lagerhausen, now living in Des Plaines.

92 Men Have Served.

In its 50 years, the department has included on its roster the names of 92 Bensenville men. There are 20 in the present department, representing widely varied occupations. George H. Boldebuch, chief, is a building contractor. Other members include the village treasurer, office workers, bank officials, city officials, railroad employes, and merchants.

Members of the department are: Mr. Boldebuch, chief; Walter C. Olhaber, assistant chief; Vernon W. Franzen, treasurer; W. A. Ernsting, secretary; Armin Korthauer, engineer; Albert W. Kolze, hose captain; George L. Korthauer, hook and ladder captain; Edward J. Franzen, Julius G. Frey, George Grobe, William Grobe, Ed Heinrich, Henry Holt, Harry Kolze, Walter Lauman, Alwin Mahler, Cecil Poor, George Runge, Wilbur Shebeck, and Martin Wesby.

JUNIOR ACTORS WILL GIVE PLAY AT WICKER PARK

Thirty members of the Wicker Park Junior players will present "Gingerbread Boy" at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow and Tuesday in the Wicker park fieldhouse, Damen av. and Schiller st. Directors are Miss Cathryn Troy of the drama section, division of recreation, Chicago park district, and David M. Henderson, supervisor at Wicker park.

The park's three day midsummer festival will close Wednesday night with a jitterbug contest on an outdoor stage near the fieldhouse. First, second and third place prizes will be given entries from four classes: 10 year olds to 12, 13 and 14 year olds, 15 and 16 year olds, and those over 16.

Leading roles in "Gingerbread Boy" will be played by Geraldine and Joan Zielinski, Mercedes Madigan, Harriet Kalinowski, Alice Leiman, Lila Davis, Judith Detina, Ethel Moore, Lester Lichter, and Alvin Ehrhardt.

Supporting parts will be taken by Barbara and Phyllis Hawkins, Adoree Janiak, Patricia Wiley, Dora McLain, Florence Kaszniak, Patricia Kulick, Barbara Smarsh, Geraldine Chesney, and Helen Stawiery.

Wins Medal.

The good conduct medal has been awarded to Pvt. Arnold M. Lexby, 5431 Melrose st., who is serving with the army in New Guinea.

MARINE GATHERS JAP MEMENTOS IN SOUTH PACIFIC

Pvt. Willard G. Nyberg.

When Pvt. Willard G. Nyberg, son of Mrs. Isabelle Nyberg, 3921 Addison st., comes home after helping to clean the Japs out of the South Pacific, he will have a little museum of war curios all his own. His collection already is off to a good start with the box he sent back recently to Mrs. Sally Spillane, 6059 Irving Park rd., for safekeeping.

Of principal interest in the box is a Japanese flag covered with characters which are believed to be prayer symbols. Also in the collection are Japanese first aid books, Japanese watches with characters for numerals, two Japanese compasses, and buttons and insignia from Japan uniforms. There also are some 50 snapshots, taken from Jap prisoners, and an address book, all in Japanese characters. The collection also contains 56 coins from New Zealand, French colonies, and Japan, and some paper currency.

Pvt. Nyberg, 23, enlisted in the marines in April, 1942, and was sent overseas the following June. He has been in many of the Pacific battles, including those of the Marshall Islands. Before enlisting he was employed in the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE, where he was known as Shadow Nyberg, since his birthday is on Groundhog day.

TEMPERS RISE; SO DO TAXES IN TOWN OF WORTH

Area Suffers from 'Owing Pains.'

Worth, one of the most rapidly growing townships in Cook county, is suffering from more than just "growing pains." With one instalment of property taxes paid, residents are groaning anew as they get ready to pay the second instalment of taxes based on the highest land valuations in the township's history.

William H. Harnew, township collector, said land valuations on the west side in and around Palos Heights, an unincorporated community, have increased approximately 100 per cent while in Blue Island values mounted 50 per cent. Other parts of the township such as Oak Lawn and Evergreen Park have increased from 15 to 20 per cent.

Taxpayers Wonder.

"Protesting taxpayers cannot find an explanation for this sudden increase," Harnew declared. "I refer them to the county assessor's office and they get no answer. In a few cases the county office has acknowledged that an error has been made."

Coupled with rocketing values and mounting complaints, township taxing bodies are harassed by the new 100 per cent policy inaugurated by John S. Clark, county assessor. Under the plan, property owners pay taxes on 100 per cent of assessed valuation. In former years they paid on only 37 per cent of taxable value.

Poor Relief, Schools Affected.

Poor relief and school districts are taxing bodies affected by the policy change.

"The new policy has us licked on all sides," Christ Rust, township supervisor who also is in charge of relief, asserted. "If we assessed the full three mills to be eligible for state aid, our full levy would be boosted to more than $80,000 and then we wouldn't need state aid. We kept our former levy of $35,000 and cut down our tax rate to a little more than one mill. Thus, for the first time in years, our township will not be eligible for state aid.

With war plants at full production, Worth township's relief load has been reduced to approximately 50 cases. Before the war Worth usually carried a case load of more than 500 families and had to fall back on state funds.

Hope for Revision.

"We are hoping for a revision in state laws which will reduce the three mill requirement so that we will not have to increase our levy to make state funds available," Rust said.

Schools too are feeling the effect of the new policy. With a township like Worth growing so rapidly, the school districts have had to rely on state funds to pay for increased enrollment and needed equipment.

Present laws prohibit state aid unless a school district tax rate exceeds one dollar on $100 of assessed valuation. Under the 37 per cent policy, 11 districts qualified. This year only three of 13 districts are eligible.

Owners Have Double Burden.

"Here again the tax burden is falling upon the property owners," Harnew said. "The state funds come from the sales tax. Our property owners are paying their share of sales tax but the funds which should be returned are going to other Illinois counties."

The population trend is shown in Simmons school district, west of Oak Lawn, where there are three subdivisions, Columbus Manor, Grand View Park, and Linwood. The population has increased from 500 to 3,500 in a few years and Simmons school has enlarged its faculty from two teachers to 20. Of the 37 subdivisions in the township, more than half have sprung up in six years.

The village, road and bridge, park, and fire district levies are based on operational budgets and are not affected by the new policy. Last year under the 37 per cent policy property owners in Blue Island paid city taxes at a rate of $1.33 per $37 of assessed valuation. This year property owners are paying a rate of 57 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

It Looks Like Fair Weather for August 16

It has never rained on the day of the annual outing sponsored by the Orphans' Automobile Day association for orphans, crippled children, and aged persons. To M. J. Lamb, 3659 Union av., past president and member for 30 years, the fact is the most remarkable in the 40 year history of the association.

"In 1936 when I was president the skies were cloudy and some drops fell," Lamb remembered. "A member said he thought we should load the youngsters and go home, but I told him to just start praying for the rain to stop and in a few minutes the sun began to shine."

Hasn't Missed Since '14.

"I haven't missed a picnic since 1914," said Lamb, the organization's oldest member and second oldest in length of service. "The fun gets better every year. I'll keep going as long as I'm able."

He joined the group as representative of the Chicago Motor Livery, which now has offices at 211 Wacker dr. under a different name. Lamb is vice president of the firm.

An automobile ride is taken for granted today, but 30 or 40 years ago it was one of the treats of the day to both children and adults, he recalled. They sometimes rode behind liveried chauffeurs and in automobiles that would be thrown on the dump heap today, he added.

Plan 35 Act Show.

This year the all-day picnic will be Aug. 16 in the grove adjoining Riverview park. Children and aged persons from about 50 institutions will be guests. A continuous round of entertainment has been arranged. Coco and 20 other famous circus clowns will greet the guests as they enter the grove and will take part in the 35 act show, beginning at noon.

Fire Chief Corrigan, Police Capt. Duffy, and the Rev. William J. Gorman, fire department chaplain, will address the group. Arrangements are being made to transport more than 5,000 to the grounds. Motorists wishing to contribute cars and driving services for the day may call John Keating, transportation chairman, at 6160 Thorndale av.

CALUMET AREA HOUSE PROJECT TO OPEN SOON

Altgeld Gardens to Shelter 7,000.

The first of an anticipated 1,500 families is expected to move into Altgeld Gardens apartments in the next few weeks. The project is a 1,500 unit war housing development at 130th st. and Ellis av., covering more than 157 acres and costing $9,000,000.

The development, under management of the Chicago Housing authority, is expected to house 7,000 persons when it is completed late this year.

The buildings, which were designed by George Fred Keck, architect and proponent of modernism in architecture, are of the two story, row house type. One-bedroom apartments are on one floor, while apartments with two or more bedrooms have two floors.

Provide Facilities for Children.

Of the occupants, 3,500 are expected to be children under 17. Plans are being carried out for an elementary school, high school, and a gymnasium in the project. The schools will be operated by the board of education. A large community center will be built also with facilities for large scale social meetings as well as nursery, library, and medical care.

A variety of stores has been planned to make the community self-sufficient. Establishments will include a super-market and bakery, barber shop, beauty parlor, laundry and cleaning shop, secondary food store, drug stores, restaurant, movie theater, and professional offices. Parking facilities are planned close to the stores.

Kitchens Well Equipped.

Seats will be located in garden spots thruout the area. The benches will be surrounded by shrubs and small flowering trees with shade trees overhead. The development has provisions for more than 56 acres of lawns and meadows.

Among the advantages for the housewife are windows placed so sunlight will flood the rooms thruout the year. Kitchens will be well lighted, equipped with new gas stoves, refrigerators, work tables, a double bowl sink, and cabinet space.

Storage Rooms on First Floor.

Opening off the kitchen will be a storage room, substituting for a basement locker, with shelves for

21 S. SIDE GIRLS TO SEEK TRIANON ADELINE VOTES

Each Hopes to Reign at Music Festival.

Twenty-one south and southwest side girls whose first names are Adeline will appear Wednesday night on the stage of the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove av., for the first elimination in the Sweet Adeline contest of the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival.

The winning Adeline in the final contest, whose only requirement is that she work in a war plant, will be crowned queen before an expected crowd of 90,000 spectators Saturday night, Aug. 19, at the Festival in Soldiers' field. Her crown will be a garland of flowers placed on her head by Harry Armstrong, composer of the song "Sweet Adeline." The nine runners-up in the contest will comprise the queen's court.

Audience Will Ballot.

Each district entrant Wednesday night will be introduced to the ballroom audience and each will say into a microphone "I wish to be your Sweet Adeline." Members of the audience will vote.

PARENTS LOAD SHELLS FOR SIX SONS IN SERVICE

Empty House Spurs Mother on Job.

With their six sons in the service, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Minarich, 1015 N. Raynor av., Joliet, have gone to work loading shells side by side on the production line of the Elwood ordnance plant. Mrs. Minarich took a job at the ordnance plant the day her sixth son entered the army.

"The house seemed so empty and days so long when my sons left," she explained. "I knew I would have to get in and pitch, too, if I wanted to bring them home safely. My husband was doing war work shortly after Pearl Harbor, but I was still keeping house for my sons. Now I am working alongside him."

Youngest Enters Army.

Their youngest son, Pvt. Arthur Minarich, 20, entered the army in May, 1943, and now is stationed in England. Prior to joining the service he was employed by a Joliet soft drink company.

Pvt. Julius R. Minarich, 22, joined the army in December, 1942, and is stationed at Camp Howze, Tex. He was employed previously by a roofing company. Sgt. Victor Minarich, 26, now stationed in China, entered the service in May, 1942. He formerly was employed by the Elwood ordnance plant.

Edward Is in Pacific.

Edward Minarich, storekeeper, 2d class, 30, is serving in the South Pacific. He joined the navy in August, 1943. Pvt. Albert Minarich, 35, inducted in January, 1944, is stationed in West Virginia. Pvt. Anthony Minarich, 38, entered the army in February, 1944, and is stationed in North Carolina.

"I am still keeping up our home for the day my sons come back. Eight hours on a production line and a few hours' housework each day is not a great task when you compare it with the days my sons are spending in military service," Mrs. Minarich said.

FORMER SLAVE SEES 4TH WAR FROM OL' ROCKER

Joliet Woman, 96, Was Freed at 15.

BY CLAIRE GRAHAM.

Mrs. Margaret Boylan.

Life has woven a strange and colorful pattern for 96 year old Mrs. Margaret Boylan, Joliet, who spent 15 years in bondage. During the Civil war she was among the slaves freed by Lincoln.

"Ol' rockin' chair has got me now, and I can't work the way I used to," explained Mrs. Boylan. "I guess the old wagon done broke down. But there was a time."

Mrs. Boylan's eyes were dreamy as she dwelt in other days.

Sold When 3 Years Old.

"I was only 3 years old when I was taken from my parents in North Carolina and sold to a plantation owner, along with my two sisters and a brother. They didn't delay putting me to work at small tasks, because they wanted me to know what to do when I got older," she said.

"When I was 12 the plantation was sold and the slaves were put on the block. My brother and sisters were separated. I watched them being led away, one by one, after the bidding was over."

Mrs. Boylan recalls seeing Lincoln in his shirt sleeves, riding thru the southern fields on an inspection tour. He was seated in an old cart.

"I think Abe Lincoln knew more about conditions in the south than any other man at that time," she added.

Married at 18.

With her worldly goods in a battered satchel and freedom in her soul, Mrs. Boylan went to live with an aunt, Mrs. Phoebe Hargraves, Orange county, N C.

When 18 years old, she married Joseph Hooks, a turpentine operator. He died in 1881, leaving her one son, Isaac. Later she moved to Arkansas, where she married a railroad man, James Boylan.

My son, Issac, came to Joliet about 1880, when it was still a small settlement. He helped lay some of the first bricks in the streets and build the first homes here. Now my son owns the Hooks subdivision, of 22 homes," Mrs. Boylan said.

In 1903, after her second husband's death, Mrs. Boylan came to stay with her son in Joliet.

Forced to Give Up Cigars.

"Life has been rather quiet since I came here 41 years ago," she asserted. "I took up smoking a corn cob pipe to help pass the time. Later I switched to cigars, but that didn't last very long. When I began to lose my teeth, I couldn't hold the cigar in my mouth. I had to give up smoking entirely when my breath began to come short a few years ago."

"This is my fourth war," she explained. "I never expected to see all this happen, but it must please the Lord to keep me here."

She settled further back in her rocking chair, folded her hands, and smiled contentedly.

Engaged

HARRIETT McCAW.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCaw, 9726 Hoyne av., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Harriett Joan, to Lt. Warren E. Yaap, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yaap, 9424 Laflin st. Miss McCaw is a student at Indiana university. Lt. Yaap attended the engineering school of the University of Michigan before entering the army air forces. He is stationed at Moore field, Mission, Tex.

YOUNGEST PARK POLICEWOMAN 'HAS JOB TO DO'

Rain or shine, Mrs. Ethel Gardner, 24, 7606 S. Bishop av., Chicago's youngest park policewoman, is on duty from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. enforcing law and order on 12th st. beach. Her husband, Lt. George Gardner, is stationed with the army air forces in England.

Mrs. Ethel Gardner.

"My husband and I both have jobs to do," explained Mrs. Gardner. "The home front as well as the fighting front will have to be protected. I know many children's lives would be endangered if Chicago did not have park policewomen to augment the regular police force.

Has 2 Year Old Son.

"I decided to train to be a park policewoman, after my husband went overseas in March. I couldn't join any overseas women's corps because I have a 2 year old son, George Jr. This was the closest approach to action I could get," Mrs. Gardner asserted.

Keeping order in a crowd of 2,000 is not an easy task, but Mrs. Gardner has been trained to cope with nearly any emergency that may arise. Every park policewoman must complete a two week's course in first aid, traffic regulations, accident and drowning prevention at the service guard school in the Vernon park administration building.

List Requirements.

Women eligible for the course must be between 24 and 52 years old, and have at least an eighth grade education. On completion of their training, they are given a regulation police uniform, bearing the insignia of the Chicago Park district, a tailored shirt, tie, and black oxfords. Regulations forbid park policewomen to carry firearms.

They are stationed at beaches, parks, planetariums, and school crossings thruout the city.

Directed Traffic at School.

Mrs. Gardner was first assigned to direct traffic in front of the Altgeldt school, 71st st. and Loomis blvd. Thru blustery March until June, Mrs. Gardner was at her post each day taking children safely across the street. She was transferred to 12th st. beach when schools closed.

"I am going to keep up my end of the job here on the home front until my husband returns," said Mrs. Gardner.

LONG DISTANCE CALLS WILL BE SERVICE PRIZES

Five long distance telephone calls will be awarded as prizes to service men tonight when the Beverly Hills Woman's club serves a buffet supper at 5 o'clock at the service men's center, 131 S. Wabash av., Mrs. Charles M. Bacon, 9652 Hoyne av., president, said.

Mrs. Alex Brough, 10735 Wood st., and Mrs. Charles Caine, 2022 W. 103d st., war service chairmen, are in charge and will be assisted by their husbands.

Other assisting club members and their husbands are Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Wright, 10107 Seeley av.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradburn, 10036 Seeley av.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Conwell, 10301 Hamilton av.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Osborne, 10307 Hamilton av.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas, 10359 Longwood dr., and Mrs. and Mrs. William H. Oldacre, 10048 Hoyne av.

While serving his apprenticeship as a mail carrier in Joliet, Parthun spent his spare moments painting. Several of his water colors hang in St. Mary's Providence convent, Chicago.

Regrets Leaving Service.

"My new career is something I have looked forward to for years, yet I punched the clock at the post office for the last time with a combination of pleasure and regret," he said.

"In 1907 when I first carried mail over a 15 mile route in Joliet, I wore high rubber boots until May as the streets were not paved. Sometimes I waded knee deep in snow and mud. The mail order catalogs bogged us down even further. We were paid $12.50 for a six day week, and we had to work every third Sunday in the post office.

"After covering nearly every route in town on foot, I began delivering mail in a horse drawn, two wheeled cart."

Routes Expand to 52.

"As Joliet grew we extended our 26 mail routes to 52," Parthun continued. "Originally there were 26 carriers and 14 clerks. Now we have 100 clerks and 47 carriers."

He selected a brush as he spoke, and turned to the half finished, still life painting.

"I couldn't spend much time painting after covering a 15 mile route," he explained. "Now I have the whole day to complete this and other pictures I began a long time ago."

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dick Brown.

Dick Brown, a 25 year old army flyer, crashed on a Pacific isle two years ago. He spent the better part of a year in various hospitals, and when he got out he had only some 20 square inches of skin that had not been subjected to grafting or treatment. Today Dick Brown is a W-G-N - Mutual radio singer, in good health again. He's modest and discourages any references to his experiences.

"There are too many regular guys still out there," he says. "They're my friends and I know what they'd think if they caught me capitalizing on my experience."

Brown's reconnaissance plane came down in flames—that's why the extensive skin grafts. For six months he lay in a hospital overseas before he was well enough to be brought home for further medical attention. After his discharge, with blotches of skin graft still evident, Dick went back to work at the Wright Aeronautical corporation in Cincinnati. There he tightened screws on planes until physicians insisted that he had to have more rest. While recuperating he turned back to the singing he'd neglected since studying at the Cincinnati College of Music.

During a visit to New York a friend arranged a radio audition. That resulted in a job at the Roosevelt hotel grill. He was spotted there by a sponsor and now has his own show on W-G-N at 5:45 p. m. Sundays.

Dog day news: Ed Wynn, one of the first of stage comedians to make a hit on radio, but who has been absent from the airways for seven years, is returning Sept. 8 in a Friday evening series on the Blue network. Songstress Evelyn Knight and Jerry Wayne will be with him. . . . Bing Crosby has changed his mind about touring hospitals during his 13 week summer vacation and is standing by to go overseas. Sonny Tufts is filling in on the air for Bing. . . . Dinah Shore is ready to go abroad to entertain the troops. . . . Rudy Vallee's return to radio after a year or so in the Coast Guard has been set for Saturday, Sept. 9, on NBC. . . . He will take the spot which has been occupied for three years by "Abie's Irish Rose." . . . Duffy's Tavern, when it returns on Friday, Sept. 15, will be on NBC instead of the Blue as heretofore. . . . Fritz Kreisler, who recently made his radio bow, will do another concert on Monday, Oct. 9. He has three subsequent dates.

50 USE CHICAGO LAWN SERVICE CORNER DAILY

Chief Patrons Sailors, Soldiers on Leave.

Information ranging from the time of service at local churches to addresses of Chicago Lawn men overseas may be obtained at the community service corner opened recently in the Chicago Lawn branch library, 6234 S. Kedzie av. An average of 50 requests for information are received daily, Mrs. Florence Richards, librarian, estimated.

Features of the corner are the up to date file of newspaper clippings about men in service from the community and the calendar of current neighborhood activities. Enlarged daily, the file is used especially by the service men themselves, Mrs. Richards said.

Seek News of Friends.

When they come home on furlough the men like to know what their friends in other parts of the world are doing so they come to the library to look at the file, she added. The corner supplies addresses of the men whenever possible. A list of demobilization centers in Chicago also is available.

The calendar lists the sponsors and time of current events in Chicago Lawn. Organizations are asked to notify the corner of programs and any changes in their schedules, so as to make the calendar complete.

Started with OCD Data.

Altho intended as a permanent institution, the corner contained only civilian defense data when it opened but a variety of information has been added since, including a complete list of churches, religious and civic organizations and clubs, their officers and headquarters, parks and their directors; schools, and fire and police stations.

College catalogs, files of community newspapers, a business directory, and books on home making and interior decoration have been moved into the alcove housing the service. A large bulletin board keeps visitors informed of future events in the community.

In 1929 he came to the United States. Since his arrival he has been pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, Joliet; principal of Jennings seminary for girls, Aurora, and pastor of the Fowler Clifton Methodist church, 23d and Lawndale av.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 7.

This is the time to cut the everlastings for winter bouquets. Nothing is finer than the small flowered baby's breath or gypsophila. Cut when in full bloom on a hot day and dry in the shade. Tie up in bundles. When thoroly dry store in paper lined cartons.

Bittersweet also may be gathered when ripe or just before the fruit opens, exposing the brilliant undercolors. Order peony roots at once. Let peonies alone unless they need moving and if they do make good sized divisions for they will respond much more quickly.

Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Make some cuttings of English ivy now. There is no better vine for indoor use, altho the philodendron and grape ivy are excellent and will stand much abuse. All three do well in a north window that has maximum light; no plant will stand long in a very dark place.

The potato harvest can start as soon as the tops die, but they will keep better in the ground than in a hot, dry place. Twist cabbage heads until the roots are loosened to prevent splitting and cracking. Twisting checks the growth. Late beets should be thinned to give each plant plenty of room to develop before autumn frost.

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Any one having a coldframe can sow some vegetables, such as lettuce, beets, and radishes in it for the slight protection they will need later on may be furnished by the sash. Many fail to realize the fun and value of a frame; its cost is insignificant considering the benefits derived.

But watch that the fruit is not injured by too intense sun. The fine white heads of cauliflower are obtained by typing up the leaves to enclose the head for blanching. It should be done as soon as the heads begin to form.

Late blight on celery, potatoes, and tomatoes may be controled with Bordeaux mixture. Celery blight is a seed blight and difficult to control. However, mild cases should not retard the growing of the plant.

Thursday, Aug. 10.

If the brussels sprouts do not form sprouts but make excessive leaf growth, firm the soil around the plant. Tomato fruits will ripen better if the growths are shortened. The sun can enter the plant and ripening is much more uniform and rapid.

Watch for aphids and spray immediately if any are seen. Use rotenone or nicotine preparations. Pick peppers as soon as they mature to give the developing fruits strength to develop.

Friday, Aug. 11.

Developing melons can be kept in fine condition if a board is placed under each friuit. It keeps them off the ground and prevents decay and attacks by wireworms. Bag grapes to prevent exposure to insect attacks. Try bagging and observe the difference between them and those not bagged.

Cut out the old fruiting canes of raspberry bushes and blackberries. These fine fruiting plants often are neglected and the gardener wonders why he fails to have more fruit.

Gardeners who plotted some of the strawberry runners should plant them out now and they will produce some fruit next season. As with all plants that are transplanted during the dry summer, see that plenty of water is given at all times.

Saturday, Aug. 12.

If the phlox seems covered with a grayish substance, it is mildrew. Dust with sulphur several times a week or spray with any recommended material. Mildew can hinder the proper functioning of a plant. Lilacs often are affected by it.

Keep the borders and beds in trim by edging. Get some chemical weed killer and keep the weeds down in gravel walks and driveways.

1 Complete —this Lightning-Fast PERRY MASON Thriller!

"THE CASE of the DROWSY MOSQUITO"

by ERLE STANLEY GARDNER

Who ever heard of a "drowsy mosquito"? And how could that little creature commit murder and steal a million dollars? It sounded just like an ordinary mosquito to the nurse. Yet when she went to swat it, someone outside her window fired two shots at her!

Twenty-four hours later her wealthy patient was murdered! In a secret will he even named Perry Mason his executor—and warned the famous lawyer-sleuth that THE DROWSY MOSQUITO might try to rob his beneficiary, whom he didn't name! But most puzzling of all, in the desk with the will Mason found—a dying mosquito, bottled up in a glass vial with flakes of gold!

FOUR MILLION copies of Erle Stanley Gardner's books were bought last year! Once you plunge into this baffling thriller, you'll see why!

2 Complete This Eerie Puzzle by MERLDA MACE

"MOTTO FOR MURDER"

Could YOU solve this amazing disappearance of a rich old woman from a snowbound mansion in the country? The Christmas tree at the old Hammond House had been decorated with paper mottoes. THREE people had drawn a "murder motto." And then THREE people "ceased to be" in the next 48 hours—but not the same three!

At first Tip O'Neill's job had been relatively simple. It was just to figure out who was responsible for the strange disappearance of old Mrs. Hammond. Could it be one of the three sullen grandchildren? Or the tinhorn gambler . . . the blonde showgirl . . . the gorgeous housekeeper's daughter . . . the housekeeper herself? Or even—

Then the real murderer begins to "eliminate" the suspects in his own unique way! Here is a hair-raising story you'll never forget—of a killer who knows no mercy and leaves no clues!

3 Complete CLIFFORD KNIGHT'S Murder-in-Hollywood Shocker—

"THE AFFAIR of the FAINTING BUTLER"

Whom would YOU have believed?—

HINCKLEY SLOAN? When the police arrived, they found no body, no footprints. Yet this haughty old actor insisted he had seen a dead man on the lawn! PROFESSOR HUNTOON ROGERS? This famous crime expert believed Sloan was telling the truth! THE DEAD MAN? Smiling and healthy, he insisted he was very much alive! THE MYSTERIOUS VOICE? It telephoned four times, mumbling, "Watch out for that butler!"

What about this butler? He admitted he had been putting strychnine in the housekeeper's vitamin capsules—but explained he was merely gathering material for his novel! And the housekeeper? She denied all accusations—and yet kept on handing out poisoned capsules!

The Hollywood police finally became so bewildered they didn't dare believe anybody! But if you're familiar with Huntoon Rogers' brilliant methods, you know how breathlessly exciting it is when he springs his trap!

Chicago Opera Company to Visit Milwaukee in Fall

'Die Walkure' and 'Faust' to Be Presented

By Claudia Cassidy.

The Chicago Opera company, which in its palmy days gave 44 performances on tour in Milwaukee, will return there during the 1944 season to present Wagner's "Die Walküre" Nov. 9 and Gounod's "Faust" Nov. 16, perhaps adding a special Sunday night performance later if the schedule permits. The operas will be staged at the Milwaukee Auditorium, under the local direction of Margaret Rice, who until her recent resignation had spent a quarter of a century as Milwaukee manager of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Miss Rice is always up to something in the managerial line. For years she brought plays, concerts, ballet, and whatever good she could get her hands on into Milwaukee's Pabst theater. Last spring, when the Metropolitan Opera came to Chicago, she detoured it into Milwaukee for a performance of "Tannhäuser," sold the theater's 6,600 seats like hot cakes, and could have sold 1,000 more had the walls been stretchable. This season she will have fewer seats, but more good ones. The rear of the Auditorium has been elevated for better vision, and capacity is cut to 6,250.

While the old guard undoubtedly will turn out for Milwaukee opera, Miss Rice says at least half her audience is made up of young people, and that may be why it is likely Jeanette MacDonald will sing Marguerite in the Nov. 16 "Faust." Back in 1917, when the Chicago company first took Gounod's opera to Milwaukee, Melba was singing Marguerite, Muratore was the Faust, and Baklanoff was making his Chicago debut as Mephistopheles. Anna Fitziu also sang Marguerite that season. Probably this year's Milwaukee cast of "Die Walküre" will be the same as ours, which Fausto Cleva has said will include Helen Traubel, Kerstin Thorborg, Astrid Varnay, Emery Darcy, and Herbert Janssen. Wagner's opera went to Milwaukee as long ago as the season of 1911-'12, when the Chicago cast held Saltzman-Stevens, Schumann-Heink, Dalmores, and Whitehill. Olive Fremstad made her Chicago début as Brünnhilde in 1912.

It was just a season earlier, in 1910-'11, that the Chicago company made its first jaunt to Milwaukee on tour. And you might not be able to guess what operas were chosen from that season's capacious repertory. Two of the Mary Garden specials, no less. Massenet's "Thais," with Garden, Dalmores, Renaud [and later Dufranne as Athanael], with Campanini conducting. And Strauss' "Salomé," with Garden, Dalmores, and Dufranne. Let's hope that now, 34 years later, Chicago has something comparable to offer its sister city.

Crystal Ball Department.

Inquiries keep arriving about what shows will be here come Christmas, and tho implications are flattering, I regret to say that the crystal ball is still clouded. At the risk of repetition—for the customers who just came in—this is the way things stand now: The Great Northern hopes to reopen about Labor day with a domestic comedy called "It's High Time," written by David Carey. "Uncle Harry," the theater's last tenant, is going back on tour, opening in Washington soon with Luther Adler and Beth Merrill again in leading roles. Ruth Gordon will come to the Harris in her own comedy, "Over Twenty-One," probably Sept. 10 or 11, moving down from Detroit. Clinton Sundberg will have replaced Onslow Stevens as the husband of the title, and Millard Mitchell takes over for Philip Loeb. "The Voice of the Turtle," with K. T. Stevens, Hugh Marlowe, and Betty Lawford, opens at the Selwyn Oct. 2. "Oklahoma!" will stay at the Erlanger at least thru Nov. 18. After that it may have to rescue the Theater Guild's good name by playing those subscription cities that fondly expected the show last season. And right about here that crystal begins to cloud up like a paperweight snowstorm. "Star and Garter" may come to the Blackstone with Willie Howard, and "The Cherry Orchard" is in there somewhere, but I have quite given up hope of "Song of Norway," which might have signed off the summer with first rate operetta. Meanwhile, we wait until the booking office makes its decisions. Patience long since became the major requirement for a drama editor.

What Was Here When.

Some one over at the revival of "The Merry Widow" has been delving into the files to discover what shows kept the operetta company when it came to the old Colonial [on the site of the Oriental] back in December, 1907. Chicago had 14 downtown theaters in those days, and there was plenty of competition for business in that six months' run. One of the early "Ziegfeld Follies" was playing at the Illinois, now no more than a ghost to old timers who walk past a parking lot. At the Grand Opera House, now a movie theater, Eleanor Robson was playing "Salomy Jane," while at the Garrick, also a movie victim, Margaret Anglin and Henry Miller appeared in "The Great Divide." The La Salle had a Mort Singer hit, "The Girl Question," William Hodge was at the Studebaker in "The Man from Home," the Auditorium was trying vaudeville, with opera in the offing. "The Clansman" was at McVicker's, and Francis Williams was at Powers', in "When Knights Were Bold." The "Ziegfeld Follies" survive as a title under the Shubert banner, "The Clansman" won world fame as the Griffith epic, "The Birth of a Nation," but "The Merry Widow" has outlived them all. In one version or another, it clings to life on the strains of an unforgettable waltz.

BACK FOR 4TH SEASON

The Budapest String Quartet, which opens its fourth consecutive Ravinia season with the first of four concerts Thursday night. The players, left to right, are Josef Roisman, first violin; Edgar Ortenberg, new second violin; Mischa Schneider, violincello, and Boris Kroyt, viola. They also appear Aug. 12, 13 and 15.

What Has Gone Before

Having inherited a legacy, Adeline Court, an Irish beauty, visits in India, where she marries Philip Whiteoak, dashing officer of the hussars. When Philip's uncle dies in Canada and leaves Philip heir to his property they decide to venture to the new world. When they sail, Patsy O'Flynn, the coachman, and Adeline's two young brothers, Conway and Sholto, accompany them. On the ship they become friendly with two Irish gentlemen, D'Arcy and Brent; Mrs. Cameron and her daughter, Mary, and an Englishman, Mr. Wilmott. The ship springs a leak and turns back. On second sailing Conway, Sholto, and Mary Cameron do not board the ship. They land in Quebec, where they learn of the marriage of Conway and Mary. A son is born to Adeline and named Nicholas. After a year in Quebec they migrate to Ontario, where Col. Vaughan, a retired Anglo-Indian officer, has settled. The hospitality of the Vaughan home is extended to them while their home is being built. Wilmott buys 50 acres near-by. They name their new home Jalna after Philip's military station in India. Wilmott confides in Adeline that he has run away from a nagging wife and child after providing for them. Robert Vaughan's cousin, Daisy, arrives at Vaughanlands and goes with Philip and Adeline to Wilmott's cottage. Before she left Montreal Daisy met a Mrs. Wilmott who came to Canada to find her husband. Adeline meets Mrs. Wilmott and her daughter. She tells them Wilmott left for Mexico and reports are he died there. Wilmott gives a skating party for all the neighbors, and D'Arcy and Brent show up. Another son is born to Adeline at Jalna. Philip decides to build a church. Kate Busby and Brent elope. Conway, Mary, and Sholto visit Adeline. In New York Brent and his bride meet Mrs. Wilmott, now engaged in an anti-slavery campaign. Adeline gives a swimming party for the younger crowd.

INSTALMENT XX.

"LET'S bathe again!" exclaimed Conway suddenly. He stood, slim and white, at the water's rim.

"In the dark?" cried Lydia Busby. "O, surely not!"

"We did in the south of France," said Mary. "It was lovely. Far nicer than in daylight because the glare was gone."

"It's a grand idea," said Isaac Busby. "I shall be first in!" He ran into the water and plunged.

"It's glorious," he shouted. "Come on, everybody!"

They threw themselves into this new pleasure with the abandon of children.

Lydia Busby looked lovelier in her bathing costume in the moonlight than any one had dreamed it possible for her to look. The curves of her arms and neck were enchanting. There was an almost seductive sweetness in her smile, a new consciousness of her own charm. Hitherto she had seemed but a tomboy.

The fire had died down. Some one went to the shore and rebuilt it so that its flames rose bright. Suddenly, moved by a common impulse, all gathered around it, posturing and gesticulating in extravagant fashion. Dr. Ramsey picked up an empty bottle and waved it while he quoted Burns. At this moment Elihu Busby appeared from among the willows and stalked across the sand. Before he raised his voice to speak they realized that his sense of decorum was outraged. He flourished the stump of his right arm.

"I never thought," he said, "that I'd live to see the day my children would take part in such a scene."

"My heart's in the highlands," chanted the doctor, "my heart is not here.

"My heart's in the highlands, a-chasing the deer."

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Dr. Ramsey—you who should be an example to the others."

"I have nothing to be ashamed of. I was invited to a party and I came. I am only making myself agreeable."

"If strangers choose to come here and bring outlandish habits from the old world, we can't prevent 'em, but we can refuse to take part in 'em."

Elihu Busby turned to his eldest son.

"I'm sick at heart, Isaac," he said, "to think that you would allow your sisters to take part in such a dissipated scene—hopping about like grasshoppers, half naked and streaming with water."

• • •

Lydia and her younger sister began to cry.

Young Isaac said, "Father, we meant no harm and you and mother knew we were coming on a picnic."

"Would you have behaved in this fashion if your mother and I had been here? This picnic will be the talk of the countryside if it gets out. So far we have been a moral community."

He said to his daughters:

"Get into your clothes, girls. As for you, Kate, you are married now, and if your husband chooses to allow you to remain I can't force you to leave but, if I had known what his tastes are, I might not so soon have forgiven you your marriage to him."

Now Kate also began to cry.

"Really, sir," said Brent, with his disarming smile, "this has been a most innocent affair. I only wish you had been here from the first to see for yourself. But, if Kate's sisters are leaving, she and I will leave, too. Come, Kate, gather up your things."

Weeping, Kate and her sisters fled to the shelter of the cedars.

With dignity and a little truculence, Philip came to Elihu Busby's side.

"I take it hardly," he said, "that you should come here and criticize my way of entertaining myself and my friends."

Busby liked Philip and admired him. With some softening in his manner he said:

"I don't contend, Capt. Whiteoak, that anything disgraceful took place at this picnic. What I do say is that so much license is not good. In time it will lead to disgraceful things. If you drink wine and dance about a fire like pagans, what will your grandchildren do when they set out to have a good time? They'll probably get drunk on gin and dance naked. Manners and morals are never at a standstill. Either they rise or they decline. Like empires."

"Then your ambition is," said Philip smiling, "to have your grandchildren enjoy a picnic thus. The young ladies, after dipping a lily white toe in the lake, will sit in a circle with their knitting while the most devil-may-care of the young men will read aloud from the works of Mr. Longfellow."

The three sisters now appeared from the cedar thicket, fully dressed and carrying their bathing costumes in a basket. Kate had recovered her spirits and walked with the assurance of a married woman, to her husband's side. He greeted her with a sly wink. Lydia, too, was now composed but her color was high and her eyes downcast till she passed Dr. Ramsey. Then she raised them and a look was exchanged, so warm, so full of tenderness that each was surprised and bewildered. The youngest sister, Abigail, was still weeping. But she was only 16. Their brothers joined them and their father, with a commanding gesture, marched them away.

• • •

Sholto raised his young voice loudly. "Who was the old gaffer?" he asked.

"The Busby girls' father," returned his brother.

"We should have ducked him in the lake for a spoil-sport."

"Hold your tongue," said Philip, laconically. "or I shall duck you."

"I wish you would duck me, Philip," cried Mary. "I'm longing for another dip."

The words had scarcely been spoken when Conway and Sholto seized her and carried her into the lake. With their pale hair flying in the moonlight the three resembled a mermaid captured by two mermen and being carried off by them to their ocean cave. So thought Wilmott and he said so to Dr. Ramsey. They had separated themselves from the others in a new found congeniality and were strolling along the beach.

"The lady whose appearance most struck me," said the doctor, "was Lydia Busby. To tell you the truth, I am pretty badly smitten. And this with a girl whom I have known for years and scarcely noticed, except for her healthy good looks. It is quite extraordinary what propinquity and a moonlit night will discover."

"Yes, yes," agreed Wilmott, "Miss Lydia is a lovely girl."

Robert Vaughan felt himself to be unwanted by Daisy and Philip, who talked in a low tone. He was angry at Daisy, ashamed of what he considered her shameless overtures to Philip. Himself she ignored. He would have liked to order her home but instead sprang up and left them. Robert felt alone, unwanted by any one—not by the three disporting themselves in the lake, not by the two striding in the opposite direction, not by Philip and Daisy, in the intimacy of the firelight, not by Adeline, feeding her dog among the willows.

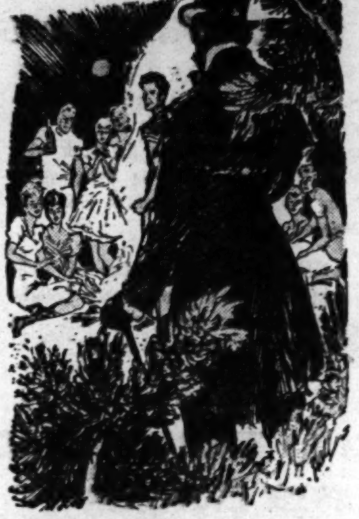
There was just moonlight enough for her to see what was in the hamper. She heaped a dish with slices of ham and pieces of bread but, instead of setting this before Nero she fed him with her fingers. This suited him well, because he already had had a good deal to eat and food tasted better when Adeline fed him. Her eyes were fixed on Daisy with an expression so cold, so hard, so almost blank that an observer might well have wondered if they could be the luminous and changeful eyes with which she generally looked out on the world.

Philip sat in the glow of the fire motionless but with an enigmatic smile. His shirt open at the neck revealed his white chest, his uprolled sleeves, his rounded yet muscular arms. Daisy sat close to him, almost leaning against him. She thought Adeline had gone along the beach with Wilmott and the doctor. Daisy, with her narrow slant eyes, her short face, her turn-up nose, had a kind of savage primitive beauty. Her mouth was upthrust toward Philip as tho in preparation for a kiss.

"Is the girl mad or just a fool?" thought Adeline. "She might be sure some one would see her. Why doesn't that brute, Philip, push her away? By heaven, if he kisses her I will kill him!"

Suddenly, as tho in uncontrolled passion, Daisy threw herself across Philip's thighs and, twining her arms about him, drew his head down to hers. Adeline could hear her speaking but not what she said.

Philip took hold of Daisy and lifted her upright but he kept his hands on her. Now he was speaking. The fire was between them and the lake. The bathers could be heard splashing and romping toward the shore. Daisy sat tense, turning a look of hate on them.



Before he raised his voice to speak they realized his sense of decorum was outraged.

They ran toward the fire. Mary huddled up to it.

"O, how cold it has got!" she cried.

"Cold!" laughed Conway. "It is just heavenly cool."

"Well, I am cold."

Sholto peered into Daisy's face.

"How funny you look, Miss Vaughan! Are you angry?"

"Angry!" she repeated, in a high voice. "I never was happier in all my life. I'm in the seventh heaven of content. Please stop staring at me."

"What have you been saying to my brother-in-law, Miss Vaughan?" asked Sholto, still peering into Daisy's face.

She struck at him. "You are an odious boy," she said.

• • •

Dr. Ramsey and Wilmott now returned from their ramble. When the doctor saw Mary shivering by the fire, he came to her frowning.

"I warned you, Mrs. Court," he said sternly. "Yet you have bathed three times. Now, I am afraid, you have really taken a chill." He laid his fingers on her pulse.

Mary looked ready to sink.

"She could not have taken a chill," exclaimed Conway. "She only wants to be fussed over!"

"See this long mane of wet hair down her back," said the doctor, collecting it in his hand like seaweed.

"Conway brought a cloak and threw it carelessly about her shoulders.

"Where is Adeline?" he asked.

She came out from among the willows followed by Nero. She looked calm yet brilliant. Her white teeth flashed in her face as she came smiling toward the others.

"Where have you been?" asked Philip, suspiciously.

"Among the willows," she returned gaily, "feeding Nero. Ah, what a day it's been! What a success! Don't you all agree? But the moon is sinking. I think we ought to collect our things and return home or we shall be lost on the way."

All agreed that this was so and, with a sense of haste and yet regret, they collected their belongings and smothered the fire. With its dying, the bathing party was over. They had a time of it to capture the horses in the near-by field that had broken from their tether and were grazing at will. Out of the darkness appeared Tite. He had been waiting a long while with Wilmott's horse. Wilmott had only lately acquired it, was proud yet half apologetic for it.

Mary looked wan and blue about the lips when she reached Jalna. Adeline made her go to bed while she herself descended to the kitchen to prepare a hot drink for her. Her brothers followed her. They were as curious as monkeys and ran here and there, peering into every cupboard and corner.

Adeline put a pinch of cinnamon in the milk and carried it up the two flights of stairs. Mary drank it gratefully. Sometimes she missed her mother's petting. She now put her thin arms about Adeline and kissed her.

"Good night," said Adeline, kissing her in return. "Sleep tight."

"It was a lovely bathing party."

"It was indeed."

"When may we have another?"

"When I can get the taste of this one out of my mouth." She turned abruptly and hastened from the room and down the stairs.

• • •

She set her candlestick on the dressing table and looked toward the bed. Philip was not there. He had driven the wagonette to the stable and probably was lingering to talk to the groom. She could not trust her self-control in the exchange of a word with Philip that night. She undressed in haste and put on her long heavily embroidered nightdress. Her thick hair was still moist and when she lay down she spread it over the pillow away from her. She left the candle burning for Philip.

The candle was burning low when Philip came. Between her lashes she saw him cast a look at it as tho wondering if it would hold out for his undressing. He had left the front door wide open for the sake of coolness. The cool night air filled the hall and overflowed into their bedroom, meeting the air from the window. He, too, undressed quickly and lay down beside her. Before he had blown out the candle he had given her a long look, being suspicious of her sleeping. Now he laid his hand on her side and snuggled his head into the pillow.

As tho galvanized, she sprang away from him.

"Don't put a hand on me!" she exclaimed.

"Very well," he said, "if you're going to be like that." He rolled over, turning his back on her.

Did he feel as innocent as he sounded? No—a thousand times no! She longed to turn and face him, grasp him by the shoulders and pour out on him all that rankled in her mind.

It was not Philip but Daisy who filled her heart with rage. Daisy was not only designing. She was unscrupulous. She was bad. There was nothing she would not do to take your man away from you, if she wanted him. The desire in Daisy's face as she drew Philip's down toward hers, had filled Adeline with a horrified fear of the temptress. How could a man be held responsible for what he did, with such a woman about? After all, he was but flesh and blood.

Yet, as Adeline lay awake hour after hour she was not so much apprehending what Daisy might do, as considering the punishment for what she had done. The grandfather clock in the hall struck one, two, and three. Still she had not slept. She resigned herself to a sleepless night. She relaxed and drew the sweet night smells into her nostrils.

The house seemed singularly alive tonight. It stood, in the hushed indrawn beauty of the night, hunched against the darkness, as tho feeling in every stone the sting of the first unhappiness it had sheltered. They had been so happy here! Their very embraces had had in them an earthy pride that had risen out of the virgin land. The cycle of the days was not long enough for the expression of their content. "Think of the time when we shall see our own grain cut!" they had said. "What a Christmas we shall have! The house will be hung with pine and spruce boughs. . . . What will it be like to watch the spring coming to Jalna?"

She felt as tho a catastrophe had fallen on the house. She saw the house as old, crumbling, weighed down by the sorrows that had been enacted there, sunk beneath the great creeper that would cover it.

She opened her eyes to reassure herself and saw a paleness where the window was. Morning was on the way. She must remember to water the little Virginia creeper Mrs. Vaughan had given her. It had been planted beside the porch and thriven well till the dry hot days came. Suddenly drowsiness stole over her.

When she woke it was past 9 o'clock. Mrs. Coveyduck was standing beside the bed with her morning tea on a tray. Already she had taken a comfortable motherly attitude toward Adeline.

"Bless my soul!" she said. "What a way to treat your beautiful hair, ma'am! It looks as tho you had dragged it thru a hedge. You must let me give it a good brushing for 'ee. Come, drink this warm tea and tell me what I shall give 'ee for breakfast."

"Bacon and eggs," answered Adeline promptly. "Is it a fine morning? I want to ride."

"Ay, 'tis as luvely a day as you could see in a whole zummertime. But surely you will want to rest after such a late party on the beach."

"No, no, I am not tired."

She sat up while Mrs. Coveyduck arranged the tray with its pot of tea and two slices of thin bread and butter in front of her.

"Coveyduck told me, ma'am, that you were down in the kitchen heating milk when you came home. You should have called me to get it for 'ee. He had no right to let me sleep like a gert log while you waited on yourself. But he has no sense except to make things grow."

"I told him not to wake you."

"Ay, but there's times to obey an order and times not to obey 'un. Now drink your tea and I'll give the bird his seeds."

• • •

She filled Boney's seed cup from the canister of parrot seed that stood on the mantelpiece. Boney looked on with interest and when she had finished he flew to the top of his cage, scrambled over it in great haste and went in at the door. He thrust his dark beak into the seed cup.

All the while Mrs. Coveyduck brushed Adeline's hair he talked in a cooing voice to her.

"Dilkoosha—dilkoosha—mera lal," he said, wriggling his body on the perch.

"What does he say?" asked Mrs. Coveyduck.

"He calls me pearl of the harem."

"Does he now? Well, well, 'tis a clever bird and no mistake."

"Mrs. Coveyduck, I want you to tell Patsy O'Flynn to go to Vaughanlands and give my compliments to Miss Vaughan and ask her if she will do Capt. and Mrs. Whiteoak the honor of riding with them this morning."

"Yes, ma'am, I'll send him off at once."

Adeline wore her riding habit and hat to breakfast. She was alone, for Philip was always early about the estate and the others still slept. She could hear Gussie and Nicholas prattling at play under the young silver birch tree. She heard Ernest crying with the intonation of hunger. Thank goodness, she was not nursing this baby! Once again, the milk from Maggie, the little goat, was succoring an infant Whiteoak. She heard the nurse going to the basement for Ernest's bottle. She ate heartily.

THE HISTORY OF ROME HANKS
AND KINDRED MATTERS
By
Joseph Stanley Pennell

This strange, compelling and powerful novel is the story of Lee Harrington's ancestors—as he remembered them, as he had been told about them, as he had dreamed of them.

As a novel of the Civil War it is superb. Shiloh, Gettysburg, Atlanta—the battle scenes are as real, as contemporary, as a dispatch from the Invasion Coast. And the story of post-Civil War days in the Middle West is equally dramatic and filled with action.

"Certain to be a landmark among novels of its kind."

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

CLOSING the four day session of the fifth annual Midwest Writers' conference, a week ago last night, was an authors' dinner which was both a blaze of glory and a blaze. . . . We sizzled like minute steaks in the great hall of the beautiful First Methodist church in Evanston. . . . But when nearly half a thousand humans crowd together and stoke themselves with calories the temperature is bound to rise. . . . But spirits rose with the calories and every one happily adjourned to Scott hall, after having met voice to voice over the microphone some of the distinguished visitors at the longest authors' table in history.

The afternoons and evenings of Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and Saturday afternoon were spent in the workshops, where the members of the conference really get down to the business of being writers. Erna Fergusson, famous authority on the southwest of our country, who now is connected with the office of the coördinator of Inter-American affairs, gave a stimulating talk on Wednesday evening on "Gathering Book Material in the Other Americas" and led a Pan-American round table on Friday afternoon. . . . Edwin Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, led a stirring symposium on "Writing About War and Peace." . . . Paul Engle, personable young poet from the University of Iowa, was leader of the Poetry workshop and prominent at the poets' evening on Friday. . . . They were among the distinguished workshop participants who were not present for the final evening.

Authors on Display.

But two long rows of authors dressed up the big stage of Cahn auditorium and responded briefly to introductions. . . . Vincent Starrett, the genial columnist of The Chicago Tribune book section, was the evening's impresario. . . . His profile has something of the asceticism of a monk of the middle ages, but his wit is contemporaneous and happily worldly. . . . Dean Kenneth E. Olson of the Medill school of journalism made the pleasant announcement that this year's attendance at the workshops has been three times last year's and the general attendance twice. . . . He presented the scholarship award for the best short story to Dorsey McCarthy, a columnist on the Chicago Sun book section. . . . David Appel, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News, presented that paper's prize of $150 to Ann Sheldon for her book review.

Frederic Babcock, editor of our book section, explained that the prize of $200 offered to writers in the armed forces by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will be awarded when the far away authors have all had time to submit their entries. . . . Frederic N. Litten, the popular teacher, who now has charge of all fiction writing at the Medill school of journalism, announced that the Dodd, Mead award for a manuscript of novel length would be made when the entries were all in. . . . Arthur Wang, associate editor of the Crowell Publishing company, made the presentation of the $250 award to Madeleine S. Waggoner of Elgin for her novel, "Yellow Lamp Light."

"A Tree Grows in Michigan."

Then your Spotlighter and A. C. Spectorsky, literary editor of the Chicago Sun, and David Appel took over the microphones and interviewed the occupants of the chairs on the platform. . . . Among the novelists were Warren Beck, whose first novel, "Final Score," will be published Aug. 21. . . . Nellise Child, who is contributing a chapter to a book on Chicago murders. . . . Kenneth Horan, whose new book about the motor car industry in Michigan, called "Bashful Woman," will be published in September. . . . She said her publishers want her to do a novel about the lumber industry in northern Michigan, to which Mr. Spectorsky quipped, "A Tree Grows in Michigan." . . . One-half of the collaboration Clare Jaynes, Jane Mayer. . . . Clara Spiegel, the other half, was welcoming home on an unexpected leave her husband, a captain in the air corps, who has been stationed in England for some time, and bidding her young son, in the navy, Godspeed. . . . Dorothy Langley, whose novel will be called "Dark Medallion." . . . Frederic Litten, whose new one will be "Sinister Island." . . . Willard Motley, a sensitive-faced young colored man whose new book will deal with a young Italian criminal in Chicago. . . . Dorothy Sparks, whose latest work is an official guide to a happy vacation in Chicago—first edition 50,000.

Some Mystery Makers.

Vincent Starrett introduced Nancy Rutledge and Phyllis Whitney, who are both writers of exciting mysteries, and tried to include Dr. Harris Rall of Garrett Biblical institute, who writes extremely successful books about religion, among his mystery writers, because, Mr. Starrett said, religion is a mystery to so many people.

Among the nonfiction writers was Jack Conroy, who also writes fiction, and is at work on a labor novel. . . . Others included: Borghild Dahl of New York, author of "I Wanted to See." . . . Otto Eisenschiml, who is one of Chicago's most ardent citizens, altho he was born in Vienna. . . . He said his official answer to the question about how he became interested in Abraham Lincoln was that his own father fought in the battle of Shiloh. . . . Ralph Korngold, who is also a Chicagoan by adoption, and whose new biography is about Toussaint L'Ouverture. . . . Francis B. McMahon, formerly of Notre Dame and now professor at the University of Chicago, author of the forthcoming "A Catholic Progressive Looks at the World." . . . William S. Stokes and Roland Wolseley of Evanston, both busy on new books. . . . Sylvestre C. Watkins, one of the most successful mail order booksellers in America, who has compiled a new anthology of Negro literature and is planning a series of biographies of great men of his race.

Poetry and Juveniles.

Two poets answered the roll call of verse: Ruth Crary Clapp and Edith Lovejoy Pierce. Among the writers of juveniles there were: Marjorie Barrows, who said she has been devoting her time lately to compiling anthologies for service men; Rowena Bennett, Josephine Blackstock, Bernice Bryant, Margaret Friskey, Paul T. Gilbert, Evalyn Grumbine, Marguerite Henry, Lucille Pannell, Laura Long, Lou Williams, and Naoma Zimmerman.

Harvey O'Connor gave a brief but stirring talk about the social responsibility of today's writer. . . . Phyllis Whitney read the writers' pledge, and Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university, closed the evening's program with an invitation to next year's conference, which he said he was taking the liberty of calling now the "Victory conference."

Scrapbook Wanderings Take a Tuneful Detour

HOW about a tuneful detour in our scrapbook wanderings, a Sunday excursion prompted by Robert John Bayer's prodigal gift of a batch of 19th century reminders of Chicago's early days in music? Not the oldest, but one of the most fascinating items, is the program book of the second May festival organized by Theodore Thomas in 1884, seven years before the Chicago Symphony orchestra was born. This was a series of seven extraordinary concerts which Thomas hopefully designated a biennial festival, but the project stopped right there, frustrated, as were so many of the gallant plans laid by this magnificently obstinate man, who never gave up when the cause was music.

What do you suppose we would do with a comparable festival today? Thomas had an orchestra of 165, sometimes augmented to 190, and a chorus of 900. His soloists included Materna, Hermann Winkelmann, and Emil Scaria, all court singers of Vienna's Imperial opera, all chosen by Wagner for Bayreuth, which Thomas had helped make possible by raising more than $10,000 at benefit concerts. Materna was Wagner's Brünnhilde, Wilkelmann created the role of Parsifal, Scaria was a famous Hans Sachs, Wotan, and Gurnemanz. Christine Nilsson, the celebrated Swedish soprano, ranked with them in stellar billing. The programs were in the grand style—Mozart's symphony in G minor, Schubert's in C major, Beethoven's "Eroica," the Berlioz Requiem, Haydn's "Creation," Gounod's "Redemption"—both of the latter with Nilsson as leading soloist.

A Tremendous Wagner Concert.

And the Wagner! There were concert versions of "Tannhäuser" and "Die Walküre," with the Bayreuth soloists, and there was a tremendous Wagner concert which Thomas magnanimously opened with the Centennial March, which had been the fiasco of the Philadelphia exposition eight years earlier, and almost his personal Waterloo. Wagner charged $5,000 for the composition, despite Thomas' helping hand at Bayreuth, and it was a sad fizzle. The repercussions plunged Thomas into bankruptcy—he was already in debt because of generous gestures to musicians—and he was sold out, lock, stock, and barrel, at public auction. The only smile in this dour picture is that while Thomas sat sadly, and no doubt angrily, at the auction, a mysterious stranger bid in the works, then turned it over to Mrs. Thomas, with instructions to let her husband borrow things "if he was careful."

Well, perhaps Thomas got some revenge at that Wagner concert, after all. If the Centennial March was as bad as its reputation [the score is at the Newberry library] think how it must have sounded in such superior Wagnerian company. For the concert also held excerpts from "Lohengrin," with Nilsson and Winkelmann and the versatile Materna as Ortrud, plus Bayreuth casting in "Parsifal" and "Die Meistersinger," with Siegfried's death music and the "Meistersinger" overture to call it a performance.

Another treasure in the Bayer collection is the official libretto of "Martha" from the first Chicago grand opera festival under the direction of Col. J. H. Mapleson, singer, viola player, and impresario extraordinary. This took place in 1885 and George P. Upton, whose memoirs of the period are dedicated "to the ghosts," says the locale was a temporary opera house erected in the north end of the exposition building. He adds that the Colonel increased his chorus to 300 for the occasion and his orchestra to 100, with Arditi conducting. Yes, the same Arditi whose "Il Bacio" has been warbled by generations of sopranos. Adelina Patti was the company's crown jewel, with a salary of $2,500 a night [it later soared higher], plus traveling expenses for herself, her husband, and an unidentified party of four.

Urbane Amenities.

The British impresario was quite a character. Upton says he got in trouble with Etelka Gerster by sending Patti more flowers, and that he had three forms of masculine address. If he wanted something, you were his "dear fellow." If it was a social occasion, "my boy" did it. But if he was mad, it was "sir!" with icicles. The festival was a success, tho, so he wasn't mad. When the elder Carter Harrison gave him the freedom of the city, declaring it a compliment never tendered to an Englishman before "and never would be again," he replied urbanely, "Chicago will, within a very few years, become the first city in the United States and probably in the world." Ah, the amenities!

Even in the season of 1881-'82, the Apollo Musical club was a Chicago habit. That was its 10th season, with William L. Tomlins the conductor, and Theodore Thomas was planning to repeat his success with Berlioz's "The Damnation of Faust." A spring concert had Gerster and the violinist Remenyi as soloists. There is a playbill, too, of Tamagno's performance of "William Tell" in 1889, the year the Auditorium was opened, and in it Patti, who had opened the house as Juliet, says she is choosing a Steinway for her Welsh castle, Craig-y-nos. But "Tell" was no Chicago novelty. Back in 1880 the Farragut Boat club was burlesquing it at Standard hall as "The Pet, the Patriot, and the Pippin," with music from "Meyerbeer to Lagerbeer," ending with "a terrific broadsword combat, universal scrimmage, general reconciliation."

1879 McVicker's Playbills.

Mr. Bayer's gift also includes several old McVicker's playbills, once perfumed with Dr. Price's "Pet Rose," which by now, alas, has gone with the wind. There is one dated 1879 of Neilson [Adelaide] in "Romeo and Juliet"—she had played Juliet almost 1,000 times by then—one of "Pinafore," which lists Edwin Booth as next on the list, one of Suppé's "Fatinitza," and one of the Strakosch production of "Huguenots," with Clara Louise Kellogg. There are mementoes of Hershey's Music hall, where Clarence Eddy, the organist, was playing "a perpetual canon on BACH," while Mrs. Marshall Dutton appropriately came next, singing "Never Again."

There is a playbill of "The Academic Alchemist," an 1899 frolic at the University of Chicago, with program notes by Hubbub Willing Hubbub on "our great master Bake-oven." There is an advertisment from the Schubert Institute of Music, an 1882 program of the Yale Glee club at Central Music hall, and there are notices of meetings of the Legensia and Philocalian societies, all for culture. There is even an 1879 leaflet showing what happened when Dearborn seminary graduated young females with exercises at Trinity church on Indiana near 24th. Lulu B. Faulkner was the valedictorian, while Anna R. Culbertson spoke on "Chivalry," and Carolyn S. Hilton wanted to know, quite simply, "Why?"

Four Concerts Scheduled by Famous Group

The seventh and final week of the Ravinia Music Festival brings the Budapest String Quartet in a series of four chamber music concerts, each of them devoted to the music of Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven. Because of earlier conflicting dates of the quartet, the regular Tuesday concert is omitted this week and the Budapest engagement will not begin until Thursday evening, extending into the following week for the closing concert on Tuesday, Aug. 15.

For the first time since the Budapest Quartet has appeared at Ravinia there has been a change in the personnel of the group, Edgar Ortenberg having replaced Alexander Schneider as second violinist. Otherwise the membership remains the same: Josef Roisman, first violin; Boris Kroyt, viola, and Mischa Schneider, cello.

Seven of the compositions listed on the Budapest programs have been played during the three previous Ravinia engagements of the quartet. Works new to Ravinia audiences will be the Mozart quartets in D minor, B flat major ["The Hunt"], and C major—Köchel Nos. 421, 458, and 465—the Haydn quartet in G major, Opus 76, No. 1, and the Septet in E flat, Opus 20, by Beethoven. The last mentioned will enlist the assistance of four members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra: Robert Lindemann, clarinet; Helen Kotas, horn; Hugo Fox, bassoon, and Vaclav Jiskra, bass.

The entire set of Beethoven's three "Rasoumowsky" quartets will be included in the series, one appearing on each of the first three programs.

The final orchestral concert of the Ravinia season will be given this afternoon by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under its regular conduotor, Désiré Defauw. Tonight at 8 a "Musical Round-Up" will be presented by members of the orchestra as a farewell to the trustees, guarantors, contributors, and members of the various Ravinia committees.

Musicals Usually Lose Sparkle During Long Runs

'Venus' Is One Exception, N.Y. Critic Reports

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK [Special].—Random notes from a summer spent loafing: It has been my experience these many years that plays hold up much better during long runs than do musical shows. It seems difficult to keep a song-and-girl show up to snuff, for everybody involved gets tired of what he's doing and shows it.

First to lose their first night sparkle are the showgirls—the big, beautiful creatures who can't act and can't dance. They can, at least, walk in a most proper but seductive way, if they remember their lessons. But leave them in a show a couple of months and they slop around like a bunch of old women, looking bored and petulant.

Last to lose their early sprightliness are the principals, for, after all, the spotlight is always upon them, and it is instinct with an actor to put up a good front. But even the stars sometimes go flat. I dropped in on "Follow the Girls" a few nights ago, and found that, after nearly four months of being the show's head lady, Gertrude Niesen was just walking thru. On the other hand, a visit to "One Touch of Venus," my fourth, showed Mary Martin giving every bit as careful and artful a performance as she did the first night, Oct. 7, 1943. In the best sense of the term, Miss Martin is stage struck; she loves it. Her singing of "That's Him," all alone on the stage on a straight backed chair, is a performance whose style and finish are perfection.

A play script is a carefully tailored, minutely directed affair, and actors have a tendency to stick close to it. When they do wander from it, or stray from the original direction, the wise producer calls the characters in for a refresher course. A musical comedy script—unless it is an "Of Thee I Sing"—is fairly loose and offers actors, who think they know more than the writers, plenty of chance to ad lib, so before you know it they are ad libbing all over the place.

For every good interpolated line—like W. C. Field's famous "They don't build these houses the way they used to"—there are a hundred bad ones which slow up a show. Most music show producers don't seem to care, and they should. They all should be as meticulous as George S. Kaufman, who directed his extravaganzas to the utmost detail and then, haunting the theater each week, made sure nobody started any monkey business. Kaufman won't let an actor change a word or a move. In the department of serious drama, Herman Shumlin is equally strict.

On holiday near the Canadian border in Maine, far from all theaters, I went on a picnic on some cliffs above a surf churned coast. There, as if it were a part of a specially presented spectacle, was a whale, plunging majestically within pistol shot of our frankfurter fire. It was the first live, free whale I'd ever seen, and it was fascinating to see and hear it blow. I thought how fine it would be to be a whale and a drama critic, too, for one could say "Phooey!" with such spectacular authority.

Scenic designers have begun a campaign to get royalties, and I'm for it. All authors and composers, and most directors, get percentages of the gross which provide fine weekly incomes, but the men who design the settings never do. They are paid flat fees, and surprisingly small ones [which is why men like Norman Bel Geddes, Henry Dreyfus, and Lee Simonson come to prefer the solid business of streamlining refrigerators, butchers' scales, locomotives, and telephone pole insulators]. It is reported that last season's top designing fee on Broadway was $4,500, a small figure when you think a hit may play to $1,000,000 or more.

Settings are indispensable in the theater ["Our Town" was excellent, but one play without scenery per year is plenty], and good sets heighten the drama or the comedy. "The Voice of the Turtle" wouldn't be the slick job it is without Stewart Chaney's beautiful and witty apartment setting. "Chicken Every Sunday" would be much less funny without Howard Bay's hilarious masterpiece of bad taste, the Tucson, Ariz., boarding house.

A good quarter of the success of "Angel Street" should be attributed to the brooding living room of Lemuel Ayers and the lighting of it by Feder. The importance of decor in a musical show is obvious, and it need not be lavish. Ayers' backgrounds for "Oklahoma!" are perfection, yet they cost comparative peanuts.

So, I believe the artists are right in wanting more than flat fees.

Notes of Music and Musicians

By Albert Goldberg

The final three weeks of concerts at the Grant park band shell bring the Chicago Symphony orchestra for three programs each week. Three conductors will share directorial duties: Fabien Sevitzky of the Indianapolis Symphony this week, Erno Rapee of Radio City Music hall next week, and Désiré Defauw, beginning Aug. 23.

Mr. Sevitzky will cling to his announced policy of playing a composition by an American composer on each of his programs. Two of the three Poems on traditional Aramaic themes by Harl McDonald, manager of the Philadelphia orchestra—originally played here by the Illinois Symphony orchestra—will be heard on Wednesday night; the First Overture of the Evanston composer, Gardner Read, now a resident of Kansas City, will be given its first local performance on Friday night; and an aria for string orchestra by Arthur Foote, also described as a first Chicago performance, will be played on Sunday night. A seminovelty on the last mentioned program will be another work by an American composer, Dubensky's "Stephen Foster," played here by Mr. Sevitzky and the Indianapolis Symphony in 1942. The major symphonic works of Mr. Sevitzky's programs will be Brahms' First symphony on Wednesday, Kalinnikoff's Symphony in G minor on Friday, and Grieg's second "Peer Gynt" suite next Sunday.

Rose Bampton, Metropolitan Opera soprano, whose scheduled appearance as soloist on July 26 was interrupted by rain after she had sung her opening aria, will return on Wednesday night, when she will be heard in another aria, "Il est doux, il est bon" from Massenet's Herodiade" and the group of songs left unsung on the earlier occasion.

Carroll Glenn, young American violinist, who has been heard here in three previous appearances with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will play the Mendelssohn concerto on Friday night.

The W-G-N Chicago Theater of the Air's Saturday night production will be a "Herbertiana Festival," a Victor Herbert memorial with a dramatization of that composer's life and excerpts from his music and that of his contemporaries. The W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus with Henry Weber conducting will participate, and the soloists will be Virginia Haskins, soprano; Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and Bruce Foote, baritone.

The 344th ASF band of Fort Sheridan, conducted by Warrant Officer J. B. Hosmer and Sgt. Norman Stone, and the Fort Sheridan Dance orchestra under Sgt. Carmen Dello, again will give the Tuesday night program. Pvts. Bob Eberly and Buddy Clark will be the soloists.

The navy "Happy Hour" concert on Thursday night will differ from preceding offerings of the Great Lakes contingent in that the entire second half of the program will be presented by members of Negro regiments from Camp Robert Small. The "A" Swing band will play under Len Bowden, an octet and quartet will sing Negro spirituals, and "Kokomo" Wellington will play boogie-woogie on the piano. The first half of the program will be given by the military band, concert and broadcast orchestras, and John Carter, tenor, will sing the Dream from Massenet's "Manon" and Rossini's "La Danza."

Guest organists who will appear in recitals in Rockefeller Memorial chapel, University of Chicago, during August include Russell Hayton, Great Lakes Naval Training station, tonight at 7; Roxanne Breen, of the chapel staff, Aug. 9; Porter Heaps, Aug. 13; Irene Pierson, Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church, Aug. 16; Fred Cronheimer, St. Paul's Episcopal church, Aug. 20; Gerhardt Becker, Nazareth Lutheran church, Aug. 23; Mary Gwin, St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, Aug. 27; Abba Leifer, Temple Mizpah, Aug. 30. Organ recitals are held on Sunday and Wednesday at 7. In addition, Frederick Marriott will perform on the chapel carillon on Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at 8. Both organ and carillon recitals are open to the public without charge.

• • •

Henrietta Chase, soprano, and Hans Alten, baritone, will give a benefit recital for the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee tonight at the Barnum theater at Michiana Shores.

• • •

Arturo Toscanini is reported planning a Beethoven festival for six or eight of his broadcast concerts with the NBC Symphony orchestra next season. Preliminary plans call for a concert version of Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio," to occupy two broadcast periods. Chicago also will have its Beethoven festival next year when the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Désiré Defauw plays all the symphonies as well as other works, concluding the season with the Ninth, sung by a chorus of children's voices from the public schools.

Joseph Szigeti has completed scenes for the forthcoming Warner Brothers film, "Hollywood Canteen," in which he plays Tschaikowsky's "Valse Sentimentale" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" as well as Drdla's "Souvenir" in duet form with Jack Benny.

Beards Give History New Technique

"THE BEARDS' BASIC HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES," by Charles and Mary Beard. [New Home Library, 69 cents.]

Reviewed by Tremaine McDowell.

Mary Ritter was born in Indiana in 1876; Charles Beard in 1874. She was graduated from DePauw university in 1897; he in 1898. In 1900 they married. More than 30 years ago they began collaborating on studies in American history and political science. In 1929 they gave the public a new conception of history with their masterpiece, "The Rise of American Civilization." Now comes their valedictory, a "newly designed and newly written volume" on the "fundamental activities, ideas, and interests which have entered into the development of American society."

Charles A. Beard.

The Beards [or their publishers] decided that for the patrons of the New Home Library they should provide not only the illuminating commentaries on social, economic, political, and intellectual trends for which the two authors are already famous, but a conventional narrative of public events, such as old style historians rely on exclusively.

• • •

Unfortunately the Beards get off to a slow start with several pages of dull, factual chronicle. They soon hit their stride, however, and thereafter the parallel threads of narrative and commentary move smoothly onward. Eventually the authors succeed in fusing events and interpretation in a novel and uncommonly effective variety of historical writing.

Assessing the profit and loss in this change of method from "The Rise of American Civilization," the reviewer concludes that the sustained continuity and momentum of the new technique will compensate, at least in the mind of the general reader, for the decrease in interpretive comment.

When the authors describe this volume as the final expression of 'the critical judgment which we have reached after more than 40 years," they invite comparison with their earlier utterances. In 1944 they give due emphasis to economic considerations, but notably less than in their early years. They are more sympathetic toward the Constitution and its framers. They are more impressed by the republican elements in our history —and in emphasizing the republic they encourage the erroneous impression that democracy did not emerge until well along in the 19th century.

Mary R. Beard.

It is true, as they point out, that the word "democratic" was long feared and dreaded. The fact is, however, that at the same time democratic principles were making themselves felt in politics and even in religion [for further details see "The Rise of American Civilization"].

For citizens wearied by the antics of professional politicians, the most heartening pages in the book are those which remind us how brave, new ideas were first proposed by Populists, Progressives, and Socialists, were then hooted down by the other parties, were eventually made the law of the land by one or another of those same parties, and are now accepted as a matter of course.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

BOB CROWELL, president and editor of the Thomas Y. Crowell company, came to town last week to sing the praises of the forthcoming book by Lt. Tom Harmon, who is already becoming a legendary figure among the football heroes of the middle west. . . . As previously set forth in this column, Lt. Harmon's autobiography tells of his career at the University of Michigan and with the army air forces. . . . The publisher insists that the lieutenant did all his own writing, without the help of a ghost. . . . The book, entitled "Pilots Also Pray," will be out in October. . . . Mr. Crowell said that some day somebody would write the remarkable story of how the manuscript of Lillian Smith's "Strange Fruit" was peddled all over New York, and turned down by publisher after publisher, before it was accepted by Reynal & Hitchcock. . . . Six months after publication it is still a nation-wide best seller.

• • •

This note comes from Richard Walsh Jr., editor of the John Day company: "We have sent off THE TRIBUNE'S review copy of 'No Bright Banner,' a novel by Michael de Capite, who attracted a good deal of critical attention with his first novel, 'Maria,' a couple of years ago. Publication of the new one will be on Aug. 24. I write to you, especially, about it because De Capite worked for the City News Bureau of Chicago for a period, and Chicago figures a good deal in the scene of his latest novel." . . . Word reaches us that Paul Engle will leave his professorship in the English department at the University of Iowa some time this fall for a temporary assignment overseas. . . . The young poet and book reviewer is spending the summer at Stone City, Ia.

• • •

Last Sunday this column referred to the inspiring message by Malcolm Johnson, president of the Book Publishers' Bureau, Inc., regarding the essentiality of books in war time, but we failed to tell where copies of the statement could be obtained. . . . We realized our error of omission as soon as the phone began ringing Monday morning. . . . In answer to all the requests: Write the bureau's executive secretary, Stanley P. Hunnewell, at 347 Fifth avenue, New York 16. . . . We haven't any official word to that effect, but we surmise that Mr. Hunnewell will be glad to furnish copies of Mr. Johnson's message [reprinted in this section July 30] and of the booklet, "Books Are Indispensable in War as in Peace," to libraries, schools, and other public institutions.

• • •

We spent an hour the other night trying to convince Victor Borge that he should write a book embodying his wisecracks, along with his experiences in this country and abroad. . . . Just in case you haven't heard him on the radio, or in the Empire room at the Palmer House, you are hereby informed that Mr. Borge has the funniest line of chatter that has hit the amusement world since Will Rogers began swinging his lariat and uttering his homely Americanisms. . . . The Danish comedian's "phonetic punctuation" and his travesties on Shakespeare and the Russian novelists are, as Will Davidson has pointed out, something that "shouldn't happen to a doggerel." . . . He told us he already had been approached by a magazine editor for an article, but that he wished to master the English language before branching out as an author. . . . In our not-too-humble opinion, he already can run rings around most of us who think we know something about English. . . . We pass on this tip, gratis, to the book publishers: Come to Chicago, listen in at the Empire room, and then force Mr. Borge to sign on the dotted line.

This Shows Idealism of New China

"CHINA LOOKS FORWARD," by Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan of China; Introduction by Lin Yutang. [John Day, $3].

Reviewed by Philo M. Buck Jr.

The book is a series of addresses delivered during the last four years on the war and peace aims of China. It deserves and will receive careful reading by all thoughtful Americans. For the author is the son of the man who is both the George Washington and Thomas Jefferson of modern China, Dr. Sun Yat-sen. He himself is one of the leaders in the enterprise. And the addresses themselves were delivered to responsible Chinese audiences. They were not designed as propaganda beamed to allied friends to hasten the day of China's freedom. They deserve careful study.

They are by an idealist, in the tradition, for Confucius was an idealist. So was Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Idealism inspired the Chinese revolution of 1911. In these speeches we have a measure and assessment of these ideals. They are being tried in the present war. They will inspire China's actions in the coming peace. "It is true that to the Chinese people the demands of war seem unending, but they still are ready to gird up their loins and endure additional privations and suffering, so long as they are necessary for the final and speedy victory."

What are these ideals? They were given form by the founder of modern China in the San-Min-Chu-I, a program for victory in revolution and peace. These are nationalism, a self-respecting and respected China; democracy, the political rights of all the people; economic welfare, freedom from want. And the proposed constitution of the New China, drafted with the aid of the author, is to be its warrant.

That the present government of China, the Kuomintang and its president and generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, have accepted the program is evidenced by the promise that one year after peace is secured a national constitutional assembly is to be convoked.

This Is Full of Humor Found in Everyday Living

"OUT ON A LIMBO," by Claire MacMurray. [Lippincott, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Maureen Daly.

"Out on a Limbo" is a choice collection of homespun pep talks, human interest stories, morale builders and delightful anecdotes about a trio of boys named Dave, Stu, and Dick. Most of the sketches appeared originally as newspaper features and reappear in book form simply because they are read-again material. The humor is persuasive, subtle, and affectionate, and the characters are a combination of real life people and kindly caricature.

Typical of the tone of the book is a sketch on "literary airs" which contains the story about an old cook from the deep South who couldn't read at all but planned to buy herself a pair of spectacles anyway. "My sister-in-law in Alabama," she explains, "she can't read no more'n I can, so she don't need spectacles no more'n a rabbit does. She jus wears them to be henkty. So if I live and nothin' happens, I'm goin' t' get me a clip-on pair with a real gold chain. No Alabama woman's goin' to out-henkty me!"

There are a lot of laughs in everyday living and there is a lot of everyday living in "Out on a Limbo."

Lovely, Sad Story of a Girl's Grief

"THE UNREADY HEART," by Richard Sherman. [Little, Brown, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

Probably there is such a thing as finding oneself while the world crashes into bits, altho individual problems seem too pitifully small to be of consequence. Nevertheless a story like this one, which tells with tender sympathy how one woman tried to side-step the experiences of the wives, the sweethearts, the mothers of today, is a timely thing. It fits into the philosophy of life which we all must adopt, if we are to survive—the philosophy of backing the attack, and those who make it, even tho one's heart is breaking. Back it with courage, with hard work, with everything you've got. Even tho the hope and joy and laughter is gone with his going, keep your chin up and help do the job.

Richard Sherman.

Barbara Loomis, a beautiful English girl, tried not to become emotionally involved, as were so many of her friends. She wouldn't fall in love with a fighting man, she told herself. She would remain aloof from all that. And just in time — just before he went on his mission —she knew she was wrong, and she married him, and in four hours he left her.

• • •

The government report read "missing in action." And it left her wondering whether she could ever smile again, and then, in a little while, she knew that she could, for the sake of all the others, and that work lay ahead of her, if she was to fulfill her unspoken promise.

And at the end of this lovely, sad little story, whose undercurrent is a courage greater than grief, Barbara Loomis is a real person, and he would have been proud of her fortitude and her capacity for sacrifice.

Whether it's war or whether it's everyday living, all experience which molds a person's soul into something of finer, braver stuff has about it the quality of immortality. If you have some one offering his life for his country, the tender, beautiful plot of this novel will stay with you forever. For each person faced with loss knows what it is to travel the dark road that leads finally into that place, magnificent with the dignity of grief, where others too have learned the meaning of bravery.

• • •

Richard Sherman, who wrote "To Mary, With Love" some years ago, is an artist, and the humor, the delicacy, the understanding with which he tells his story — and it is no doubt an eyewitness story, for it was written in England where his unit was stationed — makes it a memorable experience.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake.

ENTRY.	PERFORMANCE.	PAYOFF.
"THE CORPSE WITHOUT A CLUE," by R. A. J. Walling. [Morrow, $2.]	A man who left no clews about himself died of poison at Button's hotel. Only by fitting into place other incidents of that same night was Tolefree able to link that death with a villainous scandal of the orient.	Here is most skilful weaving together of most delicate strands, to work out the pattern of an almost insoluble murder. Sharp characterization vitalizes tediously plotted story of stellar deduction.
"DEATH DROPS DELILAH," by Queena Mario. [Dutton, $2.]	Summer opera school turned into bedlam of murder because Nazi spies are plying daughters of armament manufacturers for secrets. Invalided marine does amateur solving, along with promoting romance.	Various persons narrate parts of this tale, each one more loquacious than the other. Flimsy plot, stuffed characters, and feeble staging of action scenes prevent puzzle from arousing excitement or interest.
"THE KNIFE WILL FALL," by Marten Cumberland. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.]	Mass killer in pre-war Paris, in program of vengeance, ties his crimes together by sending each victim advance notice on a playing card. Commissaire Dax of the Surete, works tirelessly and brilliantly to solve case.	First grade detective fiction cleverly developed and excellently written. Smooth characterization of French detective skilled in sharp witted technique. Wholly fascinating if you like an intricate crime puzzle and a keen solution.
"TALES OF EDGAR ALLAN POE," with introduction by Hervey Allen. [Random House, $3.95.]	From "The Gold Bug" to "The Black Cat," with 25 tales between, filling 562 pages impressively illustrated with wood engravings of Fritz Eichenberg.	A competently collected, attractively produced, boxed volume that will recommend itself to many book shelves. Tales which, as Hervey Allen writes, "still register powerfully."

Novelist's Wife Heroine of Tale That Won't Jell

"JOANNA," by Helen Ashton. [Samuel Curl, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edw. Wagenknecht.

When a novelist writes a novel about a novelist who is writing a novel, a painful state of introspection may well be indicated. When the novelist portrayed turns out [as he often does!], a frightful bounder, there may be an uneasy conscience involved. But not in Miss Ashton's case, for her novelist is a man, and her story is principally about his wife.

Helen Ashton.

There is some difficulty, indeed, in telling just what the story is about. The book opens with the flight of Joanna and Adrian, together with Adrian's Brazilian mistress, across Europe, just after the fall of France; next comes a picture of life in the English Midlands, where Joanna establishes herself, while the blitz is at its worst, after her husband's departure for America.

We turn next to her futile and painful effort to prevent her aviator son from marrying a girl of whom she disapproves, and finally we get the delicate suggestion that romance may be coming to dear Joanna herself once more with the heroic and melancholy French ace, M. d'Argentassiere.

Miss Ashton has some excellent work to her credit; the first part, at least, of "The Swan of Usk," her novel about Vaughan, is as fine a piece of biographical fiction as we have had in our time. In "Joanna," however, she has missed the boat. Separate scenes and characters are as vivid as ever, but the mixture won't jell. Apparently she failed to make up her mind just what kind of novel she wanted to write.

Pitkin Life Is a Lively Chronicle

"ON MY OWN," by Walter B. Pitkin. [Scribner's, $3.50.]

Reviewed by Arno L. Bader.

For years Walter Pitkin has been telling us "how"—how to be happy, how to write short stories, how to make the most of our energy, how to begin life at 40—and now he tells us how he himself did all these things. "On My Own" is the best of his "how" books. It is also the liveliest, most readable autobiography to appear in many a moon.

Walter B. Pitkin.

Young Pitkin grew up in a mixed foreign community in pre-Ford Detroit, attended the University of Michigan, spent five years in Europe, and in 1905 joined the faculty of Columbia university, where he remained for 38 years. This is the background. In the foreground is the portrait of an individual.

• • •

Tremendous energy, broad interests, gusto, and optimism characterize the man. While lecturing at Columbia he ran a 100 acre farm, worked on various New York newspapers, and turned out a stream of magazine articles and books. His comments on people and places are fresh, sharp edged, and critical. From Woodrow Wilson to New York gangsters, from the backwaters of Detroit to the gilded offices of Hollywood, he keeps up a running fire of characterization, anecdote, and shrewd evaluation that is vastly entertaining.

• • •

He is a practical man, a hard driving realist, a lover of facts, and a hater of abstractions who has often called the turn of the wheel. He was air minded back in 1911. He wrote the first book on the talkies when the silent films still rode high. In 1921 he predicted the war with Japan.

At 66 he is by no means finished. "I am a forward looker and a forward mover," he says, and he ends his autobiography with a prophecy of a new world to rise from the ashes of the old.

Phil Regan, Irish Balladeer, is Mayfair Room Star

New Dance Duo Shares Honors at Blackstone

By Will Davidson.

They're getting their Phil of Irish songs in the Mayfair room these nights. Phil Regan can hardly get off the floor unless he goes down the list of shamrock tunes, in addition to his other numbers.

Les Crosley.

The Blackstone hotel knows a good act when it sees one and Grandpappy Regan [Faith an' he's the youngest old codger you ever saw—him bein' 16 when he was married] is very definitely a good act. You've seen him at the Chez and you've seen him at the theater. You may have seen him at the Democratic convention. But until you've seen him in the intimate confines of the Mayfair room you really haven't had a good look at him.

Phil is young and handsome, and he's genuine. His almost boyish charm is effective because it is sincere. He has no real act—no staged gymnastics, no trick microphones, no corsages for the ladies. He doesn't even bother much with special arrangements. He just tilts his head back a little and sings, and you bless him for it.

Phil is sharing honors with a lively and unusual dance team, Pierre D'Angelo and Vanya. Their routines are sharp and colorful and a lot of fun to watch. What sets this team apart most distinctly is Vanya's costuming. She dances in a beautifully tailored suit, a perky hat. The effect is very good indeed. Something like a windy day on Michigan av.

Mr. D'Angelo looks very much like George Tapps and he has a great deal of George's sinuous grace. Unfortunately he gives the impression that he is highly impressed with the splendor of his art. I say unfortunately, for they tell me he is a very fine fellow. There is no question about his dancing ability.

Bill Snyder gives his usual fine performance on the bandstand during this show, and during the dance sets, too.

If you can remember back to the Bon Air days when Enric Madriguera's orchestra was playing at that country cafe you will remember Enric's blonde singer, Patricia Gilmore. You might not recognize her if you walked into the Camellia House of the Drake hotel one of these nights, for Patricia has matured into an even more beautiful young woman than before.

She is, of course, Mrs. Madriguera and she has been singing all these years with Enric's band. But the Camellia House engagement is one of her rare club dates. It all happened pretty suddenly so only now are they getting her best material into the show, for there were no arrangements ready for a small band.

JERRY WALD

Jerry Wald returns to the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman Friday for a month's run. He features the singing of Ginny Powell.
[Bruno of Hollywood Photo.]

Patricia has two superb qualifications for club work, beauty and a stunning wardrobe. She is a very pleasant singer, even tho her voice is on the fragile side, for she knows just what to do with it, and is wise enough not to demand too much of it. Her version of "I Want to Get Married" is grand fun, and her other numbers are done in a very charming way. Blessed with poise, she overcomes nicely any strange feeling she may have in the intimate atmosphere of a room like Camellia House.

Les Crosley gives Miss Gilmore an excellent musical background, and with special arrangements on hand will be even better. The Crosley music is proving very popular in this room.

Dorothy Hild has gotten off to a very fine start at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Enlarging her line, she has added new beauty to some of her handsome routines—the Indian phantasy, the Undersea Ballet, and others of happy memory. The Beachwalk is a very large arena for cafe entertainment but Miss Hild fills it admirably with her line and her impeccably rehearsed routines.

Richard Gordon, who has been a favorite among Beach patrons for a long time, has been starring in the Beach Walk revues and handling the introductions with his usual good taste. The Beach would do well to retain him as a long term star. There is a new show there now, but at this writing the lineup had not been released for publication.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Friday is the night Jerry Wald returns to the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman. Jerry will be followed in September by Gene Krupa and his new band, and Gene will give way in October to Les Brown. . . . Carl Brisson returns to the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel on Aug. 25.

Pat Willis has a week or so to go before she will complete a solid year in the Balinese room. You should hear her and Ralph Spreter of Bill Bennett's mustachioed band do a duet on "Is You Is or Is You Ain't My Baby?" . . . Jerry Lester is booked into the Rio Cabana for Friday night—a six week stint.

Yes, that's George Sotos in the white coat of a Pump room captain. The handsome waiter with the voice that should be exploited by some one was promoted recently. It couldn't happen to a nicer room. . . . The Yar patrons will miss George Scherban's violin for a month while he's fishing in the east. That's the trouble with George. Yar today and gone tomorrow.

Notes of the Theater

Leland Hayward, the Broadway and Hollywood agent who is Margaret Sullavan's husband, plans to produce a dramatization of John Hersey's "A Bell for Adano" despite the fact that 20th Century-Fox has bought the screen rights for $100,000. Ordinarily, a book is dramatized first, then made into a picture, with the picture rights a large part of the profit pool, if any. "Rebecca" reversed the policy with reasonable success, but it had a hard time finding backers. Many angels refuse to spread their wings once the Hollywood pot of gold has vanished.

George Baehr, who plays Pvt. Earhart in the Harris' "Kiss and Tell," now just wears khaki on the stage, but he spent three years wearing it in the army and had won a sergeant's stripes before he received a medical discharge. A native of New Jersey, Mr. Baehr appeared in high school and college plays, then in a series of summer theaters. A part of his army time was spent in the special service branch, entertaining fellow soldiers at Camp Lee, Va. One of the productions was that celebrated performance of Claire Luce's "The Women," with a male cast, which netted $200,000 in war bond sales. Mr. Baehr played the predatory Crystal.

"Life with Father," may be around again. Carl Benton Reid and Betty Linley start playing papa and mamma in Boston Aug. 28, with a transcontinental tour in prospect, involving many return engagements.

• • •

Patricia Hitchcock, daughter of the rotund Alfred, who recently lost 90 or so pounds on doctor's orders, will go into rehearsal in the dramatization of the "Violet" stories toward the end of the month. "Violet" is Whitfield Cook's shell rimmed version of the terrible child.

• • •

John Van Druten is going to be a busy man—with our troupe of "The Voice of the Turtle" to direct, New York's to put back in shape after its holiday, and his brand new dramatization of Kathryn Forbes' "Mamma's Bank Account" to get ready for New Haven try-out in late September. Mady Christians, who will play mamma, recently appeared in a summer theater production of "Papa Is All." It sounds like perfect casting.

20 YEARS OF A LIFE WERE DEVOTED TO A VEGETABLE!
Many years ago an unknown Chinese 'Burbank' spent a lifetime creating a species of broccoli that ALWAYS STAYS YOUNG AND GREEN. Now grown here, this delicious vegetable is basic in many Chinese dishes. Its distinguished flavor and tenderness are due to the fact that it NEVER GROWS UP!

College Group Formulates Plan to Aid Future Teachers

By the Rev. John Evans.

A doctorate in philosophy does not prove its possessor a good teacher in his specialty. He may be a good research scholar or excellent in his scientific or other investigations. But he might not possess that gift of a quickening spirit that helps to make a good teacher nor have the necessary specialized training in the art of teaching.

All these things, together with probable post-war shortages of teachers for colleges and universities, have not only been discussed but, under a subcommittee of the Association of American Colleges' commission on liberal education, corrective procedures are now being shaped. This subcommittee framed a plan at Williamstown, Mass., which has been announced by its chairman, Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn. The plan will be presented to the association at its January meeting.

The plan is not complicated, but merely asks college and university presidents, deans, and department chairmen to scan their junior classes for likely candidates who seem to have the characteristic qualities of good teachers and who possess outstanding scholastic records as well. The candidates will be given recognition of a sort that only the ancient Greeks had a word for. Kudos is the word, and it means praise or scholastic credit without any immediate material reward.

Following completion of undergraduate work, direct advantage of the kudos will appear in the student's recognition by the Association of American Colleges. In one way or another, a year of graduate studies in his field of interest will be provided, possibly aided by the association if necessary.

"The study of letters is the nourishment of our youth and the joy of our old age." —CICERO.

BOOKS ALIVE

-by Vincent Starrett

ADMIRERS of George Bernard Shaw, perhaps the most illustrious living man of letters, will want to acquire and keep the Saturday Review of Literature dated July 22, which is almost wholly given over to a celebration of this unique personality. Among the many excellent contributions, the most relevant and pungent, I think, is James Montgomery Flagg's caricature illustrating the sprightly old gentleman's message to posterity [at least to contemporary posterity]—a somewhat satanic figure with thumb and fingers wriggling at the end of its nose.

Shaw reached his 88th chapter of life on July 26. It is a little difficult to think of so youthful a man as 88 years old, but it is a mathematical truth if not an intellectual one. For most of those years he has been an enigma to the public and, for that matter, to the critics. The key to him may be found in his own words; "My method," he once said, "is to take the utmost trouble to find the right thing to say, and then to say it with the utmost levity."

And on another occasion: "Once, at Westminster Bridge underground station, I slipped at the top of the stairs and shot down the whole flight on my back, to the horror of the bystanders. But when I rose without surprise and walked on as if that were my usual way of negotiating a flight of steps, they burst into an irresistible shriek of laughter."

There is a flavor of parable about that—and what a sinister epitome of mankind!

Parental Censorship.

Some months ago I quoted a paragraph from Marie Belloc Lowndes' delightful autobiography, "Where Love and Friendship Dwelt" [Dodd, Mead], on the subject of parental censorship. Her mother, surprisingly, allowed her read any work in French except Rousseau's "New Heloise" and Dumas' "Three Musketeers." In E. E. Kellett's "Ex Libris: Confessions of a Constant Reader" [unpublished in this country, I think] the noted Cambridge scholar reveals a similar amusing incident of his youth. He was permitted to roam and read at will in his father's library, a heterogeneous collection of some 2,000 books, except for one veto. "You may read anything you will and can," said the elder Kellett, "except Byron's 'Don Juan.'" And, altho the poem was bound up with the rest of Byron, the boy waited until his teens were past to read it.

I thought of both those paragraphs, the other day, when I read that the widow of Frank James, the Missouri outlaw [brother of the more notorious Jesse], was dead at Excelsior Springs. It was "The James Boys in Missouri," or some such title, that was firmly taken from my infant grasp by a tall, dark woman some 50 years ago, and burned in the kitchen stove. Later I found my father looking around for the book, peeking furtively under sofa pillows, and realized, with a happy sense of shared sin, that he, too, had been reading the forbidden masterpiece.

Bibliophiles Disagree.

Earl E. Fisk, the Green Bay bibliophile and man of feeling, who is a Beerbohm specialist of stature, writes of A. E. Gallatin's "Sir Max Beerbohm: Bibliographical Notes" [Harvard], mentioned recently in this department, that, while it is undoubtedly a valuable and interesting contribution to bibliography, nevertheless it is "full of inaccuracies and inconsistencies." These he lists at scholarly length, and I hope he is sending a carbon of his findings to Mr. Gallatin. He appears, in nonbibliographical language, to have the "goods" on his fellow Maxolater in various matters of technical, but sentimental, interest; I should like to see any correspondence that occurs between them. In any case, Beerbohm collectors will want to acquire the Gallatin opus for its "first edition" status. A number of important notes and sketches by the "incomparable Max" occur in the volume for the first time.

Another Murdered Poet.

In the absence of Charles Collins, I will poach a little on his preserves and announce the discovery of another "assassinated poet." He was Lasse Johansson, called Lucidor the Unhappy, and he was perhaps Sweden's first professional poet. His dates are 1638-'74. He attended Uppsala university, traveled and studied abroad, then settled in Stockholm and consolidated his reputation. After a time he wrote a bridal poem which offended a nobleman of high rank, and was banished for a year. Returning to Stockholm, he was slain by a Lt. Storm, following a quarrel in a tavern. I don't know what the quarrel was about, but there are the outlines of a good story in the brief biography, which was sent me by Martin Engberg. Lasse Lucidor wrote a number of hymns that are still to be found in the Swedish Lutheran hymnal, but otherwise, Mr. Engberg writes, his life was a bit on the loose side.

Lincoln a Detective Fan.

Was Lincoln a detective story fan? Howard Haycraft raises the question in his "Murder for Pleasure: The Life and Times of the Detective Story" [Appleton-Century], and answers it to his own satisfaction. His authority is in the 1860 "campaign biography" of the Great Emancipator, written by William Dean Howells.

"The bent of his mind," said Howells, "is mathematical and metaphysical, and he is therefore pleased with the absolute and logical method of Poe's tales and sketches, in which the problem of mystery is given, and wrought out into everyday facts by processes of cunning analysis. It is said that he suffers no year to pass without a perusal of this author."

That paragraph, Haycraft believes, serves to establish Lincoln as "the first of the countless eminent men who have turned to the detective story for stimulation and solace."

Elaborating this thesis, in "The Private Papers of a Bibliomaniac" [privately printed], Charles Honce of the Associated Press observes that Lincoln necessarily had to turn to Poe's tales, since there was virtually nothing else available in the detective story line at that time.

The subject is interesting and is an aspect of Lincoln that apparently has not previously been discussed.

Who Wants to Be a Worm?

"Let me live and die among books," cried the late Dr. Frank Crane, syndicated philosopher, in "The Ravings of a Book Lover," and to that extent one is with him. But he concludes: "And when I die let my transmigration be next into a little worm that feeds upon an Elzevir."

Or would you rather be a fish?

History Reveals Military Neglect

"A SHORT HISTORY OF THE ARMY AND NAVY," by Fletcher Pratt. [Infantry Journal-Penguin, 25 cents.]

In a sense, American history is the story of wars punctuated by peaceful periods during which the military establishment suffered from rankest neglect. Historian Fletcher Pratt dwells heavily on this shortsightedness in a concise [262 page] study of our wars written especially for the Penguin series. Deliberately, the chronicle ends with World War I. By devoting 120 of his pages to the Civil war, Pratt drives home the point that, up until this one, our greatest war was the one we fought with ourselves. The book has 24 maps.

THOUGHTS AND DEEDS OF MEN ON A BOMBER

Their Lives Interpreted Poetically

"VALLEY OF THE SKY," by Hobert Douglas Skidmore. [Houghton Mifflin, $2.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

There have been novels before "Valley of the Sky" which pictured the life—and sometimes the thoughts—of the members of a bomber crew. John Steinbeck wrote one of the most vivid of them in "Bombs Away." That was a picture of the training of a crew, of the boys in the crew, of their individual and collective lives before they went into combat.

James Aldridge's "Signed with Their Honour" was a record, told in the idiom of the flyers themselves, of the R. A. F. in Greece and Libya, and also a memorable book. There undoubtedly will be countless others.

But this first novel has something so distinctly its own, translates action so vividly into contemplation, that, whatever has gone before or comes after it, "Valley of the Sky" will be one of the memorable novels of high combat.

• • •

Night falls as 10 men in a Liberator leave San Francisco bay for the South Pacific as the book opens. As it ends, the Harpie is winging its way into that night which is eternal as "into the shaft of cerulean light the Harpie climbed easily, moving unhindered like some great homing bird." The final serenity and peace has come to the weary men.

Among them there has been from the beginning a strangely powerful serenity, and the peace of tacit oneness. Jerry, their captain, himself wakes his exhausted men the morning of their last mission, refusing the offer of a corporal to get them all up on time.

"You couldn't tell him why. You couldn't explain that you lived as a unit now, an isolated group of fellows who had been shoved forward in existence, detached and no longer familiar with those about you."

Wattsy was the new co-pilot, whose father and mother had been killed the day before he was graduated as a pilot. "I wish Jerry and the boys would like me," he thought sincerely, "for they are my family now."

Of Mike, the top turret gunner, and his fellows, who flew into battle in "the unhindered heavens," the author says: "He and the others knew a solitary communion here that made all things that filled a man's life trivial and transient."

Each of them thought often of home or of love, or of both; Mike of his cocker spaniel, Ginger; Johnny, the waist gunner, of the Hawaiian girl who had taken him to church with her. It was true of all of them, as it was of one, that he had always "wanted to see things, but, once he was outside of America, the things he wanted to see and be with were apparently back where he had come from."

• • •

But do not be misled, by the brilliance and beauty with which Mr. Skidmore charts the emotions of his characters, into thinking that "Valley of the Sky" is wholly contemplative. It is filled with action, vividly described. "The ack-ack was bursting so thick that it looked like water flicked onto the clear surface of hot grease; it popped and spread endlessly."

In its pages men talk not often or at length, but with an impelling reality of both words and thought. The author has managed to write an intensely interpretive, often poetic book of vivid realism.

Ben Cohen's sketch of Hobert Douglas Skidmore, author of "Valley of the Sky," a first novel which Fanny Butcher reviews today.

Realistic and Continuous Foreign Policy Is Needed

"THE ROAD TO FOREIGN POLICY," by Hugh Gibson. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Avery Craven.

After years spent in diplomatic service, Hugh Gibson has some very positive ideas as to what is wrong with the American foreign policy and what ought to be done about it. He thinks it ought to be realistic and continuous, but that it is neither. He is positive that we cannot go on blundering from administration to administration without some effort to find and state broad, national objectives that are to be pursued regardless of the party in power. He is just as certain that we can never play our part in building a better world unless we can think more than four years ahead.

"The essential purpose" of any realistic foreign policy, says Mr. Gibson, "is to enable us to take care of our own interests in relation with the rest of the world." That requires a clear knowledge of just what American interests are, the military strength to back our demands, and a trained and experienced diplomatic corps to secure every advantage with a minimum of friction.

• • •

We need to collaborate with others whose interests we respect and who will respect ours in turn. We must be rid of amateurs in diplomacy and the public attitudes which put them there. Nothing has hurt us more in our foreign relations than our lack of respect for the diplomat, his methods, and his achievements. We have suffered endlessly from the loose talk and the high sounding but impractical phrases poured out at various conferences by our nonprofessional spokesmen.

Hugh Gibson.

We are cursed by the false ideas we have formed about "the sanctity of treaties," the evils of "secret diplomacy," and the call for "American leadership in the world." We need to know more about ourselves and others and to get rid of both our ill-formed infatuations for certain countries and our unrational antipathies for others.

• • •

Such an intellectual revolution should be accompanied by an effort to coördinate all the government agencies interested in foreign affairs and by the creation of a great council on national defense, which would consist of representatives of the state department, the senate, the treasury, the navy, and war departments. By such a council a realistic and continuous policy, formed after long and careful study by experts, could be developed for each separate phase of our problems and then fitted into a larger general program of action. Then we might retain national dignity and contribute also to world peace.

This is a blunt and honest work by one whose opinion is worthy of respect. It has enough of partisan flavor to be interesting and enough of vigorous punch to provoke some uncomfortable thinking.

New Steinbeck Book Is in Genre of "Tortilla Flat"

By Harry Hansen.

New York.

THAT versatile young writer, John Steinbeck, who writes plays, novels, short stories, and reports marine expeditions and military training equally well, is in New York with his family finishing a new novel to be called "Cannery Row." This will deal with the fortunes of picturesque and underprivileged characters in a California town where a fish cannery operates on one side of the street and the dives run on the other. In the Steinbeck catalog it will stand beside "Tortilla Flat," altho not necessarily a reminder of that brilliant book. It will have a locale reminiscent of Monterey, for tho Mr. Steinbeck is in New York, his mind roams about California. He has an eye for quaint characters, but also has a sound social sense and resents the imputation that he makes fun of unlucky people in "Tortilla Flat." Viking Press will issue the new novel.

Among the Heavyweights.

There will be some really long novels this fall. Thomas B. Costain, who started his writing career with an unusually long romance, "For My Great Folly," has written another lengthy one, "Ride With Me," which you will find in the bookstores this month. It is nearly 600 pages long and contains about 230,000 words. It deals with Napoleonic times, with emphasis on British defense and gives prominent play to the newspapers of the time. I had an interesting chat with Mr. Costain about his career as a novelist, which he began in his 50s. He was an editor in Canada until 1920, when he came to the United States and was naturalized. Then for about 15 years he was Tom Costain to a great many authors because he dealt with them on behalf of the Saturday Evening Post. He is now an advisory author of Doubleday, Doran & Co., which means that he discovers and develops authors and watches their work as it goes thru the press. While seeing other authors make good he decided to try the game himself and carefully planned a group of books. "I believe the public likes long novels," he explained. Several days a week he retires to his home in Pennsylvania and writes industriously. Mr. Costain says he enjoys the historical novel but pefers to emphasize the forgotten men of history, in this instance, Sir Thomas Wilson and the editor, Cope. Mr. Costain is one of the most unassuming of authors and his youthful countenance, completely free from the lines that the decades trace on other maps, helps this attitude. Perhaps he has become humble listening to the boasts of authors with whom he dealt in the past.

Mention of Napoleon's campaign against England reminds me that his statue, showing him on horseback pointing his sword toward England, stood on the quay of Cherbourg, in full view of all travelers from America who landed there. I found no reference to it in the reports by war correspondents and assumed the Germans had melted it down. But last week, while watching a newsreel, I caught a glimpse of it at the end of a Cherbourg street. It still stands.

Some Like Romance.

Another author who is going to pack a tremendous amount of reading into her next novel is Elizabeth Goudge, whose "Green Dolphin Street" is the September choice of the Literary Guild. Miss Goudge is a complete romantic, and I have no doubt that her new book will do much to accelerate the romantic movement in fiction. It is bound to be a great success, partly because its story has warmth where others are austere and sympathy where other books rasp the nerves, but also because there are so many incidents that somehow touch reminiscences in your memory of books and places. She always has tried for atmosphere, sometimes a little too much, but there is a big audience for lush writing and authors who follow the modes have made a mistake in thinking all books had to be starkly realistic. The American reading audience is made up of many different tastes, and a large section of it is tired of vulgarity.

Nazi Theme Persists.

The publishers are gambling on war themes. They are wondering whether books dealing with specific themes, such as the Nazi rule, will remain popular with readers right thru the next year. Some men argue that, once Germany is defeated, all the books dealing with Nazi activities will have only a historical interest. Others say that, while the rush will diminish, the reading audience will remain large, and as proof declare that William Shirer's "Berlin Diary" is still popular in the lending libraries, altho it deals with pre-war activities; also "Mission to Moscow" continues to circulate, even tho it is no longer a best seller.

In the coming season one of the effective books on a Nazi theme will be Albert Maltz's "The Cross and the Arrow," dealing with the consequences of an act of betrayal by a German who shows enemy airplanes how to reach a factory. Maltz is an extremely able craftsman and the ending of the war should not affect the fortunes of his book. However, it will be published in September, so that it will still be timely. Another book dealing with the Nazis is "The Terhoven File," by Robert Pick, which takes up the persecution of the Jews in Austria, but is written like a mystery story.

The most powerful writing, however, is expected to come from authors with an intimate knowledge of German conditions. One of these novels will be Franz Hoellering's "Furlough," which will deal with the fortunes of a German soldier who is revolted by the cruelty of the Nazis and turns against them. Another excellent novel is expected in Stefan Heym's "Of Smiling Peace," which will deal with the conspiracy of a Nazi officer and his Vichy collaborators to undermine American military projects in North Africa. Heym's book will be published by Little, Brown in October.

Chicago theater. Billy Rose's latest night life extravaganza, his 1944 "Diamond Horseshoe Revue," provides the stage show. The production, staged and directed by John Murray Anderson, is in 12 scenes and employs a cast of 75. Among the headliners are the Wesson brothers, comedians; Frank and Jean Hubert, eccentric dancers; Ken Whitmer, Billy Wells, and the Four Fays, Elaine Jordan, Harry Meehan, Paulette Knox, and Fulton Burley. As usual with a Rose production there is a large chorus of showgirls and dancers.

• • •

Oriental theater. Ada Leonard and her All-American Girl orchestra head the stage show. The featured vocalist is Ella Mae Morse, whose recording of "Cow Cow Boogie" with Freddy Slack's orchestra sold over half a million copies. An extra attraction is Jackie Kelk, creator of the squeaky voiced Homer, Henry Aldrich's boy friend in the radio serial, "The Aldrich Family."

Not All Riverview Rides Are the Strenuous Type

For those whose blood pressure cannot stand such thrills as the Bobs, the mile a minute roller coaster, or Dive Bomber, which effectively simulates the real thing, Riverview park has thoughtfully provided less strenuous amusement for those of milder tastes. One of these is Mill on the Floss, a boat trip on a stream that winds gently thru the park, with an occasional blackout tunnel for variety. Another is Tilt-a-Whirl, remindful of the old-fashioned porch swing.

BOOK NEWS AND REVIEWS

Editor Analyzes Character and Motivation of F.D.R.

"WHAT MANNER OF MAN?" by Noel Busch. [Harper, $2.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

This book by an editor of Life is not a biography of President Roosevelt, but an analysis of his character. There is considerable information about his childhood and his political career, but it is used only for the illumination it can give to the question: What is this man like, what are his motives, and why does he have them? In summary, the author's explanation of his subject is this—the President grew up much closer to his mother than to his father [who was an old man by the time F. D. was a youth], and this gave him a sympathy for the weaker members of society.

Noel Busch.

Furthermore, he had a strong need for attention, which was easily satisfied all his life by family, friends, etc.; the ultimate degree of attention in the United States is the conspicuous position of President. Furthermore, thruout his career he had rarely encountered real authority, and when he had encountered it, in the form of snobbery at Harvard, of "bossism" [Mr. Busch's ugly invented word], of entrenched wealth, he had assumed that the authority was bad, and that in the end he had triumphed over it.

• • •

These triumphs, over the specific kinds of authority mentioned, were: Association with all classes of students at Harvard, repudiation of the effort of Tammany to elect an unsavory candidate as senator from New York, and the speeches and laws designed to put the "economic royalists" firmly into place.

The President's dependence on a host of advisers is traced back to his dependence on personal tutors as a youth. And his struggle with the Supreme court in his second term is attributed to the fact that the court was the first instance of real authority which he could not dominate. In brief, much of Roosevelt's public conduct can be traced to his private, personal, psychological qualities.

The infantile paralysis shock is treated as an actual opportunity it gave him to compensate for the loss of the use of his legs by an exaggerated urge to administrate, thus making his decisions move widely where he could not. Busch quotes the President as saying, when asked how he stood the strain of his job: "Once I spent two years lying in bed, trying to move my big toe. That was the hardest job I ever had to do. After that, anything else seems easy."

• • •

It is an interesting book and contains matter not to be found in any other writing on Roosevelt. The effort is not always successful, for while Busch's remarks on the influence of Roosevelt's pre-Presidential years, including his childhood, on his acts as President are revealing, he fails to make any comment on the influence of the Presidential years on the character of the man he is analyzing. This would seem to me necessary if the book is to be of maximum use in the year 1944. Busch tries to be objective, and succeeds, as far as one can be objective when writing in the breezy, boisterous style of a Life portrait.

Burocracy's Paralyzing Effect Told

"THE BUREAUCRAT," by John H. Crider. [Lippincott, $3.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan.

Burocracy is the cancer of the body politic. It is an ancient disease and one which defies attack from the witchery of totalitarianism to the laboratory of democracy. It made a rubble of the grandeur that was Greece, was the curse of the Jewish religion at the time of Christ, and is no less virulent today.

Burocracy begins as a local infection and spreads thru boards, commissions, authorities, and departments thruout the governmental system until government ceases to be a creature of the governed and becomes a dead thing—a rule of, by, and for burocrats, as witness Venice, Madrid, Rome, Montezuman Mexico, Hanoverian England, Napoleonic France, and Imperial Russia. Those who look for more modern examples need only examine Hitler's Germany and Mussolini's Italy.

• • •

In "The Bureaucrat" John H. Crider, able and dispassionate reporter of the Washington scene for the New York Times, is concerned with the danger of burocracy to the United States. His thesis—and he is no alarmist—is that burocracy makes representative government a mockery and warns that it is the focal point of revolutions. He develops his thesis by examining the habitat, habits, fertility, protective coloration, and ubiquity of the burocrat.

He concludes that the burocrat is even more inescapable than death or taxes, reproduces even more alarmingly, has all the insistent arrogance of the professional beggar and wraps all this up in the firm conviction that he is omniscient.

• • •

Thruout Mr. Crider tries to be fair. He rejoices to find a Marion Dorest in the bureau of animal husbandry and a Joseph Eastman on the interstate commerce commission, but he finds that the vast majority of burocrats are weavers of red tape and dispensers of vile nostrums of ipecac down the gullet of the federal treasury. He numbers 3,000,000 burocrats on the federal pay roll.

This book is a highly competent job of reporting. It should be read by every one who is anxious to understand his government and it should be studied by those who would preserve democracy in America.

NEW BOOK PUTS SALT ON THE TAIL OF ADVERTISING

When the material in this book first began to appear, week by week, in Advertising Age, the reader response was terrific. For this is a book about advertising—and business—and life—different from any other ever published. In it one of the country's best known advertising men has put down, day by day, for eighteen months, what he saw, did, felt, thought, and read. And put it down with such a gift for words, such wit and wisdom, as will make you want to read and reread this book throughout your life!

Jim Young, as he is widely known, has had the kind of career many men long for. He started as an office boy and became one of the country's highest-paid advertising copywriters and idea men. Later he headed the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in Washington, and taught at the University of Chicago. He has traveled all over the world for business and pleasure.

The Diary of an Ad Man brings you a distillation of his experience, and of the philosophy which grew out of it. It is a human document of our times, and will, I predict, be referred to in the future as historical source material in the business life of our day. It is a book that will inspire you and excite you; that will make you chuckle and make you mad; that will pay you dividends in usable ideas, stimulated thinking, and pure enjoyment.

I want to put a copy of this fruitful book in the hands of every man who has anything to do with advertising—or hopes to—because I know he will relish both its contents and its handsome format. So I make you this offer: Send me your order for a copy of The Diary of an Ad Man today, and if you are not satisfied that it is worth all I say, I will refund your money without question. The price is $3 per copy, postpaid. Send for it now. G. D. Crain, Jr., Publisher, Advertising Age, 104 E. Ohio St., Chicago 11, Ill.

ChicagoOffers 8 Wonders to Stay-at-Homes

By Thalia.

Chicagoans on all rungs of the social and economic ladder are discovering their city as a vacation spot this year. Tales of travel terrors fill the air and discourage even the stoutest from boarding a train unless absolutely necessary. The national highways are populous bus and truck routes, but a private car is as rare as a kinkajou.

For many, it is not only more patriotic but much more of a vacation to stay at home, since it is so hard to get away from home. Some Chicagoans who have always hopped on a train or into a car come mid-June and not hopped back again until they were sure that the nervous thermometer had settled down to a moderate 70 have discovered this year that, except for a few spots of weather that made one feel like a doughnut in the cricping process, it has been a delightful summer, and they won't be at all surprised to know that Chicago's mean temperature in summer is 70.5 degrees.

Chicago for many years has been the favorite summer resort of many southerners. This year its own citizens are finding out what the southerners came here for. To help them enjoy their vacation at home the Chicago recreation commission has just issued a helpful little booklet "Vacationing in Chicago." That commission is composed of 64 public officials and civic leaders who, like all prominent people in Chicago, are civic minded. Our city fathers take their fatherhood seriously.

The "Eight Wonders of the City" this interesting booklet calls the great museums of Chicago, all of which were the result of the enthusiasms of some of Chicago's leading citizens.

The Chicago Art institute is one of the great art museums of the world. It houses the finest collection of modern French painting in existence. Its permanent collections of old masters, prints and drawings, glass, textiles, period furniture, oriental arts are thrilling. This summer, besides the beautiful permanent exhibits, there is current the 55th Annual Water Color show, an exhibit of paintings by Charles Biesel and J. Jeffrey Grant, and a very interesting and unusual exhibition called a Close-Up of Tintoretto. Fewer visitors walk between the noble lions on the institute steps in summer than in winter, but last month there were almost 52,000.

Among the 19 officers and trustees of the Art institute are some of Chicago's most civic minded citizens. Chauncey McCormick heads the group of officers as president, and the five vice presidents are Robert Allerton, Walter Brewster, Percy B. Eckhart [who is also president of the Ravinia Festival association], Walter B. Smith, who is treasurer of the group, and Russell Tyson. Charles H. Worcester is honorary president. Among the other trustees is Frederic C. Bartlett, who gave the institute the famous and unique Birch-Bartlett collection of modern French paintings.

Lester Armour, another of the trustees of the Art institute, is also a trustee of the Chicago Natural History museum, which probably to the end of the days of the older generation will be called the Field museum in honor of its original donor, the first Marshall Field. Three Fields are among its 21 trustees, Stanley Field, Joseph N. Field and Marshall Field.

Another trustee is Sewell Avery, whose recent official ride out of his office on the chair made by the hands of two soldiers led a quipster to say that the soldiers would probably be writing a book called "See Here, Private Enterprise." Among the others are William McCormick Blair, Boardman Conover, Walter J.

Miss Anna Selfridge, daughter of the Calvin F. Selfridges of Winnetka, has taken time out from her duties with the Illinois war finance committee for a short holiday at Desbarats, Ont. She probably will have a small debut party during her Christmas vacation from Wellesley college.

Miss Nancy Brock will be going up to Minnesota the middle of this month for a week's vacation with her parents, the Donald C. Brocks of Winnetka. Miss Brock, who is on this year's debutante list, will be returning to Vassar college on Aug. 31 for her sophomore year.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

Mrs. Efrem Kurtz and Dandy.

Fashions in dogs swing as a pendulum from breed to breed, from large to small, each type reigning supreme for a time. An unusual dog, because of his color, is Dandy, a snow white, giant French poodle, whose picture is in a showcase in the underground passage between the Ambassador East and West hotels. Dandy was in town recently and had a look at himself down there, since he was staying at the East with his owners, Efrem Kurtz, conductor of the Kansas City Symphony, and Mrs. Kurtz. It was not the first time that Dandy had admired his photographic image, for he is the woolly animal often found in fashion illustrations in national magazines. He even has appeared in a photographic essay on making fast action pictures, and like Mary's lamb, which he resembles slightly, everywhere the Kurtzes go, Dandy is sure to go, too. He was not welcome at the Moraine, where Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz stayed while he conducted a week's concerts at Ravinia Park, and sometimes Dandy is not welcome on trains, on which he usually travels in the Kurtz compartment. In a case where no dogs are permitted except when carried in arms, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz have a hammock arrangement in which to carry Dandy, but it takes both of them to do it, and is not satisfactory to dog, master, or mistress. Mr. and Mrs. Lynn A. Williams Jr., were hosts to Dandy during the Kurtzes' sojourn in Highland Park, and found the city-raised poodle so well trained that he would not go out of the house unless accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Williams, or one of their children.

Mrs. H. P. Hargrave.

Also traveling with a dog was Miss India Moffett, who arrived from Washington, D. C., a few days ago on her way to Neenah, Wis., accompanied by a black cocker spaniel puppy which was to be her wedding gift to her former Bennington college roommate, Miss Carla Smith, who was married Wednesday in Neenah to Ensign William Duff Radford of Oshkosh, Wis. Miss Moffett's traveling costume was a cool navy and white striped dress. She never wears a hat. Filling the role of story-teller on a children's radio program is no task for Mrs. Homer P. Hargrave, who a decade or so ago was entertaining parents of her present day young audience as Colleen Moore of the movies. Hurrying to her studio the other day she wore a gay red print dress that was matched exactly by her bright finger nails. Over her shoulders was flung a Kelly green box coat, and the large black straw cartwheel that shaded her face was outlined around the brim in a chain of brilliants. A symphony in gold was Mrs. Maynard G. Fessenden, dancing in the Mayfair room one night recently. Her dress was of solid gold color, and set well back on her dark hair framing her face, was an attractive little gold cut-out hat. An ultra-smart short evening dress seen in the same dancing room that night was worn by Mrs. Ralph Mills, a black crepe frock printed in gay red roses. Black net formed the upper part of the bodice, and repeating the vivid coloring was a spray of red flowers in her hair.

Club Women Plan Annual Picnic Today

Some 40 years ago John Z. White left his printing press to travel the country and talk for the Henry George ideas on the single tax and free trade. Now 90, Mr. White is one of the few surviving Georgists who knew and worked with the economist. Altho his travels are restricted these days to neighboring towns, the onetime printer is still an alert speaker and continues to take an active part in the work of the Henry George School of Social Science at 236 N. Clark st.

Today when the Henry George Woman's club members gather at the Carl V. Baldwin home at Manning and Aurora roads near Warrenville for their annual picnic, Mr. White will be there as the guest of the day. The picnic is designated as his birthday party.

Mrs. Arthur G., South Bend., Ind.—Here's a help I've found useful if you or friend hubby spatter paint on brick steps, etc., while painting wood. Make a solution of three pounds of caustic soda to two gallons of hot water and apply to paint spots. Keep applying till paint disappears. Wear gloves, as solution can burn your hands, and rinse well with clear water so that none of it remains on bricks. It's a good idea to use an old brush, as this solution is hard on bristles.

ChurchWomen Open Mission School Today

By Irene Steyskal.

Celtic poets, with that peculiar racial understanding of the moods of nature that borders on the mystic, have looked across lakes at dawn and twilight and called the silvery serenity of those peaceful hours the spirit of Christ moving over the waters. That there is spiritual refreshment to be drawn from the harmonies of water and sky and the quiet of wooded sanctuaries is a universal experience, and it is the reason for setting the Geneva Summer School of Missions in Wisconsin on Conference point overlooking Lake Geneva in the Williams Bay region.

As the lake silvers in the early light of this Sunday morning, scores of women from fifteen different Protestant denominations will gather on the grassy slope of the point to unite in a sunrise service—the opening ceremony of the 26th summer school.

Neighbor to Conference point is Yerkes observatory, with its far-sighted telescopes looking into the heavens. The observatory suggests a parallel, for the week-long summer school provides that vantage point of study from which the church women survey the Christian mission fields of the world, from those at home to the remotest stations in Pacific islands whose names were scarcely known in this country before they became battle fronts. Stories of the work of the foreign missions will be brought to the conference by men and women who long have labored in those distant lands to bring Christianity and the advantages of western civilization to still primitive tribes and nations.

Governing boards of each of the fifteen participating churches are sending missionary representatives to the conference, and Wednesday is especially designated as guest day for the visitors. On that day tables will be spread out on the lawns for the display of trophies, mementos, costumes, and collections of native arts and crafts brought home by the missionaries. Many will have photographs and some moving pictures to show of missionary life.

• • •

Miss Barbara Beecher, who has returned for further theological study at Garrett Biblical institute, will recount experiences as a Methodist missionary in India, and Miss Johanna De Vries, here on a furlough studying at the University of Chicago, also will talk on India. A member of the Dutch Reformed church, Miss De Vries is a nurse who worked in the east as a medical missionary. From Bangkok in Thailand comes Mrs. Graham Fuller, representing the Presbyterian church, who will be a conference guest thruout the week.

Mrs. E. L. Ikneberry, now on the faculty of the Religious Education Training institute in Twin Falls, Idaho, formerly a missionary and teacher in China for the Brethern board, will teach a course at the summer school. Dr. Reuben A. Torrey Jr. of the foreign board of the Presbyterian church, for 29 years a missionary in China, is to preach at the closing service next Sunday morning.

• • •

At home there are the Indian missions, and one of the principal speakers Wednesday evening will be the Rev. Benjamin Stucki, superintendent of the Winnebago Indian mission at Neillsville, Wis., who will give an illustrated lecture on tribal customs.

Mornings during the week will be given to classes for training in church leadership and the afternoons to informal forums and recreational programs. Among the outstanding Methodist teachers giving courses at the school will be Mrs. Wilbur M. Ale, chairman of the world relations committee for the

Fresh from the Hills . . . The Picnic

By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

We waded across, carrying our lunch baskets high to keep them out of the water.

ACTUALLY, Aunt Lizzie wasn't invited to the picnic. It would be too hard a trip for her, we said. But just as I was starting out with my picnic basket, Aunt Lizzie came to call. And what could I do? I took her with me.

Our picnic party made a weird crowd as we trooped down the road of Jack's Forks from our meeting place. Nettie Fritz, little and dainty, with gray hair in pigtails, wore shorts, sweat shirt, and sunbonnet. Slender Opal DeWoody wore a striped sunback dress and her husband's old panama. I had dug up a blue playsuit, minus the skirt, and a big sunhat. Mrs. Fritz' visiting sisters, Eva Bone and Maude Langham, wore citified slacks and silk blouses. And of course all of us wore stout wading shoes. It's an old Ozark custom. Aunt Lizzie strode ahead in black laced shoes and black stockings, her shoe-length starched percale dress swinging over several petticoats. A starched apron and a dust cap of faded blue, with a little ruffle around her face and a patch in the center of the crown, completed the outfit.

In deference to Aunt Lizzie's years, we took along a pine seat with a wicker top. We let her carry it. Opal, Maude, and I carried lunch baskets. Nettie and Eva slung a bigger lunch basket on a hickory pole and carried it between them.

It wasn't far to Jack's Forks but the day was plenty warm. Grateful for the icy coolness of the spring-fed stream we waded knee deep while Aunt Lizzie sat on the shady bank and guarded the lunch baskets. The water was so clear we could see every pebble in the bottom of the creek bed and the "minnies" that darted up to nibble at our legs. We exclaimed over shells, rocks, and water lilies like children.

After a while, we decided we'd like to go on to Ike Hole, down the river. We held a conference in the middle of the stream, well out of Aunt Lizzie's hearing. To get on the old logging road where the walking was better, we must cross the river. How could Aunt Lizzie make it, across and back, with no wading shoes and rheumatic knees! Finally, we put the matter up to her. She spoke quickly:

• • •

"Why, I reckon these ol' knees o' mine could stand another duckin' 'r two! They've been in an' out'n cricks f'r 75 y'ars. An' f'r wadin' shoes . . . well, Margit, you git acrost the river an' take off them toe-hole things you've got on an' send 'em back to me. I wouldn't be ketched dead in town with 'em on, but they'll do f'r crossin' the river."

• • •

It was a deal. We walked along the river bank to the spot where the old sawmill once stood and there was the river crossing that led to the old logging road. At that point the river had narrowed and the stream ran more swiftly. It was deeper, too. Mrs. Fritz and I found the water reaching the hems of our shorts as we waded across, carrying lunch baskets high to keep them out of the water and setting our feet down carefully on the slippery rocks.

On the opposite side, I hunted a clean sandy spot and sat down to take off my shoes. Mrs. Fritz tied the strings together, looped them about her neck and waded back to Aunt Lizzie. It took a little time for Aunt Lizzie to get her black shoes unlaced and her long black stockings off. Then she thrust plump white feet into my shoes, tied them snugly and stood up. Her starched dress and not inconsiderable underthings could hardly be considered a wading costume. But Aunt Lizzie knew what to do. She grasped the back of her dress at the hem, drew it between her knees and held it up so snugly in front that dress and undergarments were well out of the water. Looking like a calico teddy bear with plump white legs that showed reddened garter rings, she grasped her walking stick and plunged into the icy river. Opal and Nettie tried to hold her, but she shook them off and came striding thru the swift water without a tremor.

With the shoes exchanged, we looked at the logging road winding thru the woods far ahead, and hefted our lunch baskets disgustedly.

"These baskets would be easier to carry if the lunches were inside us," said Maude, sensibly. Opal said she knew of a spring a hundred yards away and a beautiful little valley close by it. "What are we waiting for?" we asked. It was a lunch such as country women would prepare, a crockful of potato salad, country cured ham, meat loaf made of home canned sausage, garden fresh lettuce and green onions, stacks of home baked bread and freshly churned butter, and thick wedges of Eva's white cake. Washed down with sweet, clear spring water that gushed from the cliff, it was perfect. While we ate, Aunt Lizzie pointed out the various trees in the valley, gum, sycamore, oak, maple, dogwood, redbud and a half dozen others. Then she wandered about, hunting herbs, while we rested a while. And at last, in response to our coaxing, took her place on a level green spot and gave us her famous buck and wing dance, with all its intricate steps, while we whistled and clapped hands.

"'Tain't much of a dance," she said modestly, "but I do say hit's better'n that rumble they wuz a-doin' in the movie last Saturday."

Just then the DeWoody hired man came thru the woods, headed for home. We loaded our baskets and Aunt Lizzie's unused pine seat in his wagon. Whoops! Nothing to carry! We started down the logging road fresh as daisies. It was a walk we shall never forget.

Great pawpaw bushes, with leaves irridescent in their green loveliness, sassafras, sumac, and jack-oak lined the road, with the river running swiftly at our left and wooded hills, skyscraper high, at our right. Now and then we would spy a cave, with strangely shaped rocks within its entrance, or a great rock standing like a tower or an exaggerated fishbowl castle against a hillside. Along the shaded moist road and in the valley at the foot of the hills, wild flowers bloomed with fine disregard of seasons. Belated white violets on long branching stems. Tardy sweet Williams and early brown-eyed Susans. Solomon's seal, with petunia-like blossoms, and fragile columbine, mingled with pastel orchid horsemint. Eglantine with dainty pink faces spotlighted by shafts of sunlight streaming thru the trees.

Then suddenly, we heard thunder.

"I might as well stay an' ketch me a mess!"

Shucks, it's just foolin,' we said with wishful thinking. We tried to hurry. But there was so much to see. Aunt Lizzie knew every flower and plant, the smelly Indian turnip which young fellas used to carry to "devil" each other, the fragrant blossoms of the wild grape, the sink weed which helps heal a sore place, the spice bush that makes a delicious hot beverage, the May apples whose roots make a potent laxative, but one must be sure it's the female plant. Then we had to stop and learn that Mamma May apple has two branching leaves at the top of the stem while Papa May apple has only one leaf like a tiny umbrella.

Then more thunder! Much closer! Where are we?" We asked anxiously. Aunt Lizzie calmly took charge.

"Quit y'r bawlin'," she said sternly. "Right up yander's a crossin' I've been thru many's the time. Comes out right at that big rock where yore uncle Bert tromped all over my feet, Margit, that night him and me and Johnny was a-fishin' an' I ketched an eel. And 'longside that rock is as purty a cave as any one ever laid eyes on."

• • •

The rain caught us at the river crossing, just after I had given up my shoes to Mrs. Fritz who was wading back with them to Aunt Lizzie. Alone and barefoot in the great woods, with the rain coming down like a solid sheet, I huddled under a small tree [that wouldn't draw lightning] and felt like one of the forlorn Babes in the Woods. Then thru the wetness above and below, Aunt Lizzie steamed to shore like an indestructible battleship convoyed by a bevy of tugboats who weren't doing so well. Silk blouses became cellophane thin with the rain. Carefully pressed slacks became sodden masses. Nettie's gay sunbonnet flopped dismally when its pasteboard slats became wet. Opal's striped dress was streaked anew with mud and clay.

• • •

Aunt Lizzie pointed to the cave half way up the hillside, its dark entrance looming thru the sopping green of the underbrush like a stage setting for a mystery play. Shoes were hurriedly exchanged, then slipping, sliding, splashing thru sudden racing streams, strangled with rain, we finally reached the shelter of the cave. Fearful of varmits, we crouched in the entrance. All of us, except Aunt Lizzie, were frankly miserable. Her many layers of clothing kept her from feeling the chill that made our teeth chatter. Her snug dustcap kept her hair close. Her high shoes protected ankles. She could even put her apron about her shoulders.

Then at last the rain slackened. We started out, frantically anxious for our homes, with dry clothes and hot drinks. Aunt Lizzie seemed to be in no hurry. She lagged at the tail of the line. And when we had gone some distance, we turned to find that she was not in sight. Heavens! Had she fallen? We raced back down the hill. Aunt Lizzie, calm and undisturbed, was poking about among a ledge of rocks.

"Nope," she said. "Nothin's wrong! I wuz jis' tryin' to find a fishline an' hook I left here onct upon a time. Them fish'll be a-bitin' like ever'thing after this rain . . . an' I might as well stay an' ketch me a mess!"

ChicagoOffers 8 Wonders to Stay-at-Homes

There is a special war exhibit at the museum of "Theaters of the War" now. There are usually almost six times as many visitors to the museum in summer as in winter, with over 1,400,000 people enjoying it over a year's period.

Another of the eight wonders is the Shedd aquarium, which with the Chicago Natural History museum and the Adler planetarium form a lake front wonderland. About 25,000 people in July saw the movement of the heavens thru one of the most wonderful instruments ever devised. This month they can see exactly how the southern skies look while their own two feet tread the earth in Chicago. For the planetarium, which has the most complete astronomical instruments in the world, Max Adler gave $1,000,000 in 1930.

The Shedd aquarium was the gift of John G. Shedd in 1924. He offered $2,000,000 for its construction and equipment, but in 1927 gave another million, since its costs mounted. The best fish in the world call it home, and almost 91,000 people gazed into its glass walled tanks during July to attest to the interest of mankind in the poor fish. In about two weeks many new homesteaders in the tanks will arrive from Bimini off the coast of Florida.

All sorts of nature hobbies are on exhibit in the lobby of the Chicago Academy of Sciences in Lincoln park where seven societies associated with the academy have brought together the hobby tricks of amateur geologists, herpetologists [snakes to you], bird lovers and bird banders, insect enthusiasts, botanists, and miscroscope hunters. About 31,000 people looked at the hobby exhibit during July. Dr. Nathan S. Davis is president of the academy's board of trustees and Tappan Gregory, vice president.

The Chicago Historical society in Lincoln park had 25,000 visitors last month. Summer is the most popular time there. Just now there is an exhibit which women look upon either with nostalgia or hope and men enjoy but probably say is just so much frippery—an exhibition of bridal gowns of famous Chicago women. Among them are the gowns of Mrs. William McCormick Blair, a bride of 1854, Mrs. Virginia Burton Holmes [1866], Mrs. George A. Carpenter [1895], Mrs. Charles Garfield King [1898], Mrs. Howard Linn [1914], Mrs. Dexter Cummings [1926], the latter three of Chicago's most delightful and decorative matrons. On Sept. 7 an amusing exhibit of fall suits popular in 1880s and 1890s and early 1900s will be put on display.

An exhibit of paintings of the Teton and Glacier National parks are almost a travel jaunt in themselves.

• • •

One of the most exciting new things in town is at the Museum of Science and Industry, formerly called the Rosenwald museum after its donor, Julius Rosenwald. It is a bomber trainer lent by the royal Canadian air force. It is used to train young men in the recognition of the terrain of enemy territory, but it is so arranged that visitors, altho they cannot actually enter the plane, can look down, just as the young flyers can, into the well where a film of the Ruhr valley is run off in such a way as to simulate the actual flight over it. Perhaps the bomber trainer is one of the reasons that the attendance at the museum in July was the greatest they have ever had for that month, 150,275. Its roster of trustees includes many who are also trustees of the Chicago Natural History museum, among them Mr. Avery, Samuel Insull Jr., Solomon A. Smith, and Col. Albert A. Sprague.

The Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago is also listed as one of the "Eight Wonders" of the city and, altho it has no special summer attractions, the permanent exhibits of oriental culture draw many interested visitors.

But by and large, the zoos are Chicago's greatest lures. The Lincoln park zoo has no way of measuring its attendance since it is open to the public and has no gates, but I have seen such crowds there that I wondered where any one else could be in Chicago. The children of Chicago bound north side families are almost daily visitors, fascinated especially by the baby creatures. A baby eland, an African antelope, and a nilgai, an Indian antelope, are favorites. There were, as every child will tell you, 49 baby boa constrictors born the other day. Their parents say that the war time maternity movement seems to have been joined by the reptiles.

At the Brookfield zoo there is a six weeks old baby hippo, a month old eland fawn, and a three weeks old baby zebra. A recent bulletin of the Chicago Natural History museum gave us the surprising news that the zebra was originally a North American native—a million years ago. In July, Brookfield lured 223,024 visitors of all ages. Going to the zoo is a good deal like going to the circus, adults are always looking around eagerly for some child to take zoo-ing. The Brookfield zoo is under the auspices of the Chicago Zoölogical society, of which John T. McCutcheon is president and Frank Hibbard, John Wentworth, Clay Judson are vice presidents, and Solomon A. Smith is treasurer [he's a member of more boards than any one in town, I think].

The eight wonders of the city are all open to the public thru the help and guidance of Chicago's generous city fathers.

School Girls to Give Party for Parents Today

Students of the Park Ridge School for Girls are planning a party for their parents from 3 until 5 o'clock this afternoon at the school. The program, arranged under the direction of Mrs. Geneva M. The school's board of directors, which is headed by Mrs. Griswold A. Price of Winnetka, have been included on the guest list. Miss Ethel Barger is school superintendent.

Joliet Artists' League Shows a Fine Exhibit

By Eleanor Jewett.

The Joliet Artists' league is holding its first Chicago exhibition in the galleries of the club woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. It is a decidedly pleasant show. The members are capable artists and it is worth reporting how so small a town as Joliet can turn out as noteworthy an exhibit. Other Illinois towns that come to mind at the moment as being able to rival Joliet are Freeport and Peoria, and, if we try nearer home, Grayslake. The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts in its many splendid attempts to round up the best that Illinois artists are doing has proved the value of these towns in the art world repeatedly.

Twenty-one members of the Joliet Artists' league are represented by an exhibit of 80 canvasses. Three of the group are showing sculpture in bronze, terra cotta, and plaster. Esther Ruble Richardson, whose home is in Lockport near Joliet, offers the beautiful "Tall Pines" that received the blue ribbon award among the oils. She also is showing four delightful water colors. Sydne Holmes Langford won the prize for portraiture in oil with a charming study of her mother. Marianne Grunwald Scoggin shows a prize winning oil, an excellent still life. Mrs. Scoggin studied with two famous Chicago painters, Ralph Pearson and Carl Krafft.

• • •

"Betty Wadsworth" by Florence Jordan is a most attractive piece of portraiture. The series of scenes in and around Joliet by Mary Elizabeth Schuster are interesting; they have depth and color to commend them. The five stunning flower arrangements by Elizabeth L. Skeen are among the nice things in the show. Margaret Dingle offers several intriguing flower still lifes and several amazingly fine sculptures; her portraits in sculpture are excellent likenesses and intriguing works of art.

"Drying Nets, Bahamas" by George Barford is one of the few marines in the exhibit. The fishermen's nets are stretched across the mast poles of their small boats, which float on a deep blue sea under a tranquil blue sky. Katherine Evans has one of the strongest paintings in the show, a figure composition of a child, done in oil. Her technique is striking a new and effective path. Lucille Larson Johnson has an unusual garden picture, an arrangement of tulips against stones in the foreground and a background that is tantalizingly vague.

The freedom allowed in this exhibition is refreshingly novel. The artists were permitted to contribute as many pictures as the walls of the galleries would carry; the jury merely awarded prizes. On the jury were Ruth Van Sickle Ford of the Chicago Academy of Design, Hubert Ropp, dean of the Art institute school, and Frank Young. The exhibit will continue thru Thursday.

The Cordon club, Fine Arts building, has a pleasing summer show. Among the attractive items are the miniatures by Carolyn D. Tyler. The miniature of Dickie Tyler, whom many will remember as the little Nazi boy in "Tomorrow the World" of last winter, was painted in his dressing room at the Selwyn theater. It was awarded a prize for portraiture by the South Side Art association. The artist has painted him as a happy, smiling American boy instead of the grim little German refugee of the play.

The ten miniatures of stage stars by Miss Tyler, at the Cordon, were also painted in their dressing rooms. One is of Con Colleano, the tight rope dancer of Ringling's circus, and another unusual personality is Chief Evergreen Tree, an important member of the Indian village at a Century of Progress. Uday Shan-Kar, the Hindu dancer; Rose Quong, Chinese entertainer; Katherine Cornell, Ruth St. Denis, Lillian Gish, Grace Cornell Graf, McKay Morris, and Frank Parker are the other stage favorites whose miniatures lend charm to the show.

The Art institute announces the masterpiece of the month for August is a chasuble, a beautiful piece of material, cut velvet in five colors, of Italian workmanship of about the middle of the 15th century. It is the gift to the institute of Martin A. Ryerson, thru the Antiquarian society. The velvet itself is probably much older than the church vestment into which it has been made.

A striking feature of the cloth is the design, the seven dots or pellets in the center of the six lobed flower forming the principal motive indicate that the material was woven to the order of a member of the Medici family—probably Cosimo de' Medici. In the famous frescoes of the Riccardi palace in Florence, painted for Piero de' Medici in 1469, a similar textile is found used in a caparison on one of the horses in the gorgeous cavalcade which represents all the pride and splendor of that great family at the height of its glory.

Polychrome velvets of this quality were great luxuries at the time they were made and now, even in small pieces, are museum items of great rarity. A complete vestment of the size of the chasuble is a treasure of the first importance.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Aug. 10, 1896.

Dear Julia: There seems nothing but politics to write about. We eat and sleep silver, it seems to me, and when our minister read from the 22d chapter of Job, as a morning lesson, and came to the verse, "Yea, the Almighty shall be thy defense and thou shalt have plenty of silver," Will said it had even invaded the pulpit.

Dr. Sam Small.

THE TRIBUNE had a clever cartoon today—quite whimsical, not ill natured. Bryan, who is often referred to as "the Boy Orator of the Platte," is shown reviewing his cabinet. He is wearing a cocked hat, with the title "Commander in Chief" on it. His secretary of state is "Little Lord Fauntleroy"; the boy who stood on the burning deck is depicted as secretary of the navy; "Jack the Giant Killer" is secretary of war; and "Simple Simon" guards the treasury. [Will thought that was a specially good hit.] "John, John, the Piper's Son," with a little pig in his arms, is naturally the secretary of agriculture. "Little Jack Horner," his hands clasped over his stomach, is secretary of the interior. "Little Tommy Tucker" is attorney general, and "Little Boy Blue," blowing his horn, is postmaster general.

Bryan's juvenile delight in being "Commander in Chief" of this outfit is well depicted.

Each day increases Will's belief that the Republican party will be victorious, for new evidence piles up constantly of the division in the Democratic ranks. "After all," says Will, "not all Democrats will let the wool be pulled over their eyes." One of our friends, Mr. James Herron Eckels, who has been comptroller of the currency and, of course, stands for sound money, talked with Will yesterday and intimated that the real Democrats would soon hold a convention and put on a campaign which will surprise the free silverites. He calls the Chicago convention which nominated Bryan an un-Democratic and revolutionary gathering. The silver craze, he is convinced, will not last, as already it is waning in the west. He has been in Duluth and St. Paul and has felt the public pulse, he says, and there's a marked change of sentiment.

Evangelist Sam Small is on the Bryan side and is soon to debate with William E. Mason, one of our local Republican orators. That debate should attract a crowd, for Sam Small doesn't care what he says, and "Billy" Mason, as every one calls him, knows how to parry thrusts.

I don't usually pay much attention to what is said in political campaigns, but I am annoyed by the Democrats' claims that they are espousing the cause of the poor man, while the selfish Republicans represent the money power of America. Will says some one should face such speakers with a list of Bryan's supporters—men who have made incredible fortunes in silver mines. The Hearst estate is on this list—an estate worth 75 millions. The Fair estate is supporting him, too. So are John Mackay and William A. Clark, both of whom are supposed to be worth $40,000,000. Of course these millionaires would benefit by the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Well, enough of politics!

It is sad to read that Turkey is oppressing the Christians of the Island of Crete and that England will not interfere. Lord Salisbury seems to be the puppet of the money power in Great Britain. At least, Will says that the reason England is so loth to embarrass Turkey by suggesting that its behavior is shocking to the Christian nations is that the value of Turkish bonds piled up in British strongboxes would be lessened. Will is pretty critical of Great Britain's printing Bibles by the millions, but sitting calm and contented on her money bags while the slaughter goes on in Armenia and Crete.

I feel that America should do something about this, too, but Will thinks our position is different. We are at such a distance, he says, while Great Britain is simply playing politics, carefully keeping "the balance of power" adjusted. There! I've got back to politics again! Now I really must close. Your loving friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Ephraim Yacht Club Schedules Annual Regatta

DOOR COUNTY, WIS.

The day of this year's Ephraim regatta, will highlight a busy summer of boating and social activity at the Ephraim Yacht club and Eagle Inn dock. Festivities prior to the full regatta schedule of boating and swimming events will begin with an open house next Friday honoring the visitors participating in the Escanaba cruising race. For many Escanaba and Menominee yachtsmen this will be a return visit to Ephraim, a port in previous long distance races this season.

The regatta scene is always a colorful one with boats, big and little, anchored in Eagle bay and flying burgees of many Great Lakes yacht clubs. Pretty tag girls will be on hand to see that every spectator is supplied with a small Ephraim Yacht club pennant.

Champions in past regatta sailing races, Bob and Warren Davis, now both serving in navy V-12, will have young Sammy and Tommy Randolph, and Marion and Freddy Horween to carry on their records as a family team. Sailing in competition thruout the day, the many seagull owners will test the mastery of sailing technique learned during the summer.

• • •

Onlookers at a "safety race" held recently could see each skipper and crew in his boat in the bay earnestly throwing paddles over the side then rescuing the "man" overboard, lowering the sails during an imaginary squall and reviewing other emergency routines, all to rapid time signals and under the close scrutiny of judges on shore. Such practice races, along with frequent inspections of each boat's equipment, emphasize to beginner and veteran sailor alike the necessity of safety and good sportsmanship on the water.

Among the most enthusiastic participants in Door county activities during the summer season are the young residents of camps on the peninsula. At Camp Meenagha, located amid the scenic beauty of Peninsula State park, many girls from Illinois were among those greeted by Director Mrs. Alice Orr Clark, and her daughter, Mrs. Alice Clark Day, as they arrived early this summer for an eight week period.

Horseback riding ranks as one of the favorite pastimes of the 76 campers who improve their equestrianship exploring the long wooded trails thru the park, or by practicing daily in the natural riding in the meadow adjoining the camp.

Nine year old Nancy Felman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Felman of Joliet, Ill., is a beginner in the riding class but will participate in the horse show on Aug. 20, as will the daughters of Mrs. Carol Abernathy of Barrington, Ill., Joan and Carol. Doris Weber, whose mother, Mrs. Bertram A. Weber of Highland Park, directs Camp Greenwood at Ellison bay, will compete for awards riding her own horse.

• • •

Often seen either swimming, sailing, or canoeing, is the youngest camper, Peggy Platt, aged 7½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Platt of Chicago.

Letters from Mimi Bilderbach of Champaign, Ill., and Leonora Karcher of Barrington, Ill., to their fathers, Lt. Col. Gordon Bilderbach at Randolph field, Tex., and Capt. Karcher in England, tell of their interest in both swimming and riding.

Others who are prominent in both sports include Barbara Clarke, Marianne McDonald, Joan Patton, Ann Willmer, and Erwina Kostka, all of Chicago.

Camper Betty Lee Samuel has been one of the helpers in decorating the counselor's lounge with gayly colored paint and peasant motifs. Even the telephone has not escaped a coat of canary yellow and some artistic "doodling." Betty, the daughter of Harold H. Samuel of Chicago, is also working on "Packs 'n' Paddles," the camp year book.

TO BE MARRIED

Miss Nancy Hannifin's engagement to Pfc. Henry Kemper Marten of the marine air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Marten of Kenilworth, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Arthur Vincent Hannifin of River Forest. Miss Hannifin is a student at Rosary college. Her fiance attended Loyola university.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

There is a definite place for the woman over 45 in war industry, statistics released by the war man power commission indicate.

Recent WMC reports show that, especially in labor shortage areas, opportunities for employment of older women have increased. Bureau of census figures for 1944 show that, of the total population, 18,000,000 to 19,000,000 women are more than 45 years old. Of these, approximately 4,400,000 are employed. Less than 100,000 are listed as unemployed, because of either temporary illness or job hunting.

In studying how woman power may be of most value in war industries, the WMC has refuted many of the employer prejudices against hiring the older woman. Production output of women over 45 may be less, but coöperating managers who have employed them report that judgment, carefulness, concentration and patience outweigh lower production by decreasing waste and the amount of finished products rejected.

• • •

Women in the older age groups looking for work are advised by WMC personnel experts to approach job-hunting more realistically, and offer the following suggestions:

1. Apply for work at the local United States employment service office, where trained interviewers who recognize the older women's employment problems will be able to guide them to the right jobs.
2. Recognize physical limitations. Discuss them frankly with the interviewer.
3. Don't ask for work requiring physical endurance, just for patriotic reasons.
4. If there is no full-time work open, accept part-time work. In many cases, it is just as essential to the prosecution of the war.
5. Remember that, in some areas, jobs in essential civilian services, such as transportation, laundries, and restaurants, many of which women more than 45 can handle easily, contribute importantly to morale on the home front.

• • •

Mrs. Berthold Cronson and her staff of 125 women are volunteer guides on duty now at the service men's summer center, the "G. I. Country club," in Lincoln park at Fullerton av. and the lake. The women are on the grounds from 5 p. m. to 10 p. m. on weekdays and from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays, explaining points of interest to members of civilian tours.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Cape Colony Benefit Aids China Relief

CAPE COD, MASS.

Under the sponsorship of summer residents of Oyster Harbors and surrounding villages, a sale of Chinese gift articles to aid United China Relief, was held Tuesday night and Wednesday at the Oyster Harbors club in conjunction with the weekly motion picture program. The film presented also was in keeping with the occasion, "Here Is China," with Clifton Fadiman heard as commentator.

Guests and members of the Wianno club are taking every opportunity while the activities at that resort are at the peak of the season to plan parties and to have informal get-togethers with their friends.

Mrs. Edward C. Crossett of Chicago and Wianno was hostess at a luncheon last Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Andrew Pizzini of New York, a house guest at the Crossett residence. Mrs. Lawrence M. Vilas, of Chicago and Wianno, was among the guests and also Mrs. Robert M. Roloson of Chicago and Oyster Harbors.

Even the youngsters of the Wianno colony have their own entertainment. Their play group meets every day in the shady pine grove next to the club and under the direction of Alice Russell McKenna, the children use up their energies on slides, seesaws, and swings. Games, singing, painting, and clay modeling also are a part of the program outlined for the juveniles, and many have made themselves small boats.

• • •

In all yachting circles conversation during the last week has been centered on the Edgartown regatta. Races began on Friday and were continued yesterday with a good crowd expected to be on hand for the two day event. As in previous years, the cape's yachtsmen were well represented at the contest.

Sailing over from Chatham in their boat, Coot II., were Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Meincke of Chicago and Chatham, their daughters, the Misses Barbara and Alicia Meincke, and the couple's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Meincke Jr., of Cleveland, who is spending the summer with them while her husband, Lt. [j. g.] Meineke of the Coast Guard, serves in France and England. Mrs. Meincke Sr. is one of several summer colonists who give freely of their time in the interest of the Chatham Victory market, a store which sells contributed articles and donates the profits to the Cape Cod hospital.

In addition, she also is a busy hostess thru the summer. Recently the Meinckes entertained William Church, son of Congressman Ralph Church of Illinois, and also Comdr. J. Stewart Rooney of the navy, stationed in Boston.

• • •

A few nights ago the family went over to Chatham Bar inn for dinner and had the pleasure of seeing Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, who arrived there last week with her daughters for an extended stay. At the end of her first week, the royal visitor described Chatham as an "absolutely perfect" vacation spot. The Princess chats with other guests she meets at the hotel's beach, but she has accepted no social engagements and has entertained no guests.

Seventeen year old Malcolm Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Clark, of Chicago, who is spending the summer at East Dennis, should return home in the fall with first-hand knowledge of the peninsula's many attractions. Not satisfied with sailing to Provincetown a couple weeks ago in company with several other youths, Malcolm this week set out on a bicycle jaunt to the Cape tip. He covered 90 miles in his single day's outing, making several side excursions to points of interest off the main highway.

At Barnstable, Mrs. George Swain of Chicago is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Richard S. Gallagher, who came to the Cape from Chicago early in the season with her 6 months' old daughter, Elizabeth. Mrs. Gallagher's fondness for the Cape stems from visiting her husband, a lieutenant in the army, when he was stationed hereabouts. She is active in the Barnstable Yacht club and has done some Red Cross work.

• • •

The Rev. Duncan H. Browne of Chicago has arrived in Osterville for the season and is conducting weekly services at St. Peter's Episcopal chapel in Wianno. Dr. Browne has been coming to the Cape for many years and has officiated at a score of fashionable Wianno weddings. The Rev. John F. Nugent, also of Chicago, and his sister, Miss May E. Nugent, of Milford, Mass., have been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driscoll.

En route from Nashville, Tenn., to Maine, Miss Mary Jane Gilkey of Chicago stopped on the Cape to visit the Misses Helen Gunsaulus and Helen MacKenzie in South Yarmouth. Miss Gilkey is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gilkey of Chicago, who recently purchased a home in South Yarmouth which they are renovating. A guest last week-end of the Misses Gunsaulus and MacKenzie was Frederick A. Sweet of the staff of the Art institute of Chicago, and the two women have with them for a week's stay, Miss Priscilla Carver of Highland Park, Ill.

The Cape Cod Chamber Music Festival, organized by local residents and summer visitors of North Falmouth, opened a series of concerts in the North Congregational church last Sunday night. The programs are scheduled on alternate weeks with the scores to be played by the Aeolian Chamber Music ensemble of New York. Proceeds of the concert are to be contributed to local religious, charitable, and communal organizations.

TO WED OFFICER

Miss Trudy E. Ulrich, whose engagement to Lt. Walter S. Black Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Black of Prescott, Ark., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Ulrich of Elmdale av. Miss Ulrich, who recently was graduated from the Marywood academy for Girls at Evanston, will continue her studies in art. Her fiance has been assigned to overseas duty.

College Club to Give Final Party of Season

The Chicago College club will have its final buffet luncheon and bridge party of the summer season at noon Wednesday in the club rooms. The club will be closed at 3 o'clock the following Saturday afternoon for employes' vacations and housecleaning, and will not be reopened until the morning of Sept. 5.

Child Players to Enact Old Fairy Story

Had this been his day, sooner or later the old Spanish grandee in search of the fountain of youth must have found his way to Chicago and the Children's Civic theater. In fact, any adult seeking relief from taut war nerves would do well to drop around at Thorne hall on Northwestern university's Chicago campus tomorrow night for an hour of fairytale make-believe guaranteed to dissipate years and restore the heart to good cheer.

For five weeks the youngsters have been hard at it, rehearsing in the building of the golden dome in Garfield park. To the junior wing of the theater, the 8 to 11 year olds, go first performance privileges of the season, and the story they are enacting on the Thorne hall stage tomorrow night is the old favorite of Grimm's, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The intermediates will participate in the program also, giving a circus ballet, "The Man Who Lost His Head."

• • •

The fairy tale will be given in a version arranged by Miss Catherine Geary, who is co-director with Miss Lela Hanmer.

Fifty boys and girls will have part in the circus ballet, with Billie Reilly and John Sharpe appearing in the principal roles. Billie, who has been given a scholarship by the Chicago Drama league, will be remembered for his performance of Ferdinand last season in a "Ferdinand, the Bull" ballet, and John for his portrayal of Pinocchio. Walter Camryn is the theater's dancing instructor.

Supported by the city, the Children's theater is sponsored by the Chicago Drama league, and Mrs. William Haywood is the league's chairman for the vacation time project. Formerly the theater was centered at Navy pier. Free instruction in drama, music, and dancing is given the children and the classes are open to all boys and girls from 8 to 18 years old.

• • •

Last winter those who had a perfect attendance record during the preceding summer were given the opportunity by the Drama league to continue working with Mr. Camryn and Miss Geary.

Snow White is the first of four shows on this season's schedule. Monday night, Aug. 14, the intermediate wing will give "Sleeping Beauty," and the juniors will do the "Peter and the Wolf" ballet. On the following Monday the high school group will be presented in "Green Grow the Lilacs." The last show on Aug. 28 will be "The Wizard of Oz" and ballet excerpts from the opera "Faust."

Catholic Women Plan Annual Fall Card Party

The Catholic Woman's league has set the time and place for its 51st annual fall card party, and the president, Mrs. Martin P. Murphy, has appointed Mrs. Edward L. McKinney chairman of the benefit. Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4, is the day decided upon, and the party will be given in the Tower ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

What can be done for that whitish stain called efflorescence which often appears on stucco, concrete, or brick walls? . . . This whitish crust is nothing more than alkaline salts—sometimes in the bricks and again in the mortar or concrete—working their way to the surface. . . . If in a short time this efflorescence doesn't disappear, something should be done about it, as it is a sign of internal dampness which should be located and remedied. . . . Often the "muriatic treatment" will cure the trouble.

Garden Center in Berkshires 10 Years Old

PITTSFIELD, MASS. Chicagoans had a large part last night in the Berkshire Garden center 10th anniversary celebration at Stockbridge. Three hundred enjoyed a lawn supper and address by Nelson A. Roberts, humorist, "the Will Rogers of the Berkshires" who is manager of Col. E. Parmalee Prentice's Mount Hope farm at Williamstown. Mr. Roberts also played the fiddle for dancing on the greensward.

Mrs. William Felton Barrett, the former Margery Barker of Chicago, is president of the center, and Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs is first vice president. Mrs. Bernhard Hoffmann, the former Irene Botsford, Chicago, now honorary president, wrote a chronicle of the center which was published this week in its monthly magazine, "Cuttings."

The Berkshire Garden center consists of a five acre tract, two-thirds under cultivation; an 18th century farm house, lawns shaded by ancient maples, and terraces and gardens with boulder outcroppings. The dwelling has hand-hewn beams, hand-hammered H and strip hinges, pine paneling, wooden pegs, square nails, and fireplaces, all reminiscent of rural old New England.

• • •

Mrs. Gibbs, a founder and trustee, has established the Rebecca Whitehead Gibbs fund as a center benefit. She also was the founder in 1915 of the Richmond Garden club and has been its only president. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffmann gave the land and buildings to the center. The Great Barrington Garden club, thru Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett [Margaret F. Kendrick], presented the center a dwarf apple orchard, which Mrs. Hoffmann called "the first useful demonstration in food production."

• • •

Mrs. Hoffmann had all the garden center officers as her guests at last night's supper.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Felton Barrett at Sky Farm, North Egremont, is Mrs. Giovanni Cardelli of Chicago and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Herndon and two children of New York arrived yesterday for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Herndon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway at Tamarack, Tyringham. Mr. Holloway is a garden center trustee.

All Berkshire hotels and taverns are filled to capacity for the final week-end concerts of the Boston Symphony orchestra's Mozart festival at the concert hall at Tanglewood, Lenox.

Weird Glacial Formations Lure Visitors to Dells

WISCONSIN DELLS, Wis. [Special].—The weird formations created out of rock by the glacial age over a million years ago have proved a boon to this little vacation city.

Geological professors and their students from many universities, along with 100,000 Chicagoland visitors, annually come here to study the amazing creations of nature and time. They are conveniently compact along a seven mile stretch of the Wisconsin river, served by a colorful paddle wheel steamer and motor launches. Outstanding are the beauties of Witches' Gulch, Stand Rock, and Cold Water canyon in the Upper Dells, and numerous unique sights of the lower Dells. Other attractions include the all-American Indian ceremonials at Stand Rock natural amphitheater, with over 100 Indians of a dozen famous American tribes performing their war dances and rituals nightly thruout August.

SUNNY SMILE

You'd smile too if you were soaking up some of that Minnesota sunshine this fair vacationist found on a visit to the Land of 10,000 Lakes.

Fish for Food Is 1944 Slogan of Vacationist

By Bob Becker.

For more than a year vacationists who devote considerable time to fishing have been urged to fish for food as well as relaxation this year because game fishes such as the wall-eye, bass, bluegill, crappie and northern pike make a welcome addition to a meal in these days of rationing. Even the government has sent out reminders to both men and women anglers urging them not to waste their catch and take it home for table use.

Apparently the public is keeping this slogan about fishing for food as well as fun in mind, judging from reports on license sales in Michigan. That state had a 15.9 per cent increase in fishing license sales during the first six months of the year, as compared to the same period in 1943. It's possible that this gain may be even higher by autumn, for July and August are big months for anglers, and midwestern states are getting a heavy play from vacationists this year.

Michigan was first among the states in number of fishing licenses sold last year. As of June 30 this year the state had taken in $266,112 from the sale of licenses, as against $229,601 for the like period last summer.

From Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, the reports on midsummer visitors are much the same: Most of the recreational areas are busy because vacationists want to stay close to home and do little traveling. Many resorts and hotels within easy access of Chicago say they are going to keep open after Labor day this year to take care of those who were unable to get vacation accommodations during July and August.

Sault Ste. Marie Host to Ca-Choo Club This Month

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. [Special].—The Ca-Choo Club of America, one of the country's largest and most active hay fever organizations, will open its annual sessions in the convention hall of the Park hotel here Monday, Aug. 14. About 200 reservations are on file and club members will bring many affiliates.

The Ca-Choo club was organized here in 1928, the original roster carrying the names of dozens of hay fever patients from many states who have found relief in the cool Lake Superior breezes.

The club is one of many in the upper peninsula, which is nearly surrounded by the upper Great Lakes. The pollen count is very low and the average temperature of the district is 65 degrees.

Legends Destroyed.

Illustrated manuscripts of the Mayas and Aztecs recording their legends were destroyed by the Spaniards when they explored Central and South America.

Safeguard Your Child!

Don't despair when your child doesn't tip the scales at what the doctor says he should for his age—let OVALTINE help! Science has proved that there are certain food elements needed for good health . . . and if your child isn't getting enough of them in his food—he's bound to be thin and underweight. Stunted growth, poor appetite, faulty nerves and bad teeth may follow. OVALTINE, supplying food elements frequently deficient in ordinary foods, is designed to guard against this. 3 glasses, made with milk as directed, provide a child's full daily requirement of Vitamins A, D, and G, appetite Vitamin B1 — also calcium, phosphorus and iron. So turn to this delicious food-drink if your child is thin and nervous or eats poorly.

Hope you've taken my advice about using EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S White Clay Pack weekly this summer—for it's really wonderful what this beautifying cream mask can do in 8 minutes. You just spread it on, enjoy the tightening and stimulating feel of its action . . . then wash off. Result is a skin that feels so much smoother, appears so much fresher and clearer! Reason is that EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S White Clay Pack has helped nature de-flake the dry, faded and discolored "top-skin" so that the more freshly blushing, radiant and clearer skin beneath is revealed. Certainly that is most important in the summertime—for it's then that complexions need help against the roughening, coarsening effects of hot sun and wind.

Amolin

Do you know that in spite of a fresh, clean bath you are still in danger of offending with underarm perspiration odor? Especially in summer, the very exertion of toweling yourself and the humidity of the atmosphere are enough to stimulate perspiration glands into quick activity. So why not form the habit of applying AMOLIN Deodorant CREAM under arms immediately after you've stepped from your tub? Then you're SURE that you've taken precautions against underarm perspiration odor . . . because smooth, white, vanishing AMOLIN Cream prevents odors from forming. AMOLIN is a Norwich product. Ask your Drug or Department Store for AMOLIN this week!

"Confidentially"

Beauty habits don't end with grooming and smart make-up! Think about it for a minute—and you'll see what I mean. Do you run the risk of spoiling the even shine of your teeth by dislodged tobacco crumbs? Do you unknowingly ruin the effect of your new lipstick by taking a chance with bits of cigarette paper? Then why not change to VICEROY Cigarettes . . . and avoid all these mis-chances? The unique filter tip checks resins, tars and other throat irritants from the smoke . . . keeps tobacco crumbs from escaping. VICEROY is the SMART smoke for the SMART woman . . . try them!

FOR "GOOD LUCK" . . . at Canning Time!

"Pride goeth before a fall" . . . So calm that chest-thumping joy in the looks of your Victory Garden crop and make sure of insuring the canning success of those treasured vegetables and fruits! Entrust them to only the BEST vinegar money can buy . . . for you'll want the "crop" that's meant so much hard work to be in perfect condition when food's vitally needed this winter. So ask your Grocer for bottles or jugs of HEINZ Distilled White Vinegar—first choice of American women at canning time because it's thoroughly aged in wood to bring out full flavor and because it's clear, sparkling and aromatic! Strength is uniform—and that's important, since too-acid vinegar shrivels fruits and vegetables, and too-weak vinegar permits softening. HEINZ Distilled White Pickling Vinegar is specially prepared for pickling purposes (one big reason why HEINZ famous pickles and relishes have such tang and zestiness!). You can count on its wonderful results by either hot or cold packing methods. So good luck with your canning . . . with HEINZ!

You Can Bleach Your Skin to a Lighter, Prettier Hue with Mercolized Wax Cream

FASHION indicates the return to favor of fairer, softer skin. Ever in stride with the latest mode, Mercolized Wax Cream lends its subtle bleaching and beautifying action to help you win a fashionable, lighter, lovelier complexion. Mercolized Wax Cream hastens the natural shedding of the dull, surface skin and uncovers the fairer, softer, smoother underskin. The action takes place so gradually that the actual flaking process is not visible. But soon you become aware of the improved appearance of your complexion. Start bleaching your skin tonight using Mercolized Wax Cream according to directions and you will be pleased.

REMOVE FACIAL HAIR with PHELACTINE DEPILATORY—Phelactine not only takes off the surface hair, but actually extracts the portion embedded under the skin, leaving no fuzz or stubble. It can be applied quickly and easily in a few seconds. Not a cream or powder. Has no obnoxious odor. You will like Phelactine.

TRY SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT, the DELIGHTFUL SKIN FRESHENER. It is a quick acting, refreshing aid for daily care of the skin. Saxolite reduces excess oil on the surface skin; and its contracting action temporarily tightens the skin tissue. Simply dissolve Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and pat this lotion briskly on the skin several times daily.

Lady of the House

Corn Song.

"Let other lands, exulting, glean
The apple from the pine,
The orange from its glossy green,
The cluster from the vine
But let the good old corn adorn
The hills our fathers trod. . . ."

Thus sang Whittier in his "Corn Song," and what, after all, is more American, more middlewest, than our own indigenous "good old corn?"

Ever since the red man showed the white man how to grow and use it, we have extended its cultivation to the point where we grow the major part of the world's supply, and are constantly developing new varieties and new products from them.

The parched corn and stone-ground meal of the Indians, the "journey cake" of New England, spoon bread of the south, mush and milk and Indian pudding of Mississippi valley pioneers led the way until the farmer and manufacturer took over.

To the American boy its chief interest still is the "roasting ears"—preferably snitched along the way—that highlight the sunset suppers of late summer; and I doubt if the new vitamin-packed corn germ cereal stirs him like the smoky, half burned, half raw product of his own campfire. Tho, if he has watched a gray squirrel eating corn off the cob, he has discovered that the little fellow has long known the food value of that little morsel at the point of the kernel, for he neatly bites it out and discards the rest.

For that desired hot dish for a cold picnic supper, indoors or out, try a baked corn pudding made of new corn, cut off the cob, eggs, milk, and seasoning of salt, pepper, and chopped onion.

"And the maize field grew and ripened,
Till it stood in all the splendor
Of its garments green and yellow."

Mother Love.

God has but one material
From which He makes the hearts of mothers:
He makes them of the same deep love—
No one's better than another's.
Whatever clime or race is their's
When sons off to the war must go—
In castle or in gypsy tent
The pride may make their hearts aglow—
It's only faith and heart trust then
That keeps these hearts from breaking
And helps them still to carry on
Despite their pain and aching.

Vacation.

Word that beckons me afar
On flower-scented summer night,
Like a brilliant, high-hung star;
Word of sunset's flaming lights
And opal dawns, of rolling plains,
Of mountain peaks and wondrous views;
Word of autos, ships and trains,
Of sights and means I fain would choose
For travel north, or east, or west;
But I restrain my urge to roam,
For Uncle Sam decrees it best
Vacationists stay close to home!

Old House.

Old house empty and tumbled down,
Like a beggar, bent and gray,
The fingerprints of Father Time
Heavy upon it lay.
But a riot of red roses
Grew around it to defy
The hand of time, and cheer the way
Of every passerby.

Few Children Exceptions to Behavior Rules

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"O, don't worry; all children are like that," said the grandmother.

Have you ever had that said to you, and have you felt a wave of warm comfort sweep over you? While I wouldn't want to say that all children do everything that your child does, I mean the kind of behavior that can disturb you, it is true that there is such a thing as some universal behavior.

"Your letter from a mother in yesterday's paper might have been written as an inch-by-inch description of my little boy. It is a comfort to read a letter like that, because I had begun to think that my John was different from other children, or that maybe I was a complete failure as a mother."

• • •

So it is true that misery loves company in more ways than one. Certainly it is a comfort to many a mother to learn that her child, whose behavior is fretting her so, is not an exception—no worse and no more troublesome than all the other nice little girls and boys of her friends, who perhaps appear before her wearing only their company manners. This is a comfort many of you could hug to to your hearts if you could only understand that babies and children go thru certain stages in their growing, not only bodily stages but personality stages, too. These are inevitable, in virtually every case.

As I said before, all children do not go thru all phases at the same time. But if I wanted to get down to actual cases I could probably list 25 to 30 instances, right off the reel, of ways that all children act at approximately certain times in their lives. The important things to bear in mind in connection with this are: First, that children grow into and out of these phases one after another; and second, that most of these phases [altho they seem undesirable to you or perhaps extremely annoying] do not in the least indicate that your child is a real problem or that the behavior is what might be called bad behavior. A fairly good example of this is that of the a little boy who is just 5½, and whose mother and father are dreadfully upset about him.

Rather suddenly he has become disobedient—altho at times he is still sweet and lovable. He suddenly has developed the fault of calling names and "answering back," and of using words that I would certainly say are far from "nice."

• • •

Now, it so happens that at around the age of 5 almost all small boys begin to change. They really turn a corner from babyhood and from all the sweet docility of the early years. As one mother would describe it, they become very "smart-alecky." As a grandmother puts it, they become "little show-offs."

But what is really happening to cause all this is that their world is getting bigger; they are getting wider-eyed mentally; they are stimulated by what they see and hear in it, and a lot of this they are bound to imitate. These imitations, which sound bad or undesirable to you, are to them often only novel and exciting, and they try them out on you as they would on any one else who happened to be around. If you respond with dramatic disapproval, they get quite a kick out of that and probably repeat the performance.

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce

The popular corde creates fascinating accessories, and the cunning pill box and envelop purse are no exceptions. A large medallion fashions the hat crown, and the remainder is done in single crochet to match the purse.

Be prepared for the first cool days by starting now to knit this attractive cable stitch sweater, which may be worn by boys or girls. The only difference is the reversal of the front closing on the boy's sweater. The pattern contains directions for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8 years.

For instructions in crocheting the hat and bag set, No. 372, and in knitting the child's sweater, No. 1151, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, FOR EACH PATTERN, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Answer on page 7.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

The women's bureau of the department of labor is convinced that the shoes women wear when at work probably have more effect on their comfort, efficiency, productivity, general health, and safety than any other single item of clothing. We agree. And we would like to point out that this applies to women other than welders. It applies to all women, those who work at being mothers, housewives, shop clerks, or office girls, as well as those who labor in industry.

Naturally, the women's bureau is concerned primarily in seeing that women are properly shod for the vital war time job.

However, there are facets of the feminine foot picture, as presented by the bureau, that are of significance for every one of us. This, for instance: Footwear, the correct kind, is exceedingly important in helping protect women who have various abnormalities of the foot.

What the bureau found true of women in industry is equally true of women at home, namely, that falls are one of the major causes of women's injuries, and that these accidents are serious at any time but especially so now, when so many of the wage earners [and—altho this is our own point—the grandmothers now taking care of their working daughter's or their own homes] are older women. High or run down heels and worn soles can be the direct cause of falls. The bureau says that under no conditions should old party, beach, or play shoes be pressed into factory service. We would like to plead that they not be pressed into HOME or shop working service, either.

Much of the body fatigue experienced by women, particularly those who stand for long periods, can be traced to improper shoes. Poor construction, flimsy material, inadequate support, and high heels all contribute to fatigue.

College Styles Accent Sleek, Snappy Lines

By Rea Seeger.

A bloodless revolution is in the making in the college shops opening during the next week. For 1944-'45 college wardrobes will be assembled with clothes that are vastly different than in former years. This is the year the incoming swarms of freshmen will look neat, snappy, and streamlined, a year that will see the defeat of sloppy silhouettes and a new era of slim, sleek suits and dresses, and sweater and skirt teams smoothed down into units that really fit.

Wool tweed suits, suits in stunning heather tones or bright colors, as well as butter smooth gabardines, tailored with meticulous detail, are destined as day-by-day costumes for any campus in the country.

Dressmaker suits or suit dresses are getting the spotlight, especially those trimmed with soft details, like crocheted yarn edgings, braid, tassels, and other effective contrasts. These are the suits that stress two colors—one for the short fitted jacket, another for the slim, straight skirt. Many dark tones of wine, green, gray, brown, and blue are teamed with these vivid jackets, with black far down the list as a popular skirt color.

• • •

Topcoats in the traditional straight lines come in sensationally bright colors, with gray the first choice, and dozens of checked and striped diagonals. Solid colors of copper, brown, scarlet, and navy are the choice of the college girl for wear with striped or plaid dresses. The return of the one piece dress, either in the tailored or the dressmaker model, to alternate with jacket or sweater outfits, marks the high regard of the college crowd for that new, neat, and well groomed appearance.

Fur collared winter topcoats with belts or fur lined boxcoats still continue as the best all-purpose buy for any college shopper. Mouton coats in smart new colors, like fawn and butter cream, with matching small hats, both priced down for a limited clothes allowance, are the best answers to fur coat problems. Moutons are especially high fashion this year, because the price is right. The coat itself is a three-quarter affair cut with plenty of dash and swagger, yet simple enough to double for date duty and day time wear.

• • •

Velveteen afternoon dresses in black, brown, and high colors are again featured. But the big news of this fall is the revival of floor length dance and party dresses. Since an overwhelming vote for dramatic, long evening gowns from the men have worked this dress parade miracle, you'll see dozens of heart breakers this year in all the college shop collections.

During August the college shops, staffed with knowing counselors, will be going full strength. This is the time to shop and assemble that wardrobe, which is second only in importance to a trousseau.

Sketched are five new models designed for fall, all to be found in a college collection in a Chicago shop. For further information, call Superior 0200.

A . . . Emerald green suede coat worn over striped sweater and slim, plaited skirt of light green wool. • B . . . Dressmaker suit costume consists of scarlet wool jacket, trimmed with crocheted frills, and deep blue skirt. • C . . . Floor length evening gown has bow trim on basque type bodice. • D . . . Classic wool gabardine jumper is worn with striped blouse. • E . . . Snappy three-quarter length coat in gray wool has belt across back.

Expert Replies to Few Queries on Dehydration

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

My recent Sunday article on dehydration of garden produce brought in many letters—so many that I think I'd better answer a few of them publicly for the benefit of interested gardeners.

Let me repeat that drying is not a perfect answer to home preservation of food. Dehydration usually involves considerable vitamin loss, and must be done extremely carefully or the food may char and spoil, or sour from too slow drying.

"What kind of commercial dryer do you suggest?" several persons asked.

There's a reasonably priced oven dryer available in several downtown stores. It consists of a wooden rack and three drying trays, and a gadget to hold the oven door open to permit the necessary air circulation.

Instructions for use come with it. This and several other types of oven dryers are available at less than $5. One loop store reports that it has an oven dryer with one tray for $1, and another with three trays for $1.75 ["while they last."].

• • •

You can pay as much as $89.95 for a dehydrator. If you're really going at the business in a professional way and wish a result comparable to commercial results, it will pay you to invest that much money. This dehydrator does all the work for you—controls heat and air movement so that the drying trays need no watching. Some of these dryers may be available at reduced prices, the manufacturer tells me.

"What booklets and pamphlets on dehydration do you recommend?" is another question I've been asked. Here is a partial list from our files:

"How to Make Fruit and Vegetable Driers," Agricultural Extension service, Iowa State college, Ames, Ia., pamphlet 68.

"Drying Fruits and Vegetables," Agricultural Extension service, Iowa State college, Ames, Ia., pamphlet 69.

"Oven Drying," U. S. D. A. leaflet AWI-59, Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, U. S. D. A., Washington, D. C.

"Canning and Drying Vegetables and Fruits," by Ann Roe Robins, 75 cents, Thomas Y. Crowell company, 432 4th av., New York, N. Y.

"Home Canning for Victory," by Ann Pierce, $1.50, M. Barrows and Co., Inc., New York, N. Y. There's a section on dehydrating in this book.

"Dehydration of Foods," by Lawrence C. Porter, General Electric company, Cleveland, O.

"Dehydration of Vegetables in Domestic Gas Range Ovens," a reprint from the American Gas Association Monthly, September, 1943.

• • •

Most state college and university extension services send out free pamphlets and leaflets on dehydration. I suggest that these sources be contacted. In addition, there are innumerable magazine articles which make good reference material.

"Can drying be done in an electric oven as well as a gas oven?" one reader inquires.

Gas companies seem to have done more with oven drying than the electric companies, but oven drying also is possible in the electric oven. Electric light bulbs often are used as the source of heat in dehydrators of the cabinet type.

"Is it necessary to have an oven regulator in order to dry vegetables in the oven?"

It is extremely important that the temperature be controled thruout the drying time, which may take as long as 10 hours. You should have an oven thermometer, if no heat control. Temperatures range between 140 and 165 degrees, depending upon the food being dried, and it is impossible to guess at them.

There are two full months of traditionally hot weather ahead. No matter what the fashion calendar readings may be, the thermometer calls for sudsable, cool togs such as those illustrated, items which require a minimum of inexpensive material and very little sewing time.

No. 3797 fashions a halter-necked frock with its companion bolero. This is a princess style model, buttoned down the front, but stripes give it a new look, used, as they are, on the bias, vertically, and horizontally. Polka dots are smart, too.

No. 3785 is a decidedly feminine fashion, with lace or ruffling doing trimming honors around the square neckline, the kimono sleeves, and the capacious pockets. Large floral prints are ideal for this informal fashion.

Style No. 3797 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 35 inch material for dress; 1¼ yards for bolero.

Style No. 3785 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 35 inch fabric with 2⅛ yards of ruffling.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

The summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions now is available over the counter at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower lobby, for 15 cents. Twelve cents buys the book if it is ordered with a pattern from the address in the coupon.

According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In most cases one player must make the final decision whether the hand should be played at no trump or whether a suit contract will offer greater safety. At times, however, it is not necessary for him to make this choice—his proper action is to describe his own hand more fully and leave the decision to his partner. For example:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q 7 3
♥ A Q J 6 2
♦ 4 2
♣ K Q 7

WEST
♠ 4
♥ 10 9 8 3
♦ A 9 8 6 5
♣ 8 5 3

EAST
♠ J 10 9 5
♥ K 7
♦ J 10 3
♣ 9 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 8 6 2
♥ 5 4
♦ K Q 7
♣ A J 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West led his fourth highest diamond; East played the ten, and declarer won. Spades failed to break, the heart finesse was offside—and the contract was impossible of fulfilment.

"Why didn't you bid three spades instead of three no trump?" South asked his partner. "I would have gone to four spades, and even the rotten breaks couldn't have beaten that contract."

"Well," North said plaintively, "I certainly thought I had enough to make three no trump a cinch. And anyway, how could I tell that you had five spades?"

"You couldn't," South admitted, "but that wasn't up to you to worry about. If you bid three spades, and I had only a four card suit, don't you think I'd have enough sense to go back to no trump on my own account?"

In this last question by South was the gist of the matter. North did not have to decide between spades and no trump—all he had to do was tell South that he had some support for spades, and leave it to South from there on. South's failure to rebid spades was not evidence that he couldn't rebid the suit.

Music Groups Make Plans for State Auditions

With bulletins out for the 16th biennial young artists' auditions to be conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs in the late spring of 1945, associated groups in Illinois are making plans for preliminary state contests.

It is from entrants in the state contests that artists will be chosen to compete, first in district auditions—which bring together winners of three or more states—and finally in the national contests, in which $1,000 prizes are awarded in piano, violin, and voice.

Auditions are open only to those considering music as a professional career. Contestants must have reached their 18th birthday but not have passed their 30th birthday before April 15, 1945. They may be native or naturalized citizens of the United States, citizens of Canada, Mexico, and the countries of Central and South America.

Applications for the Illinois auditions may be made thru the contest chairman, Miss Emma Menke of 420 Wesley av., Oak Park. To be eligible for the district and national contests an applicant must enroll for contests in his particular state, altho it is optional whether the enrollment is in the state where he lives or the one where he is studying.

A special provision has been made for musicians in United States military service who are within specified age limits. Such applicants should enroll for the 1945 auditions, but will be permitted to compete at any time within three years after their release from service.
